[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ACRAMENTO, April 28.—Truly it is always darkest just before the dawn. In a final long night has already numbered thirty- hours, and will last at least -four hours longer, Califor- "pork barrel" Legislature is some of the worst bills of session.

cially the Legislature adjourns high noon on Friday, April 27—it is not high noon Friday in the Capitol. With clocks stopped tongues running the session on. In the last twenty-four more than $1,500,000 of State has been given away; an- million is to go before the of relief from legislative in- appears.

, perhaps, was a greater perpetrated on the people of the State of California than when Gov. Stephens announced in his first official message that strict economy was to be the watchword of the new administration. Appropriations made to date increase the cost of State government $8,000,000 over those of the last two years.

There are other appropriations totaling more than $1,000,000, which have passed one house and are scheduled to pass the other before adjournment. These increases are the greatest both in millions and in per cent. in the history of California. Extravagance has gained a notable victory.

Glancing over the list of measures passed it becomes apparent that the good things have been done but by half and the bad in double doses. While the women's legislative council has fought valiantly all through the session most of the measures in which the women were interested are passed in amended forms that make them palliatives, but not remedies.

WOMEN'S BILLS.

Bills were introduced giving women equal rights with men in possession and division of community property. The bills as finally passed limit this to real property. A wife can have no interest in any stocks, bonds or other securities owned by the husband; she is not joint possessor of the bank account. It is a case of half a loaf where a principle in place of being affirmed is denied.

There is a so-called eugenic marriage bill that passed the Legislature, but it no more resembles that presented by the women's council than a cat resembles a dog. The original bill provided that medical certificates must be produced showing that the applicants were free from certain communicable diseases before a marriage license could issue. In the bill as passed there is a provision for prosecuting a person upon proof that he or she married while afflicted with leprosy or certain communicable sex diseases. That is the extent of eugenic marriages legislation.

All attempts to secure some regulation of the liquor traffic have failed utterly. It was a very bald case of passing the buck. The Senate passed a bill closing saloons and

DEMANDS THE FACTS

Cry for Truth of U-boat War.

Refusal to Name Ships Sunk by Submarines Causes an Uproar in London.

England Prefers to Face the Music no Matter How Disagreeable.

BY ARTHUR S. DRAPER.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, April 28.—Great Britain wants to face the facts, however disagreeable or alarming.

The government's strongest supporters demand the publication of tonnage losses from the submarines, waving aside its defense that this would furnish information to the enemy.

If the government persists in its stand of refusing to publish even the German estimates which are sent out by wireless it must face unanimous opposition.

TONNAGE FIGURES.

The tonnage figures could hardly hearten the Germans more than the editorials and news items appearing in most of the papers. For instance, the editor of The Daily News states: "We have got Germany by the throat on land, and she has got us by the throat on the sea." Lord Northcliffe's Evening News in flashy headlines asks: "Does Germany rule the waves?"

It is seldom that these two bitter newspaper enemies agree on any question and I cite them to show how general is the demand for full information about the U-boats.

GOVERNMENT ON TRIAL.

Ever since its formation, the present government has been on trial. It has had an unusually good press, but that press is now becoming extremely critical. Lloyd George's mild attack on the late government in his Guild Hall speech, did not improve matters, as a reading of the Liberal press shows.

The News, The Chronicle, The Manchester Guardian and The Westminster Gazette rush to the defense of the old regime, holding Lloyd George himself equally responsible for any mistakes of the past.

Under other conditions Great Britain might expect a fresh political crisis, but one great fact stands in the way. Aligned against the government are a number of hostile elements which combined could easily unseat it. But they refrain because it would mean a general election.

All the present trouble centers around the submarine, which has become the greatest factor in the war today. The Premier's suggestion that even Germany did not at first realize the potency of the submarine is doubted by The Times, which says: "We believe he is mistaken and that the Germans set to work at a very early period systematically to develop the submarine."

His other statement, that the submarine problem has been bothering the government for two and a half years, prompts the question of why a Cabinet official declared in the summer of 1915 that the situation was "well in hand" and as to why similar statements were made at the time of the Sussex note.

AS TO THE FUTURE.

But responsibility for the past is of little consequence compared to the future. The only reason for referring to it is to show how it has been used for political purposes. Next week's figures on shipping losses will be awaited with even greater interest than the news from the battlefield.

Next week the public will probably learn when they will be put on compulsory rations. So far as I can learn, the public has not the least objection to such a course and it could be introduced without serious protest. The greatest problem is not how the people will take it, but the preparation of the machinery necessary to carry out the scheme. Many would welcome it because it would simplify their problems and reduce the cost of living.

THE BREWERIES.

The campaign for closing the breweries is gaining strength, as is also the crusade against racing. The end of June and the beginning of July will see the hardest economic pinch England has experienced, but immediately after that, it is expected, the crops will relieve the situation temporarily.

The Times says: "We must impress the government with the importance of getting on with compulsory rationing" and it voices a very general feeling.

ARMY OF RUSSIA IS WELL PREPARED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, April 27 (via London, April 28.)—Minister of Justice Kerensky told a representative of the Associated Press today that not only is the army better prepared and more willing to fight than before the revolution, but that the factories are putting out more ammunition than at any previous stage of the war.

Regarding peace, the Minister said: "Russia wants peace on the terms proposed by President Wilson. The revolution and the entrance of the United States into the war have somewhat changed the objects for which we are fighting. We want peace restored without annexation or indemnity, and favor a conference with the Allies to determine how this can be attained."

OXMAN INQUIRY BEGINS TOMORROW.

LOS ANGELES JUDGE WILL HOLD INVESTIGATION.

Law and Order Committee of San Francisco Declares that Whatever is Done Must Proceed According to Established Procedure—Fickert is Active.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—With the county grand jury, aided by Judge Robert M. Clarke of Los Angeles prepared to proceed Monday night with investigation of charges of subornation of perjury growing out of the conviction of Thomas J. Mooney in the bomb murders here of last July, the Law and Order Committee of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce took a hand today by declaring, in full page advertisements, that "whatever is done shall be done according to law and order."

Since Mooney's conviction of first degree murder his attorneys have made charges that resulted in the arrest of Frank C. Oxman of Durkee, Or., star witness for the State, on charges of attempted subornation of perjury in seeking to induce F. E. Rigall of Grayville, Ill., to testify falsely against Mooney. Results of police court hearings of the charge against Oxman, which were concluded yesterday, will be announced Monday when Oxman will either be liberated or held for trial.

The keynote of the statement of the Law and Order Committee follows:

"The Law and Order Committee of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, in thus again appealing direct to the people, insists that the orderly procedure of the law shall not be interfered with by mob rule; that exact and impartial judgment shall be done; that no innocent man, wrongfully convicted, shall be punished; that no guilty man shall escape punishment, but that whatever is done shall be done according to law and shall not be done according to the dictates of any individual or of any set of individuals."

The Law and Order Committee also offered to appoint special counsel to aid Dist.-Atty. Charles M. Fickert in the investigation "to the end that there may be no miscarriage of justice."

The San Francisco Labor Council has adopted resolutions demanding the suspension of Dist.-Atty. Fickert from office pending an investigation of his conduct as a public official in connection with the prosecution of the bomb plot cases. The Labor Council charges that Fickert "framed" the case against Thomas J. Mooney.

NO AMERICANS AT THE PEACE CONFAB.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 28.—There will be no American representatives at the Socialist peace Congress at Stockholm May 15, unless it is postponed for at least two weeks to enable them to reach Sweden, according to a cable message sent last night by Morris Hillquit, chairman of the National Committee of the Socialist party, to the International Socialist Bureau.

NEBRASKA STRIKERS ATTACK STREET CARS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

LINCOLN (Neb.) April 28.—For the first time in eight days the Lincoln Traction Company last night attempted to maintain night street car service. Four cars ventured to run after dark. Three of them were stormed by bricks while in the residential districts.

No arrests were made, though one police officer fired at a fleeing man who was supposed to have hurled bricks.

RECRUITS IN UTAH MOSTLY FROM FARM.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SALT LAKE CITY, April 28.—The Utah conscription law enacted by the last Legislature, will be put in effect next week, military authorities predicted today, following announcement that more than three-fourths of the recruits of the State were being drawn from the rural districts. Agricultural interests will be hard hit unless this step is taken, it was declared.

REAL WAR IN CAMPS.

Lessons of Europe for Recruits.

Trenches to be Duplicated and Bombing Practiced by Our New Army.

Machine Gun Work will be Revolutionized in All the Cantonments.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Soldiering will take on an aspect entirely new to American military science when training of the forces to be assembled under the draft bill begins at the sixteen training cantonments. Careful plans laid by War Department officials provide for the application immediately of every lesson learned from European battlefields and much of the work to be done will be new even to men recently in army instruction camps.

The American training system probably will follow that used in Canada, where the instructors have made every effort to reproduce as closely as possible conditions at the front. Sections of trench have been built at the Canadian camps exactly duplicating important lines in France held by Canadian troops. Training in extending these works and running saps or erecting entanglements has gone on to the accompaniment of actual shell fire so as to harden the nerves of the troops, as well as their muscles.

PLACE BATTERIES.

To carry out this scheme, the Canadians have placed batteries opposite the trenches and the infantrymen under training have done their work night and day with shrapnel bursting close to them. The officers, of course, know the posts to be pounded by the guns, and keep the men out of danger.

Another work new to American troops will be bombing practice. Every company will have its section of grenadiers to clear the way into a disputed trench. It requires practice to perfect men in this revived art of war, and it requires practice also to teach men to act instinctively in repelling bombing parties.

Machine gun work will be revolutionized. In Great Britain a separate machine gun corps has been created to turn out complete machine gun companies which handle the heavy, water-cooled Vickers-Maxim guns on defensive lines. In each company are skilled mechanics to make repairs, highly-trained gunners, packers and ammunition handlers.

SCATTER LIGHT GUNS.

Among the line troops also are scattered great numbers of light machine rifles for offense, one man carrying the gun and several following him up with ammunition as he creeps forward from shell hole to shell hole in the very front line of each attacking wave.

With the artillery all the complicated mechanism for curtain and barrage fire must be provided for. It takes long training to fit gunners for this work and absolute certainty of the lines of communication with the observation posts.

WILL TAKE LONG TIME.

Secretary Baker said today it now seemed unlikely that the entire 7,000,000 or more men who will be liable for duty in the conscriptive forces could be enrolled, physically examined and otherwise passed upon for exemptions, before the process of calling to the colors began.

Mr. Baker is inclined to favor the jury wheel system of choosing the men to be called first. Examination of that number then would be carried out and enough additional names drawn to fill up the quota with provision made for exemptions.

The Secretary indicated that passage of the draft bill would be followed by further vigorous efforts to stimulate voluntary recruiting in the regular army and National Guard. President Wilson may issue a proclamation calling for 600,000 or more volunteers for these branches of the service. Mr. Baker made it plain that the War Department does not plan to apply the draft to fill up the regular and guard forces until the supply of volunteers has been exhausted.

REGISTRATION DATE.

Within a month after enactment of the bill the Secretary expects to set the registration date for the conscriptive forces. A proclamation will be issued notifying all men affected to appear at the registration places. The election machinery of each community will be used to facilitate registration and the police forces will be employed to bring in those who fail to appear voluntarily.

Exemption boards will be localized to the greatest possible extent, as Mr. Baker desires to get the benefit of neighborhood sentiment and neighborhood knowledge in carrying out this work. The importance of a man in his civilian occupation is well known among his neighbors.

GERMANS THREATEN COUNTER-REPRISALS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

COPENHAGEN, April 28 (via London, 12:45 a.m.)—Announcement was made before the Reichstag Main Committee in Berlin yesterday that Germany will adopt the sharpest reprisals if German prisoners are embarked on hospital ships of the Allies and exposed to the danger of torpedoes.

The sinking by the Germans of the British hospital ship Lanfranc last week caused the death of fifteen German wounded who were being transported to England. The British Admiralty announced that, inasmuch as the Germans were sinking hospital ships without any regard to international law, the distinctive markings of these vessels had been removed, and furthermore that virtually all the hospital ships had on board German wounded. The French government announced that on account of Germany's policy German prisoners would be embarked on French hospital ships.

WOMAN PICKETS KILL RAG PICKER.

SHE IS BEATEN TO DEATH IN CHICAGO STRIKE.

Mrs. Paulina Jazdramski, Sixty Years Old, Denied Right to Earn Her Living by Merciless Union Agitators, Who Set Upon Her in Rage.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, April 28.—Mrs. Paulina Jazdramski spent her days and nights sorting rags in junk shops in the vicinity of her home, No. 5043 Elston avenue, to earn the small subsistence a woman of 60 years needs. She worked from early morn till nearly midnight most of the days, monotonously picking rags and assorting them according to their worth.

She was poor. Her small body, her advanced age, her weakened mentality because of her years, prevented her from obtaining a more lucrative employment. So she sought the rag shops. She managed, from the meager earnings, to struggle along.

But she didn't know there were such things as labor organizations, she had never heard of the wrath of discharged employees. Sluggers were unknown in her life, which encompassed but few things—only hard work and no recreation. But trouble arose in one of the shops. She wasn't to blame, but she was blamed.

Two days ago she was carrying her wearied body home at a late hour. At Wabansia and Ralston streets she was set upon by three angry women. They had lost their jobs. The poor, defenseless rag sorter was beaten, bruised and kicked. Some of her ribs were broken. She died today.

FOOD-CONTROL BILLS TO COME UP TOMORRW.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The administration's food control bills were not completed in time for introduction today in the House, and will be offered Monday. Chairman Lever of the Agricultural Committee said today they would incorporate all of Secretary Houston's suggestions for government supervision of production and distribution and would empower some government agency to fix maximum and minimum prices in an emergency.

TURKS ARE OPPOSED TO ANNEXATION.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN, April 27 (via London, April 28.)—Turkey does not desire any territorial annexation, Talaat Pasha, the Grand Vizier, said in an interview today.

In answer to a question concerning the treatment of Americans in Turkey since the breaking off of relations between the two countries, he said:

"We are treating the Americans exactly the same as formerly."

SLAV MINISTER MOST OPTIMISTIC.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

This is the second authorization of branch banks by the board, the first being a branch of the Atlanta bank, to be located in New Orleans.

Army.

VOLUNTEER ADVOCATES DECISIVELY DEFEATED.

Half a Million Men to be Enlisted on First Call of President.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 28.—By overwhelming majorities both the Senate and House passed late tonight the administration bill to raise a war army by selective draft.

The final roll calls brought into line behind the bill many Senators and Representatives who had fought for the volunteer system until routed by decisive defeat of volunteer amendments earlier in the day in both houses. The Senate, which had voted down the volunteer plan, 69 to 18, passed the bill by a vote of 81 to 8. In the House the vote against the volunteer plan was 313 to 109, and that by which the bill itself was passed was 397 to 24.

As passed by the Senate the measure provides for the draft of men between the ages of 21 and 27 years, while in the House measure the age limits are fixed at 21 and 40. This and lesser discrepancies will be threshed out in conference early next week so that the bill may be in the hands of the President as quickly as possible. The War Department already has completed plans for carrying it into effect.

VOTE ON THE BILL.

Senators who voted against the bill were:

Democrats—Gore, Hardwick, Kirby, Thomas and Tramell—5.

Republicans—Borah, Gronna and La Follette—3.

Total 8.

Senator Vardaman of Mississippi, Democrat, was excused from voting at his own request. He did not give a reason.

The twenty-four Representatives who voted in the negative were:

Democrats—Burnett, Church, Clark of Florida; Claypool, Crosser, Dill, Dominick, Gordon, Hilliard, Huddleston, Keating, Sears, Sherwood, Sisson—14.

Republicans—Bacon, Hayes, King, La Follette, Lundeen of Minnesota; Mason, Nolan, Powers—8.

Prohibitionist—Randall—1.

Total 24.

Both Senate and House adopted amendments just before the final roll calls which would greatly increase the pay of enlisted men during the war. The House provision would make their pay $30 a month, and that approved by the Senate would fix it at $29 a month. The present pay is only $15.

In the House at the last moment Chairman Fitzgerald of the Appropriations Committee objected vigorously to the appropriation of $3,000,000, carried in the bill for the expenses of the new army, and the section finally was eliminated. Mr. Fitzgerald declared that to place this vast sum in the hands of the Secretary of War would make of Congress a "mere automaton," and promised that if the section were voted down the committee would provide funds promptly in a separate measure.

Among the amendments adopted in the Senate was one which would permit Col. Roosevelt to recruit a volunteer force for service in France. A similar proposal had been rejected by the House.

Speaker Clark, Democratic Leader Kitchin and Chairman Dent of the Military Committee, who had favored the volunteer system, all voted for the draft bill on the final roll call. Republican Leader Mann also was recorded in the affirmative, as was Miss Rankin, who previously had voted with the volunteer advocates.

Whether Congress finally would accept the staff's recommendations regarding the ages between which conscription would apply appeared uncertain. In the Senate the bill's stipulation that men between 19 and 25 should be liable to the draft was changed to make the minimum 21 and the maximum 27. The House voted down all proposed changes in the Military Committee's recommendation that the limits be fixed at 21 and 40.

Among more important amendments adopted in House was one empowering the President to exempt from the draft in his discretion persons engaged in agricultural work. Another would require each State to furnish a quota of men apportioned according to population and still another provides "that no bounty shall be paid to induce any person to enlist," and that "no person liable to military service shall hereafter be permitted or allowed to furnish a substitute for such service."

The Senate approved an amendment by Senator Stone which would definitely confine the operation of the draft to the period of the existing emergency, and another by Senator Newlands providing that notwithstanding the exemptions in the bill each State must furnish its quota in proportion to population. Chairman Chamberlain accepted another amendment authorizing the President to raise by voluntary enlistment or draft such "special and technical troops" as he deemed necessary. Mr. Chamberlain said this would apply particularly to railroad and other workers of that character.

In the Senate there was a long debate over proposals to prohibit the sale or possession of intoxicating liquor during the war. Several amendments were adopted, including one to make it unlawful to sell or give liquor to officers or men in uniform or to members of Congress or other officials, and then the Senate reversed itself and adopted a substitute simply forbidding sale of Japan Will Put Million Men on Russian Front When Needed, Yokohama Agent Says.

TOKIO'S MAIN FLEET AT ALLIES' DISPOSAL.

Yokohama Banker Declares Country is Ready for Any Emergency.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DENVER, April 28.—Japan has 1,000,000 men under arms waiting the word from Russia to entrain on the Trans-Siberian railway to take part in the fighting on the eastern front, according to Y. Bryan Yamashiti, of the Mogi Bank, Yokohama, who engaged a suite for himself and staff at the Brown today. "And Japan," says Mr. Yamashiti (you pronounce it Yamati) "has another million men, all veterans of the war with Russia, encamped in home stations ready for emergencies.

"Japan has more than forty big merchantmen and passenger liners now running between her ports, Seattle and San Francisco," said the visitor, who is touring the United States as "the diplomatic business agent" of the commercial interests of Tokio, Yokohama and Kobe. And Japanese cruisers are constantly patrolling the trade routes of the Pacific on the lookout for submarines and raiders. In some cases the big liners are escorted all the way by a cruiser. The steamer on which I came across to Seattle was so escorted. The main Japanese fleet is in our home waters, that is waiting there, I suppose, until the Allies need it. I understand that the new Russian government will invite us to send our army of 1,000,000 men of which I have spoken, into the easter theater of war this summer. The Trans-Siberian railway is double tracked all through now and both tracks could be used, if need be, for the early transportation of troops and freight.

"Personally, of course," said Mr. Yamashiti, but he smiled as he said it, "I am a pacifist. I learned to be a pacifist when I was a student at the University of Nebraska. I lived in those days with Mr. Bryan, and I learned to be a pacifist from him. After graduating from the university, I was made a member of the Carnegie Peace Foundation. And I did what I could for peace. But, although I am a pacifist," he explained, "I also believe in preparedness and in fighting for your country. And Mr. Bryan doesn't. Mr. Bryan believes in moral suasion. However, Mr. Bryan was as good as a father to me and that must be my excuse for being a pacifist.

"I am here to promote increased trade relations between my country and the United States. Friendly commercial interchange is a tie that binds sensible nations together. And, both my country and yours is sensible. We are lovers of peace. That's why we are both in this war. And after this war, I hope that there will be no more wars. That is the day we are fighting for now." He smiled and, after a pause he added, "You see, I spent yesterday afternoon with Mr. Bryan."

LIBERTY LOAN TO BE NAME OF OUR BILLIONS FOR WAR

McAdoo Selects Title Because Money will be Spent to the Last Dollar in the Fight Which Democracy is Waging Against Autocracy—Thousands of Letters from Investors, Inquiring About Terms, Received.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The great loan which the United States is about to raise by the bond issue soon to be announced will go down in history, Secretary McAdoo announced tonight as "the liberty loan of 1917."

This name was selected by Mr. McAdoo because the money will be spent to the last dollar in the fight which democracy is waging against autocracy. No more suitable name could be found, Secretary McAdoo believes.

The terms of the "liberty loan" will be announced within forty-eight hours unless present plans are changed. Were it not because Mr. McAdoo and his assistants are nearly exhausted from the long hours of the last week spent in speeding the programme, its terms might be announced tomorrow.

Thousands of letters and telegrams asking about the loan have been received.

A further offer of treasury certificates of indebtedness, possibly $250,000,000 more, probably will be announced soon, as funds will have to be provided to furnish between $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 for Italy and France. Approximately $60,000,000 of this sum is available out of the proceeds of the first offering of certificates, $200,000,000 of the proceeds of which was lent to Great Britain.

Expedition.

TWO PLANS FOR ARMY TO BE SENT TO FRANCE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEWPORT (R. I.) April 28.—Army and navy officers here are interesting themselves in the subject of an invading army to be sent to France and two schemes are now under discussion unofficially. The first is to take 50,000 men from the regular army, equip them all as infantry and send them within two weeks, using destroyers and battleships as transports, together with other available ships, well armed. Immediate action, it is said, would be a great factor. The officers would have the advantage of a life study in their vocation, and all departments would be at once as efficient as it is possible to make them without the actual experience of trench warfare.

The second scheme is to take 50,000 regulars and recruit 100,000 more and mix them. That force could not be moved until August, however, and would involve, besides the delay, difficulties in transportation.

Entombed.

ABANDON ALL HOPE OF SAVING BURIED MINERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HASTINGS (Colo.) April 28.—Virtually all hope of saving any of the 120 men entombed by an explosion in the Hastings mine of the Victor-American Fuel Company was abandoned tonight.

James Dalrymple, State Coal-mine Inspector, who came from the mine late today, gave it as his opinion that there was no one left alive in the mine. Rescue men expressed themselves similarly.

G. F. Bartlett, president of the company, however, declared the work of rescue will go on until there is no hope any of the entombed men is alive. Up to 5 o'clock tonight thirteen bodies had been taken from the mine.

Mr. Dalrymple, who penetrated the working to within 2000 feet of the face of the mine, said the rescue crews knew where there were six or eight other bodies which they could not reach until the gas cleared away. Ventilating apparatus has been repaired and it now is a matter of hours until the rescuers can proceed beyond their present limit, the fourth north entry, which was reached last night. A succeeding shift put in a considerable number of brattices and the air course down to this entry now is in working order.

"In my opinion there was no fire in the mine," Mr. Dalrymple said. In this view he was joined by practically all employees and rescue men here.

Rescue men, old miners and old residents in this section put the present disaster down as the worst that ever occurred in the Colorado coal fields. The same men united in shaking their heads and saying "I don't know" when asked about the cause of the explosion.

A peculiar phase of the affair was that several of the bodies brought out late today had had their hair burned off and the skin blackened as if it had been scorched. The rescue men said very probably this was due to the flash of the explosion.

The Governor said:

"My reports show there were thirteen Mexicans, twelve Americans, one Pole, thirty-six Greeks, thirty-three Austrians, seven negroes and fifteen Italians in the mine when the explosion occurred.

"It would be unreasonable to think that Mexicans would kill a lot of Mexicans, or that Austrians would blow up Austrians. There is nothing in the plot story."

GUATEMALA BREAKS WITH GERMANY.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Guatemala has broken off diplomatic relations with Germany; handed to the German Minister his passports and cancelled the exequaturs of German consuls here.

Official advices of the break, coming from the American legation in Guatemala City, say President Estrada Cabrera assigned as the reason for his act his desire to stand with the United States in the fight for democracy and the preservation of international law.

limiting the amount of alcohol that might be sold in any beverage. This was beaten in the Assembly. Then the Assembly passed a bill purporting to close saloons and cafes on Sunday. This was beaten in the Senate. The net result is that not a single bill affecting the liquor traffic has passed the Legislature.

UNION LABOR LOBBY.

Three important bills were proposed for the protection of independent industry and free labor in California. They were all beaten by the influence of the Johnson machine, combined with that of the labor union lobby from San Francisco. Free labor and independent industries are seriously threatened, however, by an anti-injunction, propicketing bill, which was passed through the use of the joint influences of the State machine and the labor despots.

Under the guise of a workman's compensation bill, an act has been passed which, it is claimed, will increase the cost of workman's insurance to the employer from 8 to 22 per cent.

When a demand was made for appropriation for military highways the administration condescended to provide a paltry $250,000 to cover the entire State. But it approved an appropriation for $260,000 for a land colonization scheme, where the State is to establish a land colonization board and to embark in the real estate business.

Southern California asked for an appropriation of $150,000 for a State farm near Riverside similar to the one now maintained at Davis in Northern California. This was refused, but an appropriation of $300,000 was made to build some extra grounds at Sacramento. And an extra $750,000 was given to the State grand stands on the State Fair Farm at Davis.

REMEMBER SAN FRANCISCO.

San Francisco sent representatives to Sacramento to ask for an appropriation of $130,000 to purchase ground on the site of the Panama-Pacific Exposition and to remodel the California Building so that it could be used for a State Normal School. To this was to be added $200,000 now in the exposition fund and the money derived from the sale of the present State Normal site and building in San Francisco.

This carried the approval of the Normal School directors and of the Board of Supervisors of San Francisco.

But that bill carried a fatal weakness; there was not enough work for the special contractors who form a prominent part of the Progressive machine. After a succession of conferences a bill was finally passed which increases that appropriation from $130,000 to $450,000. The California Building is to be torn down and a new building erected. This is done in face of reports from the city engineer and city architect of San Francisco that the California Building could be remodeled at an expense of less than $100,000. Supt. Burk of the San Francisco State Normal School also filed a report to the effect that the California Building would be suitable and even preferable to a new brick building at this time. That increase of $320,000 simply goes to pay political debts and to repair damaged political fences in San Francisco.

While $250,000 was the limit for military highway construction, a special fund of $200,000 was given to the Railroad Commission and $100,000 to the State Board of Control in addition to the regular appropriations for those departments. The State Labor Bureau received also an appropriation almost double that of two years ago; the increase was $78,000.

STATE CONSTABULARY.

There is an appropriation of $1,500,000 for a State constabulary, although Gov. Stephens gave to the Legislature a personal assurance that the constabulary will not be organized unless the National Guard is called outside the State. If the National Guard should not be called away that $1,500,000 will be available to make up deficits in other commission and department funds. Once appropriated it becomes available for State expense and the precedent of the last four years demonstrates that it will all have disappeared before the next Legislature meets.

All attempts to mend our notoriously defective election laws failed. They are left at their worst.

But the worst feature of this legislative session are labor and financial bills passed. Gov. Stephens has permitted his hands to be tied to the extent that he can do but little to cut down the increased expense by vetoing appropriation bills; they are so drawn that he cannot veto the increases without cutting out the entire appropriation and leaving a department without any appropriation at all.

Too much credit for scientific manipulation cannot be given to the San Francisco politicians who have carefully shaped the course of the present Legislature. It is a matter of record that no measure which the San Francisco delegation opposed as a unit passed the two Houses and that no measure which they favored as a unit was beaten. Southern California has cut but a sorry figure as far as effectiveness is concerned. Ten members of the Los Angeles county delegation voted against the repeated salary increases and against the vicious anti-injunction bill; but there were five who voted as the San Francisco politicians dictated. They helped to make up the majority which followed the water-front delegation. Their servility or venality will cost Los Angeles county alone $2,000,000 in additional taxes this year and next year.

WHAT SELECTIVE DRAFT LAW MEANS TO UNITED STATES.

HERE is what the new selective draft army law, approved by Congress last night, means to the nation:

Every male citizen of the United States, regardless of his physical condition or occupation, whether married or single, if he is within the age limits set by the law, must register on the government roll. The President will call upon them to do this by public proclamation immediately and will at the same time announce the registration officials who will probably be postmaster, revenue officers and other Federal officials throughout the country. Severe penalties are provided for non-compliance.

The minimum age limit is twenty-one years. The maximum is not yet finally determined. It will be somewhere between twenty-seven and forty years, to be determined by conferees of the House and Senate. The number from each State will be apportioned according to population.

Out of those who register the government will at once select 500,000 men and President Wilson is authorized to select 500,000 more whenever he desires to do so.

These men after registration will be exempted: Legislative, executive and judicial officers of the United States and the several States, persons belonging to religious organizations whose creeds are against war and preachers of any religious denomination.

Furthermore, the President may in his discretion exempt or draft for partial service, customhouse clerks, persons handling mail, workmen employed in arsenals, navy yards and armories, persons engaged in industries necessary to the maintenance of the military establishments, pilots and mariners of merchant vessels, persons having dependent families and all persons who are morally or physically deficient.

The new law also authorizes the President to raise by the volunteer system and for the war only enough men to raise the regular army to 287,000 men and the National Guard to 625,000 men.

The law, it is estimated, will give an army of approximately 2,000,000 well trained officers and enlisted men by next spring.

Boys less than twenty-one and more than eighteen years old probably will be allowed to volunteer and will be accepted if physically fit.

Volunteer Advocates

liquor to soldiers in uniform and giving the President wide discretionary authority to make other prohibition regulations. In the House a similar amendment was rejected on a point of order. An amendment by Senator Curtis stipulating that men subject to draft who voluntarily present themselves shall be recorded as volunteers, was accepted by Chairman Chamberlain, and went into the bill. Another long debate was evoked over amendments by Senators Thomas and La Follette to exempt from conscription those having "conscientious objections" to military service. Both were defeated without a roll call, and the bill's exemption proposals left unchanged.

Many of the more radical amendments are expected to be thrown out in conference and administration leaders hope to restore virtually all of the important features of the bill to their original form before it goes to the President. The question of ages probably will form the biggest barrier to a quick conference agreement. The debate on conscription brought some dramatic passages in both Senate and House. In the Senate the issue was fought out on Senator McKellar's amendment which would authorize a call for 500,000 volunteers and not put conscription into effect unless the 500,000 men did not respond within ninety days. Mr. McKellar pleaded this plan would not interfere with the draft plan, but would "show the world that we are a patriotic and not a conscript nation." Senator Johnson of California also advocated a call for volunteers to place an American force in Europe immediately.

REOPENS QUESTION.

After the McKellar amendment had been rejected, Senator Trammell reopened the draft question by offering an amendment proposing to substitute the volunteer system throughout the bill. It was rejected by an overwhelming roar of "noes."

In the House there was no roll call. The long fight came to a close early in the afternoon when Representative Kahn of California moved to strike out the volunteer provision written into the bill by the House Military Committee.

As the result of the voting became apparent the members and the galleries broke into cheers while Speaker Clark, Chairman Dent of the Military Committee, Chairman Padgett of the Naval Committee and other Democrats who had fought the administration's plan sat silently in their seats.

Throughout the remainder of the House debate pro-volunteer members frequently reopened discussion of their proposal, the climax coming when Speaker Clark declared he might drive out of his district some of those who had urged that he vote for conscription.

"A lot of old skunkers all over the country who think that nobody is going to be forced into this war except boys from 19 to 25," the Speaker said, "and that their miserable, cowardly hides will be safe, have been sending telegrams here."

Persistent efforts were made in the House to make all members of Congress subject to draft, but all of them failed. An amendment by Representative Good of Iowa, doubling the pay of enlisted men in the army during the war, was adopted but generally is expected by administration leaders to be thrown out in conference.

VOTE ON VOLUNTEERS.

On a roll call tonight the House rejected the volunteer army proposal by a vote of 313 to 109, an even greater majority than that by which the amendment had been eliminated from the bill earlier in the day on a teller vote in the committee of the whole.

On the objection of Chairman Fitzgerald of the Appropriations Committee, the $3,000,000 appropriation provided for carrying the bill into effect was finally stricken out of the House by a vote of 351 to 25, and it was agreed that the committee should bring in a separate measure Monday to finance the raising of the war army.

The vote in the Senate on the volunteer amendment was as follows:

For the volunteer amendment:

Democrats—Gore, Hardwick, Kirby, McKellar, Reed, Thomas, Trammell, Vardaman. Total eight.

Republicans—Borah, Cummins, Curtis, Fall, Gallinger, Gronna, Johnson, California; La Follette, Norris, Sherman. Total ten.

Against the volunteer amendment:

Republicans: Brady, Brandegee, Calder, Colt, Dillingham, Fernald, France, Frelinghuysen, Hale, Harding, Jones, Washington; Kellogg, Kenyon, Knox, Lodge, McCumber, McLean, Nelson, New, Page, Penrose, Poindexter, Smoot, Sterling, Sutherland, Wadsworth, Warren, Watson, Weeks. Total twenty-nine.

The Senate also accepted, fifty-three to twenty-five, an amendment by Senator Fall of New Mexico authorizing the President to call into service three or more regiments of mounted volunteers for service on the Mexican border or in any foreign country the President may direct.

The amendment does not specifically mention Col Roosevelt but its purpose has been understood and its author referred to the fact it would permit the former President to raise troops to go to Europe. It was not discussed at length.

Debate in the Senate today was begun by Senator Harding of Ohio, in support of the administration bill and also his amendment to permit Col. Roosevelt to raise four divisions of volunteers for immediate service abroad.

Senator Harding said the amendment was not to be misconstrued as inimical to the general conscription, which he indorsed.

"It does not underestimate the impressiveness of our deliberate preparation of an army of 1,000,000 men," he said, "while laying the foundation for 10,000,000 more, if need be, to say that an immediate force of American volunteers would put new life in every Allied trench and a new glow in every Allied camp fire on every battle front in Europe."

Senator Curtis, Republican of Kansas, and Smith, Republican of Michigan, also indorsed the Roosevelt plan. Senator Lodge spoke at length in its favor. "I can see no reason why men over 25 who earnestly desire to fight for their country in France, if physically fit, should not be permitted to offer their lives if they want to. It can not injure the principle of universal compulsory service," said Senator Lodge.

Senator Stone of Missouri suggested that former Gov. Sulzer of New York also desired to raise a division.

"If any man by his own personal influence or weight in his community can raise a division under this amendment," Senator Lodge replied, "I shall be glad to see him do it."

WILLIAMS'S OPINION.

Registering his approval of conscription, Senator Williams of Mississippi said he favored it for one reason, because t will "weed out loyal and disloyal Americans."

"There are 1,000,000 traitors in America, including a considerable number of German spies," he said. "I want to weed out that element. If they resist the draft they will be interned. This conscription will separate the loyal and disloyal Americans."

Also, Senator Williams said, he approves conscription in the hope that with defeat of Germany it will be possible to end universal military conscription forever throughout the world.

"By a vote of forty-five to forty-three the Senate adopted an amendment by Senator Underwood to make it unlawful to sell or give liquor to any member of Congress. He contended that there should be no discrimination and that Congressmen should come in the same category as soldiers.

A substitute amendment by Senator Harding authorizing the President to make regulations regarding sale of liquor to the armed forces and prohibiting sale at army posts and training camps was adopted, 51 to 33. It also prohibits sale to members of the army while in uniform only, and takes the place of all the other prohibition amendments previously adopted.

IN THE HOUSE.

The volunteer sponsors in the House were astounded at the tremendous strength developed by the administration forces. When the members lined up to pass the tellers it looked almost as if the whole House was about to vote for conscription, Chairman Dent of the Military Committee, heading the volunteer forces, finally gave up counting the votes. Miss Jeanette Rankin, the Montana member, voted for the volunteer amendments, as did Speaker Clark and Chairman Padgett of the Naval Committee. Republican Leader Mann voted for conscription. Democratic Leader Kitchin, busy with revenue legislation, did not vote.

When Representative Saunders of Virginia, presiding, announced the Kahn amendment had carried 279 to 98, there was thunderous applause from the floor and the crowded galleries.

HOUSE VOLUNTEER VOTE.

Those voting in the House for the volunteer system were:

Democrats—Barnhart, Bell, Bocher, Brand of Georgia, Burnett, Byrnes of South Carolina, Byrns of Tennessee, Candler of Mississippi, Clark of Florida, Claypool, Crisp, Crosser, Dent, Dill, Dominick, Doughton, Fields, Garrett of Tennessee, Gordon, Hayden, Helm, Hilliard, Hood, Houston, Huddleston, Hull of Tennessee; Johnson of Kentucky; Jones of Virginia; Keating, Kehoe, Kettner, Kitchin, Larsen, Lee of Georgia, Lobeck, McLemore, Nicholls of South Carolina; Oldfield, Padgett, Park, Pou, Quin, Romjue, Rucker, Sauders of Virginia; Sears, Shallenberger, Sherwood, Sims, Sisson, Slayden, Smith (Charles B.,) Snook, Steagall, Stephens of Mississippi; Stephenson, Thomas, Tillman, Van Dyke, Wise, Champ Clark —62.

ROOSEVELT PLEASED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, April 28.—Col. Roosevelt was shown an Associated Press bulletin saying an amendment to the army draft bill permitting him to raise troops for European service had been adopted. He paused in his speech at the banquet, a smile overspread his face, and he exclaimed repeatedly:

"Bully! Bully!"

"What is it?" demanded the crowd.

Col. Roosevelt read the dispatch. The entire audience arose and cheered several minutes.

"Now we'll go, Teddy. Now we are ready," came from numbers of throats.

"I want to say," continued the colonel, "that this amendment was carefully drawn, not to interfere in the slightest degree with the President's plan for obligatory service. I want to put myself in a position not to say to go to the front, but come to the front."

POSTPONE OPENING OF TRAINING CAMPS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Overwhelmed with applications for admission to the officers' training camps, the War Department announced today postponement of the opening of the camps for one week "in order to enable a more careful selection to be made of the limited number that can be accommodated."

The camps were to have been opened May 8 to all applicants, but under the new ruling the list of citizens to be admitted will be published on that date instead of those named being required to report for duty not later than May 14.

All reserve officers of infantry, cavalry, field artillery and coast artillery will be ordered into active service at once, to report to training camps as may be designated by department commanders.

TWO-MILE FRONT TAKEN BY THE BRITISH TROOPS.

French Make Progress in the Aisne and Champagne Regions.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, April 28.—The British troops have captured Arleux-en-Gohelle and German positions on a front of more than two miles north and south of that village, says the official report from British headquarters in France tonight.

A determined effort was made on Thursday night to eject the British from the positions gained by them in their attack on the Macedonian front earlier in the week. The British defeated this effort, inflicting heavy losses on their adversaries, the War Office announces.

The statement reads:

"Severe fighting, in which our troops have had the advantage, took place throughout the day from the Scarpe River to the Acheville-Vimy wood. We captured Arleux-en-Gohelle and enemy positions on a front of over two miles north and south of the village.

"Our troops also progressed northeast of Gavrelle and the western slopes of Greenland hill between Gavrelle and Roeux. South of the river we have gained ground north of Monchy-le-Preux.

"The enemy again delivered many violent counter-attacks with considerable forces and suffered heavily from our artillery and machine gun fire. In the neighborhood of Roeux and Oppy heavy fighting is continuing. Several hundred prisoners were captured during the day.

"Three German airplanes were felled yesterday in air fighting and a fourth was shot down by our anti-aircraft guns. One hostile observation balloon also was destroyed. Three of our airships are missing."

THE PARIS ACCOUNT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, April 28.—The official communication tonight reads:

"The artillery action was intermittent over the greater part of the front, with violent outbursts in the Aisne and Champagne regions.

"On the Chemin-des-Dames we made progress near Ostel and took prisoners. Everywhere else the day was calm without infantry actions.

"On April 27 two German airplanes were brought down in an aerial engagement. Six others were compelled to land in damaged condition. It is confirmed that four German machines reported as damaged were really destroyed by our pilots on April 24, and three others on April 26.

"Eastern theater, April [illegible] the 26th the Bulgarians, after a violent bombardment, gained a temporary foothold in the trenches recently captured by the British troops west of Lake Doiran, but an immediate counter-attack drove them out with heavy losses. Explanation of Marshal Joffre's Plea that Ame[illegible] Send an Army to Europe Soon is Furnished by W[illegible] Technical Expert, Who Says Secret of Success is to [illegible] Constantly Where the Fighting is Going On.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, April 28.—In his talks with the technical experts of this government, Marshal Joffre of France has laid special stress on why he believes an early dispatch of troops from the United States to France will not only stimulate the morale of the Allied troops already at the front but also, in all probability, save the lives of many American soldiers.

In emphasizing this suggestion, Marshal Joffre and his assistants have endeavored to make it clear that the war in Europe is full of constant surprises; that the greatest expert, after an absence from the front of a week or more, returns to his post unable to grasp for some time the changes which have taken place along any given front, and that it is only by their presence on the fighting front that troops can hope to learn the methods of modern warfare which will enable them, when thrown into action, to wage successful war.

As illustrating this point, France's leading artillery expert, now with the commission, frankly stated today that he is so far out of touch with the situation on the [illegible] by reason of his absence [illegible] here, that he is unable to answer accurately some of the questions officials here have asked him.

It is the firm opinion of Fretnch experts that the English army, good as it is and efficient as it has shown itself to be in recent operations, still has much to learn in order to avoid costly mistakes in times of emergency during a battle.

While they by no means [illegible] to themselves a superiority in fighting ability which is not [illegible] fact, they point out that France and Germany have long represented the acme of two distinct [illegible] schools, while Great Britain has had to learn modern warfare almost in its entirety by experience. Applying their own knowledge of the situation in the United States and having observed at first hand the experience of the English, Marshal Joffre, therefore, has not hesitated to urge the dispatch of American troops to France at the earliest moment.

CHICAGO BAKERS STRIKE; GOVERNMENT MAY AC

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, April 28.—Chicago is faced with a bread famine. Fifteen of the city's largest bakeries, supplying about 80 per cent. of the bakery-made bread in Chicago and its suburbs, were forced to shut down at 5 o'clock tonight, after members of the largest bakers' union in the city went on strike.

The majority of the union members were born in Germany or have Teutonic antecedents. Both sides deny, however, that any influence even vaguely savoring of Berlin has anything to do with the controversy. They denounce such reports as "trash."

It became known, nevertheless, that the government has developments in connection with the strike under observation. Charles R. Hehmann, spokesman for the union, stated to reporters that attorneys for the organization had discussed the matter with Hinton M. Clabaugh, local head of the Department of Justice.

What move Clabaugh may be contemplating he is keeping to himself. There are reports, however, that the government may take action if the city is made to suffer for any length of time. In the case of several North Side bakeries supplying bread to the Great Lakes Naval Training Station at Lake Bluff, and the Marine Hospital in Chicago, the authorities may commandeer and operate the plants.

DISCONTENT AUGURS DARK MAY DAY FOR GERMANY.

Bloody Conflicts Feared as Underfed Workmen Listen to Socialists.

BY FLOYD GIBBONS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, April 28.—Interest in Germany's internal conditions is concentrated on the threatening developments of next Tuesday, when the May Day strike is scheduled as a demonstration to force the government to a lightening of the munitioners' work and increasing the food allowances, in defiance of Hindenburg.

All press reports from countries bordering on the Central Powers indicate a growing discontent that threatens to overthrow the conservative counseling and restraining influences by which panics and outbreaks of violence were averted last year.

The Socialists in successfully carrying the strike movement before the Reichstag and Landtag describe the workmen as weakened by a lack of nourishment and overwork. The government's warning to invoke extreme measures and to suppress any action curtailing the effectiveness of the hard-pressed troops on the western front may be an introduction to the imprisonment of Socialist leaders and bloody conflict between the working classes and the constabulary.

One object of the strike is declared to convince the Russian working class of the willingness of the German working class to accept peace without annexation.

While this phase of valuable propaganda for the Socialist policy of internationalism may be disguised as a peace feeler it will not detract from bringing home to the government the desperate condition of their workers and the high resolve by which the weakened men and women can balk at the breaking point.

The effect of the strike on the widespread German manufacture of standardized submarine parts is of utmost interest to England, which is now facing food rations. More dependence is being placed upon the American inventive genius for the creation of some means to counteract the subsea warfare. The world food problems, all making the war more desperate daily; the barbarous reprisals, the increasing sufferings of the troops and the fighting alike now are common topics of conversation where international pride, honor and respect for humanitarian principles once refused to countenance such methods.

In reply to the published suggestion that the Allies, in reprisal for the sinkings of hospital ships, devastate the German food supply by dispatching large flocks of airplanes to burn the standing harvests the Germans threaten starvation to the thousands of war prisoners before the German troops be permitted to suffer want.

CONFLICTING ELEMENTS PULL GERMAN CABINET.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

THE HAGUE, April 28 (via London, April 28, 6 p.m.)—The German Cabinet is facing the difficult situation of its war-time existence in its effort to find a middle ground between the Socialists and the conservatives. Both parties are becoming more and more insistent and vociferous, the Socialists demanding the democratization of the government and peace without conquest or indemnity, while the conservatives are demanding with urgency reforms in exactly the opposite direction.

Dr. Diederich Hahn, leader of the junker party and member of the Reichstag, yesterday delivered a speech in Berlin in which he declared that Germany's submarine now insured the unconditional surrender of her enemies. He attacked the demands of the Socialists and censured the government continuing so long to maintain diplomatic relations with the United

"Has monarchical Germany failed?" he asked. "No," he added, "it stands brilliantly before the world as conqueror. We are today within sight of peace. May it be a real German peace. Let us keep to Bismarck's policy. Germany's future is a future of battle and conquest.

"Some people are demanding a new order of things in Germany. Let me tell you what new order we conservatives desire. Germany's industrial and agricultural future must be so ordered that she will be in a position successfully to withstand any future attack. We must have the coal fields of Longwy and Briey. We must have fresh territories for emigration in the East. We must not return any lands we have conquered. That would be an unforgivable sin against our agricultural population, would compromise our industrial development and would mean that our blood had been spilled in vain.

"Already we have foolishly bestowed a kingdom upon Poland without securing Germany's rights therein."

SIX SUBMARINES LOST IN LAST TWO MONTHS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, April 28 (via London.)—According to the account given by the Tageblatt of Berlin of the statement regarding submarine warfare made to the main committee by Vice-Admiral Von Capelle, Minister of the Navy, the Germans, in the first months of unrestricted submarine operations, lost only six U-boats, a number which in the same was surpassed several times by new construction.

The Minister gave information regarding the number of submarines under construction or ready to be commissioned, showing a considerable increase. He said there was available a sufficient stock of oil for the big fighting ships and the submarines and that all ship yards were fully occupied with orders. He asserted the prestige of the British had been shattered more by the Skagerrak battle than by U-boat warfare.

Dwelling on the submarine campaign, the amendment said neither the British nor their allies dared publish the names and tonnages of ships sunk. The Minister expressed the opinion that the day was not far off when Great Britain must declare her readiness to enter into peace negotiations.

BRITISH FOR THIRD TIME UNABLE TO BREAK LINES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN, April 28 (via London, 11:20 p.m.)—"On the battlefield of Arras," says the official communication from headquarters, "the British today for the third time failed completely in their attempt to break through the German lines. The attacks, which began at daybreak, with strong masses on a thirty-kilometer front on both banks of the Scarpe, all failed under our fire, and in counter-attacks the enemy again suffered a heavy defeat. His losses were very great.

"On the Aisne and in Champagne, there was an artillery duel of varying intensity."

SOCIALIST WILL GO TO RUSSIA WITH ROOT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 28.—President Wilson has under consideration the appointment of an American to the commission headed by Elihu Root which soon will be to Russia. Victor Berger, former member of Congress from Wisconsin; Meyer London, now a member of Congress representing New York; Morris Hillquit and Charles Russell have been suggested.

John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers, has been put forward as a labor representative on the commission.

PACKAGES RELEASED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, April 28, 12:20 p.m.—The American consulate has obtained the release from the British court of more than 3500 parcel post packages which had been seized on the way from the United States to Austria. Nothing contraband was found in these packages and they will be returned to the

ANOTHER NORWEGIAN STEAMSHIP IS SUNK.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, April 28, 3:35 p.m.—The sinking of the Norwegian steamship Torvore, 1667 tons gross, is reported in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Christiania.

According to evidence given at court at Bergen, a German submarine fired on the boats of the Norwegian steamer Theodor William after they left the steamer.

No previous word has been received of the sinking of the Theodor William, a vessel of 3057 tons gross.

SUBMARINE BOMBARDS AFRICAN PORT WORKS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

CURIOUS POINTS RAISED BY CASE.

JUDGE MUST DETERMINE HOW CHINAMAN STANDS.

Celestial Who Came Here as Artillery Officer to Study American Ways Meets Adversity and Becomes Waiter—Court to Say if He Loses Student Status.

It is quite a change from being an artillery officer in the service of the Manchu dynasty, buttressed with a showy uniform, and bedizened with gold rope, to becoming a waiter in an Oxnard restaurant, and being haled into court to show cause why you should not be deported back to dear old China.

Chang Ying Ting, a young Chinese, found himself in that predicament yesterday in Judge Oscar A. Trippet's court. After the conclusion of the testimony the case was taken under advisement.

In 1910, Chang Ying Ting, then 26 years of age, was sent by the Manchu dynasty, then in command of affairs in China, with three other young officers, to study military matters in the United States. Chang Ying Ting was an artillery officer, and his picture showing him posing before a camera in the streets of Canton, where his father had a big store, was among the exhibits in the case.

The Chinese government gave each of the four commissioners $4000 to pay their expenses while in this country, but a short time after their arrival in San Francisco, on the Korea, Chang Ying Ting became ill and he was deserted by his companions.

It was about the time that the proclamation of the Chinese republic with Dr. Sun Yat Sen at its head, was born. The Manchu dynasty toppled to a fall, and the store of the boy's father in Canton was looted and destroyed, by the republican troops then under President Sun Yat Sen, and later on under President Yuan Shi Kai. This resulted in the impoverishment of the family, and the son in San Francisco who had been helped by his father following the desertion of his companions, found himself unable to secure further funds from his old home. To make matters worse Chang Ying Ting became ill and for twenty-two months was unable to do anything. He had been admitted to the country as a student, but it was now necessary for him to go to work placing him in the class of laborers whose immigration is prohibited by law.

The charge against him is that he is at work in a restaurant in Oxnard, thus depriving him of the status of a student, which he held when he came to the United States. There are some interesting phases in the case, and Judge Trippet wants time for consideration.

We Invite Physicians to visit our Prescription Rooms at any hour of the day or evening. We're always glad to demonstrate the improved methods employed in this important Department.

Vinogradsky.

THAT'S HIS NAME; HE'S NO GERMAN.

HE AROUSED SUSPICIONS BY MANNER AND CAMERA.

Government Agents Interview Him and Find He is Chief Inspector of Munitions for Russian Government—He will Stay Here to See "Vair Pretty Girls."

A few lines written on a sheet of paper bearing the Russian coat-of-arms, and signed by P. Routsky, Russian Consul at New York, proved a lfe-saver yesterday for Nicolas V. Vinogradsky, chief inspector of munitions in behalf of the Russian government, who has been on duty at the Bethlehem works for some weeks, and is now en route by way of San Francisco and Valdivostok, to Petrograd.

When the train bearing the young Rusian official left Denver, he had aroused the suspicion of the railway officials. He gave the impression that he was a German, had a large amount of baggage, and, worst of all, a big camera, that he constantly used to take pictures. The conclusion was jumped at that he was a German spy.

The secret service department of the government at once got busy. Special Agent Hazen, in this city, was wired to meet the in-coming train at the Santa Fe station at Pasadena, and interview the mysterious stranger.

Mr. Hazen interviewed the conductor and porters and then Vinogradsky. The agent saw at once that he was not a German, but a Russian, and could not be an enemy of this country.

The officer found that the Russian was genialty itself. He told who he was, presented his card, and showed the latter of recommendation signed by the Russian Consul at New York.

"Why had he taken so many pictures?"

"Ah, dees ees a boot-i-ful countree; we have no such in Russia. What you call 'em, pallims, (palms) I geet so many peectures of de pallims; ah, if we only had 'em in Petrograd."

"How long will you remain in this part of the country?"

"Tree week, maybe; what you call 'em hotel,—Alexander—I stop dere. I go to San Deeyo, ees that eet? praps week, praps two or tree. It is seventy-two days to Petrograd, and dees is a loafly countree, I shall stay here to see de pallims and de vair prety grils, you no think so?"

Later Vinogradsky went to Deputy United States District Attorney Moody, and was told to take all the photographs he likes, but not to kodak any of the public buildings and railroad property. "Nevare, nevare," he said, shaking the hand of Mr. Moody with hearty good will.

FIX FOOD PRICES AT ONCE, URGES PERKINS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 28.—George W. Perkins of New York urged the Senate Agriculture Committee today to press immediate action on the food situation. He recommended a minimum price of $1.50 for wheat, $1 for corn, $6 for beans and $1 for potatoes at the nearest point of delivery, and also the assurance to the farmer of labor and co-operation to permit distribution on a larger scale.

Mr. Perkins also denounced food speculators and predicted more rioting in New York if some action is not taken soon.

SENATE BILLS PASS ASSEMBLY.

Gates Loan Shark Measure Goes Down to Defeat.

Legislative Grind to Keep on Throughout Day.

John Muir Yosemite Trail may be Perpetuated.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, April 28.—The Assembly worked slowly but steadily today to demolish its pile of pending Senate bills. By 6 o'clock tonight the day's record consisted of thirty-eight measures passed, seven defeated and sixty-nine remaining to be voted upon.

Senator Gates's bill to give the Commissioner of Corporations control of so-called "loan sharks" was defeated late today, lacking nine votes of the necessary forty-one.

During the afternoon the Assembly rested temporarily from its deliberation of bills and made the customary presentations to its officers. A silver service was tendered Speaker Young by the members of the lower house through Dennett of Modesto as spokesman.

Ryan of San Francisco, the Speaker pro tempore, was presented with a diamond ring. Harris of Bakersfield made the accompanying oration.

Earlier in the day it was discovered that McCray of Redding and Speaker Young were both celebrating birthdays. A rubber gavel was rushed to the Speaker as a birthday token by some of the less serious-minded members, and McCray was made the recipient of a potted palm.

Among Senate bills passed by the Assembly today were:

By Kehoe—Granting tidelands to the city of Arcata.

By Scott—Prescribing standard provisions for health and accident insurance policies.

By Ballard—Authorizing the organization of junior college courses of study as recommended by the State Board of Education.

By King—Declaring and establishing a State highway from San Bernardino to Redlands via Waterman Canyon and the "Crest Drive."

The lower house refused passage to Senator Sharkey's bill to provide for the purchase of school books in wholesale lots through the offices of county purchasing agents.

Three constitutional amendment resolutions were adopted. These were:

By Evans—Relating to the taking of property for public use and additional adjoining or neighboring property, and for payment therefor.

By Luce—Giving the Legislature increased scope in enacting workmen's compensation laws.

By Tyrrell—Devising a uniform system for the deposit accounts of counties and municipalities.

JOHN MUIR TRAIL.

The John Muir trail from Mt. Whitney to Yosemite Valley will be carried forward another link as a result of the passage by the Assembly of Breed's $30,000 appropriation bill. The trail is California's characteristic monument to her late explorer. Ultimately the trail is to render accessible the finest scenery of the Sierras. The bill was drafted by the Sierra Club.

Restoration of old Russian landmarks at Fort Ross in Mendocino county was also made possible tonight by the Assembly's passage of a $1500 appropriation bill by Senator Slater.

The sum of $40,000 was appropriated to construct and equip cadet rifle companies in the State's high schools. The bill was by Senator Scott.

Other measures passed by the Assembly include:

By W. J. Carr—providing for the organization of water districts by co-Supervisors.

By McDonald—Providing for the furnishing of service letters by public utility.

IN THE SENATE.

With frequent interruptions occasioned by lack of quorums, the Senate today alternately passed bills, concurred in Assembly amendments and idled away the time while the sergeants at arms searched the city for missing members. Rarely were there sufficient members in their seats to permit the Senate to clear up its bill file, and as a result there were forty-four measures still waiting action when recess was taken at 6 o'clock tonight. Of this number, fifteen were on the unfinished business calendar and were expected to die without formal vote. Twenty-nine other measures, however, required attention and it was not believed that they would be disposed of until midnight, when final adjournment was in prospect.

One of the bills passed late today was a measure by Assemblyman Ryan of San Francisco requiring counties of the first and second classes, Los Angeles and San Francisco, to establish semi-monthly pay day for county employees.

The Superior judges in thirteen counties were voted increases in salaries by the Senate's approval of a bill by Argabrite. In the following counties the salaries of the judges were increased from $4000 to $5000: Ventura, Santa Cruz, Madera, Monterey, Orange, San Mateo, San Luis Obispo, Napa, Solano and Santa Barbara. The judges in Lassen, Plumas and Imperial counties were increased from $3000 to $4000.

BILLS PASSED.

Twenty bills, including special appropriations and several county government acts, were approved during the early Senate session. Among them were:

By Argabrite — Extending the scope of the mechanics' lien law.

By Ryan—Permitting the Attorney-General to appoint deputies to assist district attorneys.

By Friedman—Giving apartment-housekeepers the right of lien on baggage of guests.

By Mathews—Appropriating $60,000 for construction of highway between Susanville, Lassen county, and a point on the line between California and Nevada, two miles east of the town of Constantia.

By Arnerich—Appropriating $30,000 to pay claims against the State as a result of loss of county exhibits by fires at the State fair grounds last summer.

By Gebhart—Appropriating $300,000 for new pavilion on State fair grounds, Sacramento.

Assemblyman Wishard's eugenic marriage bill, after pursuing a devious course through both houses of the Legislature and submitting to various amendments, finally was passed by the Senate today and sent to the Governor. As it came from a free conference committee this morning, the bill is widely different from the measure as originally introduced. It now proposes to prohibit the marriage of persons afflicted with sexual diseases or leprosy, under penalty of imprisonment.

A previous requirement that medical certificates be submitted showing freedom from the specified diseases before the issuance of marriage licenses, was stricken out of the bill by the Conference Committee. If the measure receives executive approval, a wife would become a competent witness against her husband and by her testimony send him to prison for a term of from one to five years.

WIRE FROM STEPHENS.

Gov. William D. Stephens by telegraph today urged the Governors of the States of Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Nevada, New Mexico, Arizona and Montana to join with California in a movement to bring to the Western States the representatives of the Allied European countries, who are now in Washington. The Governor's telegram reads in part:

"As Governor of the State of California, I have been requested by the Legislature to invite you to join with California in her efforts to induce Marshal Joffre, British Foreign Minister Balfour and Marquis de Chambrun, and colleagues, to make a flying trip as the guests of the nation, through the Middle Western States to the Pacific Coast."

WOMEN! READ THIS!

Lift off any corn or callus with fingers and it won't hurt a bit.

Your high heels have put corns on your toes and calluses on the bottom of your feet, but why care now?

This tiny bottle holds an almost magic fluid. A genius in Cincinnati discovered this ether compound and named it freezone. Small bottles of freezone like here shown can be had at any drug store for a few cents. Don't limp or twist your face in agony and spoil your beauty but get a little bottle of freezone and apply a few drops on your tender, aching corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callus so shriveled and loose that you can lift it off with the fingers.

Just think! You get rid of a hard corn, soft corn or a corn between the toes, as well as hardened calluses without suffering one particle. You feel no pain or irritation while applying freezone or afterwards. It is magic!

"TIZ"—A JOY TO SORE, TIRED FEET

Use "Tiz" for aching, burning, puffed-up feet and corns or callouses.

"Sure! I Use TIZ Every Time for Any Foot Trouble."

Good-by, sore feet, burning feet, swollen feet, tender feet, tired feet.

Good-by, corns, callouses, bunions and raw spots. No more shoe tightness, no more limping with pain or drawing up your face in agony. "Tiz" is magical, acts right off. "Tiz" draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet. Use "Tiz" and wear smaller shoes. Use "Tiz" and forget your foot misery. Ah! how comfortable your feet feel.

Get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" now at any druggist or department store. Don't suffer. Have good feet, glad feet, feet that never swell, never hurt, never get tired. A year's foot comfort guaranteed or money refunded.

Many in Los Angeles Try Simple Mixture.

Many Los Angeles people are surprised at the QUICK action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka. This simple remedy acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing such surprising foul matter that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. A few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-i-ka is astonishing. POTATO PATCHES REPLACE PARK LAWNS.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

TOURS (France) April 25.—The rare American tourists who visit the chateaus of Touraine this summer may find the velvety parks of the most interesting show places transformed into potato patches.

Aristocracy has taken up the "tuber campaign" and, beginning with the Countess of Noailles and Duchess d'Uzes, chatelaines all over the country have promised to dig up their lawns and plant vegetables. Flower gardens, also, will be consecrated to the solution of the economic crisis.

The rose, the vine and the orchard are not to be touched, but all annual flowers and all green swards must give way to the democratic potato, in the interest of the national defense. A committee of leading society women is recording pledges to this end.

Since there is not enough labor for the farm lands already under cultivation, the temporary release from the army of a greater number of farmers and the importation of more Indo-Chinese and North African labor is expected to count more effectively in solving the agricultural problem than the efforts to transform the chateau parks into vegetable gardens.

ARMY MAN ACCUSED.

Young Lieutenant and Friend Must Face Charges of Defrauding U. S. Grant Hotel at San Diego—Other Bills May be Involved.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, April 27.—Lieut. Claude B. Sweezey, U.S.A., son of Maj. C. B. Sweezey, and A. Ramage, for whom warrants were sworn out here by James H. Holmes, manager of the U. S. Grant Hotel, who charges they defrauded him out of their hotel bill, will be brought here tomorrow morning.

The young army officer and his friend and Mrs. Ramage came here several days ago and were guests at the Grant Hotel. They hired automobiles frequently and are said to have ran many other bills.

The hotel account and an automobile bill of $200 were said to have been left unpaid. One check for $600, indorsed by Lieut. C. K. Rhinehardt of the aviation corps stationed here is causing the latter considerable worry. Lieut. Sweezey apparently did not cash the check and it is not known whether it ever has been cashed.

Maj. Sweezey, father of the young man, is stationed at Fort Bliss, Tex. Lieut. Sweezey was said to be on a furlough.

MEXICO CHECKS POLITICAL SCHEME.

DECREE PRESENTS ELIMINATION OF OPPOSITION.

Plan of Various Governors to Perpetuate Themselves in Office is Balked by Simple Order from Central Government—Stops Efforts to Build Machine.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

MEXICO CITY, April 20.—The new decree of Gen. Carranza providing for the calling of elections for State offices has put an end to various ambitious political plans of some of the more prominent political parties for controlling the State elections and, through the State machinery, of influencing the next elections for President.

Under the old plan of Guadalupe, on which much of the programme of the Constitutionalist government is based, the provisional Governors of the States were empowered to call State elections at any time they saw fit after the President and national Congress had been elected and taken their seats.

Under the new constitution, officers of the army and those holding Federal government positions must resign ninety days prior to election before they can become candidates for Governor. The provisional Governors, therefore, by calling elections at times suited to them, could have eliminated many candidates under these provisions.

The decree issued by Gen. Carranza, however, amends the Plan of Guadalupe so that the provisional Governors of the States may call State elections only with the authority of the first chief of the Constitutionalist army, in charge of the executive power, or, if after May 1, when Carranza becomes President of the republic. The decree provides that State elections shall be called at such times that the candidates elected may take office prior to July 1, 1917, except in those States where conditions exist which make the holding of an election inadvisable because of disturbances or other reasons. Gen. Carranza, either as first chief or as President, remains sole judge of the advisability and possibility of holding elections in any State and, if he deems it advisable, to hold elections, may ask Congress to confirm the provisional Governor of any State in his office for the constitutional period, ending in 1920.

It is believed that this change in the Plan of Guadalupe will effectively check efforts by any party to build up a machine which will dominate the next Presidential election, or which will be in a position to curtail the power of the executive, as it has been openly predicted might be done.

BRITISH MUNITION EXPENSE APPALLING.

LACK OF CO-ORDINATION SAID TO HAVE ADDED COST.

Large Profits Made in Replacing Orders Before System Got Down to Correct Basis—Thousands Expended Without Return—Present Methods More Economical.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, April 15.—The cost of munitions for the British army for the financial year ending March 31, 1916, totalled £224,309,523 sterling of which only about £4,000,000 comes under the heading of "offices, inspection, housing and miscellaneous." The Auditor-General reports that high prices for raw material and contracts in certain instances call for comment and that co-ordination was lacking between various branches of the Ministry of Munitions at one period of the year.

One firm contracted to make certain guns, took raw material from the Ministry at a fixed rate, made outside purchases of larger quantities at lower prices and cleaned up about £14,000.

The sum of £10,000 was advanced for certain premises to be used as stores, but two weeks later these were said to be unsuitable. Claims were put in for £48,000 and the matter settled for £30,000.

A case is noted in the report of a direct contract being placed with a firm for certain processes of manufacture at £33.18 a ton. Soon afterward an association of firms, including the same firm, got a contract for the same processes at £30 a ton. Still later contracts were placed at £26 down to £20 a ton while the cost of the processes at Woolwich was stated to be £10.7 a ton.

FOR CHURCH PATRIOTS.

There will be a patriotic and religious meeting this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Patriotic Hall, at No. 1816 South Figueroa street. A large crowd is expected to be present. Everybody is invited.

CHECKERBOARD OF WAR ON AMERICA'S PART

It's Time to Face the Truth and Q Playing at Melodrama.

BY HARRY CARR.

THE United States has an insidious foe more dangerous than the German spy with the bomb. This foe is the pin-headed "patriot" who determinedly shuts his eyes to what he wishes were not so and shrieks "Traitor!" at everyone who tries to tell him the truth.

We are simply kidding ourselves about this war. Especially when we tell ourselves that Germany is in the throes of a final defeat and that all that will be expected of us is to adorn a carriage in the triumphal parade.

The cold fact is that Germany is far from licked. When the Allies came over here to get our help the real message they bore was that they were beaten unless we came to the rescue.

It stands to reason that, in the long run, the Kaiser must yield to superior numbers and weight, but only a moral coward will dodge the conclusion that no such extremity is as yet in sight for the Central Powers. Germany is still very much in the ring and the issue cannot fairly be said to have been decided.

GAINS FOR ALLIES.

On land the Allies have made important forward gains, but this advance has been more than balanced by the submarine activity of the German navy. One of these days the truth will be told about the losses of the British and French merchant ships and we will stand appalled at the conditions. Ships have been going down by the score from German torpedoes. England is in the grip of a tight blockade.

For the present the facts cannot with safety be told because of the delicate financial conditions of the Allied countries. It is absolutely necessary to keep the soft pedal on until the American loan has been finally concluded.

It is beyond doubt, however, that the German undersea boats are simply tearing the Allied shipping to ribbons and that an acute food shortage now exists in the British Isles, and possibly in France.

AMMUNITION.

Perhaps the most serious phase of the situation, however, relates to ammunition. The British, and French gains in France are being made only by an expenditure of artillery ammunition such as no battle ever witnessed before in the world's history. The German trenches are literally flooded by shell fire.

If the German submarine activity continues it would appear to be doubtful if this expenditure of artillery ammunition can be maintained. Certainly France alone cannot supply enough shells. It is doubtful if England and France, working together at the highest pitch, can keep up any such supply. If communications are not maintained between America and Europe the tide of battle must inevitably slacken. Should the subs succeed in interrupting traffic on the English Channel the situation will be very bad for the Allies.

The German submarine activity not only makes the outcome of this war very doubtful, but it throws the whole future of the world into a new and queer light.

CONTROL OF THE SEA.

America has always depended, in the past, upon the British control of the seas. Not only our national life and all our acts of diplomacy, but the whole western hemisphere, has builded its political entity upon the supposition that Great Britain was the nearest neighbor, inasmuch as Britain ruled the wave.

Unless some way to definitely conquer the submarine is discovered in the next few months, this tenure will be over. Neither Great Britain nor any other country will ever again rule the wave.

Knighthood went crashing down into oblivion when gunpowder was invented. After the first musket was fired, the little man was just as powerful as the biggest knight in armor. Just so, the strength of the great navies has gone forever unless some way can be found to combat the subs. And, as a matter of common sense, we know in our hearts that no such way will be found.

England must reconstruct her whole theory of national life; she must find some source of military strength other than a navy or the British empire is going down to destruction.

TO AVERT DISASTER.

The only way to avert this world-rocking disaster, which will now mean almost as much for us as for England, is to thoroughly smash up Germany on the land while the smashing is good. This chance may never come again. Another time, any one of the Allies might have to fight Germany alone. Now or never!

But even here we are deceiving ourselves. The German defeats on land have been severe and the damage suffered has been acute; but the Kaiser is by no means on his knees.

Now that we are Allies ourselves, we must look at the maps with a new feeling. It must be confessed that the gains of the Allies, important though they are, make a very small, lean place on the map. It is a long long to Tipperary, but it is a longer and more dangerous way back to the Rhine.

As long as our Allies can keep up this terrific storm of artillery fire, the Germans must reply to them with a stronger storm of artillery fire or retire. Whether from necessity or from choice, they have retired.

It is undoubtedly true that the German soldiers when captured have been badly demoralized; no human being can endure the concentrated fire of modern heavy artillery without becoming dazed and half insane. But, back of the line and in the new trenches, Germany has millions of trained soldiers who are not demoralized.

All this melodramatic whisper about the Germans being "on the run" is mere childish talk.

We should not be too [illegible]ly to look the real facts in the face; and these facts are that we are in a hard and desperate game, the outcome of which is by no means decided.

Aside from the increased financial, moral and food [illegible] given the Allies by the [illegible] of America as one of the Allies, the two great sources of reserve strength of our allies are the Japanese army, as yet not called to the line of battle, and the social cancer eating at the heart of Germany autocracy.

Both these weapons are two-edged swords, very dangerous to handle.

Japan, as everyone [illegible] stands ready to send a [illegible] trained men to the [illegible]. There is no doubt that the [illegible]ing in of this superb military machine would result in the [illegible]ing being hammered out of the Central Powers. But the price of this boon would be [illegible]tive to both England and the United States. If Japan [illegible] troops to the front, it [illegible] means the permanent [illegible]ment of both England and [illegible]selves from the Orient and [illegible] bowing of the western [illegible] to the absolute dominion of the Mikado in the Far East. Neither nation is prepared to pay Japan's price except in extremity.

The greatest danger [illegible] Germany is undoubtedly the menace of Socialism. It should be remembered [illegible] us to win from Germany [illegible] means is a good deal like putting poison in the family [illegible] with the hope of killing the guest at the table. It [illegible] the guest, but the health of the balance of the family will [illegible] be improved in the process.

The Kaiser may lose his throne from a social upheaval, but in so doing, will [illegible] every throne in Europe [illegible] the United States will not be safe from the violence of the storm.

It doesn't matter how we got into this war; it doesn't [illegible] now whether we ought to be there or not. The fact is we are in it and our whole existence as a nation is at [illegible]

Up to this time, we have been contenting ourselves with wearing little ribbons in our button holes, and telling ourselves that the Germans are gasping their last.

It is about time we [illegible] stop playing at melodrama and realize the truth.

TRADING IN FUTU AT WINNIPEG S

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WINNIPEG (Manitoba) [illegible]—Announcement was made [illegible] Winnipeg grain exchange [illegible] no trading in futures would be permitted in the pit hereafter [illegible] first obtaining sanction of [illegible]soring committee.

The following message [illegible] J. Stewart, for the Royal [illegible] Commission, was given out:

"This is your authority [illegible] nounce that no buying of [illegible] wheat futures has taken [illegible] the Allied governments [illegible] last forty-odd cents [illegible] that we have sufficient [illegible] present requirements."

sane. But, back of the line and in the new trenches, Germany has millions of trained soldiers who are not demoralized.

All this melodramatic stage whisper about the Germans being "on the run" is mere childish talk.

We should not be too cowardly to look the real facts in the face; and these facts are that we are in a hard and desperate game, the outcome of which is by no means decided.

Aside from the increased financial, moral and food strength given the Allies by the addition of America as one of the Allies, the two great sources of reserve strength of our side are the Japanese army, as yet not called to the line of battle, and the social cancer eating at the heart of Germany autocracy.

Both these weapons are two-edged swords, very dangerous to handle.

Japan, as everyone knows, stands ready to send a million trained men to the east front. There is no doubt that the calling in of this superb military machine would result in the stuffing being hammered out of the Central Powers. But the price of this boon would be prohibitive to both England and the United States. If Japan sends troops to the front, it assuredly means the permanent retirement of both England and ourselves from the Orient and the bowing of the western nations to the absolute domination of the Mikado in the Far East. Neither nation is prepared to pay Japan's price except in dire extremity.

The greatest danger faced by Germany is undoubtedly the menace of Socialism. But it should be remembered that for us to win from Germany by this means is a good deal like putting poison in the family soup with the hope of killing the guest at the table. It may kill the guest, but the health of the balance of the family will not be improved in the process.

The Kaiser may lose his throne from a social upheaval, but in so doing, will endanger every throne in Europe. Even the United States will not be safe from the violence of the storm.

It doesn't matter how we got into this war; it doesn't matter now whether we ought to be there or not. The fact is we are in it and our whole future existence as a nation is at stake.

Up to this time, we have been contenting ourselves with wearing little ribbons in our buttonholes, and telling ourselves that the Germans are gasping their last.

It is about time we came to stop playing at melodrama and realize the truth.

WHITE PINE BLISTER ORDER OF HOUSTON.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Two orders have just ben issued by the Secretary of Agriculture, effective June 1, 1917, on account of the white pine blister rust. One of these orders prohibits the further importation of currant and gooseberry plants from Europe and Asia. The other order quarantines all the States east of and including the States of Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, and Louisiana, and prohibits the movement from these States to points outside the quarantined area, of all five-leafed pines and currant and gooseberry plants. There is a further prohibition of the movement of five-leafed pines and black currant plants to any point outside the heavily infected region comprising the New England States and the State of New York. This additional quarantine is made for the purpose of protecting other quarantined States, as well as the remainder of the country, from possible infection by white pine blister rust by means of the plants mentioned.

While this domestic quarantine, as noted, does not become effective until June 1, the attention of all nurserymen is called to the fact that in the meantime their voluntary agreement of a year or more ago not to ship any white pines or currant or gooseberry plants into the Rocky Mountain and the Pacific Slope States is expected to remain in full force and effect, and the inspectors of these Western States have been notified of this understanding.

ANOTHER SLUMP IN REGULAR RECRUITING.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Regular army recruiting slumped again yesterday. The total was 1099 men accepted, as against a daily average of approximately 2000 men maintained during the preceding ten days.

Pennsylvania took first place on the day's figures with 108 men as against eighty-two for New York and seventy-one for Illinois. California showed a continued high percentage, with forty-five men accepted, making 1175 supplied by that State since April 1 of her quota of 4754.

Michigan, Minnesota and Texas also returned good averages, and North Dakota, which has shown little results up to this time, supplied fifty-six men.

SPANELL TO TAKE STAND.

Slayer of Lieut.-Col. Butler Will Testify at Murder Trial.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLEMAN (Tex.) April 28.—After long argument over the admissibility of testimony concerning alleged remarks made about women by Lieut.-Col. M. C. Butler, court sustained the State's objection late today and recessed until Monday when Harry J. Spanell, accused of killing Butler, is expected to take the stand on his own behalf.

The defense contended the alleged remarks would show the army officer's attitude toward women in general, but Judge Woodward, presiding, ruled the testimony was not admissible.

Several defense character witnesses testified Butler's reputation as to women was "bad" and that of Spanell was good.

Butler and Mrs. Crystal Holland Spannell, wife of the defendant, were shot to death in Spanell's automobile at Alpine, Tex., last July. Spanell has been acquitted of a charge of killing his wife.

PAPER OFFERED BY NORTHCLIFFE

English Publisher to Break Famine in America.

Small Publishers are Assured Adequate Supplies.

Entire Output of Newfoundland Mills Given.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 28.—An adequate supply of news print paper for every American publisher was predicted by the Federal trade Commission today in announcing that Lord Northcliffe, the noted English publisher, probably would turn over to the American Newspapers Publishers' Association for distribution the entire output of his big Newfoundland paper mills. The addition of the 66,000 tons of paper produced annually by the Northcliffe mills, it was said, will break the print paper market and assure small publishers an adequate supply at lower prices.

Suggestions that the United States be permitted to take the production of the Morthcliffe plants were made by the Trade Commission some weeks ago to the British publisher, who accepted, it was said, on condition that the paper go only to small publishers. The commission agreed to this. The paper will be distributed by the Publishers' Association under supervision of the Trade Commission.

The arrangement with Lord Northcliffe, it is said, probably will make it unnecessary to carry out a plan for paper distribution by the Trade Commission, proposed by paper manufacturers some months ago. The plan never was carried out, as manufacturers broke off negotiations when a Federal grand jury brought in indictments against them recently in New York.

AUSTRALIA CALLS FEDERAL ELECTION.

COALITION MINISTRY GOING BEFORE THE VOTERS.

Half of the Seats in the Parliament are to be Contested—Hostility to Present Policies has Grown to Degree that Threatens the Cabinet.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

MELBOURNE (Australia) April 10.—Federal elections will take place in Australia early in May, owing to the insuperable difficulties of the coalition war ministry formed by the Prime Minister, William M. Hughes, a few weeks ago. The government made this announcement last week. Half the Senate seats—namely, eighteen—and all the House of Representatives seats will be contested. The enmity of the Caucus or Official Labor party to Mr. Hughes for having proposed conscription last year is the prime cause of the appeal to the country.

This hostility manifested itself in obstructive tactics in the Senate where, until very lately, the Hughes or coalition forces were slightly outnumbered by the Caucus forces. In the House, however, the coalition had a considerable numerical advantage. The Caucus members in the Senate would not countenance the coalition ministry's choice of Mr. Hughes, Sir John Forrest, the Federal Treasurer, and Sir William Irvine as Australia's delegates to the Imperial War Council in London; nor would they agree to a prolongation for war reasons of the life of Parliament until after the war. In other ways also they showed bitter opposition to legislation proposed by Mr. Hughes and his following.

The hottest fighting of the campaign is expected to be over the Senate seats. The next House, it is thought, will again be pro-Hughes. Each of the six States will elect three Senators. Australian soldiery at the front will have a voice in the election, as was the case over conscription last year.

In general terms, the issues will be Mr. Hughes's war administration, including his advocacy of conscription last year; the attitude of the Official Labor party toward the war and Britain; and Australia's expected part and representation in the war council.

TOKIO, April 25.—Lieut. Hide Sawada, regarded as the ablest pilot of the Japanese army aviation corps, was instantly killed the other day when his machine fell from a great height at Tokozorawa. The cause of the accident is unknown. He recently returned from a study of aviation in France and England. Some Japanese newspapers hint at suicide.

LONDON WOMAN PREACHER.

Immense Crowd Greets Feminine Occupant of Pulpit.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, April 25.—A successful experiment with women in the pulpit was made here the other day, when Miss Maude Royden, daughter of Sir Thomas Royden, Bart, preached the regular Sunday sermon in the City Temple. So large was the crowd that came to hear the first woman to occupy that pulpit that police were required to regulate the throng. Several other churches, deprived of their pastors by the war, are expected to follow the example of the City Temple.

Prepare NOW for War-Time Food Prices

ONE of the first places where the people of the United States are going to feel the effect of this nation's entry into the war is in increased food costs.

This is inevitable. No matter who you are or where you live, you are going to feel it—unless you do something about it right away. What can you do, and how shall you do it? Every man and woman who has room in his yard or who can get the use of a vacant lot near his home to start a garden should think and act right now.

You to whom this idea is new will be surprised to know that the yield from even a small plot of ground will produce enough vegetables to feed a family of five all summer. Figure this out in dollars and cents and you will be surprised at the amount of money a small garden will save you in a single season. Invest the cost of necessary seeds and the small amount of labor required and you will be delighted at the additional goodness you will enjoy in fresh garden truck picked right out of your own patch. Try this plan, beginning now—this month is planting time, and you will find that you will be distinctly benefited physically, yes, and mentally, too—by the wholesome outdoor work of pottering around in the ground among growing things.

And right here is where you will find the new Encyclopaedia Britannica of immense practical value.

Order your Britannica Now or you can NEVER buy it.

Are you surprised at the idea that the Britannica can be of immediate help in such an ordinary undertaking as a garden?

The Encyclopaedia Britannica covers the whole range of agricultural subjects completely from the very foundation of a thorough knowledge of gardening and extending over the widest field.

It will tell you what kind of ground each crop needs. It will tell you how to prepare the ground, how far apart to plant the rows of seeds, when to plant, how to cultivate the ground while things are growing, and it even gives the names of reliable varieties of seeds.

The Britannica describes local crops and any local methods of farming that are of special interest. It contains some 600 articles on individual plants.

The article "Soil" (Vol. 25, p. 345) tells how to make the best quality of soil. The article Manures and Manuring tells about fertilizing, the supplying of ingredients the soil needs to make it most fertile. There are articles on Bacteriology, the effects of Sunlight, Shade, Heat, Cold, Water enough, Drainage, Irrigation, Reclamation of waste land.

There is an article that tells how to fight all kinds of pests from bug and the like to the larger enemies like the rabbit. It is safe to say that any amateur gardener with the help and instruction to be found in the Britannica can multiply his chances of success and the yield from his patch many, many times.

Think of this matter of food supply seriously. It will become very serious if the war runs on.

Every farmer of a dozen acres or many hundreds of acres, growing such staples as wheat, barley, corn, rye, hay, cotton, etc., will be called upon to increase the yield and reliability of his crops. The farmers of big farms will find in the Britannica articles full of information and help to them, for the agricultural articles and articles on correlated subjects are written by agricultural experts of world-renown.

The Britannica is the highest authority in the world for information on all farming subjects, including live stock and the animal industry.

If you have room for poultry, the Britannica articles on Poultry and Poultry Farming will help you to make this a successful economic side line.

Bee keeping and the honey industry is a method of food production that is interesting and practically without expense. People who live in apartment houses in the cities, miles from the country, have kept bees on their roofs successfully and profitably. The Britannica articles on the Bee (Vol. 3, p. 625), and Honey (Vol. 13, p. 776) are complete and instructive.

NOW or NEVER is your only chance to own a set of the Handy Volume Britannica printed on genuine India paper

This is only one phase of the value to you of The Encyclopaedia Britannica. It covers every subject of human knowledge with equal thoroughness and in an equally practical way. It covers every manufacturing subject in every line of trade. It covers every subject of interest to the shop worker, the salesman, the professional man or woman, the student and scholar.

The war's effect will increase the pressure on the pocketbook of every home in America. With the Britannica as a practical help you can materially ease this pressure.

But to own the Britannica—to have this valuable work immediately available, you simply must decide about buying right away. The remaining number of sets of the "Handy Volume" Issue of the Britannica, printed on genuine India paper, are very few. Within two, or at the most three, weeks the last set will be sold.

To help you decide and order while there is a single set left, arrangements have been made with the merchant in your city, whose name and address is printed below, to show a complete set of the "Handy Volume" Issue of the Britannica—and samples of the various bindings, also sample volumes of the superb Cambridge issue (the large type, large page, more expensive form). Go today to this store—examine the complete set, see the bindings, learn the prices, learn the plan of buying on conveniently small monthly payments, prove to yourself once and finally whether or not the Britannica will be useful and helpful. Then, if you decide to buy, leave your order right there in the store. IF YOU DO THIS TODAY YOU WILL BE IN TIME FOR ONE OF THESE LAST SETS.

It is NOW or NEVER for you to decide about buying.

If you cannot go to this store or if you already know that the Britannica will prove a help and of practical use to you, sign and send us today the Reserve Order Form which is a part of this announcement. We are not going to have nearly enough sets to fill all the orders we will receive in the next few weeks. We could sell many thousand more sets if the papermakers could get the flax from Belgium, Germany or Ireland and the hemp from Russia—two raw materials necessary to make genuine India paper. Because these two products are unobtainable, the publishers cannot print any more sets of the "Handy Volume" Britannica on this wonderful paper.

NOW or NEVER

Remember—if you do not decide NOW you will NEVER be able to buy at all. Therefore—You must go to the store named below, see the books, decide and order—OR sign and mail the "Reserve" Order Form. There is no time to write for information—because the last set will be sold before you can get the printed descriptive matter, read it, make up your mind about buying and get your order in.

To be sure, you should act TODAY.

Those who cannot go to this store may use this "Reserve" Order Form, which will be legally binding upon us to reserve one set for you, just the same as if you orderd it in person.

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO., Chicago, Ill.

Please reserve me a set of the "Handy Volume" Encyclopaedia Britannica, printed on genuine India paper. I enclose $1.00 as first payment. Send me an order form which I agree to sign and return immediately.

DECLARE TRACY FIRED THE SHOT

I.W.W. Prisoner Seen Aboard the Steamer Verona.

Defense Closes its Case at Tried in Seattle.

Another Week Ahead Before it Goes to the Jury.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, April 28.—Shortly after Thomas H. Tracy, who is on trial charged with the murder of Jefferson Beard, concluded his testimony this morning, the defense closed its case. The feature of Tracy's testimony was his admission that, as the steamer Verona put in at the Everett city dock on November 5, 1916, he was seated in the Verona's cabin, beside the second window back of the door on the port side. It was from about that location that four witnesses for the State declared they saw Tracy shoot during the battle at the dock.

On the Verona that day was a party of Industrial Workers of the World, of which Tracy was one, who had come to Everett to hold a street meeting at a corner where an Everett city ordinance forbade such meetings. Beard was killed during a battle at the dock.

Tracy's testimony was otherwise featureless. He denied he had fired any shots from the cabin window or anywhere else, declaring he had no firearms of any description with him. He said he had joined the I.W.W. only about a month before the Everett affray and was put in charge of the Everett hall shortly after joining.

The case is not likely to go to the jury until about May 8 or 9. The introduction of rebuttal testimony, the arguments and the judge's charge to the jury are likely to consume seven days at least.

MEXICO TAKES RAILROAD.

Recent Order Said to be Due to Inadequate Service.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

MEXICO CITY, April 25.—The cause of the taking over of the Mexican Railway between Mexico City and Vera Cruz by the government recently for a second time was the failure of the company to furnish troop trains promptly, according to an official now a member of the government operating force. This delay made it almost impossible, it was said, for government troops to overtake the bandits which have been operating along the line of the railroad. It is also reported that telegraphers employed by the company were suspected of being in communication with the bandits. The road was taken by the government more than two years ago under plea of military necessity, but was returned to the stockholders about six months before its second delivery to the government.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, April 15.—The four tiers of seats in the House of Lords which before the war were occupied by the diplomatic representatives of Germany, Austro-Hungary, Turkey and Bulgaria, have now been assigned permanently to the official representatives in London of the self-governing dominions, Canada, Australia and South Africa. Heretofore no regular seats have been at their disposal, although some of them, who had been appointed privy councillors by the King, had the privy-councillors' right to sit on the steps of the throne.

Los Angeles Girl Injured when Two Pack Trains Meet Upon the Sturtevant Trail and She is Knocked Off Her Animal.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SIERRA MADRE, April 28.—The 7-year-old daughter of H. M. Lieb, manager of the Sherwood & Sherwood Company in Los Angeles, was injured on the mountain trail this afternoon.

Mr. Lieb, with his wife and four children, were proceeding up Sturtevant trail to the Santa Anita Canyon, mounted on burros, with a pack burro in the outfit carrying provisions and equipment for an outing trip. According to Mr. Lieb, when about three miles up the party met a government pack train of seven burros heading for the bottom of the trail. The government burros swept down upon the Lieb party, knocking the little girl from her burro, and shoving the Lieb pack burro over the cliff. The girl rolled about thirty feet and sustained serious bruises. The pack burro was thrown into a deep canyon forty or fifty feet below, where it was found dead.

John Boyd, the owner of the burros, claims that the forest ranger broke Supervisor Charlton's rule prohibiting pack trains from leaving certain points except at specified times. The accident occurred at 1:30 o'clock and, he says, pack trains are not supposed to start down the trail before 3 o'clock.

ILLUSION OF THE UMBRELLA.

Shelter of the Head and Face Satisfies the Individual in a Rain.

[Boston Transcript:] The psychology of the umbrella is worth studying. It does not really, of course, protect the individual from the rain. It does little more than shelter his head. The rain strikes his legs and his body just the same. But it saves the rain from striking one's face, which is disagreeable. It gives a certain illusion of shelter, and thus shelters the psychology more than it does the body. We now have waterproofed clothing, which is a much more effective protection than the umbrella, but people go on buying and using umbrellas just the same. Their bodies do not really need them, but their minds have become accustomed to them. Meanwhile letter carriers and policemen go without them, and do not seem to get any wetter than other people do.

It is probable that a colored umbrella protects a woman's psychology in a rainstorm better than a black umbrella would. Having chosen the color in accordance with fashion and her own taste in tints, she has, as it were, a canopy of consciousness over her, affording her a fine protection. On the other hand, a black umbrella is a better protection for a man's psychology than a colored one would be. A red umbrella over the average man, now, would seem to him to gather all the rain drops from the Hoosac range to Mt. Desert, and precipitate them upon his egregious head.

The Acid Test

The local advertiser—the man on the ground—is far and away the best judge of advertising values.

¶ It is practically impossible for any newspaper to long deceive any considerable number of business men in its home city as regards the result-getting powers of its advertising columns.

¶ Therefore, it follows that the best proof and most conclusive evidence of the efficiency of the advertising columns of the various Los Angeles newspapers is the extent to which they are used by local men and women who depend upon newspaper advertising for the success of their business ventures.

¶ Every year, without a single exception, for more than a quarter of a century. The Times has led all of its local contemporaries by a wide margin in the volume of display and classified advertising printed, as well as in the number of separate advertisements.

ABYSSINIA CROWNS EMPRESS ZEODITO.

NEW RULER FORMALLY GIVEN CHIEF POST IN KINGDOM.

Church and State Take Part in the Ceremonies, Which Conclude with Procession to Palace and Banquet to the Court—Europeans Excluded from Coronation.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

ADIS ABEBA (Abyssinia) April 10.—The coronation of the new Empress of Abyssinia, Zeodito, was marked by a week's holiday for everybody in the country. It was particularly an occasion of rejoicing for those who owed the government a good-sized tax bill, for the Empress, in a special coronation day edict, exempted all taxpayers from arrears and pardoned all criminals who were still at large.

The outside world was represented at the festivities of coronation week by the ministers of the Entente powers and a handful of Europeans living in Adis Abeba. No European was allowed to be present at the actual crowning, which took place at the unusual hour of 4 a.m. at the state Cathedral of St. George. The ceremonies here were somewhat protracted, and it was 8:30 when the Empress, wearing her crown, emerged from the cathedral and took her seat on a throne in the courtyard of the cathedral. Here the diplomatic corps and foreign guests were seated on one side of the platform, while the native chiefs and ministers of state occupied the other side. Two Princesses had places of honor on either side of Her Majesty, while on the steps of the throne stood the Regent, Ras Tafari, and Ras Kassa, a cousin of the late King Menelek.

The diplomatic corps, followed by the European colony and the Abyssinian chiefs, passed in single file before the Empress, bowed ceremoniously, and resumed their seats. Then the Bishop of Abyssinia made the oration of the day, describing the events that had led to the dethronement of Emperor Lidj Yassou and the proclamation of Princess Zeodito as Empress, and expressing the hope that the reign of "this illustrious daughter of the illustrious Menelek" would be marked by prosperity and peace.

The Empress replied by reading a proclamation inviting her people to bring their complaints to her personal attention.

At the close of the speech-making there was a spectacular procession from the cathedral to the royal palace. The distance is nearly two miles, and the procession took two and a half hours to cover it. The whole route was splendidly decorated with triumphal arches erected every few yards. A detachment of cavalry led by the Minister of War marshalled the procession, followed by a military band, infantry and artillery. The state coach, drawn by eight white horses, was preceded by carriages bearing the maids of honor and the women of the legations.

On each side of the coach stood a page whose duty was to receive and return all the salutes of the crowd, thus sparing the Empress a certain amount of trouble. The carriage was escorted by three men on horseback, the three most powerful nobles in the empire. Behind the state carriage came the bishop, and then the diplomatic corps and guests, all on horseback.

The parade reached the royal palace in time for a four-hour banquet, concluding the festivities of the first day.

Benzol in Plenty.

When the European war broke out this country made very litle benzol, because it was cheaper to use substitutes or get it abroad, while the local demand was not heavy in any event. The war changed this. Benzol is absolutely necessary in making aniline dyes, and is more largely used in manufacturing high explosives, which have suddenly become important in warfare.

Benzol is largely a by-product of coke, and millions of tons of it go up with the smoke every year. Now coking plants all over the country, especially in Pennsylvania, are rapidly installing apparatus which make it easy and profitable to conserve the benzol. From manufacturing a small quantity, which was generally used to enrich illuminating gas, the country now produces 40,000,000 gallons of benzol a year and will soon be able to provide 50,000,000.

This is a pleasing commercial development on any grounds, but it will be of the highest importance in case we should go to war. It is a sort of military preparedness which has been going on in a commercial way. It promises to make this country practically independent in the matter of dyes and of explosives, and is capable of almost indefinite extension.

ALFOUR TO BE TOLD AMERICAN IRISH VIEWS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

W YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, April 28.—The United Irish League of America has a special meeting of its National Executive Committee to be in Washington Thursday to to the attention of Arthur J. r, British Foreign Secretary, sentiment of Americans of Irish on home rule.

Michael J. Ryan of Philadelphia, president of the league, ordered the conference on receipt of a communication from John Redmond, the home-rule champion in the Commons, that the time had come for Americans to throw their strength to the home-rule cause.

The call was sent out locally by Magistrate Matthew P. Breen, chairman of the New York county delegates of the National Executive Committee, today. The other members from Manhattan are Mayor Mitchel, Patrick Egan (former Minister to Chile,) W. Bourke Cockran, Stephen McPharland, Dr. John G. Coyle and Dr. Joseph P. Brennan.

With American and British interests identical since the United States' entrance into the war, and with American opinion backing home rule, Magistrate Breen sees a day of rejoicing in Erin near.

"The chances never looked brighter," said the magistrate. "I firmly believe Ireland will have home rule within a year."

The Friends of Irish Freedom, of which Jeremiah O'Leary is one of the guiding lights, heads the Irish faction opposed to the United League. Mr. O'Leary today doubted that any great good to Ireland would spring from Thursday's meeting, but joined in the hopeful chorus that home rule at last is on the way.

SEA DELIVERS DEATH WORDS.

Bottle Bears a Message of Submarine's Action.

Young Texan Pencils Words to His Parents.

Picked up Ashore, it is Sent Across to Family.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

AUSTIN (Tex.) April 26.—By means of a message written and placed in a bottle by Robert D. Watson, 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Watson of Austin, his parents learned a few days ago of his tragic death—a victim of a German submarine, somewhere in the broad Atlantic. The farewell words that were written by young Watson as his steamship, Frederick, of Baltimore, upon which he was a seaman, was sinking, were found in a bottle that was washed ashore in the Orkney Islands, at the north of Scotland. In the same bottle were messages from eight other members of the ill-fated vessel's crew.

The parents of Watson received the message of their son through British and United States diplomatic channels. When the bottle was found in the Orkneys some one there opened it. When the nature of its contents were discovered it was resealed and sent on its way to the British Foreign Office at London. Arthur J. Balfour, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, transmitted the messages to Ambassador Page with the suggestion that they might be conveyed to the persons addressed, in the States. They were sent on to the Secretary of State at Washington, and the missive from Bob Watson reached his parents from the Department of Commerce.

THE MESSAGE.

Following is the message from the young man:

"Going down on the S. S. Frederick within half-hour. Last call: Notify Daniel Watson, No. 505 West Tenth street, Austin, Tex. Bob Watson, his loving son."

"LONDON, Feb. 28, 1917.

"The Secretary of State,

"Washington:

"Sir, I have the honor to inclose herewith, for disposition as the department may consider proper, nine original messages from members of the crew of the S. S. Frederick of Baltimore, which were found in a bottle washed ashore in the Orkneys, and which I have just received from the Foreign Office under cover of the accompanying note. I have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant,

And here is the note to the Ambassador from the Foreign Minister at London:

"The Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs presents his compliments to the United States Ambassador and has the honor to transmit herewith nine original messages from members of the crew of the S. S. Frederick of Baltimore, which were found in a bottle washed ashore in the Orkneys. The Secretary of State would suggest to His Excellency that it might be possible to forward these messages to the relatives of the writers. Foreign Office, February 26, 1917."

It appears that Bob Watson was an adventurous spirit and a lover of the sea from his early years, for he shipped at Galveston as helper to a ship's cook at the age of 12 or 13. The last letter his parents received from him was written at Halifax, Nova Scotia, in January, 1916, where his ship was coaling for a trip to Bergen, Norway.

MONEY FROM GARBAGE.

Worcester (Mass.) Clears Forty Thousand Dollars a Year.

[Worcester Telegram:] It has been stated that the feeding of pigs on Worcester garbage means an income of $40,000 a year to the city, which nearly pays for collecting the garbage and putting it out of the way under the regulations which are necessary for the proper sanitary conditions in this community. And that therefore, the city government must find some place on the outside to feed the pigs. The must in that case is a matter of making or losing the value of $40,000 a year, according to the statement, which has not been officially denied. Then the basis of rebuttal must be means for getting the $40,000 a year by some other process, at least until the figures are liberally revised or corrected. The city of Austin in Texas is doing better than that by its process of turning the garbage into fuel. It does not have to hunt for a pig pasture inside or outside its city limits. Forty citizens formed a company and made a contract to remove all the city garbage and other waste materials and pay the city for the privilege, under a guarantee to commit no nuisance in gathering or handling any of the waste. Everything is taken to a place at which a factory has been established. All the non-inflammable materials are taken out of the mass of waste and some of that is sold and the balance used to round out the surface of the earth. The garbage and all other reducable material is mixed with a certain proportion of coal slack, steamed in creosote and thus reduced to a pulp, and then molded into bricks of about two pounds weight each and dried by nature. Then the bricks are sold for $6.50 a ton, and they burn satisfactorily in any kind of heater designed for coal combustion, giving out heat units measured at 12,000 as compared with the best oak wood at 8000 units. It requires a ton of waste to make a ton of fuel brick, the coal slack making up the loss of weight by drying, so far as reported from Austin. The coal slack is not expensive, being bought for much less than $2 a ton. Worcester apparently pays more than $40,000 a year for the removal of garbage alone annually. In Austin the company pays for the privilege of carrying away all the waste and makes money out of the brick fuel it sells. That disposes of vast quantities of waste which individuals have to haul away on their own account, including ashes and paper and many other materials. The economy of the Austin system must be vastly greater than the best Worcester has ever done with its system of feeding pigs and killing the neighbors with vile odors. Worcester should be wiser than a Texas city. There are many Worcester men in Texas. Get some of them to find out in Austin what about the waste materials before they leave the Mexican border. Soldiers might bring home valuable information.

STOP CALOMEL! TAKE DODSON'S LIVER TONE

New Discovery! Takes Place of Dangerous Calomel—It Puts Your Liver to Work Without Making You Sick—Eat Anything—It Cannot Salivate—Don't Lose a Day's Work,

I discovered a vegetable compound that does the work of dangerous, sickening calomel and I want every reader of this paper to try a bottle and if it doesn't straighten you up better and quicker than salivating calomel just go back to the store and get your money.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your thirty feet of bowels of the sour bile and constipation poison which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable.

I guarantee that one spoonful of this harmless liquid liver medicine will relieve the headache, biliousness, coated tongue, ague, malaria, sour stomach or any other distress caused by a torpid liver as quickly as a dose of vile, nauseating calomel, besides it will not make you sick or keep you from a day's work. I want to see a bottle of this wonderful liver medicine in every home here.

Calomel is poison—it's mercury—it attacks the bones, often causing rheumatism. Calomel is dangerous. It sickens—while my Dodson's Liver Tone is safe, pleasant and harmless. Eat anything afterwards, because it cannot salivate. Give it to the children because it doesn't upset the stomach or shock the liver. Take a spoonful tonight and wake up feeling fine and ready for a full day's work.

Get a bottle! Try it! If it doesn't do exactly what I say, tell your dealer to hand your money back. Every druggist and storekeeper here knows me and knows of my wonderful discovery of a vegetable medicine that takes the place of dangerous calomel,

As a means of inculcating a spirit of thrift and developing money-making and money-saving habits in Los Angeles boys and girls, The Times Circulation Department, until further notice, will buy and pay cash at the rate of one cent a pound for complete old copies of The Times delivered at The Times Office, corner First and Broadway.

This offer applies to old copies of The Times only. No other paper will be accepted.

Times subscribers can earn approximately 15 cents a month for their favorite charity by the sale of 30 copies of the daily and Sunday Times; and boys and girls can earn considerable spending money by collecting old copies of this newspaper from friends and neighbors.

Church societies, benevolent associations and other charitable organizations can increase their incomes by taking advantage of this offer.

Bring or send all of your old copies of The Times to the Times Circulation Department, where they will be paid for in cash at the rate of one cent a pound, or $20 a ton.

Out-of-town subscribers to The Times may make arrangements with the nearest Times agent for the sale of old copies of this newspaper.

All papers must be free from dirt and in good general condition, as well as properly folded and tied in bundles.

Arizona.

MAY FIX PRICE FOR WOOL MEN.

Arizona Committee Considers Possible Figures.

Unusual Activity Reported by Cattle Raisers.

County Seat Removal Issue of Cochise Voters.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FLAGSTAFF (Ariz.) April 21.—State Senator Hugh Campbell has returned from Washington, where he attended a meeting of a special committee called to consider the price that should be put on western wools in the event of their seizure by the government, should such a course be determined upon in the interest of conservation of national products. It was agreed that a fair price would run between 40 and 50 cents, for Ariona unscoured wools, being the quotations on April 1, in the Boston market. Only three men had been summoned from the West, including Mr. Campbell, President Hagenbarth of the National Wool Growers' Association, from Idaho, and President Wilson of the Wyomi Wool Growers' Association. Also represented was the dealers' end of the wool industry, including jobbers and manufacturers from Chicago and Boston.

F. A. Boulin is preparing for an experiment he believes will be profitable. Instead of driving south next winter, he will keep and comfortably house 1000 head of sheep proposing to feed them during four months of the coldest weather. The feed is to be corn fodder, kept in a large silo. He believes the novel move will work for economy and that the wool will be longer, cleaner and finer. Nathan Barth has transferred his ranches near St. Johns, with about 6000 head of sheep, to the Tucker-Church Company, for an understood consideration of $60,000.

ALL LIVE STOCK HIGHER.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) April 21.—With the price of all live stock higher than ever before known in Arizona, an unusual degree of activity is noted in the cattle raising industry. A few days ago the West Coast Cattle Company purchased the interests of Bernable Robles for $250,000, the sale including four patented ranches, established at least thirty years ago, situated about twenty-five miles west of Tucson, together with around 10,000 head of cattle. It was told at the time that the transfer had been made because the ranches had been separated by a part of the newly-created Papago reservation. The cattle range is not to be abandoned, however. The property has just been transfered, for an announced consideration of $300,000, to Craft and Madero of El Paso and John T. McCaleb of the Citizens National Bank of El Paso. Transfer was upon report of W. R. Franklin of El Paso. One of the purchasers is Emilio Madero, brother of the murdered late president of Mexico, formerly a cotton operator in the Torreon district.

AGUIRRE RANCH BOUGHT.

The large Aguirre ranch between Red Rock and Sasco, lately was bought by John C. Gatti of Clifton, who, it is understood, will move the cattle to his own locality.

Albert Tankersley of El Paso, has purchased a large number of cattle from ranchers wset of the Santa Cruz in Santa Cruz county, paying up to $40 a head.

S. F. Meguire of Douglas, has purchased, for $43,000, the Maxey and Morrison ranges in the Owl Heads section, of Tucson.

The duty on cattle from Sonora has been rased to $15 a head, resulting in practical prohibition of further imports.

Fat alfalfa steers have risen in prices to 11 cents a pound on the cars at Arizona points, while the spring alfalfa crop has started in the valley at not less than $15 a ton.

COCHISE COUNTY ISSUE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) April 21.—County seat removal will go before the voters of Cochise county, submission assured by the filing of a petition signed by more than 3400 voters, or more than a third of the county vote for Governor at the last election. This movement has centered in Douglas, to which point it is hoped to move the Courthouse from Tombstone. There is little doubt, if the fight were permitted to lie between Tombstone and Douglas, that this city would win by a decisive majority, for the present site is remote and expensive to reach from the more thickly populated sections. But Bisbee has started a movement to secure the Courthouse for Warren, her suburb, and thus may throw the vote plurality to Tombstone. Still another movement is on foot, to set off the northern part in another county, with the county seat at Willcox. This idea is not viewed with animosity in the south, though the county proposed would take away much taxable railroad property, including all the Southern Pacific main line and many miles of the Southwestern system.

LELEVIER'S REPORT.

Mexican Consul I. G. Lelivier, just returned from Hermosillo, reports a remarkable revival of industry in Sonora. Crops of all sorts have been good and the produce, including oranges, is being shipped mainly by water from Guaymas. The Yaquis are quiet and nothing of the Mexican war seems to be in evidence. Galles and de la Huerta are establishing agricultural and industrial schools, though the state revenues are curtailed materially by the lack of revenue from liquor licenses, for Sonora is "dry." The talk of German plotting is declared absurd. Public attention is concentrated upon the state election, which will be held May 13.

CHINESE ARRESTED.

An echo of the slaying of Lee Chung in Chinatown on April 16 reached the Sheriff's office last night in the arrest of two Chinese suspects, Yung Shang and Lem Fung. Shang is charged with murder and Fung is to be held on suspicion. They were brought to this city late last night by Constable Roger Woodbury on warrants issued by the District Attorney. The two Chinese had been in hiding near Big Bear Lake in the San Bernardino Mountains and were arrested by the Sheriff of San Bernardino county on their way out. Lee Chung was shot to death by three of his countrymen in a Chinese waiters' clubroom.

PORT'S GROWTH AMAZES THEM.

Business Men Forsake Desks to Inspect Harbor.

Facilities for Shipping not Fully Appreciated.

Swivel-chair Management Can be Well Supplemented.

Nearly 100 members of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association yesterday afternoon inspected the city's work at the harbor and were astounded at the development.

The trip was made in automobiles, the plant of the American Trona Corporation, where potash deposits from Searles Lake in the Owens Valley are to be refined, being the first stop. This plant is located at Point Fermin, the bluff overlooking the outer harbor.

The big six-story warehouse on municipal dock No. 1 was then visited, the party being taken through both the warehouse and transit freight shed and shown the methods of operation. Freight received by steamers will be sorted in the transit freight shed and taken to the warehouse on electric trucks. Sixteen electric hoists have been provided to convey the freight to the various lofts in the warehouse. There are nearly twelve acres of floor space in the warehouse, which will be leased by the city merchants and manufacturers. Here goods may be stored for shipment and sent direct from the warehouse by rail. Tracks run into the warehouse and elevators are provided to take the goods from the lofts to the loading platforms in the basement.

PERSONAL INSPECTION VITAL.

"We have simply been astounded at the development at the harbor," said President E. G. Judah after the inspection. "Trips like this demonstrate that we must get away from swivel-chair management. We read in the press about the harbor work, but few of us ever have realized what has been done there. The warehouse is the finest I have ever seen. It demonstrates that we have the facilities for doing business at the harbor and all that remains is to take advantage of them as soon as we can get water competition restored.

"I am trying to impress upon our members the advantage of getting out of their offices and see what is going on in the city. The day is past when we can do business entirely from the office. When we get out and see the development of the city, we can go back to do better work than ever.

"It is astonishing how few business men in the city have any comprehensive idea of what the harbor has to offer in the way of facilities for shipping. It will be to the advantage of every merchant to familiarize himself with the storage facilities that have been provided so that he will be better able to meet competition from other commercial centers.

HARBOR NOT APPRECIATED.

"Los Angeles has passed the stage of purely local development. Many of our products are now nationally advertised and sold in foreign markets. To meet competition from other points we must utilize every possible advantage. One of the biggest advantages we have is in the harbor and some of us never have really appreciated it until today."

Following the visit to the outer harbor warehouse a trip was made over the new Harbor boulevard to municipal pier A in the inner harbor, where the launch Imperial was boarded for a ride around the harbor. The big bascule bridge of the Southern Pacific was lifted for the launch and a trip made into the west basin, where the $1,500,000 plant of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Drydock Company and the refinery of the Union Oil Company will be built.

FEAST A SURPRISE.

Banquet is Tendered Newly-named Assistant Merchandise Head of Broadway Department Store by Six Score Fellow Workers.

As an expression of regret at losing him, but with joy and pride at his promotion, the sales people in the basement division of the Broadway Department Store last night gave a banquet in honor of J. D. Russell. After years of successful service as superintendent of the basement department, Mr. Russell has been promoted to the position of assistant merchandise manager.

The banquet was a complete surprise to the honor guest. He was brought up to the banquet-room, which was dark, by one of the employees and as he entered the door the lights were turned on. Then he realized just how much he was honored by fellow-employees.

Out of 130 people in the basement department, 120 were present. Every person in that branch, high and low, was invited, and even George and James, the colored help, were given a table in one end of the banquet-room.

The tables were loaded with flowers, brought by the sales people from their homes. To give the banquet a patriotic air, huge American flags were used every where about the room and tiny colors were seen in the table decorations. A. H. Wilson was toastmaster and A. B. Davidson gave the invocation. Just before the meal was served everybody arose and joined in singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

FIGHT OVER ESTATE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, April 28.—Following immediately after the closing up of the estate of the late Charles H. Johnson, who left bequests amounting to approximately $150,000, suit was filed yesterday in the Superior Court by Alfred B. Johnson, one of the heirs, against Rodney V. Johnson, also named as an heir. The plaintiff seeks a resettlement of the estate, alleging that certain agreements between himself and the defendant in regard to dividing the property have not been lived up to.

BARRETT JURY IS STILL OUT.

Stands Nine to Three After Twelve Hours; Which Way not Stated.

The jury in the case of Benton L. Barrett of Santa Monica, charged with having slain and burned the bodies of his wife and stepson, reported to Judge Willis in Department Seventeen of the Superior Court at 11 o'clock last night that the count stood nine to three. No statement as to whether for conviction or acquittal was permitted. The jury at that time had been out twelve hours.

Judge Willis then ordered the jury locked up for the night and adjourned court until this morning at 9 o'clock. The jury began its deliberations after six alternate pleas by the attorneys had been made for acquittal and conviction. The features of the trial yesterday were the addresses of Dist.-Atty. Woolwine of the prosecution and ex-Judge Sample and Attorney Morton for the defense.

SHRINERS' SHOW TO BE HUMMER.

AUCTION OF BOXES IS TO BE HELD WEDNESDAY.

Many City Organizations are Boosting for Success of Big Minstrels, the Proceeds from Which will be Turned Over to the Red Cross Society.

Bearing the hearty indorsement of the Chamber of Commerce, the clearinghouse, the Jonathan and Athletic clubs, the Red Cross and the Shrine itself, plans were completed yesterday for the coming auction sale of boxes for the big Shrine Red Cross minstrels to be given in the Mason Operahouse the week of May 7.

The auction will be held in the lobby of the Alexandria Hotel at noon next Wednesday and Thursday. The boxes will be offered to the highest bidders, and if not all purchased Wednesday the sale will be resumed on Thursday.

The first day, however, may dispose of all, as each organization named above has selected a night of its own and will boost the auction. The Athletic Club has drawn Monday night for its own; the Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday; the clearinghouse, Wednesday; the Red Cross, Thursday; the Jonathan Club, Friday, and the Shrine itself, Saturday.

Members of these organizations will, in so far as is possible, obtain their box reservations for these specified nights. Every cent raised from this sale, as well as all the ticket proceeds, will be net for the local Red Cross to be expended here.

Details of these plans and many others regarding the auction, such as having Gov. Stephens to open the auction and make the first offer before introducing the half-dozen or more auctioneers, were arranged at a luncheon tendered those having the matter in charge at the California Club yesterday by Dr. W. Jarvis Barlow. Those present included:

Red Cross, Mmes. Hancock Banning, E. L. Doheny, M. J. Connell, W. Jarvis Barlow; Chamber of Commerce, Frank Wiggins, Louis M. Cole; clearinghouse, Stoddard Jess, E. D. Roberts, J. C. Drake, J. F. Sartori; Athletic Club, R. A. Rowan, G. E. Bergstrom; Jonathan Club, John C. Austin, Sylvester Weaver, John Kemp; Al Malaikah Temple Shrine, Marco H. Hellman, R. A. Heffner. Dr. W. Jarvis Barlow, chairman; Stoddard Jess, vice-chairman, and W. Hamilton Cline.

The big minstrel show itself is about ready for the curtain. The men are thoroughly up in their roles, the olio is shaping and the girls for the finale are abandoning all social obligations and devoting their attention strictly to drills, of which another will be held tomorrow night. Scores of offers from amateurs and professionals alike give the show committee plenty of material from which to select. The olio is to be different every night with some real stars likely to burst quite unexpectedly into the calcium from evening to evening.

The ticket sale and exchange will be at the Mason box office, to begin next Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

Motion-picture Clan Gathers at a "Patriotic" Dinner-dance, with Veteran Soldiers, Flags and Tableau to Carry Out Martial Idea.

The presence of half a dozen old soldiers from Sawtelle, the American flag for decoration and a tableau, entitled the Spirit of '76, made a suggestive setting for the patriotic dinner-dance, given last night in the ballroom of the Alexandria by the Motion Picture Directors' Association.

Long tables were set around the edge of the ballroom and were beautifully trimmed with garlands of roses in which were twined miniature American flags Covers were laid for 100 guests.

Mayor Woodman was the honor guest. The Mayor, Earl Rogers and Guy Price spoke. During the evening several vaudeville numbers were put on. William D. Taylor is director of the organization, Roy Clements is secretary and Charles Swickard, treasurer.

Railroad Commission Order Emphasizes Necessity.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—The California State Railroad Commission today authorized all public utility water companies in California to deliver their surplus water free or at reduced rates for the irrigation of additional lands to raise food products during the war emergency.

The commission's formal order followed its call for a conference yesterday with representatives of water utilities, when it was brought out that the utilities were ready to supply water free or at less than established rates provided their rights were safeguarded and that water companies throughout California have surplus water available for the irrigation of thousands of additional acres on which food crops can be raised.

In its order the commission emphasized the need of prompt co-operation between land owners, irrigators and water utilities and mentioned that there "will be a great demand for labor to take care of and harvest the crops."

In its announcement the commission declared that a number of water utilities which serve water in cities and towns have filed within the last few days substantial reductions in rates for water used in large quantities "so as to encourage kitchen gardening and the cultivation of vacant lots."

Water companies shall deliver this emergency water as long as the crop for which the water is requested needs irrigation, but in no event for more than six months after the war is over, the announcement concluded.

DOCUMENT REDATES TO BONDS FOR TWELVE MILLIONS.

Permission of Department of Justice at Washington for the Two Companies to Join is Delayed on Account of War Matters Occupying Attention.

The Southern California Telephone Company filed with County Clerk Lelande yesterday the certificate of the original creation of bonded indebtedness, a step preliminary to the consolidation of the Home and the Sunset telephone companies. The certificate calls for $12,000,000 5 per cent. bonds, authorized by the State Railroad Commission.

Permission of the Department of Justice in Washington for the merger, necessary to the plan, has not been received as yet. The State Railroad Commission's decision and the action of the city of Los Angeles have already been obtained. It was announced that of the $12,000,000 bonds authorized, $8,270,000 will be used for the purchase of the property of the Home Telephone Company. The rest of the bonds will be issued for extensions and betterments, directed by the State Railroad Commission in supplemental orders.

The merger has been delayed for weeks owing to the great problems arising out of war conditions occupying the entire time of the Department of Justice at Washington. It is expected that the permission of the department will not much longer be delayed, and that the Southern California Telephone Company will begin active operations.

...ting that America should ...diately set about raising a ... army on the principle of universal obligatory military training ... service and declaring that it ... require a long time to train ... army, Mr. Roosevelt declared:

"... most emphatically, we ... not rest content with this. ... should not rest content with ... preparing an army to act a ... or eighteen months or two ... hence. Let us put the flag ... firing line at the earliest possible moment, this summer, wherever our services are most needed ... France or Flanders or the ... peninsula. It need only be ... army at first. But even a ... would be better than nothing. Then we can constantly keep ... division filled, and other divisions from time to time added to ... a year hence, if the war ..., we have a really formidable fighting force at the front, a ... force which will be steadily ... month by month, year by ... until the triumph comes.

"... to see the system of ... service used in order to ... all men serve who ought to ... But do not hinder men, who, ... conscription, would be entitled to stay at home, from volunteering to go to the front if they ... render good service. Under the ... proposed to Congress by the ... Department, many millions of ... fighting men would be exempted from service, while a long time ... elapse before the others are ... the front. Under these conditions we ought to use the volunteer system to fill the gap; it opens ... at once a great possibility; let ... used, and used exclusively, to give to those who would otherwise be exempt an opportunity to go to the front without claiming exemption.

WOULD AVOID DELAYS.

"I most earnestly hope that we shall avoid any policy of delay. Congress has passed, without a dissenting vote, a bill to appropriate $7,000,000,000 as representing part of our contribution to the great war. This is fine; but only on condition that we also put our men into the fighting line. Half of this great sum is to go to the Allies; that is, it is to be spent by them in getting their men up against the German and Austrian and Turkish shells and bullets. Now, we Americans have always prided ourselves on being able to do our own fighting. It is right to help others to fight in the common cause for which we are engaged. But it is even more necessary that we should fight ourselves.

"It would be an evil thing, a lasting calamity to this country, if the war ended, and found us merely preparing an army in safety at home, without having sent a man to the firing line; merely having paid some billions of dollars to other people so that with the bodies of their sons and brothers they might keep us in safety.

"I ask that we send a fighting force over to the firing line at the earliest possible moment, and I ask it in the name of our children and our children's children, so that they may hold their heads high over the memory of what this nation did in the world's great crisis. I ask it for reasons of national morality no less than for our material self-interest. I ask it for the sake of our self-respect, our self-esteem. Our children will have to read the history of what we have done during this war. Let us make the chapter that yet remains to be written one that our children shall read with pride; and they will read it only with a feeling of self-abasement unless they read that in the times that tried men's souls we have shown valor and endurance and proud indifference to life when the honor of the flag and the welfare of mankind were at stake.

LESSON TO GERMANS.

"At the earliest possible moment send an expeditionary force abroad, show our German foes and our Allied friends that we are in this war in deadly earnest, that we have put the flag on the firing line, and that we shall steadily increase the force behind that flag to any limit necessary in order to bring the peace of victory in this great contest for democracy, for civilization and for the rights of free peoples.

"Now that we are at war, let us make it a real war, not a make-believe war, not a war of limited liability. We have walked into the ring, and now we must fight. No fight ever was won yet except by hitting. We have gone into the fight; we have determined to hit, and we must not hit soft.

"We owe our safety at this moment to the British fleet and the French and British armies. I, for one, am not content to rest under that kind of obligation, and I do not believe that my fellow-countrymen are content to rest under it. I wish to see us owe our safety to our own strength and our own courage and to the respect we inspire in our foe. We shall inspire no respect if we merely try to parry that foe's blows and not to return them. The only way in which we can return them is by immediately sending an expeditionary force to fight in Europe. It would be a scandal and a shame if the war ended now with our part in it limited to having furnished dollars behind the shield of other men's bodies. We are in the war. Let us fight it through ourselves, with our own strength and courage, to a triumphant conclusion.

APPEAL TO ALL.

"This is the appeal I make especially to the men and women of the West. I do not merely ask you to go to the front, you men of the West, or to cheer your men when they go, you women. I also ask you to see that I am given the high privilege of making my words good by my deeds and going to the front with you. I have asked leave to be allowed to raise a division to take to the front in the first expeditionary force, under the commander of that force—a division which, after two or three months' preliminary training here, can be taken for intensive training to France, and then put into the trenches at the earliest possible moment that the Allied generals deem it fit to render service. I ask that I be allowed to join with others who feel as I do in making good the President's message.

"I ask that I, and those dearest to me and closest to me by blood, shall be given the chance to prove the truth of our endeavor and be sent at the earliest possible moment under the flag to the firing line.

"I do not ask for men in the classes which would be taken under the administration's plan for an army raised under the obligatory system. I ask for men who would not otherwise be allowed to go. The force I propose to raise would represent an absolute addition to the nation's military strength, an addition which could be used at once, which would serve to put the flag and keep the flag on the firing line during the time that the great army was itself being raised, and while our flag would otherwise not be on the firing line. The favor I ask is the great favor of being allowed to render a service which I believe my record entitles me to say that I am able to render."

PAY FOR STUDENTS AT TRAINING CAMPS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—A telegram from Congressman Julius Kahn from Washington received by the Military Training Camp Association, Western Department, here late today advises specifically that the army appropriation bill will make provision for pay of those who attend reserve officers' training camps.

This pay is to be at least $100 per month per individual and in the case of those who already hold commissions in the officers' reserve corps, it will be that of the grade in which the commission is held.

WILL HELP RED CROSS.

It was announced yesterday that the entire proceeds of the sale in Los Angeles of the patriotic song, "My Country, I'm for Thee," will go to the local chapter of the Red Cross. The song was written by Mrs. Cordelia Ford, wife of Dr. W. J. Ford, No. 336 South Flower street, and it is dedicated to the American Red Cross. Mrs. Ford will go East with the intention of exploiting the song for the benefit of Red Cross chapters en route.

SHAKESPEARE READ.

Before the Kate Tupper Galpin Shakespeare Club yesterday afternoon, Robert Lawler, the actor, read a number of selections from Shakespeare, including one from Henry V., and also gave Robert Ingersoll's beautiful eulogy to the Bard of Avon.

FINAL RITES FOR BELOVED WOMAN.

REQUIEM MASS IS SUNG FOR MRS. LOUISE FORVE.

Widower, Two Children and Other Relatives Depart with Body of Society Woman and Philanthropist for East, Where Remains will be Interred.

Funeral services for Mrs. Louise Forve, who was the wife of Philip Forve of No. 427 South Westlake avenue and who died suddenly Thursday, were conducted yesterday morning at 9 o'clock in the Cathedral chapel, Greene street near Ninth. A requiem mass, solemn and beautiful, was celebrated with Mgr. P. Harnett, administrator of the diocese of Monterey and Los Angeles, and Rev. Father Francis J. Conaty, rector of the Cathedral chapel, officiating. The music, which was that of the regular Catholic burial ritual, was under the direction of Rev. Father Kirk.

Just before the body was taken to the chapel, a short service was conducted at the residence. This was at 8:30 o'clock. At the home and at the church services a large number of friends assembled and the beautiful floral offerings filled one end of the chapel.

Shortly after 1 o'clock p.m. the widower and two of the children, Miss Mary Forve and E. Victor Forve, and Mrs. Forve's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Christian E. Stegmaier, left with the body for Wilkesbarre, Pa., where interment will take place. The pallbearers included Carl Leonardt, Ed Maier, Bernard Vollmer, G. W. Lichtenberger, Joseph Scott and C. L. Whipple.

Mrs. Forve was one of the prominent figures in Los Angeles society and was beloved by many of the inmates of charitable institutions because of her thoughtfulness and kindness to them. Before her marriage, Mrs. Forve was Miss Louise Stegmaier. She was educated in the East and married Philip Forve shortly after her graduation. They came to Los Angeles eighteen years ago.

JAILOR LOCKS UP OWN OFFSPRING.

TURNS KEY ON SON, WHO IS HELD FOR SHOOTING.

Melancholy Duty Performed as Result of Peculiar Fight in a Suburb in Which Guns are Emptied—Woman Said to Have Figured in Escapade.

Swen Wilson, assistant county jailor, performed the sad duty yesterday of locking his own son behind the bars. Robert Wilson, the son, was arrested on a charge of having shot Arthur Jennison during a peculiar fight in Sherman last Friday night.

With Wilson was arrested Harry Nehen, his friend. Jennison, who lives in Hollywood Park, was said to have been visiting a friend in Sherman. Nehen and Wilson also were in the vicinity of the friend's home, and they disputed about the time of their presentation to the woman, a Mrs. Nellie Casey, according to the District Attorney's office.

Finally, Jennison is alleged to have drawn a gun and emptied it in the direction of several youths standing with Wilson and Nehen. The young men retaliated by shooting, it is charged, one of the bullets striking Jennison, who is in a precarious condition.

Wilson and Nehen were taken to the County Jail, appearing at the time Wilson's father was on duty. It became his melancholy duty to turn the jail key upon his own son.

VILLA ADVISED TO PRETEND FRIENDSHIP.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JUAREZ (Mex.) April 28.—Francisco Villa was advised by one of his confidential agents in the United States to pretend friendship for the American government "despite the multitude of wrongs done him (Villa) by the Washington government," a letter which was taken from Villa's private secretary by Gen. Murguia stated.

The private secretary, whose name was Nieto, was captured and executed at San Miguel de Babicora by Gen. Murguia's forces after Villa had escaped from the ranch house.

The original documents were left here by Gen. Murguia yesterday and now are in the possession of Carranza officials.

BRAZIL TO EXPEL EX-GERMAN CONSULS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 28.—The Brazilian government has decided that all former German consuls must leave the country. After the severance of diplomatic relations with Germany the government indicated that the consuls would be permitted to remain in this country in an unofficial capacity, but today Dr. Lauro Muller, Foreign Minister, issued an order for their expulsion.

CARRANZA NEUTRAL; SAYS IT AGAIN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, April 28.—Newspapers today print expressions from Gen. Carranza reiterating his declaration of Mexican neutrality and his assertion that he will do everything possible to maintain that neutrality.

MINNESOTA'S CALL FOR HOME GUARDS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. PAUL, April 28.—The State Public Safety Commission tonight issued a call for volunteers for the home guard of Minnesota. Seven separate battalions are to be formed at once to afford home protection after the Minnesota National Guard units are called.

WOMEN! IT'S CHEAP! USE LEMON JUICE TO MAKE BEAUTY LOTION

In all weathers the skin and complexion can be kept wonderfully clear, soft and white by the use of this inexpensive lemon lotion which any girl or woman can easily prepare.

The juice to two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quarter pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion. It naturally should help to soften, freshen, bleach and bring out the roses and hidden beauty of any skin. Those who will make it a habit to gently massage this lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands once or twice daily may be repaid with a skin that is flexible and young looking and a peach-like complexion.

CHUCK ON CHIN GETS AN ENCORE.

TEACHER REPEATS PRINCIPAL'S ALLEGED CARESSES.

Hearing of Charge is Begun in School Superintendent's Office and Produces Highly Interesting Evidence—Five Arrayed Against Pedagogue.

A chuck under the chin, as delivered by a school principal to a woman teacher, was demonstrated in the office of County Superintendent of Schools Keppel yesterday during a hearing in which the teachers of Montebello attempted to establish their claim that the principal, E. L. Mitchell, took undue liberties with them.

The "chuck" was exemplified by Miss Emma Bridges and Miss May V. Wallace was the recipient. The performance consisted of a squeezing of the chin, a gentle tilt of the hand, a coy pressure of the forefinger and thumb and a flirtatious expression of the eye. Miss Bridges did it so well that some persons at the hearing demanded a repetition so all the several movements could be seen plainly.

The fight is over the displacement of Miss Wallace as a school teacher. Although she resigned, she was discharged after her resignation, and she wishes to clear her reputation. After she quit, the other teachers met and discussed the action of Principal Mitchell. The five protesting against his alleged gallantries are Miss Mildred White, Miss Wallace, Miss Martine, Miss Eleanor Elliott and Miss Bridges.

It is alleged Mr. Mitchell pinched their cheeks, rubbed a pencil against the back of their necks, dropped a pencil down their shirtwaists, chucked them under the chins, and presented various other pleasantries of an intimate nature.

FOR AMBULANCE BENEFIT.

Motion Pictures of Americans in France to be Shown.

Thrilling films of "Our American Boys in the European War," taken by the French government and presented to the American Ambulance Field Service, are to be shown Saturday afternoon and evening, May 12, at Trinity Auditorium, under the auspices of the Societe Francais de Secours aux Blesses Militaires (French Society for the Relief of Wounded Soldiers,) and the proceeds forwarded to the patriotic volunteers of the American Ambulance Service.

These films, which were taken by French government photographers in the field, are considered especially timely as a stimulus to other Americans who are called upon to serve their own country in war.

President L. N. Brunswig of the French society is arranging a series of committees to direct the benefit. C. A. Sheedy has been appointed chairman of an Executive Committee; Warren McIntire, chairman of the Arrangements Committee; Guerney Newlin of the Programme Committee; and the Reception Committee will comprise a great number of the city's notables. The Rotary Club of Los Angeles, under direction of Norton C. Wells, will handle the sale of boxes and tickets for the evening performance.

Severe Cough Yields to Duffy's

M. LE ROY FOSDICK.

The value of Duffy's as a remedy for coughs and colds has been proved many times. Mr. Fosdick contracted a severe cold which did not respond to treatment until he used Duffy's with good results.

"Being suburban manager of the firm of Fosdick & Scott, Real Estate and Insurance, my work often takes me out in severe weather to show farm and suburban property. While at Huntington, L. I., early in December, I contracted a severe cold. A friend recommended Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and after using a few bottles, taking a tablespoonful in water four times a day, my cough disappeared and I attribute my good health to taking your wonderful preparation."—(Signed) M. Le Roy Fosdick, 378 Fulton St., Jamaica, N. Y.

Duffy's PureMalt Whiskey

possesses unique health promoting qualities. The supreme test of its virtues lie in the fact that it invigorates the stomach, which makes it a tonic that arouses to renewed activity the exhausted forces of the human organism, improves the appetite, aids digestion, helps build up the blood, and gives fresh vigor to the system.

"Get Duffy's and Keep Well"

Sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY. Beware of imitations.

NOTE Get Duffy's from your local druggist, grocer or dealer. $1.00 per bottle. If he cannot supply you, write us. Send for useful household booklet free.

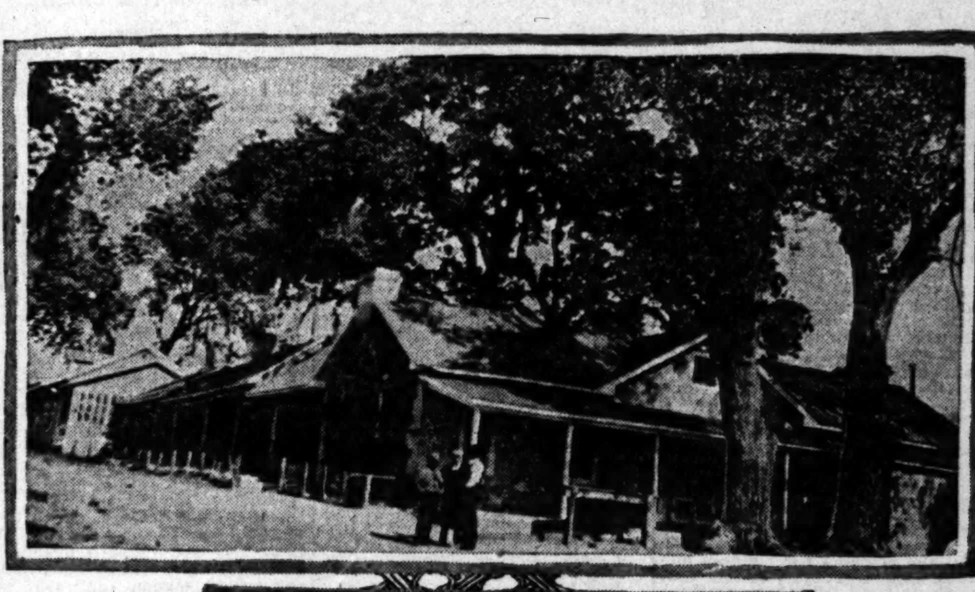
Picturesque Abode of Charm is Laid in Ashes.



Buildings that burned on the Tejon ranchos.

The older portion of the headquarters house, that was one of the State's notable relics of early days, was built in Spanish times, no man knows when. The house grew as the great land holdings of its owner, Gen. Edward F. Beale, expanded and in time the structure became great and rambling, with an allurement made more patent by the absence of formal planning. At the old store, built just after the Civil War, generations of ranch employees have traded.

OUR QUICKEST MILITARY AID TO ALLIES VIA AIR.

Plans Already Being Made to Increase the Number of Americans Flying for France, While All Members of the British Royal Aviation Corps are Ready to Welcome United States Birdmen to the Line.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE (via London, April 28, 3:45 p.m.)—Wholly informal but decidedly interesting conversations between British and French flying corps officers as regards to possibility of early American participation in this fascinating phase of the war have been going on behind the lines here.

It is generally agreed that, apart from naval activity the flying service offers the quickest opportunity for effective military help from America against the common foe, and the expectation is that just as the aviation branch of the service proved so attractive to the young men of both England and France, the youth of America will be drawn toward it.

Already plans are being made to increase the number of Americans now flying for France, while all the members of the British Royal Flying Corps are ready to welcome and aid in the training of the Americans in all the arts of war flying. It is reported that the United States Army is not on a war basis regarding machines, but it is understood that both the British and French services are prepared to furnish them temporarily, just as these two services now exchange machines as necessity demands.

FIGHTING BEST SCHOOL.

The Associated Press correspondent has talked with many British flying officers of distinction and all agree that the only way to train men for war flying is in actual fighting. They frankly say that in this way many men may be lost, but that those who survive are worth their weight in gold and prove brilliant flight and squadron leaders.

Officers of the British flying corps say that America must be prepared to pay such a price; that she must remember this when the losses begin to mount up. She must understand, they point out, that, out of these losses, will come men who will reflect glory upon her colors and lend brilliance to the brighter pages of her history.

It is, of course, possible to train men far from the battlefield.

They may become proficient in every trick of flying known to the science in this training. Their real service, however, only begins after they have proved themselves "over the line." The British have developed brilliant fliers at their training grounds in England, men who have mastered every technical point of aviation and who stand out clearly as potential leaders. But each one of them on reaching France must be attached to a squadron as an ordinary fighter and win his way upward through the soul-searching shock of actual battle. Some of these men succumb but the survivors more than repay the cost.

PILOTS AT ONCE NEEDED.

America can render a great service to the Allies by sending over pilots at the earliest possible moment. They can join the British corps at once and as they prove themselves can be reclaimed by America for organizing and training her squadrons as these become available.

America, of course, is expected to throw her organizing and manufacturing ability into supplying their own machines to her fliers, but the modern airplane with its tremendous power housed in a very compact, very light engine, with delicate instruments, unerring balance, and sensitive controls, is an extremely complicated affair and its construction is a matter of months. Just now the single-seat fighting scout is the machine of the hour. Such machines must stand the terrific strain of fighting tactics—rolling, looping, nose-diving, side-slipping. It is no unusual thing nowadays to see a pilot seemingly fall out of control 2000 feet or more, then flattening out and sailing serenely away. The strain of this maneuver is tremendous.

The care and maintenance of airplanes requires the constant attention of skilled men. If America would render an immediate service, according to the view here, she might send over 5000 fitters, riggers and mechanicians to take up this branch of the service now and learn every phase of the work of grooming and handling the delicate machines.

The air service does not stand still. Almost each day brings changes. It is the feeling here that America should lose no time in getting machines under way and men in training. The Allies hold the hard-fought mastery of the air, but they must be in a position always absolutely to overwhelm the enemy and keep him on the ground. The youth of America and Britain, it is thought behind the lines here, should, with their common ideals, common language, common love of sport and common courage, skill and daring, find ideal companionship in this hazardous, but romantic war in the air.

BRITISH FIRE MELTS FIVE GRAY WAVES OF GERMANS.

Von Hindenburg's Order to Hold Positions at All Costs Makes Teuton Resistance More Stubborn Than Any Heretofore Encountered — Great Gaps Torn in the Onrushing Masses and Machine Guns Finish Survivors.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE (via London) April 28, 11:05 p.m.—There was more desperate fighting along the British front today and the Germans, evidently spurred on by the declarations from Field Marshal von Hindenburg that they must hold their present positions at all costs, are making a resistance more stubborn than any heretofore encountered. At various points captured in the first onward rush by the British, the Germans have been ordered into counter-attacks with a reckless disregard for loss of life.

The battle was still in progress late today, and it was possible near Oppy to see at one time no less than five grey waves of Germans blindly facing the British fire in an attempt to retake their lost positions. Heavy shells broke upon them in a great explosive torrent, and where each shell burst great gaps were cut in the ranks of the oncoming men. Those who penetrated the British barrage from the larger calibered guns were met by field gun fire and mown down under continuous hail of machine-gun bullets.

Under this galling fire the attack utterly broke down. In some places there was ferocious hand-to-hand fighting. The British got in well with the bayonet but there was one bit of fighting in which even bayonets were forgotten and the men went at each other's throats and eyes. Many Germans went to their death from blows from rifle butts.

At times the fighting was wholly obscured by great clouds of dust, the muddy battlefields of ten days ago having entirely disappeared. The dust raised by the barrage fire resembled an approaching storm. Shrapnel bullets were pelting the dry earth like so many leaden drops of rain and great mountains of dust seemed to spring from the earth everywhere.

The attack began with the coming of dawn. It extended in an easterly direction, with Vimy Ridge as its northern hinge, and ran southward to the Scarpe. Progress was made everywhere and the so-called Oppy-Mericourt line, which protects the Drocourt switch to the Hindenburg line, was pierced again.

The Canadians, who had been more or less resting since they swept the Germans off both slopes of Vimy Ridge, on Easter Monday, made a brilliant assault against Arleux-en-Gohelle, and captured that village and held it against all counter-attacks.

LITTLE YACHT HAS TURBULENT VOYAGE

ARIED REACHES PORT AFTER AN EXCITING TRIP.

Pleasure-seekers Reduced to Two Meals a Day and for Part of the Time Have to Subsist on Hardtack and Split Peas—Severe Storms Encountered.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, April 28.—The little yacht Ariel, which left here last November on a long voyage to Central America, returned last night after being sixty-one days on the way with a sadly-depleted stock of provisions and after weathering the roughest seas and the worst storms which have visited the Pacific Coast in many years.

The Ariel left here on November 9 bound for San Jose del Guatamala, La Union, La Libertad, Amapola and other Central American ports. Those in the party, who made the trip, purely for pleasure, were Capt. S. J. Castleman of Venice, E. A. Marquardt, C. E. Hill and J. C. Mellen of Los Angeles, E. T. Ford of Riverside and William Leuder of San Francisco.

The trip from San Pedro to Guatamala was uneventful and was made in due time. A sufficient supply of fuel oil was taken for the first half of the trip and good time was made. The party enjoyed themselves for about two months fishing, hunting alligators, wild turkeys and deer.

The men were treated courteously by the natives. On the return trip the party found themselves unable to purchase any fuel oil of a good grade. The oil which could be secured was of a very poor quality and cost 80 cents per gallon for gasoline and 75 cents for distillate.

At last it was decided to sail back and the Ariel left for home on February 25. Heavy storms were encountered and the Ariel was forced to sail 700 miles out to sea to get away from the center of the storms and to get favorable trade winds.

On Easter Sunday the food supply became so short that the men were forced to live on two small meals per day for the remainder of the trip. Upon arriving at Los Angeles Harbor only hardtack and split peas were left. In one of the most severe of the six storms encountered Capt. Castleman was knocked overboard in the night by a swinging boom and was rescued after considerable difficulty.

F. W. Murdock of Los Angeles is the owner of the Ariel, which is a vessel of fifteen tons net and is forty-three feet long.

The welcome to guests at Hotel del Coronado "rings true" is evidenced by the entertainment provided.—[Advertisement.

Immediate Action is Urged Before Conscription.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, April 28.—In response to a communication from Lieut. W. R. Cushman, U.S.N., in charge of naval recruiting in Los Angeles, Mayor Berkley today issued a proclamation in which he urges the youth of the city to enlist. It says:

"The naval recruiting officer stationed in Los Angeles has asked me to issue a call to the red-blooded youth of this city to enlist in their country's service. This I do gladly. In the first place, whether selective conscription comes or not, it speaks far more for one's patriotism to volunteer than to be taken by the draft system; secondly, because the navy is the great first line of defense of our beloved country, it appeals to one's sense of adventure as well as to our love of country and offers a wide field of usefulness and service to our young men who live by the sea. The call has come to you to bear your part and I am very sure no father or mother would seek to keep their boy from enlisting in the navy when the call is so strong and duty seems so plain."

Mayor Berkley will co-operate with Mayor J. J. Lewis of Venice on Monday in an endeavor to get the young men of the bay district to enlist.

Lieut. Cushman says his division is supposed to get 6000 men by May 1, and that 2800 are to come from California. He says that so far only 676 have enlisted in the State. He urges immediate action.

HOUSEWIVES RUSH TO BUY LOAVES.

LONG BEACH WOMEN EXCITED BY PRICE INCREASE.

Despite Protests of Grocers Some Carry Home Much More than They Need—Hoarding of Other Commodities — Special Counsel will Fight Disaster Claims.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, April 28.—So great was the demand for bakers' bread today that by 5:30 o'clock this evening there was not a loaf left for sale.

When the news became generally circulated among the housewives that, commencing Monday, the 5-cent loaf would be a thing of the past and the price of the 10-cent loaf would be increased to 15 cents, there was a rush for the bread counters, and the stocks of the local grocerymen, augmented because of the anticipated lively buying, were soon depleted.

Some women lost their heads and are said to have grabbed the bread as though the bakers were going out of business tomorrow. There were bread lines in the front of a number of stores, and when some women came out with their arms full and others saw they were not going to get their share, there was much crowding. Some women carried home a dozen loaves of bread.

There was also wholesale buying and hoarding along other lines. The grocers did everything they could to discourage it, telling their customers that that was one reason for the ascending cost of foodstuffs. But the public continued to buy. Some of the local grocers declare that their stocks have been almost depleted along all lines and that a number of private homes contain larger grocery stocks today than some stores.

SPECIAL COUNSEL.

Following two-months' deliberation, the City Commissioners today announced that Christian Hoeppner and James E. Kelby, both of Los Angeles, would be retained as special counsel to defend Long Beach against the 172 claims arising from the Auditorium disaster.

Both men are railroad claim attorneys of many years experience. Attorney Hoeppner was assistant chief of the claims department of the Missouri Pacific at St. Louis, Mo., for seventeen years. Attorney Kelby was for twenty-seven years solicitor for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad and for the last three years has been chief solicitor for the Salt Lake Railroad in Los Angeles, having served thirty years in all as a claim specialist.

SCHOLARS TO DANCE AROUND MAYPOLE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SIERRA MADRE, April 28.—May Day will be celebrated here at the city schools by a Maypole celebration given by Miss Yerda M. D. Appleby, one of the school teachers. Miss Appleby has been training the pupils in many new dances in anticipation of this event. The entertainment will be given in place of the usual flower festival by the Woman's Club.

The City Trustees are considering granting free water to all those owning vacant lots in this section, providing the land is used for the raising of foodstuffs. A committee has been appointed to investigate.

An appeal has been made to the city to put a bonus on gophers, which have become a nuisance in this section. It is doubtful if any action will be taken.

Miss Olivetta Bogue and Miss Isabell Gilham won the prizes for the most artistically-arranged bouquet entered by a child under 16 years.

Mrs. J. D. Kneen won first and Mrs. Smelser second for the most artistically-arranged baskets of Cecile Brunners..

King C. Gillette of Beverly showed a Henreyi Clematis, a single white bloom that measures at least eight inches in diameter, also remarkable pansies, sweet peas and garden flowers. Special mentions were given the commercial exhibits, the beautiful display of cut flowers, the roses made by George Eischen, the City Park's comprehensive exhibit and to Mr. Gillette.

HELP HOSPITALS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, April 28.—The Scottish Women's Hospitals for foreign service, with local offices at No. 20 Nassau street, announced this evening the receipt of $10,000 as the proceeds of Miss Kathleen Burke's meetings in San Francisco, $4000 in Pasadena and $9000 from Santa Barbara.

POWDER IN SHOES AS WELL AS GUNS

Foot=Ease to Be Added to Equipment of Hospital Corps at Fort Wayne.

Under the above heading the Detroit Free Press, among other things says: "The theory is that soldiers whose feet are in good condition can walk further and faster than soldiers who have corns and bunions incased in rawhide.

The Government's foot powder order is regarded as the last word in the scientific outfitting of the defenders of the flag."

Young men in every community are using Allen's Foot-Ease in their drills for Military Preparedness.

The English, French and Allied Troops constantly make use of Allen's Foot-Ease. It takes the friction from the shoe and rests the feet. Uncle Sam's adoption of this form of treating the feet, emphasizes the testimony of the millions of people the world over, who are shaking Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder, into their shoes, and using it in the foot bath, as the only practical and lasting treatment to ease and prevent sore feet. SEE NEED FOR IMPROVEMENTS.

Imperial Valley Owners are for Protective Work.

Nearly Four Thousand Sign for Bond Election.

Colorado Rises Rapidly and Snow Melts Fast.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, April 28.—Resident and nonresident owners of property have heartily indorsed the protective and constructive measures embodied in the plans for spending $2,500,000 along the line of the main canal. This is evidenced by the receipt of 3850 names of property owners, nearly 500 more than necessary, to the petition for the calling of a bond election to provide for the improvements.

Secretary F. P. McIver of the Imperial Irrigation District will certify day after tomorrow to the sufficiency of names and property on the petitions, and the directors will call the election, which will be a mere formality.

That there has been a decided change in sentiment among valley property owners for the work of protection from floods and for increasing the water supply is the deduction made by district directors from the result of the bond petition campaign. Two years ago, when the district asked signatures to a petition to spend several hundred thousand dollars in protective work, it required six months' time to get the signatures of enough property holders to call the election. A far greater number of names was secured this time in two months.

No opposition is shown to the bonds. It was merely a matter of routine on the part of Manager Paris of the irrigation district. He sent out blank petitions to outside owners and placed copies of the petitions in several parts of the valley.

The muddy Colorado is rising fast. From a discharge of 7900 second feet at the Yuma gauge on April 1, the discharge yesterday had become 46,000 second feet. The work of completing the protective work along the line of Alamo channel and at Volcano Lake is being rushed. The peak load of the river will not be reached until about June 10, when a discharge of 140,000 second feet is looked for. The deep snows of the headwaters of the Colorado and its tributaries are now melting fast, pouring a chocolate flood down its channel.

JUMPS AS POLE FALLS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, April 28.—Leland R. Humphries, lineman for the Ontario and Upland Telephone Company, is confined to his bed today at his home, No. 704 East E street, as the result of painful injuries to both ankles and shock when he jumped to the pavement from the top of a telephone pole on North San Antonio avenue when it broke at the base and fell. X-ray photographs showed no broken bones.

REDLANDS GIRLS WIN.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, April 28.—Two debaters of the University of Redlands, Miss Eleanor Ahlstrom and Miss May Willis, won a debate from the feminine arguers from Pomona College here last night, when the judges gave them a three to one decision. The question was in regard to the commissions in force in this State. The girls' debating team of the school has won several debates this year.

ONTARIO MINISTER OFFERS TO RESIGN

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, April 28.—Rev. William M. Perry, for nearly nine years pastor of the First Baptist Church, caused a stir last night when, at a regular meeting of the members, he tendered his resignation to take effect within ninety days. Rev. Perry declared that the resignation was not tendered because of any trouble but in the belief that the time had come when another man might lead his flock to greater heights than he was able.

FRESNO TO FETE RAISIN INDUSTRY.

BIG CELEBRATION WILL GIVE THOUSANDS PLEASURE.

Monster Parade and Melting-pot Pageant Have been Prepared and There Also will be a Patriotic Demonstration of Loyalty. Red Cross to Benefit.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FRESNO, April 28.—The ninth annual California Raisin Day celebration, in honor of the raisin industry of the San Joaquin Valley, will be held in this city Monday. The celebration will also be a patriotic demonstration of loyalty to President Wilson and faith in the right of the nation and the ultimate restoration of peace throughout the world.

Gov. Stephens will be a guest of honor. Fourteen Central California cities are participating by sending floats for the parade, people for the pageant and maids of honor to Oneida Madison, Raisin Day queen. Many other California cities are sending big delegations of visitors by train and motor car. Already they have begun to arrive, and Fresno expects to be host to more than 100,000 people by Monday morning.

Magnificent decorations have been prepared and the city is ready to welcome its guests. The big attraction of Raisin Day will be the monster street parade at 1 o'clock. It will extend four miles, have fourteen divisions, eighteen bands, 100 beautifully-decorated floats and hundreds of decorated motor cars. More than 5000 people will take part in the parade, including Queen Oneida and her fourteen beautiful maids of honor.

The pageant will start at the district fair grounds at 3:15 o'clock p.m. Briefly, it is a story of world progress of the last several years. It will review national customs and events during a peaceful period, then will show the many horrors of the world war and the war machines used to produce this terrific human destruction.

A huge melting pot fifty feet high and large in proportion will be symbolic of America after the war. Refugees from war-torn countries will be shown seeking the melting pot, America, and becoming American citizens.

There will be daylight fireworks, a mimic war of the air, land and sea, a gigantic smoke curtain and 500 people engaged in enacting this miniature world. The scenery will cover several acres of ground. The Raisin Day festival will be a patriotic event and the surplus funds will be contributed to the Red Cross fund.

LINDSAY SEEKING MAIL DELIVERY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LINDSAY, April 28.—Figures have been compiled for submission to the Postal Department of a petition for the free delivery of mail. Records of the local postoffice show the receipts are more than sufficient for the establishment of the service.

Members of the City Council are at work on a system of street numbering, and plans for erection of street signs, which, under the postal regulations, must be done before the service can be granted.

ELEVEN SCHOOLS WHITTIER GUESTS.

FRIENDS COLLEGES ALUMNI HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET.

Indiana and Iowa are Well Represented and Distinguished Men and Women are Among Speakers at Sixth Annual Dinner—New Officers Elected.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, April 28.—The Associated Alumni of Friends Colleges of America in Southern California were guests last evening of Whittier College in their annual banquet. The organization was formed six years ago and holds its annual meetings at some convenient point in this county each year. Because of the movement on for a Greater Whittier College the graduates of all Friends colleges in America were invited to be the guests of the local school.

J. Edward Coggeshall of Pasadena, president of the organized alumni, presided, and introduced Mrs. A. Rosenberger as the toastmistress. The speakers were Miss Irene Glasgow, Whittier; Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles, Los Angeles; Prof. Herbert E. Harris, Lompoc, and Prof. W. H. Matlock, Pomona.

Next year's officers are Dr. Herbert E. Tebbetts, Whittier, president; Miss Fern Cox, Whittier, secretary. Actual count showed eleven well-known Friends schools represented last evening. Whittier College led in numbers, after which came Earlham, Richmond, Ind., with twenty-four, and Penn, Oskaloosa, Iowa, with nineteen.

I CURE PILES

FISTULA and all Rectal Diseases WITHOUT AN OPERATION

For twenty-five years I have been curing diseases of the rectum and lower bowel. During that time my experience as hospital and railroad surgeon, as college lecturer and professor has enabled me to develop a method that is superior to others. I cure without surgery and my patients are not confined in bed and seldom lose a moment's time from their business.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment," but it is an application of skilled treatment administered under the most rigid antiseptic conditions in my office.

I TREAT NO DISEASES EXCEPT THOSE OF THE RECTUM AND BOWELS

I solicit old, severe and obstinate cases of fistula, prolapsus, fissure and ulceration that have heretofore resisted all treatments employed. If you are a sufferer from rectal trouble I invite you to investigate my method thoroughly by talking or writing to any of my cured patients. If you will call at my office I will be pleased to give you the names and addresses of many well-known Los Angeles people I have cured, whom you may interview in regard to my treatment.

Read what a few well-known Southern California people have to say of my method. Many similar letters are on file in my office.

SANTA MONICA MINISTER CURED

This is to certify that Dr. C. H. White has cured me of a distressing hemorrhoidal ailment of 25 years' duration. His method of treatment is effective, but not severe. He has the appliances, the knowledge and the skill born of many years of specialization in this fruitful source of physical disease. He accomplishes all he claims in his advertising, and at reasonable expense.

I take pleasure in heartily recommending the man and his methods.

WESLEY K. BEANS, Pastor First Methodist Episcopal Church, Santa Monica, Cal.

BAPTIST MINISTER CURED

After suffering for years with the worst form of Hemorrhoids, Dr. C. H. White cured me without pain and without detaining me from my work. I desire to commend him to all rectal sufferers.

REV. E. H. BROOKS, 3812 Menlo Ave., Los Angeles.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE SUPERINTENDENT CURED

My Dear Dr. White: I am thankful for the privilege of bearing witness to your ability to treat without pain, and with success, the delicate and disabling diseases which result from sedentary work. To all who need the services of a skillful, sympathetic and experienced specialist in your line I heartily commend you.

Very sincerely yours,

ERVIN S. CHAPMAN, D.D., LL.D., Superintendent State Anti-Saloon League.

LABOR LEADER CURED

For fifteen years I suffered with Misery, Pain, Loss of Weight, LOSS OF HEALTH, LOSS OF BUSINESS, from protruding hemorrhoids. I was cured by Dr. White in one week. I cannot say enough in praise of this new method of treating disease in the rectum, for what I have suffered is beyond expression. My desire that the public may know that there is such a cure is my object in going into public print.

WM. STANLEY, 302 Union Labor Temple, Los Angeles, Cal.

SPRING STREET PRINTER CURED

For five years I was practically incapacitated from attending to business by Protruding Hemorrhoids. Dr. White cured me without pain.

AND ENVIRONS.

EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD

Fun for Candidates.

The Woman's Non-partisan League will give a dinner and dance tomorrow evening in Blanchard Hall for all candidates concerned in the primary election. The affair will be for the public, also.

Druids will be Hosts.

Magnolia Grove, No. 97, Order of Druids, will have as its guests next Friday night the numerous groves of this jurisdiction. Officers will be installed.

Texans Arrange Programme.

The Texas Society will meet next Friday evening at The Times Assembly Rooms. The programme will include piano and violin music. Former Texans have been invited.

Open Meeting by Templars.

Merrill Lodge of Good Templars will hold a free open meeting tomorrow evening on the second floor of The Times Building. A musical and literary programme along patriotic and temperance lines has been arranged.

British to Dance.

The British Overseas Club will give a social and dance in the Fraternal Brotherhood Building, No. 845 South Figueroa street, at 8 o'clock next Wednesday evening. There will be a short musical programme. Canadians and Australians are invited.

Last Gallery Tour.

Owing to the wide interest displayed in the gallery tours given in Exposition Park art gallery by Miss Alma May Cook, a special closing tour will be given tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The tours have been given in connection with the spring exhibition of the California Art Club, which closes tomorrow, many of the paintings to be removed from the gallery that evening.

"Prince of Salubrities" Here.

The members of the Scottish Rite Bodies in Los Angeles are to have another visit from the talented author, lecturer and "Prince of Salubrities," John Kendrick Bangs. He will appear at the cathedral, No. 929 South Hope street, on Monday evening at 8 o'clock and will read from his own works, and on May 2 at the same hour he will deliver his new lecture, "Discovering America."

Arkansans to Gather.

A meeting of the Arkansas Society will be held in The Times Assembly Rooms at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. There will be a programme of readings and music, refreshments will be served and a social hour enjoyed. The meeting is for all former or present residents of Arkansas, whether or not they are members of the society.

Irishwoman Will Talk.

Mrs. Hanna Sheehy Skeffington, widow of the late Francis Sheehy Skeffington, one of those slain in the Dublin rebellion a year ago last Easter, will speak at Clune's Auditorium this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Skeffington will tell the tragic story of that fateful Easter day and will outline the plans, hopes and aspirations of the Irish for the accomplishment of the ends for which her husband gave up his life. In addition to Mrs. Skeffington's address there will be a special musical programme.

Concert Tour.

The Hallie Beare All-artists company will leave tomorrow morning on a concert tour to Chicago and return. Ten concerts are on the programme between Los Angeles and Chicago. Miss Beare, director of the company, will be assisted by Lenore Von der Leith, accompanist; Bernice Marcher, dramatic and pantomime artist; Araminta Schoch, comedy and child impersonator; Edith Morgan, violinist; Naomi Sweeny, whistler, and Sybil Gaba, prima donna. The young ladies are featuring California songs by Los Angeles composers, "Little Los Angeles," "I Love You California" and "Lady Claire," the last by Charles Fritzsche.

Dust to Dust.

BARONESS' ASHES AWAIT SISTERS.

WEALTHY WOMAN'S KIN ARE UNAWARE OF DEATH.

Von Zimmerman Obsequies are Marked by Rigid Simplicity. Her Adopted Daughter Again may Become a Foundling in New York Catholic Home.

Funeral services for Baroness Rosa von Zimmermann, multi-millionaire mistress of Rosamond castle, Oak Knoll, who died in this city last Wednesday, were conducted at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in the chapel of Pierce Bros., undertakers. According to the late Baroness' wishes, the ceremony was very simple. There was no music of any kind and Rev. Otto Satzinger, pastor of the Immanuel Evangelist Lutheran Church, who conducted the services, delivered only a few brief remarks.

The chapel was crowded with prominent Germans of this city and Pasadena and there were many handsome floral offerings. Beatrice Denton, the 9-year-old child, who until the Baroness' death was supposed to be her adopted daughter, was not there. She hardly realizes that the death of Baroness von Zimmermann means, instead of being a noblewoman's daughter, that again she is an orphan and perhaps will be returned to a New York Catholic foundling's home.

The pallbearers were Max Socha, E. V. Lewis, Carl Entenmann, Leo Green, Charles E. Haas and John B. Haas. The body was taken to Rosedale and cremated. In accordance with the will of the deceased, the ashes will remain at the crematory until her sisters in Germany, to whom she left most of her $3,000,000 estate, can be reached and make other provisions.

It is impossible to either write or send a cable to the sisters as yet, but Attorney Walter V. Haas has taken up the matter with the Secretary of State in Washington.

CAR TURNS OVER.

John Higue, a clerk living at No. 750 Gibbons street, was taken to the Receiving Hospital with a fractured skull, which he received when his automobile turned turtle at Avenue Twenty and Darwin street last night. Higue, who is 24 years of age, was suffering from concussion and could not explain how he was injured. He was later taken to the Sisters' Hospital.

SAY ILLEGAL VOTES KEPT NEEDLES WET.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN BERNARDINO, April 28.—Dist.-Atty. Duckworth returned from Needles tonight and said several arrests probably will follow investigations of charges that illegal votes were cast in the recent wet-and-dry election, in which the liquor interests were victorious by a margin of forty-five votes. It is alleged that many people who had left Needles were brought back to vote, among them about a score of women who left the place as a result of the clean-up campaign.

BONDS FOR SEWERS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

UPLAND, April 28.—The City Council last night fixed Tuesday, June 5, as the date for a bond election for the proposed construction of a sewer system for this city. The proposed bond issue will be in the amount of $24,000 and the system will connect with that of Ontario.

It is a common saying, "I never had a good picture." Mr. Steckel caters to difficult subjects, and it is not an experiment you undertake when having pictures of your children or a portrait of yourself made at the Steckel studio, but a certainty that the charm and beautiful expressions of childhood and individuality in portraits will be faithfully portrayed, and it is well said "that when you once have had a portrait or beautiful child study from this justly-famous studio none other will please." KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities. You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

TODAY'S BEAUTY HINT

It is not necessary to shampoo your hair so frequently if it is entirely and properly cleansed each time by the use of a really good shampoo. The easiest to use and quickest drying shampoo that we can recommend to our readers is one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair and may be enjoyed at very little expense, by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox, which can be obtained from any druggist, in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. This when rubbed into the scalp and onto every strand of hair, chemically dissolves all impurities. It is very soothing and cooling in its action, as well as beneficial to both scalp and hair. After rinsing out the lather so created, you will find the scalp is fresh, clean and free from dandruff, while the hair dries quickly and evenly, developing a bright luster and a soft fluffiness that makes it seem very heavy.

FTY THOUSAND CONVERTS IN NINE WEEKS OF BILLY SUNDAY.

ngelist to Speak Twice Daily in Tabernacle to be Built for Twenty Thousand Hearers—Two Hundred Churches to be Closed.

ERE are a few of the things Billy Sunday told the people of Los Angeles the last time he was here, in July, 1913. (He was only here for a day or two then and hadn't time to get up:)

church has degenerated into a third-rate amusement bureau the religion left out.

m not here to give you what you want, but what you need. don't like it there are plenty of exits and it won't take you get out.

you'll keep the devil out of your boys and girls, he'll soon his fires, put crepe on the door and tack up a sign, "Hell for see one of these hypocritical church members you'd think he through ticket to Heaven with a seat in the Pullman car and for the porter to wake him when the train began to slow down yards of New Jerusalem, but you'll find he'll likely get side- to the hot box.

God Almighty could convert the preachers we'd give the devil for his money and have him in the hospital before Christmas.

titudes in your churches are nothing but bench warmers. et them to do anything is like trying to drag a cat backward tail over a carpet.

society woman is about the most useless thing in the world. you have a prayer meeting and a whist party the same night find most of your bunch playing bridge.

wonder that God is doing as well as he is with the bunch he work with.

When you have a saloon election lock up the church members maybe you'll carry the day.

of the Church Federa- Los Angeles, representing evangelical churches, g in preparation for the most elaborate cam- evangelism ever under- Rev. William ("Billy") whose startling methous personality have made national figure, will be here eek of September and re- months.

ngelist will speak daily in cle seating 20,000 persons believed his audiences will more than 2,000,000. So are the local clergymen Sunday will spiritually the city that it has been vir- decided that more than 200 churches will be closed, during the hours of the sermons. Because of number of people who can be reached at one time by Mr. Sunday's voice some of the big downtown churches probably will remain open to take care of the overflow crowds.

The campaign as tentatively outlined at the first conference will cover a period of twelve months. Its first phase, from now until September, will include advertising and general preparation for the meetings.

The second phase, the meetings themselves, will last eight or nine weeks. In that time local clergymen believe that "Billy" Sunday will so startle, shock and arouse the people of the city that close to 50,000 men and women will "hit the sawdust trail" and that the churches of the city will consequently secure that number of additional members.

If Mr. Sunday's experiences in other cities can be accepted as a criterion of what he will do here, he will begin his meetings with verbal broadsides directed against the pastors and church members. With withering attacks and picturesque oratory, he will tell them his opinion of what their responsibilities really are and how they have failed.

Later he undoubtedly will take Los Angeles apart figuratively and tell how it is "going to the devil."

THE THIRD PHASE.

The third phase of the campaign, and one which the ministers regard as very important, will continue several months after the meetings have closed. The work, for which hundreds of men and women will be organized, will be one of conservation, a concerted effort to keep up the churches to the pitch of zeal and enthusiasm to which they have been awakened and to hold those whom the evangelist has won.

At the conference of two weeks ago the following partial organization was effected: S. M. Cooper of the First Christian Church, president; Dr. Brougher of Temple Baptist Church, first vice-president; Willis H. Booth, second vice-president; W. E. McVay, treasurer and chairman of Building Committee; Dr. John Albert Eby, executive and conservation secretary; D. E. Luther, assistant executive secretary.

Dr. Eby will devote his entire time for a year to the campaign, his work including that of conservation following the meetings. He is expected to return to Los Angeles tomorrow from New York, where he went to confer with Mr. Sunday and to make the contract with him. Probably within a day or two after his arrival here another meeting will be called, the plan of campaign further determined and committees appointed.

The full committee, which will be divided into groups of three and five, probably will number seventy-five to 100 men and women.

SITE TO BE SELECTED.

The location and size of the tabernacle will be one of the first questions for consideration. Mr. Sunday's experience in other cities is that, with a properly built structure, his voice can reach almost exactly 20,000 people and that undoubtedly will be the governing factor in determining the size of the Los Angeles tabernacle.

The plan of financing the meetings probably will be the same as that adopted elsewhere. Church members will be asked to take bonds of $1 denomination to guarantee the cost in the event Mr. Sunday might become ill or some other unexpected events render it impossible to continue the meetings. Local clergymen believe the collections of the first week or ten days will be sufficient to pay all expenses. After that until the closing meeting, no collections will be taken except occasionally for special charities. Mr. Sunday believes his work is more effective and that the invitation wins freer response when the element of money has been eliminated. Mr. Sunday's own remuneration consists of a collection taken at the closing meeting of the series.

Local clergymen believe that during Mr. Sunday's visit, Los Angeles will experience the greatest religious revival and awakening in its history. The elaborate preparatory measures month in advance are being taken partly because the local ministers are determined to do all they can to make the meetings successful and partly because Mr. Sunday, himself, insists upon them.

DRAWS AS A MAGNET.

Those ministers who are most sanguine concerning the results point to the remarkable meetings held in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and other places. In Philadelphia a few months ago, Mr. Sunday spoke to 60,000 men in one day.

"What other attraction, theatrical production, circus or moving-picture show could draw so many men in one day?" asked the pastor of a downtown church yesterday. "Mr. Sunday draws the people, gets and hold their attention and thoroughly arouses their interest. He has done it everywhere he preached. He has the faculty of reaching every type. I have heard him talk to college men with faultless diction and polished oratory on the same day he preached in another meeting with all the gymnastic, perfervid slang that has startled hundreds of thousands of people and which has been the subject of much controversy between preachers."

No Use.

WORSE THAN NONE.

Billboard Ordinance Now Before Council is Denounced as of no Real Value in Dealing with Nuisance Which Hurts City.

The proper solution of the billboard menace, according to F. W. Blanchard, member of the Municipal Art Commission and large property owner, is an ordinance defining billboard districts as those in which 50 per cent. of the frontage is occupied by business buildings and then making it necessary to secure the consent of 50 per cent. of the property holders on both sides of the street.

"The ordinance which is now in the hands of the Council will give the public no relief," said Mr. Blanchard. "In fact it will permit the enlargement of the billboard districts and be worse than none at all. The proposed measure makes it possible for the erection of a billboard upon any block which contains a corner grocery and gives the people of residential districts absolutely no protection.

"I believe that the large majority of the people damand some relief from present conditions. The ordinance as framed does not give the relief the people want and now is the time for them to raise a mighty protest.

"I don't believe that any one wants to do any line of business an injustice or create undue hardships, but the accumulation of billboards has undoubtedly created a menace to the public safety. Aside from that the billboards are ruining our city from a scenic standpoint."

Mr. Blanchard declared he believes it would be an injustice to remove the billboards from actual business districts, but he is satisfied that the public will never stand for the proposed ordinance.

In the Regular Army.

SIXTEEN HUNDRED LOCAL MEN FOR COMMISSIONS.

What the Officers' Training Camp is and How it will Work.

UP TO the hour of closing at local headquarters yesterday nearly 800 applicants had been accepted for entrance to the officers' training camp to be opened at the Presidio at San Francisco Tuesday, May 8. From the number who have applied, but have not as yet been passed upon by the local examining board, Los Angeles is expected to send at least twice that number.

The camp will continue until next August 8, and all members who pass the examination will be given commissions in the Officers Reserve Corps of the United States Army as officers of the line in the following branches: Infantry, cavalry, field artillery, coast artillery and engineers.

The camp will be in charge of regular army officers and will be organized along the lines followed by the citizens' training camp at Monterey last year, when more than 1100 Los Angeles business men spent six weeks receiving military training. The new camp, however, will be divided into fifteen companies the first month. The men will then be reassigned to nine infantry companies, two cavalry troops, three batteries and one engineer company.

ALL SURE OF COMMISSIONS.

The fact that 500,000 men are to be trained for service either at home or abroad within the coming year practically assures every man who successfully meets the tests of the camp training an officer's commission. Great care is being exercised by the examining board, consisting of Col. John C. Gresham, Capt. A. T. Easton, Lieut. L. R. Ball and Lieut. D. T. Greene, that only men who give promise of developing the qualities essential to an officer are accepted.

While as yet no provision has been made by the United States government for paying the men while in camp, aside from furnishing transportation, equipment and subsistence, it is confidently expected Congress will make provision for such a contingency.

There is also a movement on foot to enlist the co-operation of the Practical Patriots' League, to the extent of aiding in a financial way the dependent families of those who go to the camp for the preliminary three months' training. Many business houses have asked to pay at least part of the salaries of former employees who enlist, and a well-organized committee appointed by the Southern California division of the Military Training Camps Association will shortly make a complete canvass of the stores and large corporations of the city with the idea of securing their co-operation.

MUST AWAIT GRADES.

Word was received last week from the adjutant-general's department of the Western Department of the Army that men whose papers had been forwarded to Washington with recommendation that they receive commissions will be commissioned, but not necessarily in the grade for which they were recommended. The object is to issue temporary lieutenants' commissions to the men while serving at the camp, and if at the expiration of the three months' period they are found to be competent they will be advanced to the grade for which they were originally recommended.

Only those who are of American birth or who have received full citizenship papers, between the age of 20 years and nine months and 44 years, will be accepted. All entrants must be of sound health, good moral character, vouched for by three responsible citizens, and must demonstrate that they have the necessary qualities that make for leadership and the handling of men.

The medical examination is similar to that held for entrance into any branch of the United States army service and good educational qualifications are essential. While previous military training and experience are desirable, they are not essential, and no political or social standing will be of the slightest avail unless the candidate be possessed of other qualifications required.

INSTITUTION IS DEMOCRATIC.

The camp is in no sense a rich man's club, but is, in the last analysis, an institution designed to discover and develop talent for leadership and the handling successfully of large bodies of men and intricate affairs with precision, speed and accuracy. In a word, executive ability of a high degree will be one of the principal qualities that the training camp will seek to bring out and, when found in the individual, will be developed to its highest degree from a military standpoint.

Experienced army officers and military experts will be in charge and the character of the instruction will be intensive. The first month's drill and training will be on infantry tactics. Those passing this test satisfactorily will be permitted to select the branch of the service most to their liking within certain prescribed limits.

Those who pass the preliminary

HOME

In Los Angeles' Wonderful Garden

f home is where the heart is, think how many people in the United States have their homes in Southern alifornia! It is the home, present or to be, of a great numbered throng.

There is a limited amount of tillable land, and, naturally the most desirable is taken first. It is human nature to wait until something has happened before we do the thing we should have done long before. We seem to think that because a thing is here it will always be there. After it begins to slip away we commence to get busy.

The time to buy land is now. While the metropolitan district is building up from the mountains to the sea, Los Angeles' magnificent garden, the San Fernando Valley, will be taken up rapidly in five-acre farms.

The best of these are at Van Nuys. The best of modern conveniences, comforts and advantages in the valley will always remain at Van Nuys. Every month witnesses a certain number of these locations from the market. Naturally the closer in places go first.

There are signs of a largely increased influx of homeseekers when peace comes. Consider these things while there is a chance to profit by your forethought.

Mark what we say: The time to buy land is now.

Call any day before 9 a.m. or before 1 p.m. and go on a private trip to Van Nuys—the center of Los Angeles' great and beautiful garden.

Worth Millions in Trade.

LOS ANGELES HOT AFTER TRANS-PACIFIC SERVICE.

First to Come to Nation's Aid with Ship Line Proposal.

LOS ANGELES desires to be the first city of the nation to co-operate with the government in establishing the nucleus of a great American merchant marine. Already it has made application for the privilege of establishing a trans-Pacific steamship service from our harbor to points in the Orient.

Secretary Clarence H. Matson yesterday presented the request and suggestions of the local Harbor Commission, Mayor Woodman and other officials to Chairman Brent of the Federal Shipping Board in Washington. Immediately after the conference, he wired Mayor Woodman that the plan had been well received and that possibly it may soon be taken up and tried out.

Naturally, a step of such importance for this community, as well as one involving so many angles of Federal regulation, will require some time to get under way. Its successful carrying out would prove one of the most important measures ever evolved for the development of Los Angeles Harbor.

OPEN MANY PORTS.

Such a line operated under the joint supervision of the municipality and government would open many ports of the Orient which up to this time have never sent a dollar's worth of goods to Los Angeles or received any from this port. Harbor Commissioner Gordon declared that it would attract millions of dollars' worth of other business in a short time and put the local harbor on the international map more quickly and successfully than any other step so far taken.

The basis of the city's suggestions to the Federal Shipping Board is well set out in the official communication tendered that body by Mr. Matson at the time of his arrival and reception yesterday. It sets forth the causes leading up to the request and covers other general phases of the situation. Attention is called to the change of policy of the Federal government, which found itself at the beginning of the European conflict cut off from foreign commerce because the nations of Europe controlled all of the shipping. The markets which have been gained by America recently can only be held by the fostering of an American merchant marine.

The shipping board was established by the government to assist in this establishment and only a few days ago received an appropriation of $50,000,000 with authority to invest this in the financing of American shipping. The board has the power of organizing corporations to build ships, purchase or lease and maintain them for a period covering the present war and five years after.

READY FOR TRADE WAR.

Such ships may be in turn chartered, leased or sold to American citizens for operation under the American flag. The plan practically proposes the financing of steamship operations in this present shipping crisis and also in the trade war which students of economics believe will follow close on the heels of a peace declaration.

In the past it has been a problem whether American ships could compete successfully with British, German, Norwegian, Japanese and other shipping. Under the newly-inaugurated plan adopted by Congress, American shippers can enter into real competition with prospects of success.

Attention is called to the charter of the city of Los Angeles, which permits the community to engage in the operation of steamship lines. Being able to embark in such a venture, Los Angeles is in a position to co-operate with the Federal authorities in the establishment of a permanent trans-Pacific line to the Orient.

In order to make this possible, the Shipping Board is requested to furnish the necessary vessels for such a line, leasing them on a basis of a division of the net earnings. The city wants the privilege of purchasing the vessels outright at their original cost to the government, less the net earnings and the interest paid to the government.

Los Angeles also asks the option of operating the line municipally or sub-leasing to private interests; in either event the vessels remaining under general jurisdiction of the Federal Board.

MUNICIPAL PROJECT, TOO.

The adoption of such a plan would mean the financing of a municipal enterprise by the government and its successful carrying out, possibly through the co-operation with private interests. In the event such a plan would successfully work out at the end of five years after the war, there would be no difficulty in having the city raise the necessary capital to take over the balance of government interest in the ships.

The desire of Los Angeles to enter immediately into such an arrangement rests with the ever-increasing possibilities of trade with Japan, China, the Philippine Islands and all parts of the Orient and down through the Pacific Ocean lanes of commerce.

At present it requires from three to four weeks for a ship to travel from New York to Los Angeles. The shipment of goods to this port by rail and transshipment by municipally operated vessels to foreign points would save sufficient time to make such a plan desirable. A month could be gained in this way for the cargo.

The ships could make almost two trips from this city to the Orient, for example to Vladivostok or Shanghai, in the time it would require a vessel to start from New York and make a single round trip, thus practically doubling the carrying power of the vessel.

Particular stress on local harbor facilities is made. Our new terminal sheds, wharves, warehouses and other conveniences, all connected with three transcontinental lines in addition to local electric and other means of transportation, are pointed out as remarkable advantages for the projected plan.

The speedy action of Los Angeles in taking up the proposition of the government is expected to be one of the principal reasons for having this community among the first in the nation to be given a chance to demonstrate the new theories.

Local shipping men, railroad officials, manufacturers and producers are all deeply interested in the proposal and present almost a unanimous front in calling for favorable action.

SAN DIEGO TAKES FIRM HOLD OF FOOD PROBLEM.

THE San Diego Chamber of Commerce is devoting much time and work to the subject of increased food production in that county. Comprehensive plans for the increase and conservation of the wide variety of crops raised there were considered at meetings held at the rooms of the chamber during the past week, when ten members of the State Department of Agriculture conferred with officers of the chamber and with ranchers, bankers and local officials.

The meetings, held under the auspices of the Southern California division of the Food Supply and Production Committee of the State Council of Defense, were presided over by Dr. H. J. Webber of Riverside. He was accompanied by Dr. L. D. Batchelor of Riverside and Dr. H. I. Rowland and Dr. R. S. Valle of Berkeley. All four are connected with the agricultural department of the University of California.

As a result of these meetings a detailed and thorough survey of live stock and crop conditions in San Diego county is to be made and forwarded to the Committee on Food Supply and Production. Figures and calculations will be given on present acreage of the all-year and summer crops, with suggested opportunities for increase, irrigation, labor conditions, farm machinery, straw, manure and seed conditions, pasturage, live stock, poultry, garbage disposition, vegetable supply and demands, crop pests, orchard and vineyard conditions, and much other practical information. Railroads will be called upon to supply statistics of shipments to other points. The persons making the surveys will be asked for suggestions which would help to attain increased production.

A committee of seven has been appointed to work in conjunction with H. A. Weinland, county farm adviser, on the various problems of production, conservation and marketing. hTe committee is composed of William Moore, Fallbrook; L. A. Blochman, San Diego; J. R. Blakieton, La Mesa; H. N. Timms, San Diego; Mrs. M. C. Eastlake, Normal Heights; R. N. Stevens, Poway; Mrs. Vernon Rood, San Diego. It will also co-operate with the San Diego Council of Defense, to be appointed by Gov. Stephens.

One of the most important problems to be solved is that of extending credit to farmers for machinery, labor, seed and other expense items incident to largely increased acreage; also to arrange with bankers for funds with which to erect elevators and warehouses for storing food products with which to guard against high prices caused by crop fluctuations.

CHILDREN IN A CROP CONTEST.

San Bernardino Youngsters Planting Produce for Money Awards.

Answering the call of the government for an increased crop production, San Bernardino is beginning to develop every available vacant lot within its boundaries with vegetables and potatoes. About 150 school children are in a contest of the Chamber of Commerce for cash prizes while 500 individual householders are growing gardens in the backyards of the homes.

All ranch property has a large percentage in potatoes, corn and other vegetables besides increased areas in hay and grain.

At Fontana, 3200 acres have been planted to tepary beans, and 3300 acres to other kinds of beans. Five hundred acres are in milo maize, 500 acres in peanuts, 200 in barley, 3200 in oat hay, and 100 acres in reserve for late potatoes. The production of chickens and hogs has increased 200 per cent.

Officers' Camp.

tests and are admitted to the camp must obligate themselves to attend for the full period of three months. They will be reimbursed for their transportation expenses and supplied with all equipment, including uniforms and subsistence while at the camp. If, at the end of the three-month period, all tests are satisfactorily met, those who are so recommended must also agree to accept the commission tendered and to hold themselves subject to the orders of the commanding general of the Western Department of the United States army at San Francisco.

PURCHASE OWN EQUIPMENTS.

Those receiving commissions will be entitled to the regular pay and allowance of corresponding grades in the regular army. When commissioned as reserve officers, each individual will be required to purchase his own uniform and equipment, except that officers below the grade of major, serving with troops, are not required to purchase horse equipment at their own expense.

The attendance at the officers' training camp at the Presidio is limited to 2500 men, a like number being allotted to each of the other three divisions of the United States army, making 10,000 in all who are being sought to officer, train, lead and direct the first army of 500,000 to be raised.

BIGGEST DAY YET.

Yesterday was the biggest day yet at local headquarters. Nearly 200 applicants for the Presidio camp were passed on.

The examining board has made arrangements to work early and late today, and all who have not been able to present their applications should do so at the earliest possible moment, as the military training camp headquarters expects hourly to receive instructions from the War Department to discontinue taking any more applications for this camp.

John S. Craven, chairman of the Military Training Camp Association, urges all applicants who have passed the examining board to keep in close touch with their home for the instructions from the headquarters of the Western Department. These instructions are due to come any time within the next few days and a compliance with this request will save both individuals and the War Department officials much inconvenience.

BAD POSTAL ORDER ORGY AT AN END.

BRAKE-BEAM TOURIST JAILED FOR BIZARRE THEFT.

Plasters Coast with Fake Paper After Chance Puts it in His Hands—Trail Leads to Arrest at San Diego—Companion Eludes Officers.

Postoffice Inspector Ranger yesterday swore to a complaint charging Edward F. Wilson, now in custody at San Diego, with the theft of 180 money orders taken from the postoffice at Ballentine, Mont. Nick Royston, said by Wilson to have been his companion, escaped the officers.

Wilson, who is 25 years of age, was a "bell-hop" at Butte, Mont., before his present trouble. He was beating his way on the railroad from Denver to Great Falls, Mont., when he hopped off the bumpers to mail a card to his sweetheart in Butte. As he entered the postoffice he saw the postmaster leaving the place in his shirt-sleeves, bound for a quiet game of pool at the village tavern. He also saw the money-order outfit lying on a table just inside the window, and he decided to appropriate it, which he did. It consisted of the books of the blank money orders, stamp, type, ink pad and cutter—in fact, all the machinery for making out perfectly good money orders, warranted to pass anywhere.

But after he got the stuff he did not know what to do with it. He had never handled money orders before.

So he jumped on to the same train that had carried him to the town and went to Spokane. He haunted the city library in the hope that he might find some book that would treat of the method necessary to make a marketable money order. He could find no publication but the monthly postoffice guide, on the back page of which was a facsimile of a money order made out ready for presentation. He took a few lessons and then began making out orders in sums varying from $10 to $80, and he had no trouble in getting money or merchandise in exchange for them. Nobody knew the name of the postmaster at Ballentine, and the orders were in perfect form. He unloaded fourteen in the city of Spokane, ten in Seattle, three in San Francisco, and three in Los Angeles. The orders here were for $80, $10 and $35 respectively.

Bucilla Indian Thread-kraft

This is the new art in crochet. It supplies at once the constant demand of needlewomen for the unusual and an opportunity to work upon objects and designs thoroughly North American.

The originators of this interesting work have adapted the rarest and most beautiful works of North American Indian basketry to the stitch of the crochet needle and yarn. From the bleak stretches of Alaska, which is the habitat of the Haida Indian, to Arizona, where lives the Hopi tribe, the inventors of this work have collected the strange symbolic designs of Indian religion and legends for you to work out in cotton yarns for the decoration of your own home.

Indian Threadkraft is brought out first at Ville de Paris. We have all the materials now in stock together with the designs for the making of these unique novelties, as well as instruction books with detailed explanations of each stitch. You will find this work of unusual interest, especially after you have learned the significance of the patterns you make.

Women's Wash Dresses Reduced to $8.85

If you will content yourself with a dress that is not as fresh as it should be and perhaps of last summer's late style the chance for you to secure a bargain of extreme uncommonness is yours tomorrow. Some of these dresses were actually priced nearly five times the present mark.

Hardly any two are alike and there are about 600 dresses in the lot. You can readily see what a wonderful assortment there is from which to choose.

Handsome lace trimmed net dresses, beautiful white lingerie dresses, flowered and colored voiles. Velvet girdles, ribbon sashes and dozens of other pretty trimmings.

One washing of any dress you buy will make it as crisp as though it were new.

Women's Wash Skirts Priced Unusually Low

Skirt of white cotton gabardine and pique; all with pockets and some button finished. Splendid quality materials cut in good styles—$1.00, $1.95, $2.95.

Sport striped wash skirts at a greatly reduced price—$1.95.

Wide stripes in high sports colors on white grounds.

Children's Wash Dresses Reduced to 95c, $1.95, $2.95, $4.95

Among the quantities to be placed on sale tomorrow some are clean and fresh, others broken lots, soiled and mussed from handling and display uses.

Originally each dress bore a price considerably in excess of the present marks and mothers should avail themselves of this splendid opportunity to purchase school or dress frocks for their girls at less than value.

Cotton crepe, white lingerie, plaid gingham and a few linen and pique dresses. Complete assortment of sizes (in the lot as a whole) for girls of 6 to 16 years.

Girls' Middy Blouses at 75c, $1.25, $1.50, $1.95

Odd lots and soiled blouses very much reduced in price. Most of them made of very good quality, serviceable white jean, although there are a few of fine galatea. Some with striped and others with solid color collars and trimmings.

Two Great Lots of Wash Goods Make An Unequaled May Event

A sale unusual for two reasons—first, because prices on fine wash goods are reduced at the season when the demand is greatest; second, because the values are far, far above the two prices exploited.

May Sale Wash Goods, 50c Yd.

Handsome summer materials of various weave, width and worth. Each color that is seasonable and popular is to be found in one piece or another of this exceptional collection.

40-in. embroidered voiles.

Neckwear of Surprising Prettiness and Quality at $1.00

Without hesitation we say "these are surely the finest examples of neckwear we have ever offered at one dollar."

The heavy, rich quality of the Georgette; the daintiness of the lace edges; the smartness of the shapes; and every other attribute a really fashionable piece of neckwear should possess is undeniably a part of them.

Many are charmingly hand embroidered. Some trimmed or inset with filet lace. Still others are hemstitched or picoted. And not a few may be had that combine two or more of these features.

All flat shapes. Here and there is a collar of Khaki-Kool for sport wear, but mostly they are of Georgette. Sale Monday in Second Aisle.

ANOTHER KIND?

Simultaneously with the rise in the price of bread from 10 to 15 cents a loaf comes the news that experiments have eliminated both the green color and the strong, weedy flavor from alfalfa flour and that alfalfa bread of fine flavor, quality and high food value is now obtainable. "Good morning—how many grass biscuits did you eat for breakfast?"

A DIRTY DEAL.

According to the complaint of an ignorant Mexican to the local police, two affable strangers sold him the picturesque gardens at the Santa Fe station for a consideration of $75. A few hours afterward the Mexican discovered that he had no legal claim to his purchase. It is such scoundrels as these salesmen who are largely to blame for most of the race prejudice in the world. The worst punishment that could be dealt them would be treatment all too kind.

THE PROPHETS.

Lloyds are betting ten to six that the war will end in eight months. Joseph H. Choate predicts that it will last two, three or four years longer. Etienne Grosclaude, the French journalist, former owner of the Paris Journal, regards the United States' declaration of war against Germany as the greatest step yet taken toward effecting a permanent world peace. The difference in predictions results from differences of viewpoint. One is as likely to be correct as another.

STRETCH.

Uncle Sam has no use for a soldier who is under five feet four inches or over six feet in height. He must weigh not less than 120 pounds and not more than 190 pounds. His teeth must be in good condition, his feet must not perspire. He must be able to read, write and speak the English language. He must be temperate, honest and truthful and as free from organic disease as a member of a baseball team.

A correspondent of The Times who is anxious to serve his country regrets that although otherwise eligible he is one-eighth of an inch short of five feet four inches. Let him lie in bed until 9 o'clock in the morning and then before he eats his breakfast go to the measuring station and "stretch." He will find that he is fully one-eighth of an inch taller than he will be after dinner.

GOOD USE FOR MONEY.

American money, the dollar-mark of democracy, may provide a fitting headstone for the sepulchre of Russian Czardom. It serves many other worthy democratic purposes. It may stiffen the new-born Slav republic to resist the insidious proposals of German intriguers to make a premature peace with the Prussian junkers that will still leave the Hohenzollern family on the throne, a threat to the future peace of Europe. If American money can rid the world of autocracy, insure permanent peace and guarantee for ever the rights of small nations, we should like to know in what more altruistic manner it could possibly be spent? Never before in the history of the world has a nation been so ready to pour forth its treasures for others—with the good of humanity (regardless of race or creed or country)—as the main object of entering world politics at the height of a stormy crisis.

WHY NATIONS FIGHT.

Wars between nations, like quarrels between individuals, have often—although not always—been the result of a purpose of one party to obtain an advantage, and of the other party not to suffer a disadvantage.

Nations need for their development conditions of peace which are international. Bertrand Russell says in his book, "Why Men Fight:" "The fundamental problem is to prevent the impulse toward war which seizes whole communities from time to time. And this can only be done by far-reaching changes in education, in the economic structure of society and in the moral code by which public opinion controls the lives of men and women."

Human activity springs from impulse and desire. The war now raging grew, in the main, out of the life of impulse, not out of reason or desire. There was an impulse of aggression on the part of the Hohenzollerns and the Hapsburgs, and an impulse of resistance to aggression on the part of the Entente Allies.

The same impulses which lead to war, with better training, lead to the best things the world has. Every outlet to these impulses and energies, even conflicts which do not lead to strife—such as industrial and commercial competition—lessens the probabilities of war and is therefore good.

"The power of thought," says Mr. Russell, "in the long run is greater than any other human power. Those who have the ability to think and the imagination to think in accordance with men's needs are likely to achieve the good they aim at sooner or later. The supreme principle, both in politics and private life, should be to promote all that is creative and so to diminish the impulses and desires that center round mere possession of that which others have created, for it is the desire of such possession that is one of the main causes of war and one of the main hindrances to freedom, industrial, economic and political.

ARMY PREPARATIONS.

For the first time in our history, the United States is hammering out something like a real military policy. We have had our share of wars; but always, heretofore, our military preparations have been made under pressure of time. We have had to scramble together whatever makeshift army we could get and march out to meet the foe. In this crisis, for once, we are able to proceed to the task with a measurable degree of leisure.

Upon these preparations, however, depends our future place in history. This world is approaching an era of very difficult times. Our position in these future whirlpools will depend very largely upon the showing that we make in this one. To the degree that we manage to keep the new army out of politics, to that degree will we succeed in building up a structure of military efficiency that will be equal to our occasions.

The problem of President Wilson is one requiring extraordinary tact and firmness. The General Staff and the Army War College have war plans which cover every detail of the construction of a military force. Were it possible to turn the problem over to them and say, "Gentlemen, you know what ought to be done; do your duty," it would be a very simple matter. In a great, loosely-knit country like the United States, however, greed and selfishness, masquerading as fervid patriotism, make this obvious plan impossible.

In the President's position, it is not a question of, "What is the best thing to be done?" but the question of "How much of the best thing to be done will it be possible for me to do?"

At present, the military plan of the government seems to be as follows:

As many young college men and men trained to positions of authority in the business world as can be selected will be mobilized next month into military training camps. In the course of four months intensive training, the army officers in charge of these camps will go over the cadets with a fine-tooth comb and select those who have the natural intelligence, the bearing and the instinct for commanding men. Those who fail to qualify will be sent home.

The first contingent of drafted young soldiers will be summoned to the colors in August or September. By that time the newly-made officers at these training camps will have learned at least the rudiments of their new trade. They will be able to go into the recruit school as instructors of tactics and to finish their training with the drafted recruits whom they will command.

By this date next year, we should have an army of close to a million well trained young men ready to do our part in whatever game the disturbed world diplomacy deals us a hand.

Before that, it would be criminal folly to send troops into the war.

We read a great deal in the press dispatches about Col. Roosevelt's preparations for taking a division to France; and about the proposition of sending over our regular army. Gen. Joffre, say the dispatches, has signified his desire to have something of the kind done.

Gen. Joffre is a grand old officer and is naturally eager that succor should be sent at the earliest possible moment to the relief of his hard-pressed legions. But it is inconceivable that our government should commit the folly of attempting to send over our soldiers before they are ready, and while they are needed here.

Both plans mentioned are beyond the bounds of good sense. Col. Roosevelt is no doubt a man of high courage and energy, but war making is now the most difficult and intricate of all professions. It involves a knowledge of more technical matters than any other general line of human endeavor. Col. Roosevelt has had no real military training. To be plain about it, he doesn't know the job. If he wishes to offer his military services to the nation, he should go to an officers' training camp just as other patriotic citizens are doing, there to learn the trade of soldiering.

The proposal to send our regular army over to France sounds like the suggestion of a madman. Does it seem quite sane to walk cold-bloodedly and deliberately into the same appalling blunder that England committed in the early days of the war?

Like England, we have plenty of brave and willing young men, but we lack trained officers. To a very great degree we will have to look to the regular army to supply the higher officers for the immense new military force to be created by the draft. All the regulars now holding commissions will undoubtedly be transferred to positions of importance in the new army. Such of the enlisted men of the army as are fitted by education and temperament to command will also be needed.

To send our regular army to France would be like throwing your rifle at the enemy instead of shooting at him with bullets.

This country is prepared to give aid and assistance to the Allies to the last degree of meaning that those words hold; but we will go about the task in our own way and as the situation seems to dictate to us.

PUBLIC OPINION AND POPULAR RULE

Public opinion is the greatest moral force in the world. No government censorship, no restriction placed on the right of public print or public meeting, can prevent its expression any more than an artificial fence can stop the wind from blowing, or a mechanical breakwater hinder the rise and fall of the tides.

Give public opinion a proper vent and it will discharge itself beneficially; seek to imprison it and it will break through all restraints. Russia for centuries had public opinion tightly corked and bottled, but when its dynamic force passed the strength of the container, it shattered Czardom and autocracy overnight. Prussian junkers are stifling German opinion for the time being with the cotton-wool batting of mendacious reports; they thus simply postpone the inevitable day of reckoning.

At once the safety and the triumph of democracy are found in the free play given public opinion. This is its first distinguishing feature. The right of the ballot box and the power of the press must always divide democracy from absolutism. For, while the press can certainly direct public opinion, it is none the less true that public opinion also controls the power of the press. Indeed the two are so closely combined that one may be said to be part and parcel of the other.

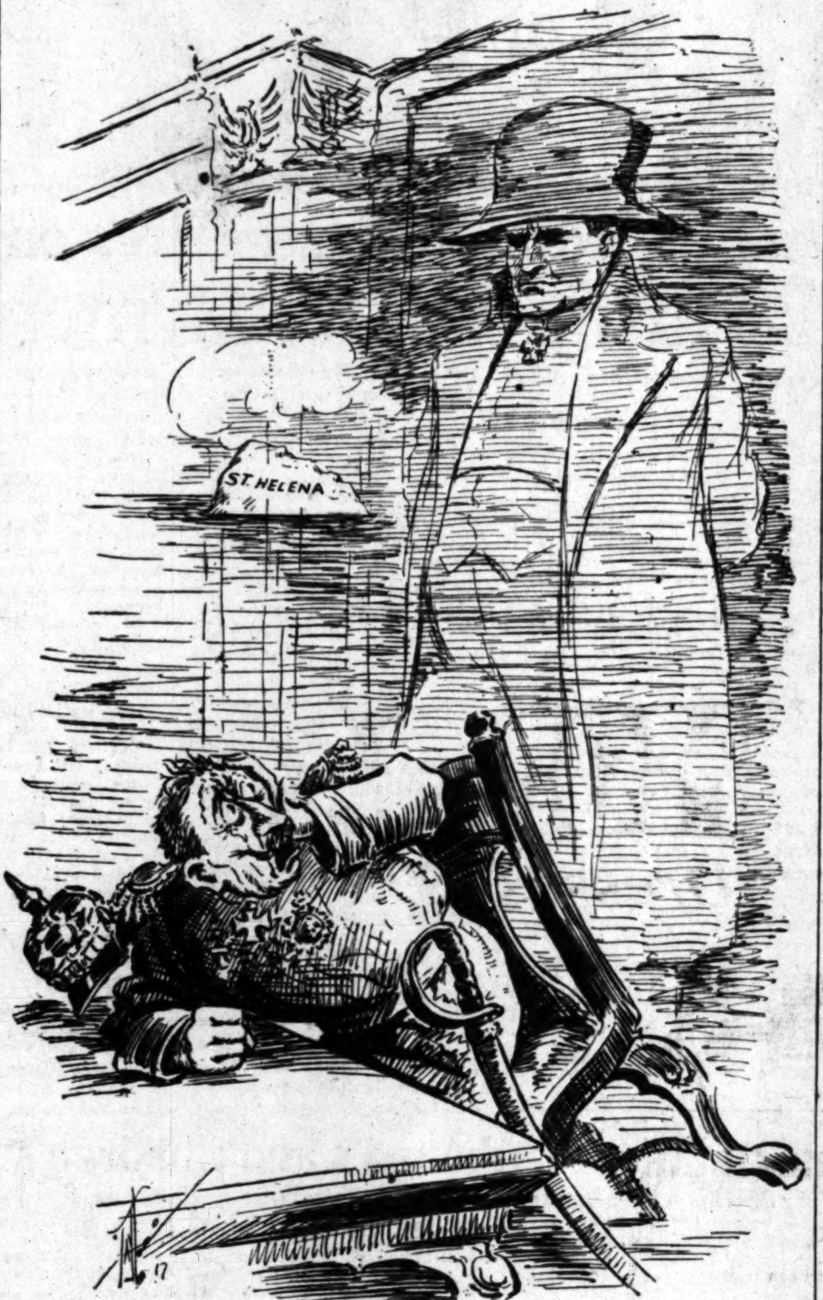
Therefore you cannot curtail the legitimate office of the newspaper, the magazine, the periodical, book or pamphlet without striking a blow at the freedom of public opinion—and once you fetter public opinion you have damaged the foundation of democracy. Furthermore, the best way to mould public opinion is always to give the people the plain facts, palatable or unpleasant, of every occurrence and event on which their future welfare may hinge and allow the bearing of such events on any immediate issue to be discussed frankly and sensibly in public print.

For the first two years of the war the British official censor attempted vainly to muzzle Lord Northcliffe and his big leading papers. But being a strong, patriotic and popular editor and knowing he had public opinion behind him, he resisted all concealment of facts that might properly be reported and all efforts to sterizile editorial comment. Also because he had public opinion to back him, he was able to show himself stronger than the official censor.

What was the result? The triumph of Lord Northcliffe marked the end of the period of bungling and blunder by British leaders and diplomats. With the installment of Lloyd George as Premier, for which the great London editor had consistently worked, England started on a career of victory both in France and in Asia Minor.

Does the American press need a Prussian censor? Are our newspapers less potent for good or less patriotic than those of Great Britain? Shall we start the war with the initial mistake made by the British government?

A Vision.



THE ANTI-INJUNCTION MISTAKE.

Unless Gov. Stephens has the courage and the consistency to veto the anti-injunction, free-contempt-of-court, pro-boycott, pro-picketing law that the agents of Gompers succeeded in inducing the Assembly to enact on Thursday, we are menaced locally with more serious troube than any threatened by Mr. Hohenzollern.

The law, if it becomes such by Gov. Stephens signing it, is both mischievous and unnecessary. Section 1, which declares that labor unions are not unlawful, is not needed. No court has ever adjudged them to be unlawful and no community has ever complained of them as such. It is the abuse of their power by labor union leaders and not their legitimate use that is the subject of complaint. For instance, the cooperation of workers in seeking to obtain higher wages, lesser hours of toil, improved sanitary conditions and mutual help to each other is legitimate and commendable, unless violence, threats and other illegitimate means are used to obtain such legitimate ends.

The second section, which prohibits the issuance of injunctions in any case between an employer and employee unless necessary to prevent irreparable injury to property or for which there is no adequate remedy at law, is totally unnecessary, for it makes applicable to labor disputes principles of equity jurisdiction which have always been applicable to such disputes and to all disputes. No injunction has ever been issued unless the injury threatened was irreparable, such, for instance, as the cutting down of a shade tree in a garden, or where there was no adequate remedy at law, such, for instance, as the insolvency of the defendant and his inability to respond in damages.

The third section, which prohibits the issuance of injunctions against strikes or promoting strikes, is also unnecessary. No court ever issued an injunction to prevent a worker from striking either individually or in concert with others. It is only against the unlawful conduct of strikes by threats of destruction of the property of an employer, or of injury to the person of a worker who refuses to strike that have been enjoined.

The mischief of the Flaherty law is in the succeeding sections, which would practically destroy the right of injunction altogether, by paralyzing "the right arm of equity" and taking away from courts the power to punish summarily for violation of injunctional orders.

Blackstone says: "Laws without a competent authority to secure their administration from disobedience and contempt would be vain and nugatory. A power therefore in the courts of justice to suppress such contempts by an immediate attachment of the offender results from the first principles of judicial establishments and must be an inseparable attendant upon every superior tribunal." (4 Black. Com. 286.)

The Supreme Court of the United States says: "The power to punish for contempt is inherent in all courts; its existence is essential to the preservation of order in judicial proceedings, and to the enforcement of the judgments, orders and writs of the courts, and consequently to the due administration of justice." (19 Wall U. S. 505.)

The Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts says: "The summary power to commit and punish for contempts tending to obstruct or degrade the administration of justice is inherent in courts of chancery as essential to the execution of their powers and to the maintenance of their authority, and is part of the law of the land within the meaning of Magna Charta and of the twelfth article of our Declaration of Rights." (114 Mass. 238.)

The Supreme Court of Mississippi says: "The power to fine and imprison for contempt, from the earliest history of jurisprudence, has been regarded as a necessary incident and attribute of a court and without which it could no more exist than without a judge. It is a power inherent in all courts of record, and co-existing with them by the wise provisions of the common law. A court without the power to effectually protect itself against the assaults of the lawless, or to enforce its judgments, orders or decrees against the recusant parties before it, would be a disgrace to the legislation, and a stigma upon the age which invented it." (36 Miss. 341.)

The Mississippi Supreme Court aptly characterized such a pro-contempt of court law as passed the Assembly at Sacramento on Thursday. It is "a disgrace to the legislation" of California and a stigma upon the legislators who voted to give it a place among the statutes of this State.

WANTED—A LITTLE TRUST.

Is it the ego in man that prevents him placing the same faith in his fellowman that he has in himself? All of us expect our friends to come to us in time of trouble yet many of us hesitate about requesting the least favor from those who are nearest and dearest to us. There are men who are Christian enough to return good for evil and yet who fall short of observing the Golden Rule when it comes to trusting a friend for help in time of need. Or is it false pride that so often stands like a shadow between friends? In either case embarrassment arises from lack of understanding and the failure to trust.

Simple Solution.

[Chicago Herald:] Passenger: How do you manage to get the men in your car to move forward?

Conductor: I have the motorman let the pretty girls in by the front door.

Misapplied Adage.

[Washington Star:] "I amassed by industry the fortune which you squander in idleness," said the reproachful father.

"Well," replied the gilded youth, "that's the rule. Business before pleasure."

Indications of more trouble in Ireland. The green isle bothers John Bull like fleas in an Apache's blanket.

BEING THE PARTICULAR PEPPER IN SOME PERSONAL OPINIONS

Of Don Yo de Chiltepin.

And while we are Democratizing the World, we might begin with the Monroe Doctrine and Mexico. Take away the rifles and machetes from the peons, and give 'em a rubber stamp and a five-foot Californitiat-referend-Damn Ballot instead—and Make 'Em Use it. That ought to get up our muscle so we could come Home on Furlough and Make our own Best Citizens Vote!

Myself (though I may be mistaken,) I think the Slacker who gets married to avoid Service—because he thinks it would be simpler to abuse one wife than his duties as a soldier—honestly, he looks to me like a gentleman and a scholar beside the "Good Citizen" who is too busy to go to the polls; who "has to attend to business"—which is on the average and largely to doll his wife and feed her tradesmen. War is a real bother. I don't blame a man for not jumping into it without a second thought.

But going to your precinct place, and stamping your little half-mile ticket, isn't exactly as full of sacrifice as a term in the trenches. Talk about Slackers!

When the voters of the country do their duty by the ballot-box, the boys of the country will do their duty by the rifles!

And not till, then! And that's why, though we "Huff and Puff," the enlistments go so Sinful Slow. It's a Disgrace to—the Nation? Yes! And to you and me!

Maybe so, when we had Democratized our own "Better Class" to their civic duty—and I sometimes wonder "Better" than What?—We might feel fit enough for our responsibilities so the Negro, near-Negro, Negroid and Plain Nigger could Vote, in one certain geographical third of our country. These folk are far fitter to vote than the peon is. But neither Mexico nor Georgia counts them "as voted."

I hope to God—the God of Hosts, the God of Our Fathers (who were not Slackers)—that Selective Conscription will get this lazy "nation" by the scruff of the neck and the slack of the trousers and hustle it to the Front. It may cost me what is dearest in all the world; but that's what I owe my Country in her need. If I were 20 years younger, no Draft would have to come looking under the bed for me, for the denfense of this My Country. It wouldn't have to look for me, anyhow. I'm here. But if it said to me "You are Conscripted to fight for King Georgietta," I would remark: "Please search your Guessery for some other. Three times in my young and Inexperienceness I Intervened and kept a male from beating his Wife-if-she-was. And if she wasn't, she deserved to be. For each of the three times, when the Gentleman Expostulated at my meddling in his Prerogative, I knocked him out. And each time the Lady jumped on my back and bit my ears and clawed my face. And I have a bully broken nose as a memento of my last attempt to referee a Family Row. Thank you most to death—but I have been credibly informed that the European household is older and bigger than ours. Let them pull their own hair. But any time any of them look cross-eyed at my wife or sister or sweetheart or Mother—which is my Country—you won't need to send me a post-card. If they "shinny on their own side," luck to the stoutest shins. But if ever they—or any, or all of them—try to set one hostile toe on this My Land, I guess my white hair will turn black in a single night! Anyhow, I'll be at the front door, what ever my years, to "welcome them" (as Bob Toombs said,) "with bloody hands to hospitable graves."

But as for me, an American, fighting in foreign lands for foreign causes—nay—"Let Teddy Do It!"

Not only American, I am also Californian. And "Bigotty" in both.

And the other night the dictitates of Curtesy (I sometimes think we social cowards should spell it phonetically,) forced me to sit an evening and swallow a film called "The Argonauts of California, 1849."

It was pretty well staged for a premiere; a reasonably human sequence of love, villainy and triumphant virtue. As my own also triumphs, I could stand being bored with the repetition. I sorrowed somewhat to see New England boys advanced to khaki panties and puttees in 1849, which was almost too Prophetic. And shovels of 1916 seemed to me also a little Anticipatory. But they saved my life by not having the Village Blacksmith send his "Unfortunate Daughter" away in a Ford.

Nor was I seriously concerned over the boiling down of ten years of history into six months. The Movies Must Live!

And I swallowed and forgave when two lean Los Angeles stable horses hauled an old "Prairie Schooner" over the landscape of Griffith Park—and wished the Forty Niners had had the same impresario!

But to see the Villain working a Winchester pump-gun hurt my rifle eye. And when this film (exploited as Historic of this my little State,) got the Gold Discovery, and the "Panning" and the "rocker" and the "sluices"—I backslid. I had almost forgotten how to Swear—but Damme if I will ever forget again!

Why, a ranch-hand "chucking" his wash-basin would save as much gold as these "actors" would with their "panning." And it was not usual to "sluice" leaf-mould.

And the picture of the Vigilance Committee was even worse—if anything on God's red earth could be worse.

The wicked "Alcalde of San Francisco" is a large figure in this sorry show. San Francisco had no alcalde in any time touched by this story. It had an American Mayor. The whole picture of the Vigilante rule is an affront to historic truth.

I'm no Drumatic Critic. But this Flim tells the world about My California. And it doesn't Lie—for it Means Well. But the Truth is Not in It. And any old frontiersman who sees it will either get mad enough to fight, or laugh himself sore.

WHAT IS UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING?

(CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES)

BY ALBERT BUSHNELL HART,

Professor of Government at Harvard University.

IT APPEARS that many members of Congress are startled at the idea of conscription of the young men of the land for the army and navy. One would think that conscription was unsuited for democracies, a violation of personal liberty, an odious form of slavery. That is not the way our ancestors looked at it. The English colonies in North America, which were the freest and most democratic communities then existing on the face of the earth, would have gone under the arrows and tomahawks of the Indians but for universal military service, which then was the universally-acknowledged right of the colony or settlement to call upon every able-bodied man to aid in its defense. At the time of the revolution every State in the Union claimed the right to the military service of its men; and stout-hearted Deborah Sampson felt so ill-used at being shut out from the privilege that she put on men's clothes and served for three years in the continental army. During the Civil War this duty of supporting the government by personal military service was enforced by drafts in the States which would not otherwise fill their quotas. Even aliens were called upon for military service, on penalty of exclusion from the country that they would not defend.

Universal military training is also one of the oldest military ideas in North America. The colonists recognized that the only way to have soldiers when needed was to train them beforehand. Hence as late as 1850, in many parts of the Union, training day was as much a part of public duty as election day or the payment of taxes. The first detailed militia law of the United States enjoined upon every able-bodied man to provide his own weapons, powder, shot and equipments. The truth is that every male child is born with the obligation to serve his country in war if he should ever be needed. He can no more escape from that liability than he can from his obligation to obey the laws.

Other countries have relied for defense upon paid armies, the members of which marched in the ranks or fought the national enemies, on the same terms that they would have cut down trees or built stone walls—their service was paid with wages. What could be more undemocratic? What would be the position of the United States now if it had to depend only upon such part of its population as could be hired to risk life and limb. The only safety for this country under present world conditions is to apply its right to command the services of its sons on a vast scale.

One form of conscription is odious; it is the old European method of calling out a lot of young men and then choosing part of them by lot and letting the rest go back home. That was really worse than the system of hired soldiers, because it allowed chance to determine who should make the soldiers' sacrifices of time and business opportunity, and perhaps of life. The true and equal democratic method is to call upon some definite recognized section of the male population, most conveniently by ages. For instance, if Congress provides that every able-bodied man between the ages of 20 and 21 shall be called, then the service in every part of the country and among all classes of the population is equal. Out of this breat mass it is then easy to release the numerous men who are shown by medical examination not to be fit for the exacting duties of the soldier in the field. Young men who are the only support of families can also be set aside, at least for the time being. The remainder, representing every section of the country, will then constitute a citizen army. As more troops are needed, they can be had by calling up another year—say from 20 to 21 or 19 to 20—and going through the same process.

The only alternative is volunteering; which means that the men offering themselves will be of a great variety of ages. They will be unequally distributed among the States, they will feel themselves and be looked upon as the special patriots and heroes of the war. As time goes on, volunteering falls off, perhaps when it is most needed, and final resort must be had to the draft, which will almost necessarily be by lot. The government will then be placed in the attitude of forcing its sons to defend their mother. Universal military training is the only proper preparation for that universal military service of definite age classes which will enable the republic to continue as a great and powerful nation.

THE GIANT.

You have had a lot of woe, Kaiser Bill; and a lot more you will know, Kaiser Bill; for the giant of the west straps his harness on his breast and will knock you from your nest, Kaiser Bill. Patient was the giant long, Kaiser Bill; bearing injury and wrong, Kaiser Bill; hoping that a ray of sense would pervade your cranium dense, that you'd let up your offense, Kaiser Bill. But you tramped the giant's toes, Kaiser Bill; and you tweaked the giant's nose, Kaiser Bill; now you see the giant rise with the war light in his eyes, and he'll soak your Prussian guys, Kaiser Bill. You're exhausted by the strain Kaiser Bill; full of weariness and pain, Kaiser Bill; you are going stony broke and your folks will bear the yoke of taxation till they croak, Kaiser Bill. You have strained your last resource, Kaiser Bill, in your work that's rude and coarse, Kaiser Bill; dotards who are bent and gray, children from their schoolyard play you are dragging to the fray, Kaiser Bill. But the giant of the west, Kaiser Bill, has an ample treasure chest, Kaiser Bill; tortured by no bloody thirst, by no war lord visions curst, he will chop you into wurst, Kaiser Bill.

The Morris Plan Bank, a branch of which has been organized in Los Angeles with a capital of $500,000, was the subject of an illuminating talk by A. J. Getting Ready.

COUNTY'S WAR PREPAREDNESS MEASURES SWIFTLY DEVELOP.

Food Production Movement Gathers Splendid Impetus as Defense Council Presses Propaganda—Home Guard Units Welded into an Army.

THE immediate result of the movement to get Los Angeles county into a state of war preparedness through the efforts of the County Committee on Defense has been a tremendous enthusiasm and a hearty co-operation on the part of the people. As a step toward defense, the solution of the food problem has been attacked first. Coincident with the universal cultivation of vegetables has been the organization of home guards in each city of the county.

The food production movement has attained immense proportions. The meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce on the 19th inst., under the auspices of the county committee appointed by the Board of Supervisors, bore immediate fruit in increased planting throughout Los Angeles county. There was a quickened interest and enthusiasm everywhere, declares Supervisor John J. Hamilton, member of the committee.

Calls came in for speakers informed on the subject of food production. Dr. Jessie Russell, associated with F. E. Doty and Horticultural Commissioner Wood on the county committee, received nine invitations to address women's clubs, and other calls for assistance came in within three days. To co-ordinate the work of the two organizations and prevent overlapping Mr. Doty accepted the secretaryship of the County Council of Defense, to serve without salary, and Dr. Russell placed data of all kinds collected by her at the disposal of Judge Finlayson's somewhat broader organization.

FOOD PROPAGANDA.

Judge Finlayson stated his committee is organizing in every small town and hamlet in the county. These local organizations will work among the people in each locality, stimulating them to produce food. This is the main thing just now, and great stress is laid on the conservation of things to eat, for if the war continues lean years may be expected and a constant rise in prices of food supplies. Housewives are interesting themselves in the work and showing great enthusiasm.

The committee is urging that every householder cultivate his back yard and raise the things used in homes. Judge Finlayson urges lots of corn, lots of grain. The starving people of Europe have to be fed. The aim is to have a great surplus to spare for these war sufferers. The committee is seeking to have free seeds distributed to the people. At Monday night's meeting in Judge Finlayson's chambers in the Courthouse Prof. Luther G. Brown is expected to be present with a plan for the distribution of seed.

The military organization is in the hands of Sheriff John C. Cline. As the plan is working out, the county will have a home guard of 5000 men available at any given point in a very short time. He is chairman of the Defense Committee. This army of home guards will be officered and drilled. It will comprise deputy sheriffs and special deputies, all under orders. They are drilled every night and are rounding into a high state of efficiency. Organization is taking place in some part of the county each night.

MOTOR TRANSPORT.

Each city and town will have its own home guard, an integral part of the main body. They will keep in constant touch with Sheriff Cline. In the event of an alarm, either of invasion or some great disturbance, the home guards from all towns will be transported by automobile, one machine for every four men. These automobiles are being furnished by the county, private individuals, municipal bodies and many by the guards themselves.

Los Angeles has a home guard of 5000 men. In three hours the rest of the home guards could be concentrated here, perfectly officered and armed. The guards are armed with .30-30 Winchesters and wear khaki uniforms. A system of signals has been devised and meeting places designated for assembly.

The larger cities of the county all have efficient bodies of home guards. In case of need the word is to be flashed to adjoining cities or towns and their home guards will respond. On a general alarm there is to be instant and military movement toward the threatened point.

Sheriff Cline says his "army" is showing the true spirit of patriotism. The men train willingly and the effect on their general health is noticeable. The rotund deputies are pulling in their belt bands. They are quicker on their feet, and with the military knowledge they are acquiring, they see more deeply into the significance of the organization of the home guards.

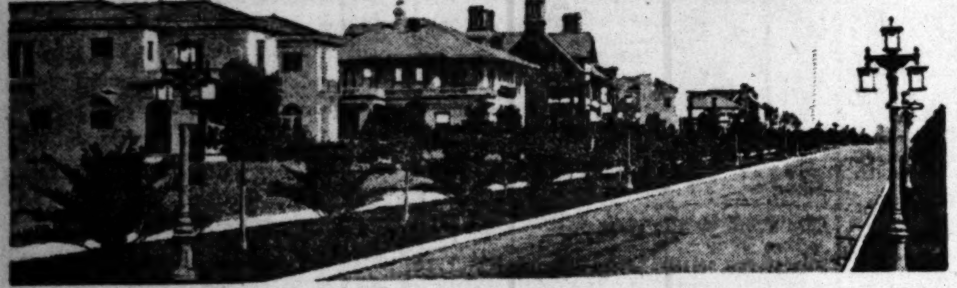
The city councils in the various municipalities are meeting the needs of the home guards by furnishing everything for which they can find the means.

This "army," all more or less accustomed to the use of firearms, represents the spirit of Los Angeles county. As soon as the various companies now being drilled have received sufficient training, it is the intention to assemble them in one grand body for inspection and for evolutions en masse.

The women are doing their share toward the state of preparedness. If the home guards should be called into action, the women will be found doing the work they are best fitted for. Many have offered to join the guards. In the mountainous districts of Los Angeles county are women who are crack shots and who are capable of marching without fatigue.

The members of the Defense Committee are Judge Finlayson, Sheriff Cline, Chairman Hamilton of the Board of Supervisors, Dist.-Atty. Woolwine, J. B. Banning, F. E. Trask and J. Ross Clark.

Why $150,000 Sales IN 30 DAYS IN WINDSOR SQUARE



Because Windsor Square is Dominant Quality —Dominant Value—Dominant Protection

This picture shows what is happening in Los Angeles' residence districts where restrictions are expiring

Protect Yourself

by building your home in Windsor Square, where large area and 50-year restrictions give absolute protection to every home investment

This can never happen in Windsor Square

Improvements

—Finest and most complete money can produce—paved streets, ornamental street lighting, gas, water, sewers, underground wiring—all complete and paid for.

Value

—33⅓ per cent. cash discount, 5 per cent. building discount, brings inside frontage to $65.00 per foot, corners $80.00 per foot. This makes Windsor Square positively the lowest priced property purchasable in the Wilshire District today.

Protection

—Windsor Square comprises 100 acres, bound by unbreakable restrictions for 50 years. Flats, apartments, stores and garages can never invade Windsor Square.

If you want a magnificent homesite at less than market value—act now. Don't wait until too late. Discounts will positively be withdrawn in a short time without notice.

CALL COUNCILS OF DEFENSE.

State and Local Bodies to Meet Here Week from Next Wednesday.

Announcement was made yesterday that a meeting of the State Council of Defense and the subsidiary Los Angeles Council of Defense will be held in the Supreme Court rooms in the Union League Building at 10 o'clock a.m. Wednesday, May 10. Gov. Stephens and a number of prominent members of the council, from the north will attend.

It is understood that the matters to be taken up at this meeting will largely deal with the problems of food, increased production and conservation.

Animated News.

FARM-AID MOVEMENT

Even Children Take Part in the Big Campaign of Cultivation, as Shown in Current Issue of "Times"-Universal Weekly.

Even the children are doing their "bit" in helping to avert a food shortage, in answer to President Wilson's official call for volunteers for the farms, as evidenced in an effective episode in the current issue of the "Times"-Universal Animated Weekly. An interesting angle of the campaign to avert food shortage is provided, showing the lawn of Bellevue Hospital, New York, being converted into a vegetable garden, with physicians and patients wielding plow and spade. Tubercular children, and even babies, are seen aiding in the work. The film draws attention to the slogan, "Plant now before it is too late."

The continuance of the mobilization proceedings is revealed on the screen in an effective bit of film, bearing the title of "Rally 'Round the Flag, Boys!" Sidelights on enlistments in various sections of the country add color to this section. At Universal City, itself, is shown the establishment of a recruiting camp, the film folk proving their loyalty to the flag. Another especially interesting feature is the parade of the Italian veterans of the Turco-Italian War, now living in this country, in an effort to bring about the enlistment of their compatriots. Edouardo Ferrari-Fontana, Metropolitan Opera tenor, who equipped the contingent, appears on the screen. This was taken in New York. The monster parade and demonstration in the same city by 100,000 citizens to win recruits for army and navy is also a notable feature.

The nature of other portions of the film is indicated as follows: U. S. warship foils U-boat; West Point students graduated two months ahead of schedule; last of Greek liners torpedoed; Brooklyn subway cave-in; wedding of Archie Roosevelt; Massachusetts Institute of Technology's annual book rush; Christy Mathewson inaugurates 1917 baseball season as manager of Cincinnati Reds.

Soil's Wealth.

GREAT VALLEY CROPS MOVING.

Imperial Ships New Potatoes and Onions Actively.

Besides Live Stock, Dairy and Poultry Produce.

Peas and Lettuce Also Sent Out; Tomatoes Ripen.

Augmenting the immense shipments of livestock, butter, poultry and eggs, potatoes and onions began to move from Imperial Valley in carload lots last week. Shipments of these vegetables in full and mixed carloads will go East and West in large quantities for the next forty days.

A review of the onion situation shows there will be approximately 128,000 crates of Imperial white silverskins and white king onions shipped from the valley. The growers ask $5 per crate. There are 635 acres of onions, and the yield and quality are exceptionally satisfactory. Imperial onions command a far better price than the Texas product, among eastern buyers.

The first new potatoes were shipped from the valley week before last, but the shipment of large lots began last week. According to county officials, there are 485 acres of potatoes planted. D. Kimora alone has planted 120 acres and he has a large crew of men with machines digging on his Meloland lease. The "spuds" are bringing the growers 9 cents a pound, and are of exceptionally fine quality.

Peas from 785 acres have been going forward from Brawley in carload lots. Lettuce has been moving out of that city at the rate of four to six carloads per day. Tomatoes are beginning to ripen, and small shipments of this vegetable will begin this week.

Most of Imperial's early vegetable and fruit crops, the first in the country, go East because eastern dealers are able to offer higher prices than those on the Coast.

The total of 1,000,000 tons of feed will be Imperial Valley's answer to the appeal of the State Council of Defense that the California farmers plant, as of first importance, crops used as food for domestic animals. This estimate is given by the Imperial Valley Official Information Bureau at No. 604 South Spring street. Six hundred thousand tons of alfalfa, 150,000 tons of milo maize and 100,000 tons of barley will be raised in the valley this year, which, with Sudan grass and other sorghums, barley cut as hay and milo stalk fodder, will make up the big total. Calculated in pounds, the Imperial feed production will be 2,000,000,000, or capacity for 100,000 freight cars.

Milo is particularly recommended by the State Council and agricultural authorities, and in Imperial Valley at this time, planting has begun on the largest milo acreage ever seeded in any county in the West—125,000 acres. Barley threshing has begun and as soon as this grain is off, the barley acreage will be planted to milo. The milo which follows barley will be harvested in October and November and the yields will run between one and two tons per acre. The normal valley price for milo is around $20 per ton. At present milo is bringing better than $60, although it is expected to fall somewhat when the new crop comes in.

FOOD HOARDERS HOLD THE SACK.

Decline in Prices has Already Begun and will Continue.

Leading produce dealers and wholesale grocers of the city report that food hoarding by individual citizens of Los Angeles has practically come to a halt. It was this frenzied buying by many of the panic-stricken that sent food prices during the past two weeks to such abnormal heights. As these hoarders have now satisfied their wants at top prices, they are due for for a simple lesson in economics. The withdrawal of the buying power that they furnished the market will result in a swift decline of values in almost all commodities. This drop in prices has already started. Yesterday new-crop onions, green beans, tomatoes and many other vegetables began to slump and it will be the turn of the more stable commodities within another day or so. Within two weeks, or a month at the latest, the food hoarder of Los Angeles will have the misery of seeing his investment in "eats" depreciated fully 50 per cent.

UNDER SUBMISSION.

Court Reserves Judgment on Power Pole Ordinance.

After hearing extended arguments by W. B. Mathews, chief counsel of the power bureau, and Herbert J. Goudge, in behalf of Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, on the question whether the ordinance adopted by the City Council March 7, last, compelling the corporation to remove poles and lines from York boulevard, was legal and constitutional, Judge B. F. Bledsoe took the matter under submission.

In the opening of the argument the day previous, the court announced that in his judgement the ordinance was unsound, and that the burden of proving it otherwise was on the city. But at the conclusion of the argument yesterday, Judge Bledsoe said the matter was too important to give an off-hand opinion.

"WAR GARDENS" TOWN'S HOBBY.

All Long Beach Buzzing with Greatest Enthusiasm.

Armies of School Children Plant for Prizes.

Large Acreage Assured for Beans and Potatoes.

With thousands of pupils of the city schools entering with heart and soul into the movement, and the citizens generally patriotically responding to the request of President Wilson to plant, and plant now, while the planting is good, it is estimated that by next Tuesday Long Beach will have in addition to 1000 backyard gardens, 800 lots, or about 160 acres, in crops. Most of this acreage is being set out to potatoes and beans.

Reports from the principals of the city schools, the municipal commissioners and officials of the Chamber of Commerce indicate that the enthusiasm displayed on every hand in developing "war gardens" has far exceeded the highest expectations of those promoting the movement.

The work of converting vacant lots and back yards into cultivated acreage is being conducted in a well-organized and systematic manner. The local merchants and other business men are responding to the request of the Chamber of Commerce for prizes to be offered to the boys and girls of the local schools who make the best showing in gardens. Several hundred dollars in garden tools, merchandise, and cash already have been offered for prizes.

Mayor William T. Lisenby has introduced an ordinance which will go into effect within a week providing for a substantial reduction in water rates for those planting vacant lots.

The hoe and the rake may be the implements with which the high school boys will carry on their gymnasium work for the remainder of the school year. Principal David Burcham has recommended that the Board of Education allow the 100 boys in the gymnasium classes to plow up and plant an acre and a quarter owned by the board adjacent to the High School athletic field, and allow the work to count as a "gym" credit.

The pupils of the Temple-avenue grammar school prefer developing war gardens to athletics, while the baseball and track teams have disbanded and started planting.

Several hundred dollars' worth of free seeds are being distributed by the National Bank of Long Beach to its depositors, who are obliged to sign an acceptance promising to plant, cultivate and harvest the results and pass them out later into the world as foodstuffs.

SCHOOL FARMS ON BIG SCALE.

Los Angeles Students Making Lots Here Produce as None Others Can.

Los Angeles has adopted a system of military training in the high schools and in addition, for a month past the school forces have been organizing for intensive cultivation of vacant ground in and about the city on a scale far beyond that attempted by any school system in the United States. Data as to the acreage under cultivation are not available now, but will be ready May 10.

"When this information is given out, it will surprise even the people of Southern California," said Superintendent of Schools Shiels yesterday. "Few persons have the faintest conception of the productive possibilities of this section. Our plan will necessarily be different from that of Chicago or any other city, for here we can put the boys to work right in the city, and need not send them to the farms."

Table Loaded Down With Diamonds During Suit to Determine Who is to Have Them—Jewels of the Levy Family are Displayed.

Having won a suit to be restored to competency and to have his wife removed as his guardian, Emile Levy, formerly of New Orleans, faced Mrs. Levy yesterday in Judge McCormick's court across a table loaded down with jewelry. Mrs. Levy had been cited to show cause why she should not deliver the jewelry to Mr. Levy. The gems, it seems, were in the possession of a pawnbroker.

A pair of diamond earrings, a ring and a bracelet were among the collection upon which, it was said, Mrs. Levy had obtained an aggregate of $595. Both husband and wife claimed the jewelry as their separate property. A suit for divorce is pending.

San Francisco Reserve Bank Plans to Place Branches in Portland, Seattle and Spokane; Gets Quick and Hearty Offer of Co-operation.

The Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco has had under consideration the extension of its service through branches and has reached the determination, approved by the Federal Reserve Board, to establish branches in Portland, Seattle and Spokane.

The president of the Spokane Clearing House Association has telegraphed to the Federal Reserve Bank that, if the branch of the Federal Reserve Bank should be established at Spokane, all State banks of that city would immediately make application for membership in the Federal Reserve Bank and also influence many similar applications from State banks in the tributary territory; that the Clearing House Association would offer to employ the branch bank to make regular examinations of the clearing house banks, paying as compensation an amount equal to the present cost to the clearing house of conducting such examination; that as far as feasible the branch bank would be used in collecting checks; that settlement of clearing house balances would be made through the branch bank, and that free membership in the clearing house would be granted.

It is anticipated that there will be similar evidences of co-operation from banks in Portland and Seattle.

Burkhart Goldsmith, fresh her triumphs of "Rip Van " at Del Mar, will give next Wednesday's programme, entitled "Plays and Players," in which she has some delightfully intimate interpretations of the genius of Henry Irving, Richard Mansfield, Mrs. Fiske, Mme. Nazimova and other great stage artists.

Woman and Crime.

The Woman's City Club will hear Judge Paul J. McCormick on "Woman and Crime" at its meeting at Blanchard Hall tomorrow. The euphonious title alone should insure a large audience, and it is particularly appropriate at this time while the woman's court is under so much public discussion.

The Friday Morning Club.

The Friday Morning Club will have an equally topical programme at next Friday's session, when Miss Maude Miner, secretary of the New York Probation Association, will address the members on reformative and protective work for girls. Miss Miner's experience has covered many fields and she is the author of numerous authoritative books on the subject, notably "The Slavery of Prostitution."

The Hollywood Club Pageant.

The Woman's Club of Hollywood is making elaborate plans for the closing programme of the year, to be given at the cluhouse Wednesday evening, May 23.

For this event the music and drama departments will give, for the first time in the West, "A Masque of Dead Florentines," by Maurice Hewlett, with musical setting by Ernest R. Kroeger of St. Louis.

The masque, which will be given in the manner of the old morality plays, deals with "Love and Italy and Art," and in it will be seen Dante, Da Vinci, Michaelangelo, Savonarola and many other Florentines of immortal fame.

All the sixty-five characters are to be taken by club members, and the entire production will be beautifully costumed and staged under the personal direction of Mrs. Cecil Frankel.

The pageant was originally scheduled for the afternoon of May 23, but it promises to be of such merit as to deserve a wider hearing and, for this reason, will be given in the evening. The public is cordially invited.

Wednesday Morning Club.

The graduation of the Shakespeare class is an annual event of importance to the Wednesday Morning Club, for it was as a Shakespeare study club that they first came into existence 17 years ago. And to "graduate" in Shakespeare with all that that implies, carries honor in its train. This year's graduates are Mrs. W. E. Bush and Mrs. Laura White, who were responsible for the programme. A quite terrifying knowledge of Shakespeare was displayed by all the members responding alertly with quotations from the bard. Mrs. W. C. Mushet, candidate for State president, was one of the first proud graduates of the class in its young days, and has been president of the Shakespeare alumnae.

Next Wedneday is election day in the club and the following are candidates for the various offices:

President, Mrs. M. E. Johnson; first vice-president, Mrs. Charles A. Holand; second vice-president, Mrs. F. Elton Davis; recording secretary, Mrs. W. J. Sander; financial secretary, Mrs. S. B. Welcome; corresponding secretary, Mrs. B. F. Gytile; treasurer, Mrs. M. R. Tyler.

Executive Board—Mrs. H. W. Hitchcock, Mrs. George Talbert, Miss Bessie H. Carrick, Mmes. F. W. Fuller, F. O. Klinfelter, Rose Lyall, John Kuhns, J. E. Nattress, E. R. Winnett, J. B. Liversidge, H. W. Bailey, T. A. Cole, G. E. Stith, Eugene Ladd, Martha Kimball, H. Ivor Thomas.

Highland Park Ebell.

The next session on May 1 will be election day for the Highland Park Ebell, and the annual reports will be heard. The members are especially proud of their section work over there, and the book and conversation section in particular has covered itself with credit.

THREE CLUBS SUNDAY . . .

The Cosmos Club.

Mrs. Goldsmith will likewise be responsible for the Cosmos programme at the Ebell Club on next May 9, the last of her series there. Her theme will be the "Silent and Spoken Drama." There also will be a musical prelude.

This club will hold its annual luncheon at the Jonathan Club on May 17.

Cosmos has settled its election and Mrs. Alice Anderson is the president; Mrs. Ernest Snow, first vice-president; Mrs. H. L. Musser, second vice-president; Mrs. L. Irish, recording secretary; Mrs. Katherine Moore, corresponding secretary and Mrs. J. C. Woods, treasurer.

At Glendale.

The Art and Travel section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club of Glendale enjoyed an elaborate oriental programme at its last meeting, under the direction of Mrs. C. M. Turck.

The oriental atmosphere was carried out in beautiful costumes and settings, and Mrs. Carl Johnson, gowned in the costumes of China, Far India, Italy, Hawaii and Japan, gave some rich controlto solos, accompanied by Mrs. Percy de Gaston.

Boyle Heights Entre Nous.

Mrs. F. A. H. Fysh of Alaska was the speaker at the last Boyle Heights Entre Nous programme, when she told interestingly of her ten years' residence in those chilly climes.

This club has held its election and the new officers are: President, Mrs. Cora Gibson; first vice-president, Mrs. Marguerite Montee; second vice-president, Mrs. Harriet Willett; recording secretary, Mrs. Frosa Standard; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Inez T. Smith; treasurer, Mrs. Maggie Cates.

For the Deaf.

No one equipped with good ears quite realizes the grievous handicap of the deaf. But there is a League for the Hard of Hearing in this city with club rooms in the Mason Building designed to promote intercourse amongst deaf persons and to aid them in every way. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hubbard of No. 721 West Thirtieth street entertained members of this league in their beautiful garden on Wednesday afternoon with an out-door tea, which proved delightful in every way.

State Federation Programme.

With Gov. Stephens to make an opening address, with Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles, national president, as guest of honor, and with a programme teeming with the burning questions of the hour, the State Federation of Women's Clubs convention at Pasadena, opening at 10:30 a.m. on Tuesday May 1, should be quite an historic event in club annals.

Numerous high officers of various civic departments will likewise be included in the guests of honor list.

At Eagle Rock.

The Twentieth Century Club of Eagle Rock enjoyed an unusually good musical programme at its Thursday meeting when Mrs. W. E. Sackett of the New England Conservatoire of Music, a member of the faculty, was responsible for a number of pianoforte selections from Mendelssohn, Chopin and Schumann that gave her audience much pleasure.

Mrs. Ella A. Suufield, composer of children's songs, sang two groups of songs, and Mrs. B. B. Colborn gave an interpretation of "The Lost Joy," by Olive Schreiner.

The district board members were guests of the club for the occasion.

The Verse Writers' Club.

This club continues to thrive and flourish and produce poetry with what must seem alarming progress to the Philistines. Thirteen new poems were submitted at the last meeting on Monday and three of them were "chosen"—which means that they received the blessing of the club. These were by Mrs. Sarah McClean, Mr. Ben Field and Miss Grace Dennen, the president.

This time a musical programme enhanced the occasion, given by the Misses Katherine Wimp and Dorothy Schwartz, and Mrs. J. Kimball recited some recitations which called forth special vote of thanks.

The Women's Press Club.

Entertaining celebrities seems to be a little weakness of the Press Club, which dotes on reflected glory. At the club dinner on Tuesday they had Vance Thompson, who spoke on "The Woman Journalist;" Dr. Cecil Reynolds, a brain specialist; Dr. H. R. M. Maddock, traveler; Dr. Ada Bowles, Universalist minister, and Mrs. Mary Hart of Alaska. Rather a case of where everybody's somebody, why no one's anybody. Donald Bowles, speaking under the piquant title of "The Risque in Drama," protested with a Robert Service poem for his medium.

Dr. Lulu Peters.

Dr. Peters, who has been nominated for president of the Professional Woman's Club, is waxing merry at the discovery of her "past." Speaking at Hollywood on Wednesday she made a merry speech telling what can happen when one is a candidate for a presidency. Opponents are so innocent and one's modest past so burning interest. Dr. Lulu, you see, specializes in sex hygiene—which, while a subject of correct dinner conversation in some sets, still are regarded with an anxious eye by the sternly conservative. However, William Duffield of the County Medical Association has publicly vouched for her propriety in writing, with an indorsement by Dr. Charles C. Browning to boot. And when masculinity vouches for feminine propriety it must be irrefutable.

A Garden Festival.

The West Side Ebell, co-operating with the Vermont Square Improvement Association, will give a garden festival in Vermont Square Park, Forty-eighth street and Budlong avenue next Saturday afternoon and evening, to obtain funds for a moving-picture machine to be installed in the library for free entertainment for the public, especially in connection with the story-telling for children. Mrs. Loren E. Milsen will be responsible for the programme of the entertainment, which will include a Maypole dance, music by the school orchestra from Manual Arts, Boy Scouts drill and fortune-telling.

The Ivy Club.

The last of the series of card tournaments given by the Ivy Club will take place next Tuesday. This club, of which Mrs. Frank H. Chase is president, arranges these tournaments for charitable purposes and Mrs. Chase has made donations of money and layettes to the Maternity Cottage, the St. Elizabeth Day Nursery and the Bronson House Settlement, besides numerous other urgent charities. The entire net proceeds of the next party will go to the Red Cross. The event takes place at the Brack-Shops at 2 p.m. and Mrs. Floyd G. Baker will be hostess, assisted by a committee. The annual election will be held at the following meeting.

The Women's University Club.

The College Woman's Club, the Collegiate Alumnae and the Federation of College Women's Clubs will all combine in the newly-organized Women's University Club and hold a joint meeting next Saturday at the Brack-Shops. Miss Mary Putnam, president of the A.C.A., will be in the chair. There will be a programme of classical dancing.

Spring Festival.

The coming spring festival, which will be held on next Friday and Saturday under the auspices of the Sierra Madre's Woman's Club, is to take the place of the annual spring flower show. The programme for the festival follows:

Friday afternoon—Baby show from 2 to 5 o'clock. Committee, Mrs. Lenita LeVeaux, chairman; Mrs. W. H. Hull.

Friday evening — Entertainment by the school children at 8 p.m.

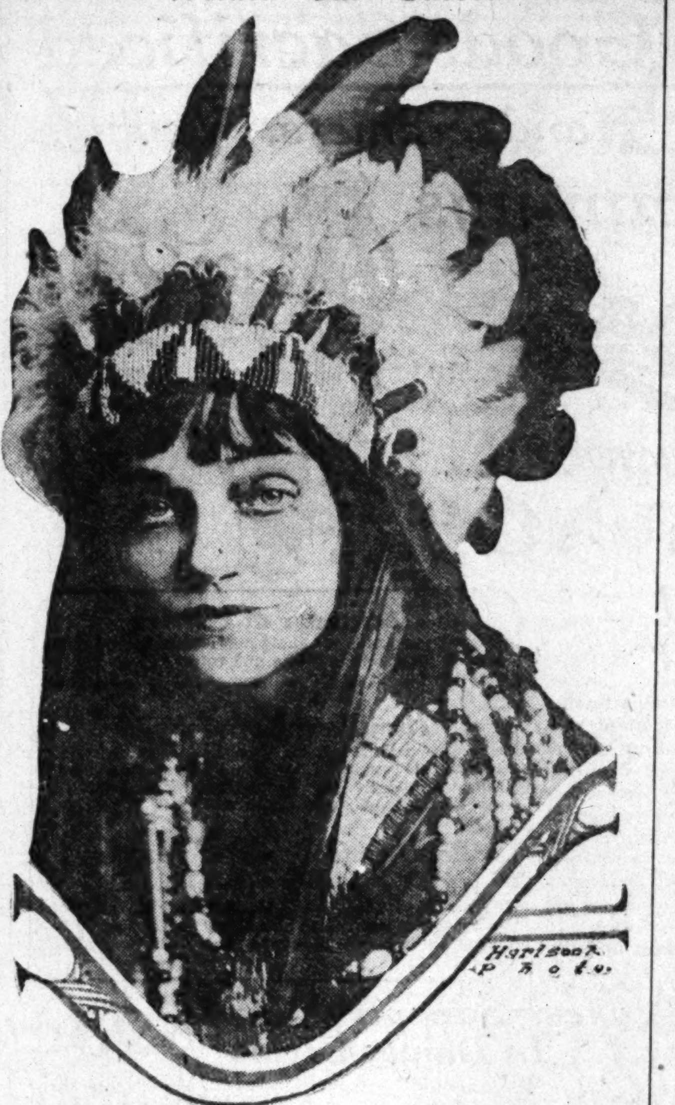
"Within Our Gates."



Harrison Photo.

Princess Indita Rivola Hibodi Bennesei.

The above is her full name, but if it doesn't sound full enough, here is the translation: "Little-Indian-Maiden-With-An-Empty-Stomach." She is a graduate of Carlisle, and is building an airplane to offer the government.

Within Our Gates.

INDIAN MAIDEN DIRECTS BUILDING OF AIRPLANE.

BY EMILY SQUIER.

LO THE poor Indian maiden; she lives in a wigwam, does she not? She speaks in guttural monosyllables, does she not? She shies at the sight of an automobile, does she not? Yes, she does—not.

This particular Indian maiden, whose name is more easily written than pronounced, lives at an up-to-date hotel, speaks six different languages and operates an airplane with the finesse of a professional aviatrix.

Princess Indita is the first section of her name, and she is the daughter of a Hopi chief of Arizona. She has had much romance and adventure crowded into the 24 years of her life.

Just now she is at the Rosslyn Hotel, and is superintending the construction of an airplane which, when completed, will be offered to the government. She is familiar with the technical, theoretical and practical phases of flying, and has already made several hazardous flights with success.

The Princess Indita had for a mother a young and pretty French woman who went to Arizona for her health. The young chief Bennessei saw her, and conducted a wooing in primeval fashion, which consisted of carrying her away bodily to the tribe. She was a willing prisoner, and became his bride according to the ancient tribal customs of the Moquis and Hopis. Several years later she died. The chief, almost beside himself, left the tribe. Indita was sent to the reservation school, and was later adopted by a wealthy English family. She attended Carlisle University, from which she graduated.

She and her father were reunited several years ago in the East, and he is now planning to come West to visit her.

Princess Indita understands Indians and their customs as only one can who is one of them. She knows the secrets of the tribal dances, the virtues of the herbs and the wonder signs of nature. Until recently she carried with her as pets two immense rattlers, for these snakes are religious emblems to her people. As a protection against their bites she caries a powder, which is made from herbs. She does not know the ingredients, for that is a secret known only to the Hopi priests, but each year a spoonful of the precious powder is sent to her with instructions for mixing.

When the airplane is finished it will be the first ever constructed by and Indian, and Princess Indita will be the first Indian girl to take out a license as a registered aviatrix.

Nemo WEEK
"NEMO WEEK," which is celebrated early in May each year, is the time when all the late Nemo inventions are ready for inspection and sale. There is always something new and good in the Nemo line; therefore "Nemo Week" is of almost universal interest to women.
Nearly every woman may be benefited by wearing a Nemo Corset—not JUST ANY Nemo, but the model designed for her particular figure.
Some of the Nemo models have been slightly advanced; but most of them are sold at the same prices as before the great increase in cost of material; and the famous Nemo high quality is rigidly maintained.
Come and talk to us about the Nemo during "Nemo Week"

ALUM WATER FOR GRAY HAIR
Restores Natural Color.
Gives quick, perfect, lasting results. Easy to use, no special care is required. It never fails. As pleasant as a shampoo. You can have your hair beautiful natural for the balance of life.
Dissolve one bottle of ovelo powder in two ounces of water, moisten the hair with the solution, and while damp rinse the hair well to liquid alum water (two teaspoons of powdered alum to one quart of water) then rinse well in plain tepid water, then dry the hair. That is all.
It acts like magic. At once it brings back the natural color, soft fluffiness and gloss to the hair, and restores the original color whether auburn or light or dark brown, or in blonde shades.
You can wash it, brush it, and curl or wave it and still stay the same rich, natural color, soft, fluffy, stay glossy; stay clean and color address, with a clean scalp.
Ovelo powder solution is strictly harmless—above a child may use it.
Any druggist can easily get ovelo powder for you, if he happens to not have it in stock.

The Health Habit

(By DR. L. C. BOWERS)

The late Elbert Hubbard once said: "Most people go thru life on a short allowance of good air and oxygen and too much food. Life is combustion. The digestive tract is the boiler. The value of exercise in the open air lies in the fact of getting a goodly draft of oxygen thru your system and this forced draft is both eliminating refuse and burning up slag."

Breathe deeply when in the open air. Sleep in a room with windows open wide. Drink six or eight glasses of pure water daily, and keep well. But if one has been shut up within doors during the cold winter months, has eaten and drunk things which he should not, if he or she has overworked in stale air, that person needs a general tonic and housecleaning. Especially is this so at this time of the year. For a tonic that will freshen up the blood, clean the digestive tract and put new force and vim into you, I know of nothing better than an alterative extract with glycerine, made from Golden Seal root, Stone root Grape root, Blood root, Stone root and Queen's root—and it contains no alcohol or narcotic so is perfectly safe to take.

This tonic has been sold for nearly fifty years in the form of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It can be had now in tablet as well as liquid form at most drug stores.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead, when your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night, when you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when you suffer from sick headache, druggist for Anuric, double strength. I have found in practice that Anuric is more potent than lithia and in most cases it will dissolve the uric acid as hot water does sugar.

Take 'Em.

LOT CONSCRIPTION.

Trustees of Whittier Adopt a Plan to Secure Ground for Crops After Property Owners had not Responded Well to Earlier Demands.

Vacant lot conscription is the plan adopted by the Whittier City Council. Coupled with a large demand for lots for gardening purposes, a demand to which owners of vacant lots are said to have been somewhat slow in responding, comes the action of the city dads.

All lots that are desirable for gardening are liable to this local conscription. The city will also see that they are plowed and placed in tillable condition, turning them over to the gardeners in order as applications are filed, at actual cost.

The Trustees have the united backing of the citizens in this campaign. President P. McLaren and Secretary M. J. Haig of the Chamber of Commerce, and O. H. Barr and L. C. Montgomery of the Civic Committee, represented the Chamber of Commerce at the Trustees' meeting.

Sleeves Up.

SAN FERNANDO FIELDS ALIVE.

Seventeen Thousand Acres in Beans is Outlook.

Thirteen Million Pounds to Repay Cultivators.

All Back Yards in Valley are Sown to Vegetables.

Beans! Beans!! Beans!!!

Seventeen thousand acres of them are being planted in the San Fernando Valley.

This is the reply of the people of this section of the county to the appeal for increased production of food staples. Seeding already has begun and will be rushed until every available acre is utilized.

For weeks every man and team in the valley has been working overtime to prepare the soil, and never before has so much labor been expended on the land for the purpose of insuring a maximum yield. Land which, in ordinary seasons, would have been considered in good condition has this year received extra preparation in the way of harrowing, leveling, etc.

Ten sacks of beans per acre is a conservative estimate for the coming crop, which would give a total yield of 170,000 sacks of eighty pounds each—more than 13,000,000 pounds.

On account of the scarcity of labor many acres of beet fields have been plowed for beans, as it is impossible to get the beets thinned in time to insure a profitable crop.

Owing to the fact that Owens River water is now available for irrigation purposes, several hundred acres of land which had been seeded to grain before the food shortage was known, will be watered and planted to beans, Egyptian corn and other produce as soon as the hay and grain are harvested. Some fields of barley are now almost ready for hay, and there will be ample time to raise another good crop this season.

Besides this every vacant lot and back yard in the valley is being made to yield its quota of vegetables for family use.

Should the food shortage become more acute, it is probable several hundred acres of potatoes will be planted in the valley as soon as the bean crop is harvested. It is planned to remove the beans from the fields as soon as possible and stack them in convenient places for threshing. By irrigating the land at once a crop of potatoes can be produced before winter.

BOY WANTS HOME.

And County Probation Officer Helps Him Hunt One.

Poor Jimmy Coffey! He never had a chance. As the offspring of parents who are living apart, Jimmie has been somewhat of a derelict. His mother is not able to take care of him, and his father does not take good care of him, the probation officers declare. Now he wants to make good, to have a place he can call home and someone to love.

Jimmie is 14, bright, healthy and well-featured. County Probation Officer Warren H. Prescott is trying to help him land.

A Laxative for Babies Good for Everybody

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin a Safe and Efficient Family Remedy.

Every member of the family is more or less subject to constipation and every home should always be supplied with a dependable remedy to promptly relieve this condition. Whenever the bowels become clogged and the natural process of elimination thereby disturbed, the entire system is affected, and readily subject to attack by disease. Constipation is a condition that should never be neglected.

Mrs. E. R. Gilbert, of Millbro, Va., says that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a splendid laxative for children because they like its pleasant taste, and it acts so easily and naturally, without griping or strain, and she finds it equally effective for the rest of the family.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that contains no opiate or narcotic drug. It is mild and gentle in its action, and does not cause pain or discomfort. Druggists everywhere sell this excellent remedy for fifty cents a bottle.

Mrs. E. R. Gilbert

To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure you get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. THRONGS CHEER MAYOR IN TRIUMPHANT MARCH.

Brilliant Pageant and Big Rally at Trinity Auditorium Bring Campaign to Fitting Close—Incumbent is Applauded When He Declared in Favor of Fair Play for Everyone and Said He will See They Get It.

MARKING the close of his campaign for election at the primaries next Tuesday, a mammoth parade and rally were held last night in honor of Mayor Woodman. The pageant which marched up Main street to First, thence to Broadway and South to Ninth street was witnessed by a throng of enthusiastic people while Trinity Auditorium was filled to capacity.

Heading a procession was a brass band, the next in line being Mayor Woodman and members of his Campaign Committee. Fife and drum corps were features of the parade which was illuminated throughout the line of march by red fire.

The arrival of Mayor Woodman at Trinity Auditorium was the signal for tumultuous cheering.

The rally opened with an organ selection by Dr. Bruce Gordon Kingsley. William Rhodes Hervey acted as chairman. Mrs. Florence Collins Porter was roundly applauded in her praise of Mayor Woodman whom she hailed as "the most efficient, fearless and unfettered Mayor Los Angeles has ever had."

Other speakers included Mayor Woodman, Joseph Scott and Mrs. W. C. Tyler. Selections by Mme. Bernice de Pasquali, Metropolitan Opera star, who was accompanied on the flute by Jay Plowe, and numbers by Ellen Beach Yaw were features of the musical programme which charmed the large and enthusiastic audience. Another feature was the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by Mme. Pasquali, Ellen Beach Yaw and the entire audience.

Fifteen reasons were advanced for the election of Mayor Woodman:

"He demands publicity and not Star Chamber sessions.

"He has given us a splendid municipal harbor.

"He has the confidence of the thinking public of all classes.

"Is quiet but forceful.

"Is a hard everyday worker.

"Is a man of integrity.

"Stands for clean public morals and civic righteousness.

"Is earnest and faithful in the discharge of his public duties.

"Has executive ability.

"Has brought order out of our city government.

"Has the interests of all at heart.

"Has worked to lower the cost of living.

"Has and is laying the foundation for a mighty industrial city.

"Has and does stand behind our President in preparing for any emergency.

"Has and will give all a fifty-fifty deal and a forward-looking administration and make Los Angeles the best city under the Stars and Stripes."

The Mayor's remarks on the wonderful growth of Los Angeles and its great future were heartily cheered. He said in part:

"When I entered the office of Mayor many people expected that I would discharge everyone possible in the City Hall; but in the conduct of a great corporation's business I would ask you would you dismiss efficient employees from your force?

"The American spirit has always been the spirit of fair play—every person is entitled to a chance and, as far as I am concerned they are going to receive it.

"Los Angeles has in the past and is at present engaged in great enterprises. She is a city that dares. The aqueduct was a tremendous work and insures us a water supply.

"Our power department will develop into a great institution. It is destined to become one of the largest departments of the city government. Upon cheap fuel rests the city's future industrial development.

"Natural gas ought to be distributed in this city at the same price it is distributed in the surrounding. I very plainly expressed myself on this proposition in the early part of my administration."

Attention Bad Stomachs

Go to Your Druggist and Get This Remarkable Prescription. End Your Stomach Troubled Days.

"If you suffer from indigestion, nervous dyspepsia, pain after eating, sour, painful or too strongly acid stomach, bad breath, or bloating, if you are afflicted with any kind of stomach trouble, do not patch up your stomach by using make-shift pepsin tablets or other artificial digestants," states a prominent authority on stomach ills. Go to your druggist and get a four-ounce bottle of stumeze, the most wonderful anti-acid and stomach re-builder ever compounded. The first dose of this remarkable prescription tells the story. Go now—today. Don't suffer longer. Real relief and solid stomach comfort is waiting for you at any well-stocked drug store. Simply ask for a four-ounce bottle of Stumeze prescription.

POLITICS.

The American Game.

THE WATCHMAN.

TREND OF CURRENT POLITICAL THOUGHT AND ACTION.

The signs of the political zodiac indicate that Mayor Woodman will receive more votes at the primary election next Tuesday than will be cast for his three opponents. Such a result will mean the elimination of Messrs. Snyder, Sebastian and Roser—and the incumbent can have no opposition at the June election unless someone should be foolish enough to run without his name on the ballot.

A week ago there was more or less speculation over the possible strength that Sebastian might gather through the moving pictures which depict him a hero and a martyr. The pictures proved a failure so far as political significance is concerned. The star made a hit as an actor but it is doubtful whether he was able to create the least bit of sentiment for himself. Now politicians are of the opinion that the former Mayor and Chief of Police will not receive more than a handful of votes. It appears that he will run a poor fourth with H. Roser third. The latter will, of course, get some support from the Reds, but even they will not be united behind him.

Mr. Snyder has resorted to every scheme known to cunning politicians to get in the limelight, and some of his followers have made a lot of noise, but he has fallen down. The elements from which he expected to get unanimous backing apparently have split and Mayor Woodman is expected to receive an almost fifty-fifty break in the supposedly Snyder strongholds. Rabid unionites will vote for Mr. Snyder, but the level-headed laboring man is satisfied with Mayor Woodman.

Ultra liberals who were for Mr. Snyder early in the campaign have changed and Mayor Woodman will receive nearly as many votes from this element as his opponent. Pro Allies will vote solidly against Mr. Snyder and he will not even get the full voting strength of the Germans. Many of the latter have expressed themselves during the past week as being on the fence and consquently will vote for neither candidate. Honest and loyal citizens of German parentage no doubt will vote for the best man irrespective of their nationality. With these elements divided and all of the remainder strong for Mayor Woodman, he cannot lose.

What the solid business man thinks of the two candidates was given expression Friday at a meeting of the Realty Board. The sentiment there was overwhelmingly in favor of Mayor Woodman.

The incumbent will probably receive more than 75 per cent. of the votes cast by women. This is indicated by careful polls taken of the various women's organizations and a canvass made during the week of shoppers and clerks in several of the largest department stores.

The element of the population, which stands for clean government, which by the way is the dominating factor in our municipal elections, cannot vote against Mayor Woodman. They don't want to take a chance with the man who was Mayor when the red light district flourished and when Los Angeles was wide open. They are satisfied to keep the man on the job who is big enough to be Mayor of all the people.

The Appellate Court decision to the effect that a Superior Court is not empowered to remove a Councilman unless he has been convicted of a felony, came as good news to John Topham and his many friends. Mr. Topham was ousted from the Council upon conviction of a flimsy, technical violation. Now the chances are that he will automatically be returned to his seat and everything is favorable for his re-election in June. People who know John Topham have never believed for a moment that he was guilty of a crime in connection with the grand jury charges and no doubt they will show their confidence in him next Tuesday at the polls.

With due regard to Mrs. Adeline Durlin, who is a most estimable lady, prominent in Republican circles and in women's clubs, it appears that Mrs. Estelle L. Lindsey is the only feminine candidate for the Council who will qualify. If Mrs. Lindsey were not stained with socialistic tendencies a lot of good things might be said about her.

RAILWAY MEN FOR STEPHENS.

The Incumbent is Elated Over Many Indorsements.

Legal Profession is Almost Unanimous for Him.

Council Candidates Bringing Campaigns to Close.

A number of representative railway men of this city have indorsed the candidacy of Albert Lee Stephens to succeed himself as City Attorney and are actively engaged in his campaign. This committee includes Thomas Norton, R. W. Kelly, O. L. McConnell, Dan Egan, George Hughes, F. Ray Groves, Thomas E. Sturdevant and C. A. Burton.

While the Stephens flying squadron, composed of more than a score of well-known attorneys, was covering political gatherings in all parts of the city last evening, Mr. Stephens won many new supporters when he spoke before the members of the Women's Non-partisan League at the Temple-street school.

"That nearly 600 of the leading lawyers of your city, men who know my work and qualifications for the office, have warmly indorsed me for re-election, is the highest tribute any man seeking public office could receive. They are desirous of having me continue at the head of the legal department of the city because they are satisfied with the way I have conducted it in the past and this should convince all of my worth."

For Mrs. Waters.

Among prominent citizens who are working in the interest of Mrs. Maude Crew Waters, candidate for the Board of Education, are Andrew J. Copp, Mrs. W. C. Tyler, Josefa H. Tolhurst, Mrs. Lloyd W. Harmon and Mary Logan Orcutt. Mr. Copp, who now is a member of the board, said: "As a member under her chairmanship of the Teachers and Schools Committee for the past two years, I have marveled at and admired her fearless, energetic and wise efforts to improve the conditions of the schools and teachers. Her experience and wise administration of school affairs should commend her for re-election."

Williams Encouraged.

Warren L. Williams, candidate for City Attorney, declared last night at a meeting which practically closed his campaign that he has every reason to believe the voters will elect him next Tuesday. He said he had received encouragement from all sides. Fifteen speeches were made for Mr. Williams last night.

Political Briefs.

James C. Borton, who is supported in his campaign for the City Council by a large number of organizations in North Los Angeles, spoke during the week at the Fourteenth-street school and under the auspices of the District Representation League at Lincoln High School.

Fifteen Phillips-for-Council clubs, supporting I. I. Phillips in his campaign, held a final banquet and celebration last night, outlining plans to get voters in their district to the polls. Rev. T. W. Brown addressed the gathering on "Shall a Taxpayer be Excluded from Office?"

Paul E. House in a recent address denied the fact that he did not favor municipal ownership, stating that he was strongly in favor of it if properly handled, but that he believed the power already in hand should be utilized before new bond issues are made.

City Auditor Myers will wind up his campaign for re-election on Monday with a number of speeches in various parts of the city at meetings specially arranged in his behalf. His backers are urging his re-election on the grounds that he has built up a system of accounting in the City Auditor's office that is being widely copied by other big cities, and is now being considered by the county grand jury as an ideal plan for county accounting.

John Topham closed his campaign last night with speeches in various parts of the city. For the past four weeks he has waged an extensive and intensive battle for re-election to the City Council, and his supporters are enthusiastic regarding his chances.

A new civic center, of which Los Angeles will be proud, is being enthusiastically advocated by Dr. A. D. Houghton in his campaign speeches for City Council. Dr. Houghton also advocates a municipal twilight sleep hospital, a new City Jail and police station, the two-platoon fire department and more men on the police force.

5,000,000 Corns Lifted Right Off!

Try 2 Drops of Magic "Gets-It."

There's a wonderful difference between getting rid of a corn now and the way they used to try to get rid of it only four or five years ago. "Gets-It" has revolutionized corn history. It's the only corn remedy today that acts on the new principle, not only of shriveling up the corn, but of loosening the corn off—so loose that you can lift it right off with your fingers. Put two drops of "Gets-It" on that corn or callus tonight. That's all. The corn is doomed sure as sunrise. No pain or trouble or soreness. You do away once and for all with toe-bundling bandages, toe-eating salves and irresponsible what-nots. Try it—get surprised and lose a corn.

"Gets-It" is sold everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Los Angeles by The Owl Drug Company.

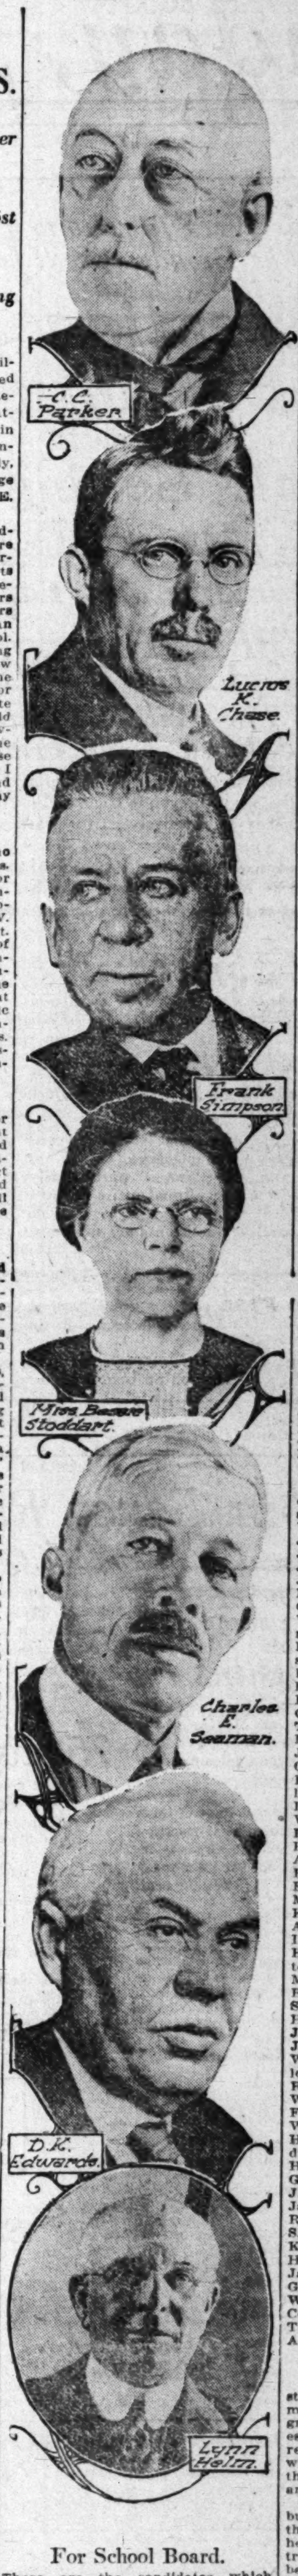
"See? Just 2 Drops of 'Gets-It.' Now Tomorrow I'll Just Peel That Corn Right Off—and It's Gone!"



For School Board.

These are the candidates which have received the indorsement of a large and nonpartisan body of prominent business and professional men.

Special Suggestions for

The Care of the Skin

If Your Face or Hands Are Roughed or Chapped or Have a Tendency to Eczema, Try These Suggestions.

BENETOL is the most powerful, harmless germicide known in all the medical world. Not only is Benetol a marvelous preparation because of its germicidal powers but it deserves equal fame as a healing agent. Because of these two properties, Benetol is sold in various convenient forms. Among these is to be particularly recommended Benetol Ointment and Benetol Powder.

Both of these preparations are of course intended for skin troubles and to preserve the hands, face and body in the most perfect possible condition of skin health.

With women, this question of skin health is one of the most important of toilette problems. So many cold creams and lotions are found irritating to sensitive skins that Benetol Ointment is proving a most welcome substitute. In fact, Benetol Ointment, because of its peculiar instant healing properties, is being used by a small army of women in preference to cold creams.

As a curative agent for pimples, eczema, roughness, chap, sunburn and other skin troubles, Benetol Ointment is so far ahead of any other cream or ointment that there is really no comparison to be made.

And Benetol Powder is in fact the only healing, curative, antiseptic powder that is offered (so far as we know.)

Both the Ointment and the powder contain the active principles of BENETOL. This is the secret of their wonderful properties and explains why they are not to be compared with any other ointments or powders on the market—because none other contains BENETOL.

If you have any skin troubles try these preparations and if after one week you have not found them many times better than anything else you ever used, take the remaining part of the packages back to your druggist and get your money back in full.

This is a plea for you to try Benetol preparations at our expense and you assume no risk whatever.

If you are a man and shave yourself, use Benetol Ointment and Benetol Powder after shaving. Try them for only one morning and you will never be without them again. If a barber shaves you, take him a package of each and ask him to use them on your face. Then you will be positively insured against barbers' itch or any contagious skin trouble.

Benetol Preparations Sold by all Druggists as Follows:

BENETOL

1-ounce bottles in red cartons	25c
3-ounce bottles in red cartons	50c
6½-ounce bottles in red cartons	$1.00
15-ounce bottles in red cartons	$2.00
Benetol Ointment in red cartons at	25c, 50c and $1.00
Benetol Tooth Cream in red cartons	25c
Benetol Catarrh Jelly in red cartons	25c
Benetol Powder, for the skin, in red cartons	25c

Full directions for the use of these articles packed in every carton.

CAUTION: Always insist that your druggist supply you with Benetol in the original red cartons.

Benetol products are sold by all druggists. If you experience any difficulty in procuring your Benetol wants, simply enclose the price and write direct to yesterday that it has a list of 100 vacant lots available to householders for cultivation. Owners have donated the use of the land for wartime gardens and the privileges may be had for the asking. Applications should be made to Mrs. Marta D. Carr, secretary of the federation.

Since the vacant lot-garden movement was started the federation has acted as a volunteer clearinghouse for lot owners and gardeners. About 200 lots have passed through the clearinghouse and are now under cultivation.

One of the more recent developments of the garden movement is the effort to interest school children in cultivation work. Some of the lots now listed with the federation are more than lots; they are tracts. Groups of boys and girls might take charge of these areas, it is suggested, and turn them into great potato and bean patches.

Prof. W. S. Kienholtz, head of the agricultural department of the public schools, recommends that a considerable portion of the vacant lot gardens be devoted to tomatoes. The tomato, he points out, is one of the most popular and useful of garden products and one of the easiest to raise. Tomatoes thrive in a variety of soils, especially with careful cultivation and a liberal supply of [illegible] in lights soils with limited irrigation.

The importance of planting beans, potatoes and other staple vegetables also is urged by Prof Kienholtz.

VETERANS TO ASSIST.

Members of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers Urged to Offer Services Towards Enlarging the Institution's Farm.

That veterans in the Pacific Branch, National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, will not be behind in the popular national effort for greater production of foodstuffs is indicated in special orders just issued. These provide for greatly enlarging the farm.

Gen. P. H. Barry, governor, says in his instructions:

"It is certainly fitting that this home, being a government institution, set a good example. It is the intention to greatly increase the farm. Funds for such increase are not available, and, therefore, it will be necessary to call for volunteers [illegible] purpose. It is hoped that members of the home will respond and offer their services. Every additional pound that can be raised will be so much gained and will, to that extent, aid the country as a whole."

ORGANIZE LION HUNT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, April 28.—Ranchers in the Cuyama and esat of the valley are planning an organized mountain lion hunt, as a result of the slaughter of does during the last few weeks, according to Theodore L. Kane of Carisa Plains. The lions, Mr. Kane reports, are unusually ferocious this season and the ranchers have counted more than a score of dead does. The organized hunt is expected to begin tomorrow. The ranchers, with their rifles, will assemble at Carisa Plains.

SECOND MURDER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BRYN MAWR, April 28.—The body of an unknown Mexican was found alongside the Southern Pacific right of way, hidden under some bushes in a gulley, by section men, halfway between this place and Loma Linda. The man's head had been crushed with blows from some heavy instrument. This is the second murder near here in two weeks. Julio Munos, who killed Paul Lerma, has not been Riverside.

HEMET PLANNING HUGE BEAN CROP.

TWO THOUSAND ACRES BEING PLANTED IN VALLEY.

Hundreds of Teams, Tractors, at Work Clearing, Cultivating New Ground, While Many Other Sections of County are Active in Increased Food Output.

Riverside county is preparing to do its full share in the increased production of foodstuffs. The Hemet Valley is planting 2000 acres to beans, which lands never before have been utilized for food crops; the Palo Verde Valley, in addition to doubling its last year's acreage of cotton, having 12,000 acres in that staple crop this season, has hundreds of teams and tractors at work clearing and planting 7000 acres of new land; and other sections are showing like activity.

The county council of defense is [illegible] the county, forming juvenile agricultural clubs and otherwise stimulating a widespread interest in agricultural operations. The Board of Supervisors, as an emergency measure, has provided an appropriation for the expenses of a county farm advisor, and Prof. W. B. Parker, assistant State organizer of farm advisors, has been secured to commence work in that capacity Tuesday next. Prof. Parker is an expert on beans, and a tremendous increase in that crop is planned.

In the city of Riverside, Mayor Ford has appointed a special commission to assist the County Council, and a campaign to secure the planting of a total of thirty-five acres of vacant city lots is being actively organized.

At Orange.

LABOR GREAT NEED.

Orange County Expects Shortage of Fifteen Hundred Hands This Summer and will Seek to Induce Outside Help to Take Hold.

At a food survey conference held at Orange under the auspices of the [illegible] Orange County Fruit Exchange it was estimated that the most serious factor in the crop situation in this county is the prospect for a shortage of 1500 laborers in this county in August and September.

During those months the five sugar factories of Orange county will be running and hundreds of men will be needed for beet topping. Hundreds of others will also be needed in the Orange and lemon orchards. Efforts are to be made to induce laborers to come here from points outside the county.

Through the fruit associations it is believed that fully 1000 acres of citrus orchards that, in ordinary years, would not have a crop set between the rows, will this year be planted to potatoes, beans or other food products. When trees are small the space between the rows always is utilized. Without the call for war food it is estimated that 2500 acres would be planted this year. As it is, this acreage will be raised to 3500.

VENICE CAMPAIGN.

About Two Hundred Acres are to be Turned into Garden Plots and Beach City will Aid with Plowing of Ground and Water Service.

Venice has started a campaign for municipal gardens. The City Trustees Wednesday appropriated a sum of money for the purchase of seeds, and Mayor J. J. Lewis and former Mayor E. A. Gerety grasped the plow and started to plow up the lawn at the City Hall. The lawn includes about three acres.

Abbot Kinney, founder of Venice, gave the use of about 150 acres, and Mayor Lewis and others donated the use of enough to make up about 200 acres in all.

The Venice plan includes a proposition to furnish seed and to plow the vacant lots. This will be done by the city. The fire department will furnish water for individual lots where water is not easily available.

The city employees at the City Hall will cultivate the lawn in front of the structure, which has been Eye-opener.

LOBBYIST BACK, SAD BUT WISER.

Child-labor Champion Calls Lawmakers Wastrels.

Says They Fritter Away Both Time and Much Paper.

Good Women and Men are Legislature's Need.

Miss Ianthe Densmore has come back from Sacramento, where she went "a-lobbying," a much wiser woman if a sadder one. She says her child labor bill died in the Senate, where it started, but that her experience as a woman lobbyist has opened her eyes.

"The most impressive thing there," she said, "both in the House and in the Senate, is the great waste—waste of time, energy and money. Why, it's like the first weeks of college. Those Senators and Assemblymen can't seem to get started until about the middle of the second session. They say they don't try to pass their important bills until just before the end of the session, because if they want punch back of their bills they must wait until the lawmakers are frazzled out and are ready to get through in a rush. Then they will vote for anything to get through.

"Going to the Senate and the Assembly is a game for most of our representatives. Their bills are passed because the men introducing them are popular. All the other Senators or Assemblymen like Bill Jones. He is a good fellow. He isn't there just now, but they all like him and will stand by him and vote for his bill.

"If you a-lobbying would go you'd come back lacking respect for the laws, because you would learn how they are made. One question, though, that seems to really arouse interest is that in reference to the fish and game laws. Men really get excited over this and get angry at one another.

"The waste of paper, printed matter, in the Senate is simply appalling. I asked what they did with it, if it wasn't baled and disposed of, but I was informed it was destroyed by those Senators; wasted, as their energy and their time are wasted.

"I learned while there another thing—the need of women in the Senate and the Assembly. But when we send women they must be the right kind of women. We must not make the blunders the dear men have made.

"I consider that my going to Sacramento has been of great good in many ways. It got the men to talking about my bill, even if they did defeat it. My being there provoked discussion. They treated me with the utmost courtesy, But when one asks: 'Oh, you are a lobbyist?' one knows just how he or she stands in the lawmakers eyes by his accent on the word."

Miss Densmore learned how a bill gets the rollers put under it. She also learned that every day but one rule 63, prohibiting smoking in the chambers, is suspended at the beginning of the day's session, and she learned many other things.

Says Miss Densmore: "The whole system of the Legislature is wrong. We must send the right kind of women and men there to lobby and we must elect the right kind of Senators and Assemblymen—men and women who have the interests of their State at heart, rather than a desire to kill time and waste paper."

Miss Densmore was one of the speakers yesterday at a meeting of the Juvenile Protective Association. She spoke on "Some Impressions of the 1917 Legislature." Miss Anita Lake made an interesting talk on "Making Over Lives."

CORONATION FOR SCHOOL FIESTA.

MAY QUEEN AND PAGEANT TO FEATURE FESTIVAL.

Diversity of Events Planned for Lincoln High's Outdoor Entertainment Next Tuesday—The Mayor will be There and There will be Music Galore.

The Children's May Festival given by pupils of the Lincoln High School will be held at Eastlake Park next Tuesday, beginning at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. There will be three Maypoles, two in the school colors, orange and black, and one in national colors. A May Queen will be crowned and a court pageant will attend her.

A permanent raised platform on which folk dances will be given is being built. Later it is to be used for regular dancing. In addition to the other features the intermediate school will hold a track meet, under Director H. A. Davis. Three silver cups will be presented by Mrs. Sloan-Orcutt, president of the Park Commission, who is the moving spirit in the May Day festival. The cups were donated by Louis S. Nordlinger, Brock & Co., and Feagans & Co. The bunting for the Maypoles was donated by J. W. Robinson & Co.

The music will be by Frank Gregory's Royal Marine Band, Mayor Woodman will speak and at the opening and close of the programme "America," the "Star Spangled Banner" and "The Suanee River" will be sung by the children and all others present.

The Lincoln school's paper, the Railsplitter, will be distributed at the festival and the new fountain, an unique affair, consisting of a great East Indian Shell and bronze frogs, will be opened for the first time. The story of the fountain, a fairy tale, will be told by Mrs. Sloan-Orcutt.

SALARIES RAISED.

The Los Angeles branch of the Crane Company, of Chicago, dealers in steam and plumbing supplies, received word yesterday that salaries of all employees have been increased 10 per cent. About 100

Miss Ianthe Densmore,

Women's Clubs.

Committee, school teachers, assisted by Mrs. H. I. Hawkshurst.

Saturday afternoon — Maypole dance at school grounds at 3 p.m., also little play by kindergarten children, and later a party at the clubhouse, given by the board of directors of the Woman's Club, to all the children.

Saturday evening—The spring festival ball at the clubhouse. Dancing from 8 to 12 o'clock.

Produces Original Play.

"Birthright," a three-act drama by Jessie Maude Wybro that was awarded first prize in the Drama League Contest, last February, has taken the prize in the College Woman's Club Contest, and will be produced by the two organizations jointly at the Ebell Club House on the evening of May 31.

The play is one of strong human interest, based upon the theme of mother love, and its power of sacrifice. It will be produced with a cast of professional players and is expected to prove of great interest to the dramatic world as well as to clubdom.

Miss Wybro will also produce her one-act play, "Paquita," at the Ebell Club on Wednesday morning, May 23. This is a present-day play of life in Southern California.

To Entertain Children.

The Catholic Woman's Club will entertain a thousand children Wednesday at the K. of C. Hall, at a May Day and patriotic programme.

Master Edward Qually, the well known boy tenor will sing the song "Liberty Bell," composed by Mary Adair Aubury, and Mrs. Aubury will give the children a talk on the Liberty Bell, illustrated with a colored slide of the bell.

Federated Clubs.

A meeting of the Federation of Musical Clubs and the music sections of Federated Clubs has been called for May 7 at Hamburger's Auditorium. There will be a conference, luncheon and programme. The meeting will begin in the morning and last through the day.

Club Briefs.

The Progressive Household Club will entertain the Business Women's Civics Club tomorrow, Monday, evening, at No. 909 West Ninth street.

The Library Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle held its annual Shakespeare birthday programme on next Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Emma G. Martin.

The Ohio State Alumnae Association met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Cavin at Sierra Park last Saturday and will be entertained again by its hosts on next Saturday.

The Inglewood Woman's Club enjoyed a musical programme on Wednesday afternoon at which Miss Hazel Campbell, impersonator; Miss Ruth Hayward, soprano; Signor Salvador de Nufio, harpist, and Prof. J. Robert Saunders, violin virtuoso, provided an excellent programme.

The Rosecrans Club held a highly successful Red Cross benefit card party at the home of Mrs. George B. Dexter, No. 2408 Juliet street, on Wednesday evening last. Next session will be a board and business meeting at the Y.W.C.A. Building next Wednesday at 2 p.m.

The Jewish Sisterhood of Los Angeles will give a benefit dance this evening at Solomon's near Ninth street on Grand. They hope to raise $500 for immediate relief.

The Audubon Society will hold its annual picnic at Fellowship Hill on next Thursday.

Mrs. Cora B. Taylor, candidate for Board of Education, has has been complimented with numerous neighborhood teas during the last two weeks. Mrs. Louis W. Myers, Mrs. L. Brinker, the South Side Ebell Club and the South Park Improvement Association have been among her hosts.

The Los Angeles city district superintendents of the Federated Aid Society entertained officers of the society at a banquet on Wednesday. Officers for the coming year were introduced by the president, Mrs. W. D. McConnell, and made suitable responses. The next regular meeting will be held June 13 at the Westlake Presbyterian Church.

Judge Fred H. Taft was the guest of the Los Angeles Settlement House on Wednesday. The work of the settlement has increased to the point where 465 cases have been treated by the clinic, and 460 books issued from the library. J. E. Upson, a member of the board, who is leaving for the East, was complimented at the luncheon, when Mrs. T. L. O'Brien presided.

The Bon Ami Social Club will hold a card party tomorrow afternoon at the Broadway Department Store auditorium.

The Eschscholtzia Chapter of the D.A.R. will hold its annual election of officers at the Ebell Club House on next Tuesday afternoon. A colonial programme will be given at 3 p.m.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society will hold its annual reception on next Thursday from 2 to 5 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Leonide Ducommun, No. 1347 Grand avenue.

Miss Ora Chalmers of Clearwater spoke before the Whittier P.-T.A. on "Social Purity" on Friday last. Mrs. Floyd Jordan, president, was elected delegate to the P.-T.A. State federation, to be held in Sacramento in May.

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" was given at the Whittier Woman's Club last week on two successful evenings. Mrs. Clyde Baldwin was the director.

TO HELP ATHLETIC CLUB.

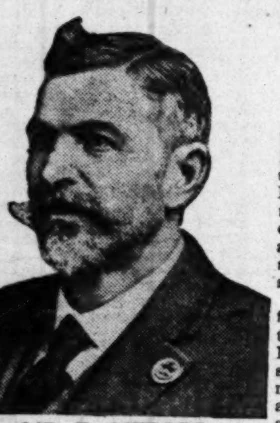
An entertainment and social for the benefit of the A.O.H.A.C. will be given under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in Lincoln Hall, Walker Theater Building, at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. William Dale, film actor, will stage a dramatic sketch, and other participants in the programme will be: R. Sullivan, tenor; Harry McCoy, picture actor; P. J. O'Donnell, and Master and Miss Duffy, who will sing Irish melodies. The proceeds will go toward furthering interest in Gaelic football in Los Angeles.

BOOST RAISIN DAY.

Two carloads of Chamber of Commerce boosters will leave tonight for Fresno to attend the Raisin Day celebration tomorrow. The special Pullmans will be attached to the Santa Fe train leaving here at 5 o'clock. The return will be Tuesday morning.

Suffered the Agony of a Dozen Deaths

Prominent Farmer in Canada Describes His Escape from the Operating Table.



MR. F. GIFFORD

In a letter to friends at Saskatoon, Mr. F. Gifford, of the Ball Rock Farm, Maymont, Saskatchewan, Canada, says: "Thanks to Fruitola and Traxo I am alive. I lay on my back for sixteen days, suffering the agonies of a dozen deaths. I began taking Fruitola and was relieved of a great many gall stones. My health is now fully restored."

Fruitola and Traxo are compounded from the original Edsall formulas at the Pinus laboratories in Monticello, Ill., and can be purchased in drug stores; a doctor's prescription is not necessary. Fruitola is a pure fruit oil and acts as an intestinal lubricant and disintegrates the hardened particles that cause so much suffering, discharging the accumulated waste to the sufferer's intense relief. One dose is usually sufficient to indicate its efficacy. Traxo is a tonic-alterative that is most effective to rebuild and restore the weakened, rundown system.

A booklet of special interest to those who suffer from stomach trouble can be obtained by writing to the Pinus Laboratories, Monticello, Illinois.

MUNICIPAL FARMS WITH JAIL LABOR PLANNED BY BUTLER.

Police Chief Proposes Wide Development, in Griffith Park and San Fernando Valley, of Methods now Proving Their Economic Worth.

MUNICIPAL farms, operated by prisoners from the city police courts, will furnish cheap vegetables for the people of Los Angeles next year, if Chief Butler's ideas are carried out. Yesterday the Chief announced he will shortly set in motion a plan to have the city furnish the necessary capital, enable him to take over city land in Griffith Park and in the San Fernando Valley, and otherwise equip him, that he may transfer prisoners from the East Side Station, the Inebriate Farm and Central Station to a compound, and begin actual farming operations.

"Undoubtedly the present high cost of garden truck is due to the fact that the demand is greater than the supply and that there are food speculators in Los Angeles who are unscrupulous enough to keep prices up," said Chief Butler yesterday. "There is no reason why we should not have municipal farms, but on the contrary there are four reasons why we should.

"We have the land, we have the water, we have the labor, and the time for the work is here. All that is lacking is a sufficient appropriation to cover the cost of seed and of implements with which to work the soil.

WOULD START NOW.

"The matter has been carefully gone into by Mayor Woodman and myself and he has agreed the plans are feasible. I hope to have at least 200 acres in Griffith Park within three months. There is no way in which the plan could fail. We have the market here, the people would rather buy city-grown vegetables than buy from individuals, and there would also be quite a revenue from the vegetables, which would aid in lowering the tax rate.

"Four years ago the East Side Police Station was erected and a year later the yard of the station, which is three acres in extent, was transformed from an empty lot into a garden. For three years now we haven't bought a vegetable for the tables at Central Station, or for the other stations. An abundance of garden truck has been the result of the planting and cultivation of crops at the East Side Station.

"At the Inebriate Farm, on Los Feliz road, twelve acres have been under cultivation for five years, and every year, record crops have been produced there. Berries, which took first prize in local exhibits, were grown there two years ago. Potatoes which ranked higher than any others at the Chamber of Commerce came from the acreage at the farm. Cabbages, parsnips, turnips, beets and all the other garden vegetables have been raised there, and at a profit.

"There can be no opposition to placing the prisoners on municipal farms. It would be of great benefit to them. Under the system of locking them up a man with a sentence of 180 days comes out physically unfit. The chain gang is all right, but it is much more healthy for prisoners to work on a farm than to drag a ball and chain along a road."

JOBS FOR MANY.

It is three miles from the East Side Police Station to Griffith Park. The East Side Station is considered the reasonable location for barracks for prisoners who would farm the hundreds of acres which lie along the river bed in the park. There is sufficient land cleared or in course of being cleared to furnish work for 200 prisoners, according to Chief Butler.

A call for bids for a two-and-a-half-ton truck to carry prisoners from the East Side station to Griffith Park has been issued. This truck is to be equipped with a trailer and will be used also to carry vegetables from the farm to the various police stations.

There are at present 10,000 acres in the San Fernando Valley, according to estimates by city officials, which are traversed by aqueduct laterals and which could easily be utilized as farms under prison labor.

At present, 7540 pounds of potatoes are in the East Side station, and will be cut up this week to seed twenty acres recently cleared on the south side of Los Feliz road, at Griffith Park. The twenty acres will be planted by the end of this week. The preliminary work on this plot was completed Friday, when head gates were put in the canal dug to carry water to the acreage from the Los Angeles River. This canal is more than a mile long, and is four feet wide and four deep. It will carry enough water to irrigate 200 acres.

At least 120 acres can be secured and added to the plot already cleared on the south side of the highway, according to Chief Butler. The work of removing the willows and leveling this addition will be started immediately, he adds.

Twelve acres have been cleared on the north side of the road, and 300 acres more are ready for clearing.

ROTATION ADVOCATED.

Rotation methods would enable the city, according to experts, to secure three large crops of vegetables a year. Rotation of crops in the garden at the East Side station has enabled Capt. Hensley to have vegetables on hand at every season of the year, and the soil has been benefited.

It has been estimated that 200 acres could be cleared and planted to fall potatoes in three weeks. The only outlay would be for implements and seed. The total expenditure would not exceed $7000, and the return would be more than three times that amount, according to city officials.

Chief Butler wants to prepare for planting the forty acres on the river recently acquired from the Southern Pacific through a court decision, and which is adjacent to the twelve acres at the Inebriate Farm.

Ten prisoners a day on an average are sent to the various city jails. At present twenty-five men are working at the Inebriate Farm. There are 145 men serving time in the East Side jail. A large number of these are not doing anything. Some of them are incapable of working; others are idle because there is nothing for them to do.

DELINQUENCY OF TAXES LOWER.

TOMORROW LAST DAY TO PAY IN CITY OR COUNTY.

Collector Expects Nearly a Million Dollars by Mail Before the Close of Books—This will be Last Time that the City Receives Taxes.

The prosperity of Los Angeles has never been better mirrored than by the fact that delinquency in taxes this year will be the lowest in a number of years. City Tax Collector Conrad yesterday announced that there remains only approximately $1,495,000 on the books, an amount half a million smaller than last year at the same time.

Yesterday's mail was jammed with checks covering the tax due. Tomorrow's mail is expected to be so voluminous that it will require at least a week to open and sort all of the envelopes and their contents. Receipts from this and from those who come in person will probably run over $1,000,000. This will leave the smallest delinquent list on record in five years, in face of the fact that the property valuations are higher and the list of taxpayers much larger.

When the collections close tomorrow, the tax office of the city will make its final accounting. It will then turn over its books, accounts and other accessories to the County Tax Collector's office, which in future will handle both funds.

When the offices of the County Tax Collector closed at noon yesterday the half-day's receipts showed an aggregate of $282,191.91 in cash. The many checks had not been figured up. There is due from taxes more than $2,000,000. As Monday is the last day, the offices will be kept open until 6 o'clock in the evening to accommodate the last-minute citizens.

WANT MORE LIGHTS. MAY HELP INEBRIATES.

The North End Improvement Association yesterday filed a request with the City Council for more lights along Los Feliz road. The incandescents are wanted for a stretch of about two miles from Avenue Twenty bridge to the entrance of Griffith Park. This includes a number of lights through the inebriate farm, where unquestionably more light would be welcomed.

To Extend Avenue.

The City Council has ordered the City Engineer and the City Attorney to prepare the necessary ordinance providing for the opening of Elysian Park avenue from Boylston street to Innes avenue.

More Extensive Quarantine.

The City Attorney was yesterday instructed by the City Council to amend the present quarantine ordinance so that it will include a number of communicable diseases not on the present list. Among the new ailments which will call for a close sojourn at home will be chickenpox, measles and several other diseases usually associated with children.

LIBEL SUIT GROWS FROM COMPANY ROW.

STOCKHOLDER SEEKS DAMAGES FROM CORPORATION.

Article in Commonwealth Home Builders' Magazine, Referring to "Money Greed" and "Promotion System" for Ruin, Stirs Trouble.

Alleging he was libeled by the publication of an article in the "American Globe," a magazine circulated among the stockholders of the Commonwealth Home Builders, F. D. Jimeno asks $10,000 damages in a suit filed yesterday against the corporation and George Renwick, C. E. Jansen, S. J. Keese, W. D. Ballantine, S. J. Van Rooyan, N. Blackstock and Harry W. Watson, officers.

Mr. Jimeno is a stockholder and chairman of a committee of stockholders to investigate and protect the rights and interests of the stockholders. The article complained of is headed, "Norton's Filibustering Expedition of Commonwealth Home Builders—a Fizzle." It refers to Mr. Norton as the president of the original Home Builders of Los Angeles, trustee for more than half the stock and director of the Southern California Home Builders, who in conjunction with Mr. Jimeno, an officer and promoter of the Stone Chief Mining Company and a stockholder of the Commonwealth Home Builders, entertained some twenty-five stockholders of the commonwealth in the office of the Stone Chief Mining Company.

It commented on the fact that the little gathering seemed to be a cut-and-dried affair; described it as a promotion system of ruining the stockholders, and added in another paragraph, "Money greed will cause some people to do anything as long as they are able to keep out of jail." These and other statements, Mr. Jimeno alleges, were circulated for the purpose of besmirching the good name of the Stone Chief Mining Company and thereby decreasing the value of Mr. Jimeno's holdings in the corporation and injuring his reputation.

Doctors Stand Amazed at Power of Bon-Opto to Make Weak Eyes Strong—According to Dr. Lewis

Guaranteed to Strengthen Eyesight 50% In One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa. Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses, and those who wear glasses, will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable prescription and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me."

A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can read even fine print without glasses." Another who used it says: "I was bothered with eye strain caused by overworked, tired eyes which induced fierce headaches. I have worn glasses for several years both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the typewriting on the machine before me. I can do both now and have discarded my long distance glasses altogether. I can count the fluttering leaves on the trees across the street now, which for several years have looked like a dim green blur to me. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me."

It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by the use of this prescription. Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto Tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and let it dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation and redness will quickly disappear. If your eyes bother you even a little it is your duty to take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have saved their sight if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Yes, the Bon-Opto prescription is truly a wonderful eye remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. I have used it very successfully in my own practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork or misfit glasses. I can highly recommend it in case of weak, watery, aching, smarting, itching, burning eyes, red lids, blurred vision or for eyes inflamed from exposure to smoke, sun, dust or wind. It is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." Bon-Opto referred to above, is not a patent medicine or a secret remedy. It is an ethical preparation, the formula being printed on the package. Th manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent. in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is sold in this city by the leading druggists.

Sore Eyes, Granulated Eyelids, Eyes inflamed by exposure to Sun, Dust and Wind quickly relieved by Murine Eye Remedy. No smarting, just Eye Comfort. At your Druggist's or by mail, 50c per Bottle. For Book of the Eye free ask Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

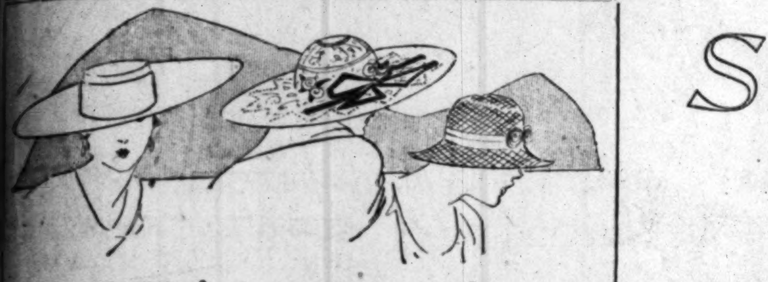
—Six days in which the Garment and Millinery sections on the Third Floor will put forward merchandise of such an important character and intrinsic worth that the woman, with the modest income or those with the well-filled purse, will see the purchasing power of a dollar wonderfully increased.
—Six days of merchandising, in which The Broadway promises much, and you have learned to know that Broadway promises are kept.
—Monday, the beginning, with these features here mentioned.
—News items of interest will follow, day after day. —It will profit you to watch our advertisements closely.

When You Think of Garments this Week Look to The Broadway to Supply the Need at a Saving that will be Profitable to You



A Trio of Splendid

Millinery

Savings Presented in this Garment Week

—Not since the season began has the Millinery Department made such splendid preparations for a week of selling opportunities.
—The Millinery buyer said: "I am going to make this a week of selling that will set a new standard. These three features, that I mention for Monday, are the beginning of six days of such millinery opportunities as I have not presented in many a season."

Trimmed Hats $5.95

Savings are really remarkable

—But it's not only the underpricings that are interesting.
—It's the styles, the materials, the assortment.
—Small hats, medium hats, large hats, hats of Lisere, Milan, hemp, leghorn and hair hats.
—Tailored, street and dress hats are included.
—When the Broadway announces a millinery feature you may depend upon it's being worth while.

Ready-to-Wear Hats $1.95

Tailored and Sports Styles

—Former selling prices have been disregarded. This price has been made low enough to bring hundreds to the millinery section.
—Java hats, hemp hats and fancy straws with grosgrain ribbon trimming. Here are sports colors, sailors, droops and mushroom shapes.
—By all means take advantage of this—$1.95.

Untrimmed Hats to be $3.95

—Fine Lisere straw shapes, hand blocked, mind you. And exclusive shapes, including the small roll brim hats, the large sailors, and, of course, any number of dress shapes.
—The color range is excellent, including rose, green, blue, etc., as well as a few black.
—An opportunity that should bring you early to the millinery section. Third Floor.

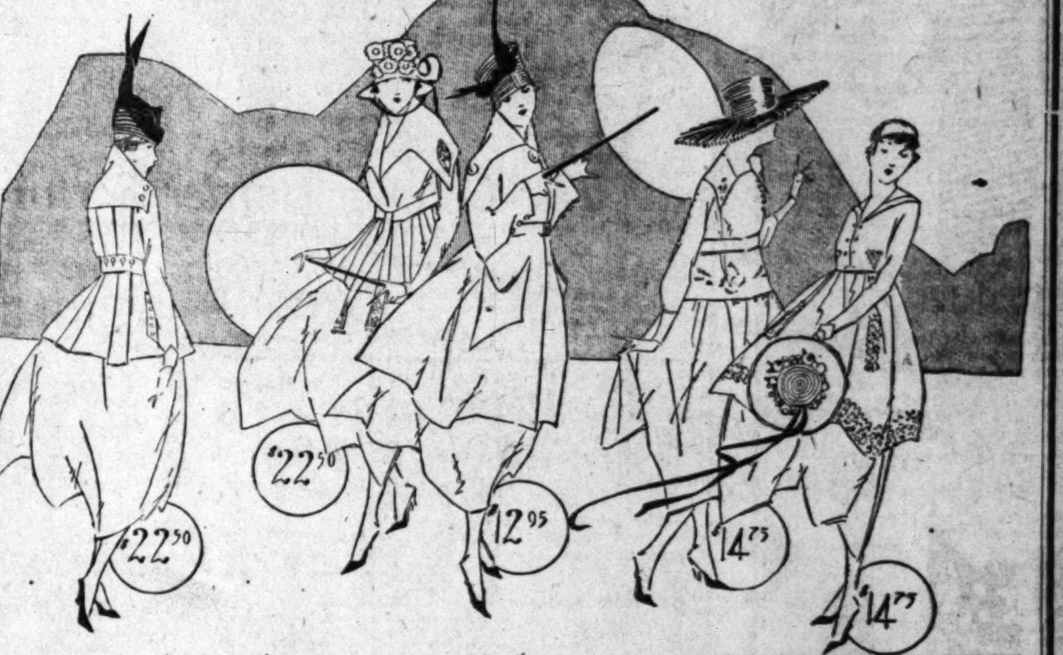
—First of the important news from the Garment Section in this Garment Week.
—125 taffeta, crepe de chine, pongee, Georgette, Georgette and taffeta combinations and gros de londre dresses.
—The colors that are in demand, the styles that are in demand for street, afternoon and evening wear. Also sports dresses with pockets, fancy collars, cuffs, etc.
—The sort of savings that are to make this garment week notable.



And $25 to $35 Suits $22.50

—100 of them, serges, gabardines, poplins, velours, wool jerseys, Burrella cloth and taffeta.
—Dark and light shades, plain tailored Norfolks, sports models. Semi-tailored and flared, in fact, here are the desired styles of the season in well tailored, well lined suits that have been $25.00, $29.50 and $35.00. Your opportunity at $22.50. Third Floor.

And $15, $17.50 and $19.50

Wool Coats $12.95

—Garments that are now priced $15, $17.50 and $19.50. 175 of them.
—Wool velours, gabardines and checks, novelty mixtures and plaids.

Dix Made Dresses

For House and Porch Wear

—Comes in the nature of an achievement, for the manufacturers are 'way, 'way behind on their orders. We have pictured a few of the new styles.
—There is truly a feminine sense of satisfaction in wearing a "Dix Make" frock.
—In the first place, every woman likes to have her tub frocks well made—with felled or bound seams, with deep hems, with buttons that "stay put."
—"Dix Make" House and Porch Dresses carry their own guaranty in the ways of materials, workmanship and smartness of design; and yet prices are no more than are asked for inferior makes.
—We have all sizes from 34 to 48 now in stock.
—The picture illustrates some of the styles.

—No. 705, pictured, is of percale in narrow stripe pattern, white collar and belt and pocket of self material. Colors are blue-and-white, pink-and-white and black-and-white. Price $1.50.
—No. 708 is of the material known as "Nurses' Stripe," cut V-neck; collar, belt and pockets. Price $2.00.
—No. 724 is of percale; made with vest front, white collar trimmed with buttons, belt and pockets. Price $2.25.
—Style No. 756 is of wide-wale white pique, with large, hemstitched collar and cuffs and a capacious pocket; belted; price $3.50.
—No. 745, pictured, is made of a nice quality of plain-color chambray; is double-breasted; and the small, white collar and cuffs have bits of hand embroidery; belted and has pockets; pink or blue; price $3.50.
—No. 769, pictured, is made of fine-striped dimity in dainty color combinations; white collar and vest; cuffs and collar trimmed with embroidery; two wide tucks far apart, form the effective skirt trimming; deep hem. Price $5.00.

OMONA RANCHERS WILL MULTIPLY THEIR CROPS.

in the Pomona district

the direction of P. J. nager of the San Antonio ange, the orange and lem-g-house managers made a
the adjacent ranches to enable them to recommend suitable crops for planting between the rows of trees this summer.

There are about 500 acres of young citrus groves in the valley and if these can be made to produce middle crops the section will be richer in foodstuffs from no less than 250 acres of land this fall, as it is figured that half the ground in a young grove can be devoted to some other crop without robbing the tree of such soil food as it requires for steady growth. Crops of beans, potatoes, onions, turnips, melons, squashes, pumpkins and tomatoes will be recommended.

Many farmers now having acres of potatoes under cultivation are arranging to irrigate the crop and then drill Egyptian or Kaffir corn in the middle between the rows of spuds. They say the corn will not interfere with the growth of the potatoes and that the harvest of Egyptian or Kaffir corn in the fall will be bountiful, because such grain requires no irrigation and is excellent chicken and hog feed.

Egyptian corn appears to be popular with the deciduous fruit growers, too. Many of them, having contracted apparently bumper crops of apricots and peaches at from $35 to $50 per ton, will plant their orchard middles to Egyptian corn, which made a ton and a half to the acre in the middles last fall and sold readily at from $35 to $40 per ton.

Down in the fruit and alfalfa district, between Pomona and Chino, the ranchers will plant large quantities of sweet field pumpkins, expecting to make them replace alfalfa and barley as cow feed. The pumpkin crop, it is thought, will find ready sale among the many dairymen in the Chino district.

In Pomona the water company will make specially low rates for water used in the cultivation of gardens, and it is believed the ranch irrigation water companies will make similar concessions.

INDIANS INCREASE CROPS.

Indians of the Morongo tribe will plant $3500 worth of seed this year on their reservation nine miles east of Beaumont. Indian Agent Jenkins already had bought $3000 worth of seed and last week was authorized by the Indian Commissioner to expend $500 more for this purpose. Grain and garden crops will be grown. The Indians will sow and cultivate all of their land that is suitable for agriculture.

A Big Help.

A THOUSAND ACRES FOR VARIOUS INTER-CROPS.

No less than 1000 acres of citrus orchards around Santa Ana that ordinarily would not be planted to intercrops will be planted this year to potatoes, beans, tomatoes, peas and other crops. This estimate was made at a food survey meeting this week.

This is the biggest item in the increased planting that is being done or will be done. All of this 1000 acres will be irrigated, and the yield will be excellent. The orchards are young. Those included in the estimate of 1000 acres are orchards that had intercrops last year, but which in an ordinary year would have had nothing between the rows this year.

With the high prices of products and the patriotic duty of raising all the food products necessary, ranchers all over the county are using every available foot of their ranches for crops. In the aggregate that is going to amount to several hundred acres, just how much it is not possible to estimate.

Through the Chamber of Commerce a garden contest has been instituted in the schools of the city. Prizes have been offered, and the city is furnishing water free to the contestants. This will bring about a bulk production of possibly several hundred sacks of potatoes and root vegetables, as well as large quantities of string and lima beans.

It was estimated yesterday that residents of the city have 100 per cent. more garden space in their gardens utilized now than a year ago. Many vacant lots not used in the last several years are this year growing potatoes.

Taking Orange county as a whole, probably the greatest increase in acreage will be in lima beans, the prices for which were never higher. Planting has commenced ten days earlier than usual, and reports from the bean-growing sections indicate that every possible attention is being paid to proper cultivation in order to increase the yield. In some places arrangements have been made to irrigate lands not ordinarily irrigated.

PLANT TO CAN.

Monrovia Expert Declares There's Too Much Perishable Stuff.

"Eat what you can, and what you can't, can," is the advice of W. N. Phillipson, deputy horticultural commissioner for the Monrovia district, in urging the people to plant and keep on planting to aid in the great food production campaign.

Mr. Phillipson declares there is entirely too much perishable foodstuff grown in proportion to the vegetables and fruits that can be canned and kept for future use.

Even the much-prized potato is being planted too extensively, according to the garden expert, who predicts a grand tumble in prices as soon as the new crop begins to reach the market and growers realize they have a vegetable that cannot easily be kept outside of cold storage houses, during the summer weather.

Tribute.

CITY TO HONOR NEW CITIZENS.

Mass Meeting to Greet Those Recently Naturalized.

Demonstration is Planned for Flag Day in June.

Thirty Societies Co-operate with Schools to Aid.

Public recognition of Los Angeles' recently naturalized citizens in a great mass meeting in Shrine Auditorium on Flag Day, June 14, is the plan of thirty civic organizations of the city, co-operating with the schools, and headed by the Rotary Club. That evening, when the nation pays homage and respect to Old Glory, citizenship diplomas will be presented to more than 200 foreign-born persons who will have become naturalized Americans between the 4th inst. and that date, and addresses of welcome and patriotic appreciation will be made by officials of the State and city.

The tentative programme for the citizenship mass meeting, which will be the largest and most significant affair of its kind ever held in this city, includes an address by Gov. Stephens; Frederick M. Jones, United States Naturalization Examiner; City Superintendent of Schools Shiels; Judge Trippet; Mayor Woodman, and others yet to be named.

Presentation of the certificates of citizenship provided by the national government will be made by Judge Trippet, and Mayor Woodman will welcome the new citizens to the fellowship of a great city.

FLAGS FOR NEW PATRIOTS.

It is planned to present each new patriot with an American flag to which he will pledge his allegiance and loyalty. He also will be given opportunity to respond to the addresses of welcome.

Promoters of the movement expect that from 1500 to 2000 or even more recently naturalized citizens will attend the exercises, and that many will bring their families with them. Special invitations will be issued to all foreign-born citizens who became naturalized within the past year, besides to those who have declared their intention to become citizens within the past two years.

Plans for Americanization Day exercises to be held next July 4 under the auspices and direction of the Young Men's Christian Association are to be held in abeyance so that secretaries of that organization may fully co-operate with the committees representing the thirty-odd civic clubs, societies and associations.

The bureau of naturalization of the Department of Labor has indorsed the plan, and Examiner Jones is actively co-operating with the schools and other organizations in arousing a widespread interest in citizenship among foreign-born people of the city.

E. E. Crawford of the Rotary Club, chairman of the committee in charge of the mass meetings, declared yesterday that the success of the movement seemed certain because of the ready response from the courts and public and civic bodies.

AMPLE SUPPORT ASSURED.

Among the organizations which have indorsed the mass meeting and are actively co-operating in its behalf are the following: Business Women's Civic Club, Manual Arts High School Civic Association, Normal Hill Civic Center, Outlook Association, Rotary Club, the Ad Club, High School Teachers' Association, Friday Morning Club, State Commission of Immigration and Housing, City Teachers' Club, Y.W.C.A., Boyle Heights Civic League, Magnolia-avenue Civic Center, G.A.R., Chautauqua Association, Y.M.C.A., Los Angeles Public Schools, Hollywood Woman's Club, Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, D.A.R., Federated Parent-Teacher Association.

It is also expected that such organizations as the Ebell Club, Chamber of Commerce, Central Labor Council and other bodies will participate.

"These organizations feel that a recognition service is especially important and impressive in bringing both the old and the new citizen into the fellowship of loyalty and allegiance to the flag," said Chairman Crawford yesterday. "These people often feel actually as if they had been born again by being welcomed to citizenship in this way."

Novelties.

PLAY FOR RED CROSS.

British Organization to be Aided by Vaudeville Entertainment in Which Several Actors from Across the Sea Will Participate.

For the benefit of the British Red Cross of London, a vaudeville programme will be given at the Gamut Club Theater next Thursday evening. The British-California Players, who include many well known Los Angeles amateurs, will present the greater part of the programme, and will be assisted by a number of British professionals, among whom are Herbert Standing, the actor, and Ernest Belcher, formerly premier danseur at leading London theaters.

Mr. Standing will be heard in an informal monologue and Mr. Belcher will present his Ballet Dresden, to include fourteen people, in three numbers. Principals to appear with Mr. Belcher are Miss Gladys Conrad, Miss Isabel Clark and Jean Maureil.

The Scottish Pipe Band quintette, Prof. W. E. Barclay, pianist, and Misses Helen Dearing and Rennie Wilson, dancers, are to help entertain and there will be three sketches—"A Perfect Day," directed by Miss Lelia Grant; "Ingratitude," directed by Miss Grace Travers, and "The Dress Rehearsal," with Miss Dora Young and V. Edward Maynard directing.

SHODA IS NAMED CABINET MEMBER.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

TOKIO, Dec. 15.—Kazuye Shoda, Vice-Minister of Finance, has been appointed Minister for financial affairs in the Terauchi Cabinet. Mr. Shoda is one of the youngest ministers of the nation. NEW MULTIPLE REELER.

WAR LEVY'S LEVITY NOT LIGHT ALONG STARLIT LANE.

By Grace Kingsley.

Of course, to be within the charmed circle of picture stars and picture magnates who receive salaries which soar up into the rarified atmosphere occupied by high art and the income tax, is an enviable position. Nevertheless now that these poor struggling picture folk are to have their salaries submitted to further pickings on account of the war—in other words, now they are liable to have to yield up 40 per cent. of their incomes as war tax—fancy how they will suffer. They will not be able to afford more than three or four cars and chauffeurs apiece, they will have to be satisfied with old second-hand diamonds, they will be able to buy only a few hundred thousand dollars' worth of government bonds at a time, and will have to cut over last year's ermine and make it do for another winter.

Fancy poor little Mary Pickford saying a touching farewell to two or three of her very best chauffeurs; William S. Hart painfully picking over his socks and galluses to see how long they will last. Charlie Chaplin being reduced to wearing his funny, talented shoes; Francis X. Bushman doing without his hair being marcelled; Fatty Arbuckle with only nineteen suits of clothes to show off his figure; Geraldine Farrar dismissing her hairdresser; and Henry Walthall having to assuage his thirst with White Star! However, these patriots are keeping a noble silence on the subject, so we presume they are willing to sacrifice in the cause of patriotism.

A graduated war levy, according to recent advices, runs up to 40 per cent. on incomes of $100,000 and up to a certain amount above that figure, and there are an imposing number of picture stars and film magnates who will be affected thereby. Among these are David Griffith, Thomas H. Ince, Charlie Chaplin, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, William S. Hart, Francis X. Bushman, Roscoe Arbuckle, Mack Sennett, Max Linder, Clara Kimball Young and Henry Walthall, of the acting and directing forces, while among the heads of companies are Adolf Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky, Lewis J. Selznick, Carl Laemmle, William A. Brady, Richard A. Rowland, J. Stuart Blackton, John R. Freuler, S. S. Hutchinson and others.

First Corona Exhibit.

Those indignant souls who are wont to resent a double standard of morality for the sexes, may now enjoy a visual brief on their side of the case. The initial contribution of the Corona Cinema Company to the motion-picture field, the multiple-reel morality drama, "The Curse of Eve," has been completed, and according to the announcement of F. E. Keeler, president of the company, the first showing will be given early in May. Plans are now under way to bring the trade and State rights buyers together in New York City for the maiden showing of this drama, after which the producers will control the opening public launchings in Los Angeles, New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and San Francisco.

Louis Gottschalk is fast completing the musical arrangement for this drama.

"The Curse of Eve" deals with the much-discussed double standard of morals. Frank Beal, long prominent as a director of successful motion-picture plays, supervised the making of the film. Wycliffe A. Hill is the author, and the story was photo-dramatized by Joseph Anthony Roach. William C. Thompson was the photographer.

Enid Markey, for a long time one of the Thomas H. Ince stars, enacts the leading role, that of the modern Eve, and there is an excellent cast supporting her, including Ed Coxen, Jack Standing, Eugenie Besserer, Elsie Greeson, William Quinn, G. Raymond Nye, Clarissa Selwynne and Arthur Allardt.

New Film Company.

The North Woods Feature Film Company is the imagination-stimulating title of a new film company which came into being last Thursday, with Reaves Eason, a well-known director and star, as managing director.

The company announces as its object the filming of five and seven-reel features, and as Mr. Eason has had much experience, having been with the American Film Company three years, with Balboa a year, and with other organizations during varying periods, the new organization would appear to have started out with a husky lease on life.

The first feature produced will be entitled "Little Rough Neck," and will exploit the baby star, "Breezy" Eason, said to be a prodigy. Miss Jimsie Maye will play the leading feminine role.

The new company has taken over a portion of the Balboa studio at Long Beach, and later will be located at its own studio either in Glendale or Eagle Rock. The company will leave for Bear Valley this week, where numerous scenes will be filmed.

Wandering Wally Flits.

Kathlyn Williams and Wallace Reid, with their company under the direction of William H. Taylor, of the Morosco studio, have departed for Fort Bragg, Cal., there to take a number of the lumber camp scenes for the forthcoming production in which they will be co-starred. Mr. Reid, who with Myrtle Stedman, journeyed to Stockton to dedicate a new Paramount theater, joined the party in San Francisco. Mr. Reid, being unacquainted with a large city, lost himself, and the company had to remain over a day while the different members paged San Francisco for the wandering Wally. Miss Stedman has returned to the studio to prepare for a new production.

Rapid Evolution Note.

Miss Lehua Waipahu, the talented Hawaiian actress, scored such a pronounced success as leading woman for Sessue Hayakawa in "The Bottle Imp," that she decided to remain permanently in the United States. As her Hawaiian name is such a tongue-twister to those not familiar with the island language, Miss Waipahu has adopted the American name of Margaret Loomis, and in the future will use that when there is occasion for her to appear in connection with the photodrama. Miss Loomis will shortly blossom forth as a full-fledged leading woman with a prominent American star. Though hardly speaking a word of English at the time of the making of "The Bottle Imp," she now talks English quite fluently, Angelus Hotel, oddly enough, being one of the terms she earliest became acquainted with. As a tribute to our climate, be it known her complexion has suddenly turned very fair.

No Mummies, But Then—

Trans-Atlantic travel being somewhat disturbed and the selection of a story with an Egyptian setting as the basis of Mme. Petrova's first Lasky-Paramount appearance having taken place, it becomes incumbent upon the Russian actress to journey to Florida for the desired settings.

The story, the title of which is "The Undying Flame," concerns itself with ancient and modern Egypt and is military in its general tenor. Inasmuch as considerable of the action is described as taking place upon the banks of the Nile, it can be safely predicted that Florida's most obscure sand wastes will shortly attain immortalization upon the screen as the deathless sands of Egypt. The transplanting of a few palm-trees and the enveloping of a large retinue of negroes in long and flowing robes are all that are necessary to transform certain portions of the Florida coast into perfect Egyptian settings, according to Maurice Tourneur, the director in charge of Mme. Petrova's picture, whose long experience behind the camera should qualify him to speak with authority.

She Moves Right Up.

Those who saw the Fox production of "A Tale of Two Cities" will not soon forget the appealing beauty and expressiveness of Florence Vidor, who played the part of the girl who was sent to the guillotine with Sidney Carton. It was her excellent work in that one scene which marked her for promotion, and in consequence she has the leading feminine role with William Farnum in "American Methods," which will be shown at Miller's this week.

Bruin Need not Apply.

George Beban and his company, under the direction of Donald Crisp, have departed for Bear Valley, there to film the snow scenes in Mr. Beban's next production. Mr Beban wants it distinctly understood that while he may be willing to go to Bear Valley, no bear actually appears in this picture, unless it's a dead bear or a Teddy bear.

Humility Note.

The w.k. theatrical doorkeeper who worked for twenty years without a day off and then when he finally got one, spent it with the doorkeeper of another theater, hasn't anything on Director Frank Reicher, who, away in New York on a vacation, is said to be spending his vacation in much the same manner. In other words, he's looking in on Artcraft, Goldwyn, Universal, and other producers, to see how best each busy little director improves the shining hour.

Neck and Neck Note.

Two new productions were begun at the Fox studios during the last week. One is a photoplay directed by R. A. Walsh, with his wife, Miriam Cooper, as star, and a picture with George Walsh as star, directed by Otis Turner. In Miss Cooper's cast are Charles Clary, Jack Standing, Jane Novak, Rosita Marstini, Jennie Lee, W. E. Parsons and Johnny Reese.

Mr. Standing returns to the Fox company for the first time after his excellent work in the recent Gladys Brockwell photoplay, "One Touch of Sin." Johnny Reese is making the success of his life as Mugsy in "The Honor System." Jennie Lee is a famous old lady of the screen whom everyone knows and loves. This will be the first Fox production in which she has appeared. Dal Clawson will do the photographing.

Doris Pawn will once more play opposite George Walsh in his new picture. Also in the cast will be Herschel Mayall, Velma Whitman,

New Project.

CHILDREN WILL MAKE FILMS FOR CHILDREN.

During his visit to California William Fox, the celebrated producer of pictures, took steps for the establishment of a company of children, who are to film stories of the land of make-believe and specially-written scenarios on children's subjects. Announcement of this move has just been made by the Fox film corporation, with the additional information that it is expected to release a "Fox kiddie feature" monthly.

There seems to be a rather general movement in the picture world to bring the children to the front in many recent photoplays. Child stars have attained a popularity in some instances that is second to none. So far the Fox company seems to be the first of the larger concerns to actually start a children's company. It is understood, however, that H. O. Davis of the Universal is planning to put on children plays.

The demand for adequate photoplays for children has been an actuating force to bring about the starting of the company of child actors at the Fox studio. The same idea found an advocate in Mrs. Lule Warrenton, director of the Frieder Film Corporation, who some months ago began putting on children's plays. She is starring Mary Louise, a clever child actress, supported by a number of other kiddies in these plays, and the next production from this studio will probably be "Hop o' My Thumb."

One of the pioneers in the kid feature game was the Fine Arts company. They had a large number of children in their list of talent, although they never made a practice of putting out a regular programme of children's plays made exclusively by children.

At various studios like Ince, Balboa, Universal, Horsley and others there have been and are now clever little starlets, among them Carmen de Rue, Violet Radcliffe, Virginia Corbin, Lena Baskette, known as Baby Pavlowa on account of her dancing; Elizabeth James, Gordon Griffith, Antoine Short, Irma Sorter, Zoe Rae, Bennie Suslow, Jane Lee, Katherine Lee, Thelma Salter, Gloria Joy, Marie Osborne, "Breezy" Easton and Billy Jacobs. It would be difficult to mention all the clever kiddies who from time to time have played their little part in the making of pictures. Most of those mentioned are in the West, but in the East as well there are many little ones similarly engaged. Practically no company nowadays is without its dependable child actress. The Bernstein company hereabouts and the North Woods Feature Film Company, among the newer concerns, have their child stars.

AFTER CROP PESTS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, April 28.—Survey of crop pests throughout the county will be made early next month by experts of the State Council of Defense, headed by Prof. E. O. Essig. The pest experts will meet at Paso Robles. They are particularly interested in grasshoppers, although they will survey possible damage to crops by other parasites, including the black aphis, or aphis rumicis, that has been infesting the beans here and in other counties.

DANCING NOVELTY.

Idealized Indian Moods to Form a Prominent Feature on Interesting Programme to be Given Saturday Evening at the Gamut Club.

A dancing programme of much interest, devoted both to serious and lighter moods, will be presented Saturday evening at Gamut Auditorium under the direction of Miss Marion Virginia Shipp. An especial feature of the performance will be the idealization of the American Indian dances, with accompaniments furnished by arrangements of native music by noted American composers.

The prologue to the programme will be given by Miss Marion Vaughan, a clever local girl.

The first half of the programme will be devoted to a ballet built around well-known drawings of Jessie Wilcox Smith, and even in rehearsal this has proved to possess the fascination of the pictures of the popular artist, it is said.

The second half of the programme will be taken up with the choreographic drama, "The Prophet Bird." Through dancing and pantomime the characteristic traits of the American Indian, especially as regards his spiritual side, will be brought out. The allegory points out the possession by the red man of qualities unheeded by civilization. This is said to be the first time that the American Indian characteristics have been idealized in classical dancing.

Remarkably interesting costumes and lighting effects will add color to the production, which has been written and staged entirely by Miss Shipp. [illegible] Lothrop Gay is in charge of the music.

CLEVER ONES PRESENT.

STAR SPECIAL WEEK AT LOCAL MOVIE THEATERS.

Managers and actors of the "legitimate" stage probably have a perfectly legitimate grouch against the silent drama—from the standpoint of those commercially interested in the legitimate stage. By what right do the film folk assume the privilege of producing such plays as "The Garden of Allah," "War Brides," "The Typhoon" and "The Traffic?" To this question, however, the film producers answer, in effect: We produce these plays in picture form because we can do them just as well, and in many respects much better, than they are done in legitimate, because we can make money thereby and because we can give the people good entertainment at reasonable prices. And all the people say 'Amen!' As long as this is true what are the "legits" going to do about it?

In the motion-picture programme for Los Angeles this week there is every variety of play from comedy to tragedy. The offerings are especially notable for the splendid array of talented players, among the clever ones being Henry Walthall, Virginia Pearson, Ford Sterling, Anita Stewart, William Farnum, Willard Louis, Jewel Carmen, Mildred Manning, Max Linder, Franklyn Farnum, "Fatty" Arbuckle, Mabel Taliaferro, House Peters, Louise Huff and scores of others.

Garrick.

Fresh as an April shower comes "Fatty" Arbuckle in his new offering, "The Butcher Boy," which will start a week's run at the Garrick Theater today. "The Butcher Boy" is said to sparkle with pretty girls and funny situations, while Roscoe Arbuckle's enormous form is a bright spot all to itself.

Of course, all the accouterments of the butcher shop are sources of laughter. There are endless chains of "sissiges," a pugnacious "bull purp" and other "tearful" accessories.

Manager Glimm promises another feature to complement "The Butcher Boy" and he is confident that it will be good enough to compete with the comedy for popular honors.

Quinn's Rialto.

Seats will go on sale tomorrow morning for the opening presentation of "The Garden of Allah," the big photoplay which is to be the premiere offering at Quinn's new Rialto Theater on Broadway near Eighth street. "The Garden of Allah" is too well known to require comment. As a novel it is one of the best sellers of the decade, and its stage presentation in Los Angeles a few weeks ago was attended by thousands who had read the book.

In picture form the play is said to have lost none of its charm and romance, and picture lovers are anxiously awaiting its arrival at the Rialto.

Woodley's.

The Woodley programmes of late seem to be running "by the rule of three," the bill which makes its bow at that theater today consisting of "pearls, paupers and pretense." Heading the list is a Sennett-Keystone comedy called "A Maiden's Trust," featuring Hugh Fay, Myrtle Lind and Ford Sterling. Then there is a five-reel drama called "Sleeping Fires," with Pauline Frederick in the leading role.

The third picture is another "Woodley Special," featuring the Keystone girls. This time the lassies are seen in their gymnasium suits.

Tally's Broadway.

Two men loved her; one was a man of 40, distinguished and able, the other a high-born youth who was a slave to drink. Her heart chose the boy, but duty and honor intervened and she married the man of iron will and self-control. Then came the crash and disillusionment and repentance.

This, in brief, is the story of Cyrus Townsend Brady's popular novel, "The More Excellent Way," which, in picture form and starring Anita Stewart, will be the offering at Tally's Broadway, beginning tomorrow. The added attraction is another Robert Bruce "scenic beautiful" subject.

Clune's Auditorium.

Big crowds are the rule at the showing of "Invisible Government, or the Downfall of a Mayor," the picture at Clune's Auditorium, where former Mayor Sebastian is featured both on the screen and in person at each performance.

From present indications "Invisible Government" is destined to have a run of several weeks.

The play is alive with exciting incidents, revealing methods of capturing offenders of the law. The story has been filmed with remarkable skill.

Miller's.

One reason why the seats in Miller's Theater are so seldom vacant is because William Farnum has a habit of appearing on the screen at that popular house. Beginning today, Mr. Farnum will again be seen at Miller's as a virile, whole-souled American in "American Methods," a big Fox picture adapted from Ohnet's famous novel, "The Iron Master."

The strongly marked characters of the story are said to be admirably portrayed by Mr. Farnum and his brilliant company, which includes Joseph Swickard, Jewel Carmen, Marck Robbins, Lillian West, Bertram Grassby, Genevieve Blinn and Willard Louis.

The added attraction will be a Fox film comedy called "An Aerial Joy Ride."

Alhambra.

A brand new Fox picture, called "Royal Romance," featuring Virginia Pearson, is to be the attraction at the Alhambra Theater, commencing today. Miss Pearson plays the role of Sylvia, an unconventional princess, who, while traveling incognito, falls in love with a prince, who also is traveling in disguise.

The star is supported by Irving Cummings, and the story is said to be one of adventure and strong heart interest.

An added attraction will be an O. Henry romance, featuring Mildred Manning.

SINGING FOR PEOPLE.

PLAN MADE FOR CONCENTRATING COMMUNITY WORK.

By Edwin Schallert.

That the mobilization idea is not confined to military affairs alone is evidenced by the fact that plans are being made in local musical circles to recruit in the lighter cause of community singing. While there will, very naturally, be no resort to conscription to secure singers, the community forces are to be built up out of the ranks of the people, and an opportunity will probably be afforded to all to volunteer, no age limit being specified. There have been various concentration points for the work up to the present, but a movement has been started to centralize.

All of which seems to indicate that the community music idea has come to stay.

Representatives of various organizations met last Monday to discuss permanently establishing community singing, and an organization to carry on the work was formed, headed by a committee consisting of Seward Simons, J. T. Anderson, chairman of the municipal music for the federated musical clubs and music sections of federated clubs; William H. Lott, president of the Music Teachers' Association, and Kie Julie Christin, prominently identified with local music clubs. The organization at present is tentative, but will shortly make way for a permanent one. Mr. Simons is president and Mrs. J. T. Anderson, vice-president.

According to the general outline of community singing plans, there will be both outdoor and indoor meetings. The outdoor meetings will probably be conducted along the broad lines of the concerts at Eastlake Park, while more intensive training of the choruses will distinguish the indoor meetings. Neither the concerts that are being held at Eastlake Park, nor any other municipal concerts have any direct connection with the new organization, however, it is understood, although all work of this kind will doubtless be brought under one general head later.

The community singing has proved exceedingly popular with the people attending these various individual enterprises. At the resumption of the concerts in Eastlake Park last Sunday, for instance, it was estimated that nearly 7000 persons were present, and joined in the singing of patriotic and favorite airs, led by Frank Gregory and Mrs. Gloria Mayne Windsor. It would appear, therefore, that the time is fruitful for permanent organization.

The idea of the temporary organization for bringing the present various efforts to further community singing under one head is outlined in a letter sent out by the committee to various organizations interested, in part as follows:

"There has been much talk of community singing in Los Angeles. The idea has met with universal approval. Efforts have been made in various clubs and sections which represent the desire to respond to this popular sentiment.

"Music is the great unifying force binding together all classes of our people and through it is best evidenced the power of co-operation which comes from a union in a common purpose. It is now the natural accompaniment of the fine patriotic feeling that animates all Americans and will stimulate and ennoble it.

"The time has come when all those who have been interested in community music should be closely associated. The spirit must be crystallized into an effective organization to carry on the work systematically and successfully. The music clubs of Los Angeles are the natural sponsors of this movement, together with the federated woman's clubs, most of whom have music sections which are enthusiastic in promoting this common object.

"From these two groups a temporary organization has been effected to centralize the work and to take those preliminary steps which will result in an organization which will be truly representative, and which shall in no way interfere with the individual work of the organizations which lend their support.

"This invitation is being sent to the various music clubs and organizations who have shown an interest requesting that they name a representative to attend a meeting soon to be held under the auspices of the temporary organization, at which time full information will be given as to what has already been accomplished, and a full discussion of plans will be had. The foundation of a permanent organization will be laid upon broad lines, democratic and representative. The movement belongs to no one person or set of persons, but it means everything for the cause of music in Los Angeles and in the service which it may do our people. The co-operation of the leading conductors and choruses is assured; groups in various sections of the city, both for indoor and outdoor singing, have consented to merge their work or carry it on through this central body, thus preventing duplication and overlapping of effort, with consequent expense of money and labor."

Students' Recital Season.

These are youth's busy days in the musical world. The season of pupils' recitals, in anticipation of the coming of summer, is now beginning to take up an increasing portion of each week. Several interesting affairs are announced, and the coming month will probably witness anxious and gratifying moments for teachers and proud parents, while the younger set will have its taste of the joys of public success.

Recitals by the experienced artists will be comparatively limited in number, owing to the gradual cessation of musical activities, marking the end of spring. The Kreisler evening this week will bring the main season for visiting artists to a close.

An approaching attraction which will draw a large amount of local attention, will be the promised appearance of the Los Angeles English Opera Company in a two weeks' season of opera. This series will have an especial popular interest because of the fact that the chorus has been organized and trained in this city, under the supervision of S. M. Pasquali, and musical direction of Eduard Lebegott. The principals, it is understood, will be brought here from the East, definite announcement of the names to be made in the next few weeks.

This series of opera performances will open in May or June.

Kreisler Recital.

Popular Violin Artist.

Fritz Kreisler,

Who is to make his final appearance here this season Thursday evening at Trinity Auditorium. This will be the fifth time he has featured in musical programmes here within the past few weeks.

Closing by far the most brilliant local series of concerts, under Manager Behymer's direction, the final recital of Fritz Kreisler, the celebrated violinist, Thursday evening at Trinity, will prove a crowning attraction. This will be Mr. Kreisler's fifth appearance in the city since the first of the year, which is, indeed, an unusual record for any artist.

This famous artist has already given two violin recitals; he has appeared once as accompanist for Reinhold Warlich, and last week took part with the Damrosch Orchestra and Efrem Zimbalist in the rendition of Bach's double concerto for violins.

Mr. Kreisler's final violin programme will include many of his own compositions and transcriptions, which have acquired a broad appeal.

Following is the arrangement of the various numbers:

Suite in E minor, prelude, adagio, allemande, gigue; chaconne for violin alone (Bach;) Concerto No. 2, in F sharp minor, allegro, moderato, andante, finale (Vieuxtemps;) melody in D minor (Gluck;) scherzo in B flat major (Dittersdorf;) "La Chasse," caprice (Cartier;) larghetto in B flat major (Weber;) "Moment Musical" (Schubert;) rondo in G minor (Mozart;) "Indian Lament" (Dvorak-Kreisler;) three old Viennese dances, "Liebeslied," "Schoen Rosmarin" and "Liebesfreud" (Kreisler.)

Today at Trinity.

An illustrated lecture recital on the themes of Wagner's "Parsifal" will be given by Dr. Bruce Gordon Kingsley this afternoon at Trinity Auditorium. The music is spiritually the most beautiful ever written by Wagner. An exceedingly attractive list of selections from the work has been arranged on the programme. A number of exquisitely-colored views, showing scenes from the opera as it is mounted at the Metropolitan in New York and in the operahouses abroad, will be a feature.

The following excerpts from the opera will be played by Dr. Kingsley:

"Prelude and Grail Music," "Parsifal and the Swan," "Entrance to the Hall of the Grail," "The Mystic Ceremony," "Klingsor's Magic Castle," "The Night Scene on the Battlements," "Flower Maidens' Chorus," "Kundry's Appeal," "Good Friday Music" and "Parsifal's Triumph."

Matinee Musical Club.

An elaborate musicale, which promises to be one of the most delightful affairs of the Matinee Musical Club this season, will be given next Thursday afternoon. The proceeds will be used to wipe out the remaining debt on the piano, which it is desired to do before closing the present season. The programme will be presented by Constance Balfour and Manuella Budrow, sopranos; Mrs. Rowena Blincoe, reader; Matilda Turrish, harpist; Eunice Landrum, pianist, and Louis Ferrazano.

The members' programme last Thursday proved exceedingly enjoyable. Miss Lulu Lanterman, contralto, sang "Like a Garden after Rain" (Allitsen) and "La Paloma." Ernestine Crain, artist pupil of C. E. Pemberton, gave two delightful compositions by Mr. Pemberton. Elsa Seidel, a pupil of Mrs. Edith Lillian Clarke, played Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in G minor" and the "Staccato Caprice" (Vogrich.)

A charming novelty was furnished in the readings and dances presented by Miss Sylvetta Bernice Marcher, assisted by Hollie Beare, pianist, and Miss Edith Morgan, violinist. Mrs. Harry Underwood rendered some pleasing violin selections. Lois Wallace was accompanist for Miss Lanterman.

The Matinee Musical Club contest, wherein prizes aggregating $100 are to be distributed, will close May 10, it is announced.

St. Cecilia Club.

The St. Cecilia Club will give the following attractive programme tomorrow afternoon at Hamburger's Fairyland Theater:

Piano solo, Rondo Capriccioso (Mendelssohn,) Mrs. Fred Bacon Reynard; soprano solo, "Daffodils" (Wood) and "The Spirit Flower" (Campbell-Tipton,) Dorothy Thayer, with flute obbligato arranged and played by Harry Baxter; violin solo, "A Negro Croon" (Hartmann) and "Russian Airs" (Wieniawski,) Mary Goodrich Read; contralto solo, "Ask Not" (Barry) and "Song of Hope" (Grieg,) Kie Julie Christin; piano solo, "Tango" (Albeniz,) "Shepherd Hey" (Grainger,) "Wild Flower," waltz (Bond) and "Dance" (Debussy,) Ida Selby; soprano solo, "Ave Maria" (Gounod) and "Twilight" (Ross,) Isabell Isgrig.

Emelie Young Baxter and Mrs. Fred Bacon Reynard will be accompanists.

Becker Pupil's Recital.

Thilo Becker will present Miss Mildred Jamison in a piano recital Friday evening at the Gamut Club Auditorium. Miss Jamison will be assisted by Mrs. Esther Sharp Tolerton, soprano. Following is the programme:

Piano, theme and variations, Op. 1 (Schumann,) Miss Jamison; vocal, "Porgi Amor" (Mozart,) "Minnelied" (Brahms) and "Es Blinkt der Thau" (Rubinstein,) Mrs. Tolerton; piano, three etudes, C minor, A flat major and G flat major, three mazurkas, Op. 68, No. 2, Op. 17, No. 4, and Op. 50, No. 1, and a ballad in A flat major (Chopin,) Miss Jamison; vocal, two bergerets from seventeenth century, "In the Time of Roses (Reichardt) and "Spring" (Henschel,) Mrs. Tolerton; piano, "Poissons d'Or," "Reflets Dans l'Eau," "Jardins Sous la Pluie" (Debussy) and wedding march and chorus from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" (Mendelssohn-Liszt,) Miss Jamison.

University Recital.

The college of music, University of Southern California, will give the first of a series of senior recitals Tuesday evening at the First Methodist Church, on the corner of Sixth and Hill streets. The programme will feature Miss Florence Benedict in a series of organ numbers. She will be assisted by Miss Carita Moore, soprano, and Miss Guelph McQuinn, pianist.

Following is the arrangement of the selections:

Toccata and fugue in D minor (Bach) and Sonata No. 1, allegro moderato, adagio, andante recitando, allegro assai, vivace (Mendelssohn,) Miss Benedict; soprano, "The Merry Brown Thrush" (Roy Lamont Smith,) Miss Moore; "Prayer" (Lemaigre,) second offertory on two Christmas hymns (Guilmant,) "Marche Funebre" (Chopin) and "Cantilene Pastorale" (Guilmant,) Miss Benedict; soprano, "Will o' the Wisp" (Spross,) Miss Moore; "Pilgrim's Chorus" (Wagner,) "Bridal Song" (Jensen) and march for a church festival (Best,) Miss Benedict.

For the first time in its history the University of Southern California is to offer special music training during the summer of a standard that will benefit the professional music-teacher. Miss Carolyn Alchin, harmony specialist and inventor of a method of ear training, is to give two courses in the summer school, beginning July 2 and ending August 11. The fundamental concept of Miss Alchin's system is that harmonization is but an expansion and amplification of the melodic line. The older schools have thought of harmony as an independent element rather than an intregal part of the melody. Beside Miss Alchin, Miss Alice Rogers will give a course in public school methods of teaching music, and Miss Mae Knight a course in the history and appreciation of music.

Studio Musical.

A charmingly varied programme was presented by Miss Annie Alexander, assisted by Misses Wilker Gilhalen, Sara Migener, Gladys Townsend and Ruth Harrison, at a studio musicale recently given by Miss Jennie Winston in the Blanchard Building. Miss Alexander sang a group of French, German and English songs. The complete programme was as follows:

"L'heure d'Or" (Holmes) and "Elegie" (Massenet,) Miss Alexander; "Spirit Flower" (Tipton) and "Melisande" (Goetz,) Miss Migener; "Widmeug" (Franz) and "Tod und das Machen" (Schubert,) Miss Alexander; "Yesterday and Today" (Spross) and "Like a Rosebud" (La Forge,) Miss Townsend; "Irish Love Song" (Lang) and "At Twilight" (Ross,) Miss Harrison; "Bitterness of Love" (Dunn) and "Black Roses" (Sibelius,) Miss Gil-

The kiddies are to be given a royal treat at the "Hip" this week with the appearance of Little Donna's Circus," starring Chin Chin, the smallest performing elephant in the world, and featuring a Shetland pony and a high-bred collie. Another headliner is the Orton Troupe of wire artists, who do a foot race of 200 yards on wires. Billy Joy promises to live up to her reputation as a sunshine radiator, and Allen and Moore have some bright songs and happy new steps. Jere Stanford's "The Chore Boy," is a story teller and a mimic of no mean ability while Baker, Sherman and Branigan are a trio of harmony purveyors well known in vaudeville circles. Ott and Bryan have a musical novelty with a dash of comedy and the bill is rounded out with the Pathe news and a number of feature photoplays.

All's Serene.

THEIR ROMANCE LASTS.

Unhappiness Persona Non Grata in Orpheum Pair's Lives—Marital Felicity Declared not so Uncommon on Stage as Supposed.

Chiefly for the reason that in recent years the calcium of publicity has turned the lives of theatrical people into an open book, the impression is frequently encountered that the married life of actors and actresses is just one divorce after another. But the enthusiasts of the stage are even more emphatic in their declarations that there is no more marital unhappiness in the theatrical profession than in any other walk of life.

The idea of being married came to Charley Grapewin suddenly. This was twenty-odd years ago, but the romance is worth reviving in view of his coming appearance at the Orpheum. When he decided to take a chance and wed, the first name of the Chance was Anna, and Anna Chance is still the sweetest woman on earth to Charley Grapewin. They have been stage partners for almost as long as they have been man and wife, and, strange to say, although they are generally seen on the stage as a wrangling couple, with Mrs. Grapewin declaring that she is "going home to mother," and he suggesting a change of address for both mother and daughter, off the stage theirs is considered one of the finest examples of marital felicity, and the health of the mother is of as grave concern to Mr. Grapewin as it is to his wife.

Again, contrary to the popular notion, this domestic happiness in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Grapewin is the result of an elopement at a time when the feminine half of the partnership was at an age when youth is blamed for foolishness. In other words, Miss Chance was a Baltimore school girl, just home from graduating, when she saw Mr. Grapewin across the footlights. Simultaneously the young actor saw the pretty girl seated in the front row, and the next day when he saw her seated in the same row he felt that there wasn't a happier man in the world than himself. His attention was more engaged with the young woman than with the lines of his part. Before the week was over he had managed to meet her through mutual friends, and the next week the young couple eloped.

VERSATILE LADY.

"Pendennis" Actress has Wide Gamut to Cover in Play.

It is a test of versatility which Jane Houston undergoes in "Major Pendennis," Langdon Mitchell's adaptation of the Thackeray novel in which John Drew is to be seen at the Mason this week. In Mr. Drew's play Miss Houston impersonates the amusing, embryo Mrs. Siddons, namely Emily Fotheringay, the spouting, declamatory provincial actress to whom fall many of the richest and funniest speeches in the Thackeray novel. The actress is called upon to characterize absurd tragedy and broad farce, all in one breath, and it is a tribute to Miss Houston's several-sided talent that in this role she has achieved a personal and individual success.

In the first act of "Major Pendennis," Miss Houston, who will be remembered here for her appearance in support of Margaret Anglin, has a scene replete with the richest of Thackeray's burlesque. Seated at an untidy table, she diligently alternates between shelling peas and mending the worn and dusty "ermine" robe of Lady Macbeth, while giving a dissertation on her art.

MORE THRILLS THAN WANTED.

Runaway Causes Exciting Moments for McRae Company.

Eileen Sedgwick and several other members of Director Henry McRae's Universal company were injured in a runaway in Griffith Park, near Los Angeles, one day this week. Director McRae was engaged at the time in making a number of country scenes for his current production, "Demster's Return," and an old stage coach which was used in these scenes was being driven along the road, when one of the horses tripped and fell. The other three horses became frightened and started to run away. The first horse struggled to its feet and then all four of the animals tore madly along the road, going past the camera seemingly at the rate of a mile a minute.

Miss Sedgwick, the leading woman of the company, was on the box with the driver, who told her to jump as they neared a waiting automobile, and she landed on her side in the road. Just at that moment the horses crashed into the machine, badly wrecking it, and then plunged ahead into a large oak tree, where they all piled together, each severely hurt.

The coach tipped over and Red Hodge, McRae's assistant, and two others who were riding inside were badly bruised by broken glass, and b— contact with the sides of the coach as it turned over.

Ready.

"GARDEN OF ALLAH" SCORE COMPLETED.

HALF - FORGOTTEN MELODIES ARE REVIVED IN MUSIC.

Composer Searched for Appropriate Themes Among Less Familiar Works—Beautiful Arabian Call to Prayer has Prominent Place in Creating Atmosphere for Film.

Joseph Carl Breil, composer, announces that the music for "The Garden of Allah," which will be presented at Quinn's Rialto Theater soon, is completed. Mr. Breil was specially engaged by J. A. Quinn to arrange the score for the beautiful desert drama.

The main themes are of oriental character. Much of the music, syncopated in the score, has not been heard for years. Particular interest will attach to the frequently used Arabian call to prayer.

Mr. Breil's idea in writing and arranging music for motion picture plays is to establish a desire in the public for the higher and purer type of music. A prominent musician of Los Angeles who had the pleasure of hearing some of his work for "The Garden of Allah," says: "This composer knows his Orient, and there is sufficient suggestion of the eastern vernacular to diffuse a just atmosphere. Mr. Breil has chosen some themes that fairly carry one off his feet, with their great dramatic qualities, and others are full of the melancholy of loss. No doubt he selected these melancholy verses to describe in music the thought of the monk who went into the world and then renounced it, as told in 'The Garden of Allah.'"

LASKY IS BUILDING LIGHTING PLANT.

The foundation is now being laid at the Lasky studio for the erection of a building to house a complete lighting plant, and to generate the electricity used on the lot. Two big dynamos are being installed to be run by a Diesel engine. The Lasky company uses more electricity in a day than the average small town, and feels that eventually it will be a great economy to have its own power plant. However, the connections with the regular city plant will be maintained, so that in case of an accident additional power can be immediately secured.

PARAFFIN FOR GASOLINE.

Device Invented to Permit Change of Fuel for Automobiles.

[Electrical World:] A thousand years ago the scientists sought how to turn the baser metals into gold. Today, with no less zeal but with a chance for success, is the scientific world searching for a cheap substitute for gasoline for use in automobiles and other gas engines.

A device has recently been invented by F. A. Wilkinson, an Englishman, whereby motor cars and internal combustion engines used for driving electric lighting plants and other purposes, designed for running on gasoline, can be run entirely on paraffin without alteration to the engine or carburetor.

Wilkinson's "bypass paraffin attachment" is inexpensive and can be fitted up in a very short time, and the engine can be instantly converted to run on paraffin or eptrol by simply opening or closing a valve. In order to vaporize the paraffin to enable a start to be made from cold, an electrical heater is provided.

After the engine has started the paraffin and air passing from the carburetor are heated by introducing a small percentage of the exhaust gases direct into the inlet pipe, which, mingling with the paraffin and air, enters the cylinders for a second time.

When the attachment is fitted to a motor car, the two valves used are controlled from the dashboard by means of steel wires run in brass tubes, but in the case of a stationary engine the dashboard control can be dispensed with. For controlling the electrical heater a switch and pilot lamp are provided.

SAY FLIES DID IT.

New Reason for Extinction of the Monsters of Ancient Times.

[Toledo Blade:] To account for the death of those enormous creatures which once roamed our western country and peopled its swamps and forests, the older geologists devised convenient theories, such as changes of climate, volcanic disturbances, warfare among the species.

As information accumulated it became harder and harder to make the theories fit the case. Given time and animal life adapts itself to changes of climate. Movements of the earth are seldom so widespread that flight cannot be taken from a disturbed area to one of safety. If giant lizard fought mountainous mammal, why did the survivor go? Theory, it was seen, must be in keeping with the law of probabilities. A new and more reasonable hypothesis has recently been brought forward.

At the time that nature was experimenting with monsters there existed a lake in Colorado. It was surrounded with forests which were tenanted by hosts of insects. A volcano buried the lake and its shores in ash. This hardened into stone. Scientists go to this ancient graveyard; split the stone and bring to light the petrified bodies of the butterflies and moths, the beetles and bugs. Among these insects are two species of tsetse flies. There is nothing like them in America today. But in Africa they abound. They are known as the carriers of the sleeping sickness, one of the deadliest of diseases. It is fair to assume that the tstese flies of Miocene times were the hosts or distributors of disease bacilli as they are now.

Upon this assumption a new theory can be constructed. The tsetse flies developed into a terrible pest. As they flourished their victims grew less. In the course of centuries the bulky citizens of plain and marsh gave up the warfare. They could fight one another and yet live. They could not deal with merciless insects.

The theory has this merit whatever else it may lack: It is plausible where its predecessors succumbed to clearer thinking.

They'll Keep Calcium Busy.

YOUNG ROCKEFELLER FOR GENERAL MILITARY SERVICE VS. SNOBBERY.

BY EDWARD S. VAN ZILE.

"I AM most emphatically in favor of compulsory military service. I became a convert to the idea long ago, and recent events have strengthened my belief in its desirability."

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., possibly the richest young man in America, if not in the world, is a forceful personality and knows how to put his convictions and opinions into clear and emphatic English. As I faced him recently across his desk in his private office in lower Broadway, New York, I was greatly impressed by the youthful multimillionaire's magnetic qualities, the outcome, apparently, of clean living, clear thinking and high purpose. He could well afford to be on the golf links in the afternoon, but he evidently prefers to be on his job.

The views on the live topics of the moment of this possessor of, and prospective heir to, enormous wealth are of interest, not merely because of his unique position in a nation at present long on multimillionaires, but because they are the conclusions reached by a man of 40—he looks ten years yonger than his age—who is temperamentally incapable of making snap judgments and comes to his decisions only after a careful examination of the data upon which they are based. That "young Rockefeller," as he is still called, despite the fact that he is the father of five sons and one daughter, is a patriotic and democratic American, will be evident to whomsoever reads what follows:

FOR DEMOCRACY.

"Since my first perusal of the Chamberlain army bill, I have highly approved of that measure," continued John D., Jr. "It makes practicable the only method of which I have any knowledge whereby real democracy can be substituted in this country for existing class distinctions."

"Caste exists in our country, Mr. Rockefeller?"

"As a nation increases in wealth," he answered, after a moment of thought, "social crystallization is bound to take place, if there is no influence introduced to counteract this undesirable tendency. The different strata of society refuse to coalesce unless there is something stronger to weld them together than merely theoretical democracy."

"And compulsory universal service solves this problem?" I queried.

"Yes," he answered with emphasis. "I know of no better way of putting men upon a parity of manhood than by putting them upon a parity of work. You see, fundamentally, there is no great difference between given groups of men. Class distinctions are largely a matter of dress, of costume, of outward seeming. Let a crowd of average American workingmen appear in public garbed by Fifth-avenue tailors and hatters and an observer would find it difficult to believe that they were not on their way to their country clubs. And as for real manhood, you find at least as much of that quality among them as among an equal number of rich men. I'm not sure, indeed, that the percentage of fundamental virtues would not be largely in favor of the workingmen."

"BIG HEAD" CURED.

"There's where our Plattsburg camps are doing a great and splendid work," he went on presently. "They make for democracy, obliterate artificial class lines and put a searchlight upon those who flock to them that makes real manliness the measure of superiority. President Vincent of the University of Minnesota said to me last summer that Plattsburg had made a tremendous impression upon him because of its unique qualities as a plant in which real democracy was manufactured. He and other educational authorities realize that the employment by undergraduates of the months from May to November in camp and drill would be of vast benefit to them in countless ways, not the least of which should be the total annihilation of that spirit of snobbishness that is to be found in some of our colleges and universities."

"You are a graduate of Brown?"

"Yes," he answered. "And Brown has learned the value of military training. I have five sons. I'm endeavoring to inculcate in them the true democratic spirit. I'm impressing upon them that the important factor in their lives is not what their father is, or has, or has not, but what kind of boys they are.

"If a boy develops a tendency toward snobbishness or the big head, or any kind of false pride, the best place for him is a military training camp. From the moment he reaches it he'll find that all artificial and external features of his life are valueless and that he will rise or fall, win or lose, wholly upon his own individual merits.

"The historic caste distinctions, rendered seemingly indestructible through centuries of hardening, under the stress of war have practically disappeared in England, it is said. They have been buried in the trenches of the firing line, where the costermonger and the peer of the realm have taken each other's measure as men. In the hot fires of heroic endeavor British class prejudices have gone up in smoke, and the foundations of a real English democracy have been laid through the crucial test that war makes of the actual manliness of individual men."

MUST OVERCOME SNOBS.

"What if, in the end, we avoid real warfare?" I asked.

"What I have said," answered Rockefeller, Jr., "does not apply merely to the present crisis. Whatever may be the outcome of our war declaration, we must, through compulsory universal military service, carry on permanent hostilities against a great evil that had crept into our American social system. We must destroy forever caste feeling and undemocratic aloofness upon the part of the few toward the many by maintaining from now on a military organization that in its structure and activities shall make this country in fact a real democracy.

"Whatever we may do eventually to our foreign enemies, we have got hold of a weapon that will overcome permanently one of the worst of our domestic foes, namely, the snob, who fails to realize that his claims to superiority over the average man are both ludicrous and un-American and should be thrown into the scrap heap where so much obsolete rubbish from an aristocratic past has been deposited since August, 1914, when a world war between democracy and autocracy was begun."

"That's the basic issue in the war into which our country has entered?" I queried.

"It's a stand-up, world-wide fight of the peoples against Prussianism," answered Mr. Rockefeller, tersely. Then he went on, after a moment's introspection:

"Billy Sunday made this clear in one of his sermons I recently heard him preach. He spoke highly of the German people—of their efficiency, domestic good qualities, fondness for art, science, music, literature, philanthropy, civic well-being. But he deplored and lambasted the brutality and heathen deviltry of Prussian militarism. It is inconceivable to him, as it is to me, how a people possessing the kindly, highly-civilized traits of the Germans can allow themselves to be led as they have been. Billy Sunday has a very clear understanding of many things, but he can't comprehend Prussian militarism. Neither can I."

ABOUT BILLY SUNDAY.

"You admire Billy Sunday?" I asked.

"He's a very earnest and sincere man," replied Mr. Rockefeller with emphasis. "He puts a vitality into religion that it sorely needs. One can but regret some of the methods which he finds are necessary in order to rouse to action the people who make up our twentieth century American civilization. But no other course of procedure has proved equally effective. If the churches had accomplished to the full the task that devolved upon them, there'd be no necessity for a Billy Sunday."

"It may be," I suggested, "that religion, like our whole social structure, needs democratization."

"Billy Sunday certainly gets hold of the people," commented Mr. Rockefeller. "He hits straight from the shoulder and makes no compromises with the powers of evil. He was urged to go easy on the liquor traffic, but he refused. He will never make a concession to the saloon. It's this quality in him, this refusal to see two sides to an intrinsically moral question, that wins for him the confidence of the people at large."

"But you admit, of course, that he offends against the canons of good taste."

"I met a squeemish friend the other day," remarked my host, smilingly, "who asked me how I could stand Billy's crude, almost savage, course of procedure. I told him that it must be superior to what we get from the churches because it is effective in leading men to Christ, while so much that the churches do is not effective. Of many of our church services, it can be said that they are fine, but they do not get hold of people. They don't grip the hearts and souls of men and women.

"Billy Sunday gets results. That's the main point. Criticism must be dumb when any man by any means proves that he can and does save souls. Sunday has his head among the stars, but his feet on the earth, and the trouble with the churches is, that they are either too visionary or too worldly and thus fail to make the appeal that this ex-baseball player, who thoroughly understands the psychology of the mob, pushes home to all sorts and conditions of men."

"There's nothing succeeds like success," I commented.

WAR INDICTS MANKIND.

"That's the answer," agreed Mr. Rockefeller. "Billy Sunday sets out to accomplish a certain purpose, a lofty purpose and difficult of achievement, and he gets there. And thousands at his tabernacle who come to scoff remain to pray. When conservative church members who object to his way of preaching salvation can point to temples overcrowded and full of repentant sinners they may have some ground for objecting to the Billy Sunday type of revivals. But until then they should either refrain from carping or admit that, in his sometimes vulgar, slap-dash way, Billy Sunday is doing a noble and needed work in a wicked world."

"Some time ago, Mr. Rockefeller," I remarked, "ex-President Eliot of Harvard asserted that, after 2000 years of effort, Christianity had been shown to be a failure by this war in Europe."

"I had not heard that Dr. Eliot had made such a statement," said Mr. Rockefeller, in some surprise. "Far be it from me to debate any question with Dr. Eliot, for whom I have profound respect and regard; but in my judgment the great war is an indictment of mankind not of the teachings of Christ. If man had lived up to the Christ's behests this horrible catastrophe could not have taken place. The failure of civilization to safeguard itself against a world-wide war is not an argument against Christianity, but rather a proof conclusive that Christianity is eternally right. If modern civilization had been true to the teachings of the Christ, the cataclysm that has befallen it would have been avoided."

"Wherever the fault lies, we're in it—the war, I mean."

"We are," he commented, "and we must go into it whole-heartedly and effectively. We must not merely threaten things, but do things. Whether we should send forces to Europe to take part in the fighting there I'm not sure, but there should be no half-way measures taken to put us in a state of absolute preparedness.

PERMANENT PREPAREDNESS.

"It is not merely a temporary problem that confronts us. We should become so well prepared in a military and naval way that we won't be obliged to use our preparedness. The strength and efficiency that we exhibit in the near future will be a form of insurance against trouble in the more remote future. Every dollar we spend now on defense may save us thousands of dollars in the years to come. What we must have is not temporary, but permanent preparedness.

"I'm glad the government is making such comprehensive and carefully matured plans for mobilizing all the martial resources of this great nation. Haste may be necessary, but it is satisfactory to realize that, whatever may happen to us at the outset, the hitherto scattered and unco-ordinated dynamics of this powerful nation will eventually enable us to achieve the purpose for the furtherance of which we entered, in the name of righteousness, this stupendous conflict."

"Which is essentially," I suggested, "a struggle between autocracy and democracy, between the powers of reaction and the forces of progress."

"Yes," agreed Mr. Rockefeller. "That basic feature of the struggle is clearly brought out in President Wilson's great address to Congress. It was a splendid state paper, destined to take its place among the utterances of statesmen that the world treasures from generation to generation."

As I look back upon the hour I spent with "young Rockefeller" my optimism is revivified and I realize that those who assert that the possession of great wealth of necessity makes a man narrow, unsympathetic, exclusive and unpatriotic are talking nonsense.

SOME TERSE SAYINGS OF OIL KING'S ONLY SON AND HEIR.

EVERY dollar we spend now on defense may save us thousands of dollars in the years to come. What we must have is not temporary but permanent preparedness.

I know of no better way of putting men upon a parity of manhood than by putting them upon a parity of work.

If the churches had accomplished to the full the task that devolved upon them, there'd be no necessity for a Billy Sunday.

The great war is an indictment of mankind, not of the teachings of Christ.

"SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE."

Missionary Alaskan Priest and Faithful Dog Meet Again.

[Minneapolis Tribune:] Three years ago, when all the world was at peace and when the mere thought of war was entertained almost with ridicule, a stalwart Jesuit priest—Father Bernard, he was called—worked among the natives of Alaska at Mary's Igloo. Ever at his side as an inseparable companion was a sturdy malemute, larger, stronger and more attractive than most of the others of his species.

Then came the call of war. The priest, a French reserve, heard the note of the bugle, saw the bleeding of his country, answered the call of duty. He left his peaceful work of saving men in the north to go where men were being slain.

And the parting will long be remembered by residents of the northern camp. Perhaps the tenderest farewell, the most tearful on the part of the priest-soldier was to his big dog. The dog seemed to understand.

Not long ago, Father Bernard, soldierly in bearing, marked by the hard campaigns he has undergone, yet brave and fearless, was wandering along near the trenches "somewhere in France," wrapped in thought. Doubtless his mind pictured the quiet days at Mary's Igloo. And perhaps he was thinking of his dogs and their stalwart malemute leader.

Suddenly he stopped before a dog team which was dragging provisions of war to the front. A familiar bark greeted him and a vigorously wagging tail expressed the joy of its owner at the recognition. And there, near the fighting front of far-off Europe, a man and a dog, once companions, met again. Both were engaged in the one aim, that of defeating France's enemies.

This is the story told in a letter received by T. M. Clowes, a Seattle resident, from Kenneth Marr, an old Alaskan friend at the front. The writer is associated with the French aviation corps. Himself a former Alaskan, Marr was struck by Father Bernard's experience.

According to the story, written to Seattle by Marr, Father Bernard, on deciding to go to the front, gave his dog team, in which was his leader and companion, to a friend. His last words to the new owner of the dog besecched tender care for the animal. But commercialism got the better of sentiment and the dog's wonderful physique brought a good price, so he was sent to Europe with hundreds of others.

Marr ends his narrative with this: "War is awful. Its pains, its joys, its remarkable features and coincidences make it an everlasting, fascinating riddle."

Food Prices in London.

[London Board of Trade Labor Gazette:] The retail price of food on January 1 in England showed an increase of 87 per cent. over July, 1914. The corresponding increase in Germany was 111 per cent. and in Vienna no less than 177 per cent. The prices in Norway in the same period are up by 82 per cent., in Canada by 35.4 and in the United States by 18 per cent.

The total increase during 1916 in England was about 42 per cent. on the prices of July, 1914, or 9 per cent. on those of January, 1916. Of the total increase of 87 per cent., 6 per cent. is due to additional taxation on tea and sugar, imposed since the beginning of the war, but only 1 per cent. is due to such additional taxation in 1916.

Diamond Engagement Rings

The sentiment and interest that attach to the engagement ring make the selection of an absolutely perfect stone imperative. Whether you intend to pay $40, $200 or $1000 for the ring you want the highest value you can obtain for your money. And that is just why thousands of these little "circles of sentiment" have been purchased from this establishment during the past quarter century.

We have absolutely perfect blue-white stones (mounted) for as little as $40—and we are showing many exquisite new conceptions in platinum mountings for the more expensive stones.

Realizing that few persons can accurately judge diamond values, we feel a deep responsibility to the public in the matter of giving utmost value. A small school girl or a blind man can buy diamonds here just as safely as the best expert.

Every diamond offered here has been personally selected by Mr. Donavan, whose experience in the selection of precious stones covers a period of thirty-five years.

Just at present we are offering remarkable values in solitaire rings at $100.

Brides-elect and others.

The group includes a whole bouquet of buds who will soon exchange their maiden names for new ones. They are Miss Margaret Shields, whose engagement to Leon Burton Gill was recently announced; Miss Cordelia Wern, who will be a May bride; Miss Hannah Perry, who is soon to marry Irving H. Schwartz, and Miss Bernice Bailey, who is the fiancee of Arthur T. Earl. The charming trio remaining is composed of Mrs. John Stites Orr, who has entertained extensively for guests; Mrs. Clarence B. Kerr, who gave a bridge luncheon recently, and Miss Mary Corson, an attractive member of the younger set.

And each wrote a sympathetic little note regretting their inability to call in person but adding that the bearer of the bouquets, who had much experience in visiting the lonely sick, would spend an hour with him in their stead. They gave their respective ambassadors strict orders to pay the gentleman indefatigable attention, to go often and stay long. And they hinted that his religious education had been sadly neglected, that there was nothing he needed so much as a good influence in his life! The hero had no alternative but to get well at once. But the various district visitors found him too promising a subject for reform to leave him to his fate just yet.

The French Society gave such a joyous banquet at the Clark on Friday evening for Prof. Jules Bois. The French do know how, don't they? It just sparkled with Frenchy effervescence and Mrs. J. X. Macdonald, the hostess of the occasion, managed to look quite superlative in a valuable gown smothered in priceless point lace.

Hurry up and get well, Susie darling. You must not go on getting all your fun by proxy in these frisky letters of mine. We have all sorts of naughty plans for spoiling you utterly directly you are well and back with us again.

Lovingly, BETTY.

May Day Frolics.

O-yez! O-yez!
Be it known to all that May Day will soon be upon us.
All ye lads and lassies are to be indulged on this day
With innocent sports and pleasures.
There will be a Maypole which ye children will wind
With sundry ribbons and posies, and one of their number
Will be chosen Queen of the May.
O-yez! O-yez!
There will be dancing upon the green for light-footed wenches
And their gallants,
And a right good feast for ye hungry
swains made by ye good wives.

From merrie old England came the delightful custom of the May dance, and in New England our forefathers found pleasure in it as well. Here in sunny California May Day is especially beautiful, and is especially loved by children.

May Day parties for the wee folk will hold the place of honor on this week's social calendar. Midwick Country Club will give a May party for the children next Saturday afternoon, and all the juveniles, big and little, are invited. There will be a Maypole, out-of-door games, and refreshments enough to satisfy the heart of any kiddie.

Miss Miller Entertained.

Miss Phila Miller is being entertained for the week-end by Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Michael at their delightful ranch at Chino. There will be dinners and informal dancing, and all sorts of out-of-door sports to add to the joy of the outing.

Sorority Dance.

The green and gold ballroom of the Jonathan Club was bright with fragrant roses last evening, when the Sigma Phi Sigma Sorority gave its annual dance. The programmes were dainty affairs of rose and gray, the sorority colors, engraved in gold with the insignia of the organization.

The dance, while an annual affair, was given indirectly in honor of two of the girls, one who was very recently married, and another who has just announced heir engagement.

The marriage of Miss Isabelle McCulley to Clarence Bassett has just been announced. Mr. and Mrs. Bassett were wed quietly in Easter week, and are at home to their friends at No. 1221 West Thirty-eighth street.

The other honoree is Miss Charlotte Shumate, who last week at a dance, at her home announced her engagement to John Curry Norton of Pomona.

Among the 150 young people who attended the dance are Misses Mildred Davidson, Ellinor Paul, Dorothy Davidson, Maude Hughes, Dorothy Paul, Madeline Dolfinger, Winifred Erdman, Annabelle Wishard, Charlotte Shumate, Adelia Rothgab, Jean McNaughton, Margaret McNichols, Isabelle Dignum, Myrtle Smith, Yvette and Junette Gilmore, Mary Alice Miller, Madlyn O'Kelly, Phillis Wilson, Mildred Prather, Jane Bucklen, Louise Hoffman, Pearl Eisen, Verla Hart, Julia Welcome, Helen Abbott, Margaret Clay, Helen Griswold, Marie Rendall, Nadine Thomas, Katherine Saunders, Mary Fitzgerald, Florence Paul, Alma Grundy, Monette Steele, Corrinne Rogers, Hallie Nance and Irene Perritt, Mrs. Clarence Bassett and Messrs. Newton Hancock, Hum Beauchamp, Milton Brown, Dickson McNaughton, Nollie Allen, Roger Nye, Miles Burns, M. Ackerman, David Stillwell, Alex Link, Howard McOwen, Earle Lippold, Grosvenor Lawrence, Ed. Welcome, John Gilhan, Byron Dexter, John Cummings, Robert Powell, Phillip Hardy, Al Harrower, Gerald Shumate, Julian Towsley, Temple Ashbrooke, John Roche, Fred Cannon, Spencer Clawson, Harold Stewart, H. Powell, Ed Cortelyou, Llewellyn Moses, Fred Hughes, Lon Dorsey, Peter Bullen. The patronesses were Mmes. A. F. Severance, J. A. McNaughton, Fred T. Hughes and B. M. Gilmore.

ToE ntertain Wednesday.

Mrs. Wilford John will throw open her beautiful home, No. 2200 West Sixteenth street, on Wednesday afternoon to the members and friends of the Rose Croix Chapter, O.E.S., who will be entertained with a card party. Handsome prizes will be awarded the winners. Dainty Cecile Brunner roses will be used in decorating the home, and assisting Mrs. John in entertaining will be Mrs. C. J. Kirch, Mrs. Charles de Mund, Mrs. Helen Lawson and Miss Ann Marie Mann.

Mrs. John recently moved here from Portland, Or.

To be May Bride.

A pretty church wedding will be conducted May 15 at the Hollywood Methodist Episcopal Church, where Miss Bernice Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bailey, will become the bride of Arthur T. Earl.

The engagement was announced a short time ago and since then Miss Bailey has been the recipient of many pre-nuptial courtesies.

About 250 guests have been invited to witness the ceremony, which will be performed by Dr. E. T. Ryland.

Miss Jessie Wright will be maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Misses Sarajo Pickering, Ethel Loshan and Marma Gleason. The groom will be attended by Lawrence Reutch. Little Balva Bailey, sister of the bride, will be the flower girl, and Sylvia Murkett ring bearer. The ushers will be Elmer Mueller, William Hankon and Russell Truck.

A unique feature of the ceremony will be the singing of the wedding march by a chorus of eight girl friends of the bride.

The groom-to-be is in the auto business in town, and the bride-elect is known in musical as well as social circles, having great ability as a vocalist and pianist.

The couple will go north on their honeymoon tour and will be at home after July 1 at No. 7424 Sunset boulevard.

Take Miner Home.

It is seldom war intrudes his ugly face into society, but one realizes how much he does interfere when it is learned that Capt. and Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner have left their home for an indefinite length of time, having rented it to Dr. and Mrs. Norton of Santa Barbara, who are old-time friends of theirs.

Capt. Miner has received orders which take him away on a secret mission, and Mrs. Miner accompanies him. It is not known when they will return.

Honeymooners on Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Watson Somers and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Louis Somers, whose wedding was a double ceremony last Saturday a week ago, are now on their respective honeymoon trips, the first couple going north to San Francisco and Berkeley, and the other south to Coronado.

Leslie Somers married Miss Esther Eccles Fry of Santa Monica and the bride of Raymond Somers was Miss Florence Dagmar.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Somers will make their home in Berkeley, where Mr. Somers is in business, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Somers will live in Hollywood.

Informal Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Arvin Brown, who since their recent marriage have made their home at the residence of Mrs. Thomas B. Brown of West Twenty-fifth street, entertained Friday evening with an informal dinner in honor of Mrs. R. G. Rogers and her mother, Mrs. Robert R. Rogers.

The two have spent the winter in Southern California and will leave for their home in Canada today.

Mrs. Orr Entertains.

Mrs. John Stites Orr recently gave a pretty affair in honor of her mother, Mrs. W. H. Gedge. She also gave a dinner in honor of her cousin, Capt. Stanley Ross, who is stationed at Fort Arthur. She will probably entertain again this or next week for her mother.

Announcement Luncheon.

At a rose luncheon yesterday afternoon, Miss Beatrice Stanchfield, daughter of Mrs. Louise A. Stanchfield of No. 4103 West Washington street, announced her engagement to Louis B. Heeb, a graduate of Notre Dame.

The table was centered with a basket of Cecil Brunner roses tied with pink tulle, and the places were marked with dainty hand-painted maidens holding cards on which the happy announcement was written.

Many affairs are being planned for the bride-elect, who is very popular and has many friends in Southern California.

The wedding will take place May 15 in the Church of St. Thomas, and for a honeymoon the two will motor to Yosemite and Lake Tahoe. They had planned to go to Honolulu, but on account of war conditions, neither mama or papa would consent, so they obligingly changed their arrangements.

At the luncheon there were present the Misses Barbara Krenwinkle, Mollie Miller, Dorothy Drake, Hazel Howell, Lela Stanchfield, Mrs. R. L. Somers, Mrs. L. R. Lemieux, Mrs. D. D. Heeb, Mrs. E. L. Symonds, Mrs. Louisa Stanchfield, and the bride-elect.

Singing as Hobby.

Once in a while a society girl foregoes pleasurable social activities for the more serious business of hewing out a career for herself. Such a one is Miss Mary Corson, the 18-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mary Corson of No. 1303 Alessandro street. The young lady has withdrawn from society to give attention to vocal work.

She recently sang at a garden fete given at the home of Mrs. Nobles in Pasadena.

Her grandfather was Hon. B. W. Higgins, who for many years was speaker of a legislature in Canada, and her father was the founder of the San Francisco Morning Call.

Miss Corson is best-known in British social circles of Los Angeles and in Pasadena.

Merry Dancing Party.

Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Lynch entertained at the Kendis apartments Fridy evening in a ballroom aglow with pale yellow, the color scheme being carried out with flowers and shaded lights.

Their guests numbered: Mrs. George Mason, Miss Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Burton of Denver, Henry Howard Hewitt, Claude Morrison, George Lynch, Miss and Mr. McNaughton; with Mr. and Mrs. Lee Utley, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Brower, Miss Beulah Brower, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lindblade, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Penn, Miss Florence McCloud, Miss Esther Putnam, Messrs. Francis Peycke, Merritt Salmon, Frank Miller, Dave Jacobs, George Comberpatch, Mrs. E. James Owenhouse, Elizabeth Solomon, Maude Weirick, Mrs. Margaret Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bartels, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Van A. Blewett, Mrs. Frank L. Benepe and her two daughters, Mrs. Ellen and Geraldine Jump, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Chase, Miss Evelyn Stone, Miss Mildred Hansen, Miss Dorothy Lazarus, Mr. and Mrs. William Hooker, the Misses Montgomery, Mrs. A. McClure, Mrs. Hansen, Miss Semer, Miss Pegau, Mrs. Gardner Raymond of Rochester, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. D. Van Giesen, Dr. and Mrs. William Kiger, Dr. Nielson, Dr. Norman Giesy, Messrs. Billy Mathews, J. L. Dabbs, Irl Solomon, W. H. Woodruff, Bernon K. Mumford of New York, Reuben Crane, W. H. Cochrane, Grey, Donohue, C. Craig, Clanton, Arthur Eckman and Herbert Hansen.

Mrs. Kendis received in a sequin gown of midnight blue, with Mrs. Lynch in shell pink chiffon and satin and Mrs. Utley in silver lace and white.

Leave for Arizona.

Paul A. Herron will leave Los Angeles to make his home at Phoenix, Ariz., where he has accepted the position of assistant cashier of a bank.

Home Wedding.

Miss Leonore Buffington, only daughter of Mrs. Victor Paul Gaume of Oxnard, was married to Robert L. Schinkel Tuesday afternoon at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. J. S. L'Hommeldieu of No. 1316 West Fiftieth street. Only immediate relatives were present and Rev. C. C. Pierce officiated. This was especially interesting, since he performed the same office at the mother's wedding years ago.

The bride is well known in Los Angeles, having resided here until a few years ago. Mr. Schinkel has just returned from Cuba, where he had been for some months in the interest of the American Beet Sugar Company. Mr. and Mrs. Schinkel will reside at Oxnard.

Surprise Dancing Party.

A pleasant surprise was given Harold Peck last Tuesday evening when his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Peck of No. 1706 Hobart boulevard, entertained with a dancing party in honor of his birthday anniversary. Among those present were Gladys Patterson, Francis Putnam, Verdilyn Pratt, Pearl Jacobs, Irline Peck, Grace Whiteford, Alberta Cale, Irala Summers, Bessie Hardwick, Helen Hanby, Mrs. Raymond Peck, Mrs. Walo Hanby, and Messrs. Wilton Heppenstall, Will Whiteford, Richard Lupfer, Russell Caltzs, Sid Fuller, James Peck, Raymond Peck, Waldo Hanby and Harold Peck.

Birthday Surprise.

A surprise party was given for Arthur Brick the 18th inst., at No. 1127 Arapahoe street, in honor of his twenty-third birthday. Mr. Brick is well known in local musical circles. Present were: Misses Flora Kosenblum, Sadye Haber, Pearl Schneeder, Sadie Tanenbawn, Mabel Diamond, Laura Berliner, Rose Saltzberg, Rose, Lavin, May Shifner, Sadie Rosenthal, Rose Jones, Amy Morris, Eva Iseman, Helen Wolf, Thelma Wolf, Verda Rockoff, Mrs. Fred Burkhart, Mrs. Fred Rosenthal, Messrs. Louis Deman, Nat Stackman, David Stackman, Paul Rosenthal, Phil Jones, Walter Rosenblum, Sidney Kassowitz, George Greene, Gaston Rueff, Phil Lanzet, Joseph Philips, Arthur Katz, Lou Salzman, Isidore A. Allen, Homer Adler, Sam Wolf and Arthur Kleine.

Farewell Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Seelye of No. 1813 South Van Ness avenue entertained recently in honor of Miss Emma Paulk and H. C. Paulk, who have been wintering in Southern California and will depart Friday for their home at Harlan, Ia. The dinner guests were: Miss Emma Paulk, M. C. Paulk, Mr. and Mrs. George Henkel, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Vaughan, Mrs. Mary Paulk and Mrs. Agnes Craig.

Return from Visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Taylor of Long Beach returned Tuesday from St. Paul, Minn., where they had spent the last six months. They will be the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Alden W. Skinner, at No. 1853 Buckingham road, La Fayette Square, for a few days before going to their home at No. 226 Chestnut avenue, Long Beach.

Honoring Distinguished Man.

Doing honor to an author and philosopher, the Alliance Francaise of Los Angeles entertained at the Hotel Clark Friday evening for M. Jules Bois of Paris and Berkeley. Another honor guest was Vance Thompson, who had known M. Bois in Paris many years ago.

Mrs. John X. McDonald, a charter member of the Alliance Francaise, was hostess for the affair, and was stunning in a French creation of satin and rose point lace. Mrs. McDonald is a descendant of a French patriot who took part in the American Revolution and has spent many years abroad, particularly in France.

The table was decorated in a manner suggestive of the union of French and American interests, with American and French flags. The dainty place cards were hand-painted by Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Mark Rice was responsible for the decoration scheme.

At the close of the dinner the "Star Spangled Banner" was played, followed by the "Marseillaise." At an informal reception M. Bois gave an interesting talk.

Covers were laid for M. Jules Bois, Vance Thompson, Louis Sentous, the French Consul, and Mrs. Sentous, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Brunswig, Dr. and Mrs. Hector Alliot, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Albee, Capt. and Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, Mrs. Isadore Dockweiler, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. C. Farber, Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Wilshire, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Pyle, Prof. and Mrs. William G. Bell, Prof. and Mrs. L. F. Briois, Prof. and Mrs. L. M. Riddle, Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Le Daux, Dr. and Mrs. John A. James-James, Mr. and Mrs. Jules Violi, Miss Faith Chevalier, Vera, Countess de Blumenthal, Mrs. George Dobinson, Mrs. Alma Whitaker, Mrs. Mark Rice, Miss Franci Wills, Emily Squier, Prof. H. W. A. Enenkel, Prof. Edgar L. Larkin, Dr. J. Ziegner-Uriburu, Dr. Fuller, G. M. Chartier, Mrs. Mary Ely Marsland, Dr. Daniel Cave, Mrs. Alice Heber Nicoll, Mrs. Emma Jameson and Mrs. J. A. Wallace.

Announcement Card Party.

Miss Dorothy Terry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Terry of No. 328 Serrano avenue, announced to her friends, yesterday afternoon at a card party, her engagement to Lloyd Smith of this city. Both were students at Polytechnic High School and the groom-to-be attended the University of Southern California.

Plans for the wedding have been deferred until after the war.

Noted Singer Here.

Ernestine Schumann-Heink, the world-famous contralto, accompanied by her friends, Mrs. J. Hubert Guy, was in Los Angeles two days during the past week, en route to Madame Schumann-Heink's palatial home at Grossmont, near San Diego. They were registered at the Clark.

For Week's Rest.

Mrs. F. W. Flint, Jr., has left for Arrowhead Springs, where she will remain a week for a much-needed rest.

For Golf Tournaments.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Cochran have been among the visitors at Del Monte for the past ten days and have been much interested in the golf tournaments. Among other Angelenos at the fashionable Monterey Bay resort were: Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Spaulding, Miss T. C. Boice, Miss Mary Boice, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Newmark and Mrs. J. S. Porter.

Entertain ex-Governor.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle Channing Davis at their home, No. 803 Avenue 64, last Friday evening entertained ex-Governor Alva Adams of Colorado, Mrs. Adams, Miss Elizabeth Adams and Judge Theodore Martin and wife.

Unique Entertainment.

Mrs. William J. Breed has issued invitations for an interesting afternoon tomorrow at the Alexandria. Austin Breed will take the guests on a journey through Morocco and Spain, including the Alhambra. The slides have been colored by hand, and are miniature works of art.

Announces Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Korn of No. 238 North Manhattan place announce the engagement of their daughter, Mabel, to Jules Gerstenfeld of San Francisco. The wedding will probably take place in the early fall. Miss Korn is a graduate of Los Angeles High School and popular in the younger set.

Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Davis of No. 2093 West Twenty-eighth street entertained a group of friends Monday evening in celebration of their twenty-first wedding anniversary. Red was the predominating color used for decoration, carnations and roses being employed to carry out the idea.

Present were: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas New, Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ingraham, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McKeon, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Van Cleave, Mr. and Mrs. William Stickel, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Mather, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Russell, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McKellar, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McKellar, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wisman, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wehrly, Mrs. Ida Peckham, Mrs. W. Mills, Miss Emily Davis and C. E. Best.

Honor Oldest Student.

Miss Marion M. Malarky of the Key West Hotel was hostess at an informal reception Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Amy G. Winship, who at the age of 86 is the oldest university student in the United States. She has spent the winter in California and will go east the first of June to take work at the summer session of the University of Wisconsin, where she is registered in the College of Liberal Arts.

Roses and ferns made up the artistic decorations, and the afternoon was spent agreeably with music and conversation. About seventy-five guests were present.

Entertain for Author.

Dr. and Mrs. Maddock of Canyon drive entertained for Vance Thompson, Friday afternoon at their home. Mr. Thompson has been staying with them since his arrival in the city.

Back to San Francisco.

The rain came and spoiled a nice party which several of the local golf women had been planning for some of the San Francisco visitors. The latter had almost made up their minds to stay, but finally decided on the home trip. Some of them left yesterday and some will go today.

Mrs. Hughbert Law, who carries the championship title away with her. Miss Edith Cheeseborough, Mrs. Hartman Law and Mrs. J. W. Law have all been staying at the Hollywood Hotel. Another group has been at the Alexandria. They are: Mrs. H. H. Sherwood, Mrs. Claude Roual Duval, Mrs. Charlie Clark, Mrs. R. G. Fields, Mrs. J. C. Black and Mrs. R. Hieman.

Miss Shiels Bride-elect.

Miss Margaret Shiels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Shiels and niece of Superintendent of Schools Shiels, announced her engagement to Leon Burton Gill of San Diego some time ago, and has since been the recipient of many complimentary affairs. The wedding will be in the early fall.

May Wedding Announced.

Miss Cordelia Wern, the young daughter of Mrs. L. K. Wern, recently announced her engagement to Salmon T. Tuttle, Jr., formerly of this city and now residing in Kansas. They will be married Thursday at 10:30 o'clock a.m. at the Church of the Angels.

Miss Effie Tuttle, sister of the groom, will be maid of honor and Evelyn Jane Dale, the flower girl. The ushers will be Harold Rhoades and Robert Hite.

After the ceremony the couple will leave via the Santa Fe for the Grand SOCIETY.

Canyon and a tour of eastern points.

Miss Wern is a graduate of the Los Angeles High School and Mr. Tuttle was a student at the University of Southern California, where he was a member of Phi Lamba Epsilon fraternity.

Yesterday afternoon the bride-elect was complimented with a bridge tea given by Miss Effie Tuttle.

Society Approves Benefit.

Many society women are lending their names and influence toward making the British Red Cross benefit vaudeville performance given at the Gamut Club Thursday evening a success.

Among the women who are working for the affair are Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. W. W. Norris, Mrs. W. A. Clarke, Jr., Mrs. Willoughby Rodman and Mrs. George Westinghouse, Jr.

To Leave for East.

Miss Emily Kathryn Crane, who with her mother, Mrs. Rueben Crane, and her son, Rueben Crane, Jr., of Cincinnati, will leave for the East after spending a delightful winter in Pasadena and Los Angeles. Miss Crane and her mother have been staying at the Hotel Maryland, Pasadena, and have been much entertained by the society of that town. They have been guests at the Midwick Club, and also of Miss Lubelle Boice. Miss Crane will go to Miramar to visit for a month before leaving California.

Miss Perry Entertained.

Miss Hannah Perry, whose engagement to Irving H. Schwartz was recently announced, was entertained recently by Miss Friedmann of No. 1575 West Vernon avenue with a miscellaneous shower. The wedding is to take place in August.

To Santa Barbara.

Mrs. Stephen W. Childs of No. 3125 West Adams street has gone to Santa Barbara for a two weeks' stay at the Potter, with her son, Master Ozro W. Childs.

Bridge Luncheon.

Mrs. Clarence B. Kerr of No. 2007 Ocean View avenue entertained recently with an elaborate bridge luncheon. Twenty guests were present, and the affair was much enjoyed.

Army Officer in Town.

Capt. B. W. Guinney, Eleventh Cavalry, U.S.A., accompanied by Mrs. Guinney and son, is making a brief visit in the Southland and stopping at the Clark. Gen. and Mrs. W. E. Biddle of Philadelphia have also been stopping at the Clark the past week.

Betrothal Notice.

Entertains for Bride-elect.

Miss Cecile Hite of No. 326 South Serrano avenue entertained Thursday afternoon with a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Cordelia Wern, a bride-to-be. The rooms were decorated with marigolds, as was the daintily-laden table. Tea was served at 5 o'clock to about twenty-five guests.

Olds Give Reception.

One of the charming receptions of the season was that given by Dr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Thorpe Old at the Hollywood Woman's Club House the past week for 250 guests. In the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. Old, Miss Louise Old, Mrs. Charles Howard Lippincott, Mrs. Oliver Kingsley, Mrs. Ralph Mallette Burdick, Mrs. Jesse B. Roberts, Mrs. Ingle Carpenter, Mrs. Robert P. McJohnston and Mrs. Rolin B. Lane, while in the ballroom were Mrs. John E. Owen, Mrs. S. W. Garretson, Mrs. Forbes Lindsay, Mrs. Charles Richmond and Mrs. William Barrett Lindsey.

Produce Play.

The alumni and seniors of the Westlake School for Girls, together with the Emerson Players, produced "Quality Street" (the quaint little play in which Maud Adams starred) Friday evening before an audience of 300 guests, admitted only by invitation.

Miss Ruth Alden Woodcock, as Phoebe Throssel, was particularly fetching, while the other members of the cast did exceptional work. Those taking part were Ruth Woodcock, Virginia Burnham, Helen Fenner, Dorothy Arzner, Mildred Finley, Ruth Bullinger, Mildred Demarest, Vera Field, Grace Wilson, Helen Walsh, Loretta Roberts and Claire Noelke.

Leave for North.

Traveling in Mr. Campbell's private car, Mrs. D. W. Campbell, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Charles F. Van Home, left Tuesday morning for Santa Barbara and San Francisco. Mrs. Van Home has been the guest of her sister for several weeks.

Engagement Announcement.

Mrs. Moore Sanborn announces the engagement of her daughter, Geraldine Littleton Grady, to George Wilhelm Grimm of this city.

Original Song Popular.

Mrs. Tom Nicholson, who made quite a sensation at the Athletic Club with her original song, "Grand Old American Land," has found the song much in demand. There is a request that it be sung at the Red Cross benefit at the Mason, and a copy has been sent to the President.

Mrs. Nicholson first heard her song at the patriotic dance given recently at the Athletic Club, and she received quite an ovation because of it.

The chorus has a real martial lilt to it, and goes:

"Another toast, boys, to our country's host, boys,
A leader just, firm, brave and true;
By the nation he's respected, by the people re-elected,
Woodrow Wilson, we salute you, and we're with you through and through."

Dancing Party.

A very enjoyable affair was the dancing party given at the Alexandria Thursday evening by Mrs. Edward W. Funk—for her daughter, Miss Zelma Funk. Those who participated are Misses Marjorie James, Margaret Burgner, Helen Mauzy, Loretta Roberts, Monica Shannon, Eloise Chancellor, Ruth Poar, Clifton Patton and Margaret Carrott, and Messrs. THE New Wall Papers and Wall Fabrics

The extreme importance of exercising fine judgment and real care in the selection of wall papers is emphasized by the fact that the treatment of the walls influences, more than any other one factor, the attractiveness of the home.

It is important, therefore, to you who contemplate the beautifying of your homes to know that at the California Furniture Company you can obtain the very newest ideas in wall papers and fabrics—in designs that are entirely uncommon—at no greater cost than you would be obliged to pay in the average store for ordinary papers.

And here you not only have this liberal selection in the finest productions of both European and American designers, but you have the intelligent, helpful, unprejudiced co-operation of men of recognized authority on interior decoration.

You have, also, the assurance that the wall paper or wall fabric you select will be properly hung and that the artistic results will be fully up to your anticipations.

High-class Fresco painting and Relief work are also skillfully executed by our Department of Interior Decoration, which is prepared and qualified to successfully complete any commission, from the papering of an individual room to the complete decoration and furnishing of the house.

Some very effective new wall papers are shown in one of our windows this week.

SURPRISING their friends, Miss Lura Brown and Thomas C. Borden were married Wednesday at noon at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. M. Borden, No. 226 East Tenth street. Dr. O. H. L. Mason, pastor of the Calvary Presbyterian Church, officiated. The rooms of the Borden home were attractively decorated with Cecil Brunner roses and ferns. The couple stood in an arbor of these flowers while the ceremony was read. The bride wore a white tailored suit, white hat and shoes, and a corsage bouquet of Cecil Brunner roses. Following the ceremony the groom's sisters, Mrs. L. A. Kennedy and Mrs. J. W. Wilhoit, served dinner.

Mrs. J. E. Shimer, for the past year president of the Woman's Music Study Club of Long Beach, was Tuesday unanimously nominated for the office for the coming year. The election will be the business of the next regular meeting. The postponed meeting of last month, a demonstration of music work in the grammar schools of this city, under the direction of Miss Alice Rogers, will be held next Tuesday morning. It will be a guest session.

Miss Frances Glass was married Saturday to George Franklyn Wallace at the home of Miss Mathilda Nord, No. 1505 Atlantic avenue. Rev. H. C. Buell of the Second Presbyterian Church of this city officiated. The bride, who is a sister of W. Q. Glass, former business manager of the First Presbyterian Church, but now of Chicago, has made her home in Long Beach for the past three years. The groom has interests in Momence, Ill., where Mr. and Mrs. Wallace will make their home, returning to this city for the winter.

REV. AND MRS. R. J. THOMPSON, assisted by Miss Jean McCunn, entertained at the Atherton Villa Tuesday in honor of Harry Combers, the affair being in the nature of a birthday surprise. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. D. Buffington, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Forsyth, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Comber and children, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Comber, Rachel Comber, Miss Ella Henderson and Rev. and Mrs. D. McCunn.

Mrs. Victor LaMer of Los Angeles has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. E. A. Fischer.

Miss Mary Lane spent a few days recently with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Lane, in Glendale.

Miss Edith Slade of San Dimas was a week-end guest at the Farrar home on Angeleno avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Snell of Ramona Acres were Sunday guests of Mrs. Snell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Webb.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church held a box social at the home of Mrs. Thomas Strong Tuesday evening. A feature of the evening were the readings by Mrs. Van Leuvan and the numbers by the Mandolin Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holfard entertained Friday and Saturday Mrs. Drucilla Williams and grandchildren, Marvelle and Merrille Hocker of Fullerton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kendall, who were married in San Francisco April 19, have returned to Burbank, and are at home at No. 509 Angeleno avenue.

When the Burbank band met Monday night the leader, E. S. Hogle, announced a surprise party for J. Porter Robinson, who left last week for Kingman, Ariz. Refreshments were served and a "smoker" enjoyed.

FOREMOST among the social events of the week will be the American May Day fete Tuesday afternoon in the garden at the Maryland. An outdoor entertainment will be given under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Jamieson, the hostess. Sixteen girls will give a May pole dance and there will be Greek dances, a colonial minuet and Indian dances by Frank Simmons. Music will be furnished by the Elks' band and refreshments will be served. The outdoor entertainment will be followed by a ball in the evening.

Miss Lena A. Smith and L. Neil Haffner were married Tuesday afternoon at the home of the bride's father, F. A. Smith, No. 776 Howard place. Miss Thirza Haffner, sister of the groom, played Mendelssohn's "Spring Song." The ceremony took place beneath a floral bell of Cecil Brunner roses and ferns, with Rev. W. C. Hull officiating. The bride was dressed in a traveling gown of pearl gray and wore a corsage bouquet of Cecil Brunner roses. After an extensive trip the young people will be at home at No. 1209 North Marengo avenue. Among those present were the following: Mrs. Wells and Mrs. Davis of Los Angeles, F. A. Smith, Allen Smith, Miss Florence Smith, Mrs. Anna Haffner, Miss Thirza Haffner, Mr. and Mrs. Allen B. Haffner, Miss Cora Eldridge, Mrs. Elizabeth Brooker, Misses Vivian Broderick, Ruby Geer, Mabel Stevens and Lillian Stevens.

Elks and their friends participated in the first dance given by the new officers Thursday evening at the clubhouse. The committee in charge was composed of Harry Cheeseman, Dr. W. A. Boucher and Barney Leonard.

The annual May festival of the Polytechnic Elementary School will be held next Friday morning and afternoon and Saturday morning. The motive back of the interesting festival is twofold in nature. First, the wish of the school to demonstrate for itself and its friends its various forms of activity; and, secondly, the desire of the school community to express the joy of the springtime through a festival, as it has been expressed repeatedly since the days of the ancient Greeks.

As a slight departure from last year's order of events the school has chosen to open the festival with a representation of the story of Persephone. The Friday morning programme will consist of the presentation of this story by the various grades of the school. The English department will supply dramatic episodes, the music class will give expression in song, and there will be dancing and interpretative music. The ninth grade will give a description and explanation of the story, and in addition appear in a Greek chorus.

The Southern California branch of the Vassar Alumnae held its annual meeting recently at the Huntington, the business session being followed by a luncheon. Mrs. George Stewart, vice-president, presided. These officers were elected: Miss Grace Pontilly, president; Miss Alice Brown, vice-president; Miss Lily Canfield, treasurer; Mrs. Walter T. Adams, secretary, and Miss Anne Mumford, branch representative. Mrs. Adams announced that $100 had been contributed by members of the branch as a gift to the Orton memorial fund. Miss Mumford spoke of the organization of the Women's university of Los Angeles and it was voted that the branch become a member.

The First Congregational Church was the scene of a pretty wedding Monday evening, when Miss Dorothy Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Stevens of South Pasadena, and Clarence Diebenkorn, were married. Green, gold and white predominated in the decorations. The bride wore white-embroidered crepe with tulle veil. About 200 guests were present. The ceremony was followed by a wedding supper at the home of the bride's parents. After an extensive trip the young couple will make their home in Los Angeles.

The garden party given Wednesday afternoon in the fine old garden of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Bolt by the Woman's Aid Society of the Pasadena Presbyterian Church was one of the happiest successes among the many achieved by this organization. The Peter Pan programme was arranged by Miss Ruth Markell, a former pupil of Lili Lehmann and of Herbert Witherspoon, who has recently come here from New York. She herself took the leading role as "A friend of Peter Pan," singing in costume a group of nature songs. She was assisted by Mildred Raymond, flutist; Mrs. Halbert R. Thomas and Mrs. Oswald Spier, pianistes, and by Miss Louise Harris and Miss Stella Crawford, dancers. Exquisite care had been given to every detail, and the effect was most satisfying from the standpoint both of the artist and the musician.

Moderately-priced Wedding Gifts in Sheffield Plate.

One of our hand-hammered tea sets in Sheffield Plate makes a highly acceptable gift, and one that costs comparatively little money. We have beautifully wrought hand-hammered designs that will add distinction to any buffet.

Our dinner services in Sheffield Plate include compotes, cake plates, sandwich trays, meat dishes, gravy boats and trays, and other pieces. Among our most attractive offerings are several faithful reproductions of old Dutch silver masterpieces, fancifully decorative, quaintly artistic and yet surprisingly low in price.

All of our Sheffield Plate is quadruple plated on nickel silver base—and is guaranteed for a lifetime. Prices of single pieces range from three dollars upward. The Nordlinger imprint on the gift package assures value and distinction.

Feagans and Company regard it as a duty to patrons to advise and urge the purchase of perfect diamonds now.

The entire world is in the grip of conditions which can only mean the continuous increase in the market value of these gems. Many Diamond merchants have taken advantage of these conditions to advance prices to present market conditions.

Feagans and Company have not done so—but on the other hand, have fortunately been able to augment present stocks at most favorable prices.

As close students of the diamond market and as diamond merchants who are in position to know—Feagans and Company sincerely and most urgently recommend to patrons the advisability of buying perfect diamonds now.

New diamond paved wedding rings—perfectly matched diamonds—closely set in narrow platinum bands.

---The Suits $25.00; The Dresses $19.50

Boys' and Girls' Store, 4th floor

Bullock's
Los Angeles

Optical Specialist, 5th floor

—A concentration of mind and energy upon meeting the needs of a certain large group of women has brought to Bullock's an unusual range of

"Sizes 44 and Larger"

—in suits, coats, dresses, skirts, corsets, underwear, and other wear—

—As well as sizes 42½ to 52½.

—And women for whom the service of this new concentration is particularly intended, are rapidly finding it out—and telling other women—

—Emphasizing today, its Especial Readiness in Suits of Style at $25.00 —and up to $55.00—

—it desires you to take the suits, as delegates representative of the other items, and come to see them all, on Monday—

—Suits smart and becoming to large women, in sizes ranging from 42½ to 52½. All the popular weaves are included, gabardines, fine serges, poiret twill, novelties and black and white checks. Colors include beige, gold, greens, grays, navys and black in plain tailored styles, novelties and sports styles. ---A Table of Cut Glass —that is a table of values

—"flashing forth the fires of inspiration from diamond-like facets, a thousand fold."

—The Crystal Room is ablaze—with beauty and suggestions

For June Weddings? Why Not—When Next Tuesday will be May First!

—It is not a bit too early to prepare—

—On the table above are grouped an 8 inch Bowl at $3.50; a Celery Tray $3.50, too; Sugar and Creamer $2.50 pair; two-handled Nappy $1.75; one-handled Nappy $1.50; Fern Celery Tray $2.50—

—The Melba design—Floral and Mitre Cutting—5th floor.

—Which reminds one to remind you of the gift readiness of this great fifth floor at Bullock's which is emphatically—a gift floor—in every sense of the word—

—because of the style and the value in the suits at $25.00; because of the very particular charm of the dresses at $19.50—

—Double interest it is—and full measure—to the brim and running over—for you and every woman who is in the mind of a new suit, or a new dress now—if you and every other woman will take this news in the spirit with which it is printed today—for it is good news—and there is A PRICE STRATA of importance running through it all.

Contrast!

—NEWEST OF NEW MILLINERY —IF YOU PLEASE— AND WOMEN WILL LOVE THE HATS, AS THEY WERE MADE TO BE LOVED BY LOVING HANDS, GUIDED BY MINDS THAT SEE THE NEW WAYS THAT ARE MORE STRIKING AND MORE BEAUTIFUL—

—THESE NEW HATS ARE BLACK AND WHITE—

—LARGE FLAT—OR CUSHION BRIMMED SAILORS—CHIC TURBANS —NARROW BRIMS THAT ARE NOTABLY DEMURE—

Women who desire Underwear comfort wear

Athena—For it Fits

—Athena Underwear is knitted and tailored to fit—the low neck garments are cut lower in front—the back is narrower and so shaped that there is no possibility of slipping from the shoulders.

—The patented seats have shaped extra fullness—an exclusive feature with Athena.

—There are suits in the light weight cottons and lisles that are just right for spring and summer wear—and Athena garments are exclusively at Bullock's in Los Angeles. 4th floor.

—"If you can convey the idea," says one who is the enthusiastic intimate of these dresses and these suits, "then the last day of April should be one of the Great Days of April in the Garment Section"—

—And THIS PAGE appreciates its responsibility—and is striving to convey THE IDEA —impossible as it has ever been to describe with any degree of adequacy the intangible beauties of gown—or suit—or frock with the slightest degree of individuality—

And All These Suits and Frocks Have Individuality and Much of It

—The suits at $25.00 and the dresses at $19.50—The sketch above, made directly from garments concerned, is more in the nature of a graphic suggestion than an exact illustration—

—Come to Bullock's, Monday and be among those who will be FIRST.

—The Suits at $25

—Are tailored as well as semi-tailored models of serge, poiret twill, gabardine, Gunniburl poplin, and velour—

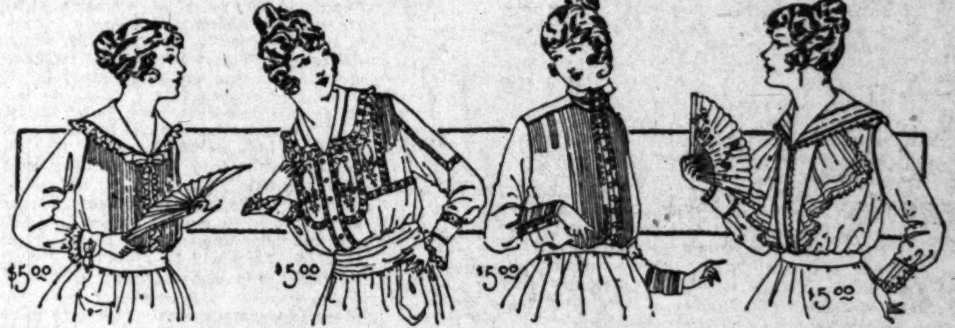
—In blue, black, pastel and high shades—

They show many new style themes—such as straight line skirts with vertical slash pockets; braid binding; loosely belted coats; round collars, lapels, etc.

—Suits that are VALUES at $25.00.

—The Dresses $19.50

—May occasion surprise if you compare them with expectation. Of soft rich taffeta, crepe de chine, satin, Georgette, crepe meteor, and combinations. In white, taupe, navy, rose, metal gray, black, flesh, callot blue, foliage green and gold. Simple belted styles, modified chemise lines, vestee ideas—But see them Monday at $19.50.



Perfectly Adorable Blouses at $5

—Of sheer French Voile, in the much admired new high neck style—with pin tucks and narrow filet lace—

—Of voile with deep frill and collar, tucks and dainty lace; of voile and lace in combination with pin tucks and hand embroidery—; of batiste, high neck—with tucks—black moire ribbon and crochet buttons—

—And other models—This news does not convey the thought of them as it should be conveyed, but it will let you know that they are here and that they are well worth seeing. And knowing and owning at $5.00—

—Among many, many other waists in the Blouse Section—Third Floor.

Special Values Bedroom Furniture

Twelve Rugs at $28.95

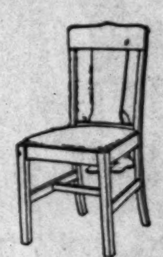
—Rugs of distinguished and dynamic personality—for they are Body Brussels—9x12's—

—and if you know Body Brussels Rugs on the present market you know that they are among the elite in price as they have always been in quality—

—Slightly soiled from being floor samples—for an admirable advertisement these 12 Body Brussels at $28.95 each—at Bullock's, on the 6th floor, Monday.

—And six patterns in Brusselette stair carpet 27 inches wide at 50c yard.

—Sixth Floor.



—quaint, effective bed room furniture in the much wanted ivory finish—at prices so low as to be almost unbelievable—

—The materials, constructions and workmanship is of the best—and it would be hard to say if this offer will ever be duplicated—

—The Ivory Dresser has 19x42 top and 22x28 inch mirror and is priced $19.50.

—Chiffonier has 19x34 inch top and 18x20 inch mirror, is priced $17.50.

—Toilet Table to match, has triple mirror—top measures 19x37 inches, double drawers, $16.50.

Summer

—Refurnishing

will naturally bring Bullock's to the minds of those who know

—and particularly to the minds of those who have seen THE NEW DRAPERIES as they have blossomed into new completeness, and beauty in the past few weeks—

The Cretonnes are Kaleidoscopic

—in their interest—flashing from color to color, and design to design with bewildering brilliancy — more of them, perhaps, than one might have imagined there could be—for living rooms, dining rooms, bedrooms, breakfast rooms and porches—25c to $3.50 yard by easy steps—the range of price will indicate the variety. More rare than words can tell.

—And they are chosen cretonnes, selected of the world's best by critics and connoisseurs.

—Then there are Curtain Nets in White, Ivory and Arabian—36 to 45 inches wide—at 25c to $2.00 yd.

—And Marquisette that much favored material for Home Drapings—from 25c to 75c yard, in wide range.

—Then there are Curtains, hundreds of pairs—Marquisette, Cluny, Lacet, Duchess, Filet and Novelties from $1.25 to $50 pair—and

An Exclusive Section

—where are many Hand Blocked Linens and other weaves and rare designs—in the form of samples, from which your selections may be made—to the end of extraordinary individuality—

And Most Expert Decorative Advice

—by decorative artists who have made an exhaustive study of THE ART OF HOME FURNISHINGS—men who know—and who will not intrude—but will always be ready to give you their suggestions and to consult with you upon request.

—There are many reasons why Bullock's is pre-eminently fitted to be of aid to you in your summer refurnishing—but the chief reason is probably THE SINCERITY OF BULLOCK'S in striving to be the kind of a store you would like it to be—the sincerity that has been responsible for results.

The Tea Room

EVERY WOMAN'S HOME AND CLOTHES.

Devoted to the Women of the Southwest.

By Nell Michelmore.

I CONSIDER THAT THERE IS SOMETHING

above the ordinary in a house that secures the exclusive agency for the Baldwin Piano. For the Baldwin has won world wide recognition. It was awarded the Grand Prix at the International Exposition, Paris, 1900, which is today conceded the highest criterion of merit. It is the only American piano thus honored. The Baldwin again received the Grand Prize at the World's Fair, St. Louis, 1904. Today the greatest artists in the world use and endorse the Baldwin Piano, claiming there is no piano of like merit. The Baldwin is made as a Concert Grand, Artists Grand, Parlor Grand, Baby Grand, Upright, or as the Baldwin Manualo, the player piano that is all but human. In the music department of this large store you will also find the Columbia Grafonola. The Columbia laboratories have been the scene of unceasing experiments, until they have at last completed a phonographic instrument that makes the hearer forget the presence of the instrument. The prices of Columbia Grafonolas are $15 to $350.

This big furniture house contains five retail floors. The warehouse of three floors carries the bulk of the stock. They are exclusive agents for the Peninsular Gas Range, Royal Easy Chair, Seller's Kitcheneed, Sturgis Go Cart, and other staple lines.

Their line of porch furniture is particularly attractive. Reed, hickory, mission and Chinese grass furniture are here. There are swings, settees, tables, rockers, summer houses, and lawn swings. Even a tiny lawn swing for the kiddies. I saw all these things and countless others at OVERELL'S, th greatest furniture store in the West, corner of Main and Seventh Sts.

WHEN BABY ARRIVES.

At no time in life, perhaps, do we feel more like spending generously, even lavishly, than when the new baby arrives; especially the first.

Our paternal nature prompts us to sacrifice for our children under all circumstances, but the arrival of the first-born is the time of all times when we feel the best is none too good.

As with other events in life, it is the part of wisdom to be prepared. Sorrowful, indeed, to be compelled to stint by meeting this occasion not fully prepared.

When you first look forward to the sweet ecstacy of feeling the grasp of tiny fingers about your own, then begin to lay aside at regular intervals the dollars that will be so joyously spent upon the arrival of "the most important member of the family."

And after the little one has arrived, start a savings account in his or her name, making a practice of adding to it periodically. Teach the child to save before he learns to spend.

The SAVINGS ACCOUNT opened in babyhood grows as he grows and will lay the foundation for a course at college, or an opportunity in business.

You should open an account in the name of your baby; the first deposit should be at least $5, but later deposits may be as low as $1.

Start your baby's savings account at the HOME SAVINGS BANK, Broadway at Eighth. Seven Branch Banks for your convenience. Make the Home Bank Your Bank Home.

THERE'S SOMETHING REALLY SMART IN buying your sports clothes at a man's furnishing store. Then, too you are assured of fine materials and correct sports style. I saw a gray silk sweater of exceptionally fine weave, with a large sailor collar and cuffs of white. The lapel was notched. Another sweater in a deep shade of rose had a combination plaid trimming, showing the large sailor collar. The Tri Color Weave, in red, white and black has a large sailor collar, notched lapel and sash of white. A turquoise sweater has an odd smocked back, sleeves and pockets. This model comes in other shades, also. Another model in tan silk was trimmed in brown fringe. Pure silk sweaters range in price from $20 to $60. Other sweater coats in wool and angora. These are shown at MULLEN & BLUETT'S, Broadway at 6th.

LAST DAY OF MONTH SALE MONDAY,

the only day you can get such bargains. From the glimpse of merchandise in all departments that I got a peek of you'll not be disappointed in your selections. Here are a few items to give you an idea of what I saw there: $2.50 Georgette crepe in Paisley and Persian patterns for $1.25 the yard. In the blouse section there are 41 novelty blouses ranging in price from $9.75 to $75.00 to be sold for half. Discontinued models of Gossard and Mme. Irene corsets, $5.00 to $12.50 values for $3.95. Then there is a table of odd numbers of corsets for 45c. In the boys department I saw $6.50 to $8.50 suits in sizes 3 to 6. being marked down to $3.95. Infants' dainty dresses up to $5.00 for half price. Little girls' lingerie frocks from $2.50 to $7.50 at half. Remember Monday only at J. W. ROBINSON'S, Seventh St. and Grand.

Redondo Beach.

WEDDING bells have been ringing in this city during the past week and among some of the marriages that took place were those of Miss Mildred Hoyt, popular Sigma Kappa sorority girl, and Ralph Burgoine, who were married Saturday; Miss Ethel Davisson, daughter of Mrs. Virginia Reynolds, and Truman Smith, married Sunday; Miss Trevor Brown and Merville Wells, married Wednesday. Miss Mary Ransom, popular High School girl, and Jack Richmond of El Segundo made their engagement announcement last week.

Rev. and Mrs. William S. Eldridge of No. 603 Esplanade street entertained over forty friends at their home on Tuesday evening. The new Christian Church minister and Miss Alice Schmidt charmed with an Indian love song, sung in costume. A debate and musical programme were enjoyed.

The Catholics and their friends gave a card party at the St. Edgar Hotel Thursday evening, Father Conneally appointing the following women on the Entertainment Committee: Mrs. James Roach, Mrs. J. H. Meehan, Mrs. John Perdue, Mrs. J. V. Karelsen and Mrs. J. I. Lechner.

The members of the Civic Outlook Club met Friday in the community room to listen to a lecture delivered by Mrs. P. S. McNutt, district parliamentarian, on the correct form of addressing the chair. Tea was served.

SONG OF THE QUARTZ MILL.

"The glittering gold! The glittering gold!"
By the stamps of the mill is the story told,
In daylight and darkness told and retold,
Through the Summer's heat and the Winter's cold,
With ceaseless rhythm the notes unfold,
And from hill to hill are the echoes rolled—
"The glittering gold! The glittering gold!"

In depths of the earth there are men at work;
By their side, in the shadows, death doth lurk;
Through shaft and tunnel they follow the vein,
And faintly they hear the far refrain—
"The glittering gold! The glittering gold!"

For them there is little of cheer or hope,
As they delve in the darkness of drift or stope,
But there's bread to be bought and babes to feed,
And for everyone there's a crying need—
"The glittering gold! The glittering gold!"

So with pick and drill and dynamite blast,
The quartz is freed from the ledge at last,
And under the stamps where the hammers fall
It is crushed to powder, the while they call—
"The glittering gold! The glittering gold!"

On, down through the mill, moves the dust so fine,
Until freed from the grossness of the mine,
The shining grains are sent on the way
Their part in the drama of life to play.
"The glittering gold! The glittering gold!"

"The glittering gold! The glittering gold!"
By broken hearts is the story told,
By shattered hopes and by honor sold,
And the dying murmur of lips grown cold,
But the mill sings on as the bell is tolled,
For there's life and hope for the young and bold
In the yellow wealth that the hills enfold—
"The glittering gold! The glittering gold!"

Eighteen numbers from well known composers furnished the programme Friday evening at Odd Fellows Hall when Harper's Orchestra, assisted by Miss Priscilla Butterfield, lyric soprano of Garvanza, gave its first popular concert before a large audience.

Rialto.

MISS RUTH KINGMAN, who is soon to be married, was complimented at two pretty affairs during the week. Mmes. H. C. Kingman and L. P. Kingman were hostesses Wednesday afternoon at the home of the former. The guests included former Gypsum (Kan.) friends and numbered nearly thirty. Mrs. Ray Kingman of San Bernardino, presided at the punch bowl.

On Friday evening Mrs. M. C. Harris entertained nearly thirty girls, all intimate friends of Miss Kingman, at a miscellaneous shower. A happy evening was spent in rooms prettily decorated with roses and national colors. Included among the guests were several out-of-town girls who are attending school.

Using tri-colored mounds of flowers on the piano and long refreshments table, the patriotic spirit was shown by Mmes. M. E. Brimmer and H. L. McLean, hostesses, at the regular meeting of the Woman's Club held at the library, Wednesday afternoon. The programme, the last of the year, was in charge of Mmes. G. F. Mathes and P. W. Ehlers. Under the subject "Education," Miss Edith Urquhart, principal of the Highland-avenue school of San Bernardino, gave an address on "Impressions of the Gary Schools." A paper on "Education Survey," prepared by Miss Marguerite Cheever of U.S.C., was read by Mrs. Mae Nealey. Mr. J. F. Cumming delighted with his solos, "Mother Machree" and "The Birth of Morn." Mrs. Clyde Mort accompanied and played "A Waltz Chromatique" by Godard, responding to the hearty applause by playing "The Butterfly." Mrs. H. L. MacRae led in the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" at the close of the programme. Red and white roses blue myrtle and plumbago were used in the color effect and cakes and tea were served during the social hour.

The home of Mrs. C. G. Milligan was opened to the public Thursday evening when Mmes. Milligan and F. S. Hosfelt acted as hostesses at a benefit card party for the drinking fountain fund. Thirty tables were arranged for the games and a large number attended.

Mrs. Emory Randall has returned to her home at Topeka, Kan., after a six weeks' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Dalgleish.

Aldridge and Lois Aldridge Grenewalt of San Bernardino, the Misses Annetta Martin, Verle Campbell, Anna Willits and Emma Brewster.

Complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. Denair Adams Butler, who are being much feted, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Merryfield and Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Osborne entertained at the home of the former on Tuesday evening with a dancing party. In the company enjoying the affair for the newlyweds were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Butler, parents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Van Arsdale Smith, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Willets, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Griffith, Mrs. J. R. Boynton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Roberts of San Bernardino, the Misses Gwen Davis of Redlands, Mildred Bonnell, Marion Lantz and Lola Dugan, Richard Robert and Wynne Pottinger of Redlands, H. L. Watt and W. H. Chase.

Members of the San Bernardino Y.W.C.A. expression class met for the last gathering of the season at the home of their teacher, Miss Tacie May Hanna, on Tuesday. Present were the Misses Merle Newton, Hilda Bennett, Georgia Oldaker, Elizabeth Sibley, Mable Wilson, Eva Spear and Marion Skinner.

Entertaining the members of her card club and an extra table of guests, complimentary to Mrs. Denair Butler, an April bride, Mrs. J. R. Boynton was hostess on Friday afternoon. Mrs. E. C. Merryfield and Mrs. Seth Hartley won the club prizes, and Mrs. Kate Fuller the guest trophy. Others present were Mrs. Jonas Wood and Mrs. R. S. Lasher of San Bernardino, Mrs. Martha Hebberd of Los Angeles and Mmes. A. E. Copeland, H. T. Osborne, C. W. Curtis, M. O. Hert, J. E. Butler, C. F. Whitmer, R. D. Bailey, Elizabeth Wilkerson and Grace Garner.

Ragged Robin roses, red shades for the lights and a red note in the refreshments provided a cherry color motif for the dancing party enjoyed by a group of the younger set at the F. M. Snider residence on Friday as a celebration of the eighteenth birthday anniversary of Miss Ruth Snider. Miss Gladys York furnished the music for the dancers, numbering the Misses Marguerite Champion, Leila Raynor, Marie Bonnell, Dorothy Haruff, Eileen Strock, Thelma Muscheewske, Ethel Burdick, Dorothy Voorheis, Jennie and Ruth Snider; Al George, Curtis Tuller, Earl Livingston, Norman Palmer, Barney Walker, Clifford Ham, Aeneas and Edmund Casey and Durward Hager.

Honoring two brides, Mrs. Arthur Cocking (nee Dedrick,) and Mrs. Brooks Bussey (nee Jones,) was the miscellaneous shower given Saturday by the Misses Gladys Cunnison and Lois Hayes. Five hundred was played after which refreshments were served.

Artesia.

MR. AND MRS. C. C. BELL celebrated their crystal wedding Tuesday. A large number of friends gathered at their home. Many gifts were presented. Present were Rev. and Mrs. R. J. Gray, Long Beach; Mrs. Ida Bell, mother of Mr. Bell, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. James Moyle, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. T. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Theriaut and daughter, Mrs. Lillard M. Smith and son, Miss Pauline Moyle, Clyde Bell, Mrs. Rogers, Clyde John, Della and Brooker, the children of the honorees, and Mrs. Della M. Brooker. The latter is the mother of Mrs. Bell.

On Tuesday Mrs. Ernest E. Noon was hostess at a luncheon, given at her country home on South Main street. The guests were Mrs. Albert Crint, Miss Pitzer and Mrs. Walter Donnelly.

Covina.

ABOUT thirty-five members of the Philmathean Class of the Methodist Sunday-school were entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Gail on Navilla place by Miss Carlibelle and Mr. and Mrs. Brandon with a hard times party. Prizes were won by Miss Mary Maxley and Elmer King.

Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Fingerle entertained Mrs. Emma Bangs and her daughter, Miss Fannie Bangs, of Chicago Tuesday and Wednesday at their home on West Badillo street. Mrs. Bangs has been the matron of the Deaconess Home in Chicago for the past ten years.

Mrs. Clara Ayers, assisted by her daughters, Misses Hazel and Myrtle, entertained Saturday afternoon with a party for her daughter Ada, in honor of her thirteenth birthday anniversary. The guests included Alice and Edith Maxson, Bonnie Silkwood, Mildred Baughman, Mildred Alexander, Clara Dethlefs, Dorothy Jackley, Millie Watts, Virgie Pratt, Norris Bunch, Bennie and Stanley Maxson, Earl Gray, Markham Saulsberry, Lyle Seaman, Herman Hpar, Homer and Harry Dulin, Dewitt Clague and Fred Baugham.

Teas, knitting bees and many other forms of entertainment are being given by organizations and individuals for the benefit of the local Red Cross society. Card parties were given last Thursday evening by Mrs. W. W. Nash and Mrs. E. V. Rice. A large crowd gathered at the home of Mrs. Nash for five hundred, there being forty present. About the same number were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Rice for bridge. At the close of the evening coffee and sandwiches were served and the prizes awarded for the highest scores, R. W. Groom for five hundred, and Miss Angie Griswold first, and Mrs. F. C. Devendorf second, in bridge, the consolation prize in the five hundred games falling to Miss Ethel Holly.

Mrs. Jerry Ladd entertained Wednesday afternoon with a tea and thimble party in honor of Mrs. A. Lunde, who leaves the latter part of the week for Big Bear to remain all summer. The guests were all members of the Covina Lyric Club and included Mmes. A. Lunde, Belle Harris, W. J. Nash, J. H. Coolman, Garrett Thompson, J. S. McConnell, C. T. Murphy, F. E. Wolfarth, E. P. Warner, J. S. Whitsel, Davis, H. Temple, Berman, C. E. Crawford, Carter, Henry L. Marshall, S. F. Jones and Miss Gertrude Hulce.

A party of the local people of the Baptist church represented the Covina church in the young people's rally held at Long Beach last Friday evening. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Funk and daughters Misses Pearl and Mary, Misses Florence Taylor, Inez Bryson, Audrey Wolfarth and Frances Ward, Mrs. Jensen, Messrs. Onyx Snavely, Raymond Benton, Jay Pitzer, Alpha Zimmer and F. T. Nicol.

Mrs. M. D. Philleo and Mrs. James R. Elliott entertained Friday afternoon at the home of the former on Bonita avenue with a tea, the proceeds to go to the Monday Afternoon Club. Mrs. Hubbard, sister of Mrs. Philleo, of Azusa, gave a brief history of her experiences in planting out the trees and shrubs on the place, which was at one time her home.

Eagle Rock City.

MRS. W. R. MILLER of West Park avenue entertained Friday in honor of her house guest, Mrs. Rober of Fort Dodge, Iowa. Present were Mrs. William N. Shields, Mrs. A. C. Arnold, Mrs. F. F. Truscott, Mrs. H. L. Suydam, Mrs. J. J. Harrison, Mrs. C. M. Bradbury and Mrs Gentry.

Prof. C. L. Wolfe of Occidental College and family left on Friday for Manhattan Beach, where they will spend their vacation.

Mrs. Belle Bayne of Los Angeles, who was a house guest at the home of Mrs. H. L. Robertson of No. 324 West Sycamore avenue, has left for her home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Reese of East Eagle avenue had as week-end guests Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Anderson of Spokane, Wash.

Mrs. Carl Buck and daughter, who visited relatives in this city, left on Monday for their home at Darwin.

Mrs. W. L. Koethen of College View avenue was a week-end guest at the home of her mother in Riverside.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Nelson of Oakland are visiting at the home of Mrs. Myrtle H. Phinney on Fairmont avenue.

W. H. Cobb, who was a guest at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. B. Curtis, has gone to his home at Littleton, Colo.

Huntington Park.

ALBERT A. BROWNSTEIN, a merchant of this place, and Miss Lilian Pratt of Los Angeles were married Sunday afternoon at the Anshe Sfard Temple, No. 1327 East Twenty-first street, Rabbi Levi officiating. Samuel Brownstein, brother of the groom, acted as best man. Miss Amy Hammerman, cousin of the groom, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Misses Tessie Byreus, Ida Parliter, Ida Minick, Essie Immerman and Frieda Krasner. The ushers were Sam Parliter, Lewis Minick, Fred Krasne and Harry Hammerman. Manuel Stein acted as ring-bearer, while Ruth Brown, Rose Cohen and Rose Shuken were flower girls. The bride was given away by her parents. The members of the Young Zionists' Club were the reception committee. After the ceremony a wedding supper was given for the relatives and bridal party at the home of Mrs. Shukin, sister of Mrs. Brownstein. Covers were laid for 100 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Brownstein will reside at No. 301 East Randolph street and will be at home after May 10.

Mrs. William G. Rutledge gave a pretty affair at her home on Templeton street to announce the engagement of her sister, Miss Daisy Rutledge, to W. V. Eggleton of New York, the happy event to take place in August. The guests included Mrs. Alice McKenna, the Misses Katherine Osborne, Cora Nelson, Jane Plant and Bernice Cheney from Los Angeles, and Mrs. Estella Proctor, the Misses Lou Leonard, Leah Hunter, Daisy and Frances Rutledge of Huntington Park.

The thirty-ninth birthday anniversary of Joseph Knakal was signalized by a pleasant surprise party arranged by his wife. When he reached home Saturday evening for dinner he found seated at the table a company of old friends. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Briggs of South Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Himes, Mr. and Mrs. B. Chase and O. A. Burden.

Mrs. Nellie Schuyler was hostess to the Woman's Club Thursday morning. Mrs. Belle Christensen will be hostess for the next meeting.

MARY MACLANE.

A Poignant and Pathological Case of "Me."

BY JEANNE REDMAN.

Mary MacLane's new book is out this week. Everybody remembers who Mary is. At the age of 18 she wrote a book which made her famous. It was "full of the devil," full of youthful egotism, which made it the plaything of the comdians. Willie Collier, with Weber and Fields, gave a burlesque of it which packed houses for some time—and then whatever happened to Mary MacLane I do not know, only that she returned, after a visit to the East which her first work afforded, to her home in Butte, Mont., from whence the present book, "I, Mary MacLane," issues. "I," "I," "I"—aye, aye!

Here at hand is an advance copy with a comment by Gertrude Atherton, to the effect that the book is just what she would have expected from the young genius, who, by the way, states her age as 31 years. Atherton says that the book is a great piece of literature, and Witter Bynner compares it, in the frankness of the confession, to Marie Bashkirtseff's work of the same description. So much for the only comments yet made. They are not so interesting as is Mary MacLane's opinion of herself: "I'm by odds the cleverest human being I know; more than likely one of the clevesest who ever lived in this world."

It is not possible, however, to dismiss the book as a work of intense egotism, as the reader is tempted to do many times before reading two dozen pages. Nor is it fair to attach the stigma of insanity to it, and make a hasty departure from the odious personality of the author. Egotism is too unimportant a charge to bring against an author, and we are all more or less insane in the other fellow's opinion. Mary MacLane is sensitive to abnormality, but because she feels things which the world at large does not feel, that makes her no more insane than was Beethoven when he heard things which nobody else heard. Mary MacLane's book will lay her open to many disagreeable charges, of which the two I have mentioned will doubtless be brought many times, because the unbalance of her mind and the intensity of her conceit are so utterly obvious that not even a child could miss them. To detect the brilliance of her and the subtlety of her humor will take a discrimination which does not abound in our reading public.

A frankly written confession is always painful. No man can stand close analysis without appearing something of a scoundrel. Nor can any woman endure it without appearing absurd. Among the few great confessions are those of Cellini, a gay scoundrel if ever there was one; Rousseau, so abominable a spectacle that the most unworthy of us cringes at his meannesses; George Moore, faithfully false and artistically frank; Marie Bashkirtseff, splendid and admirable, and at least worthy of the great seriousness with which she took herself; and, it may be that we shall come to include this strange woman from Butte, Mont.

"Take pen and paper and be candid, and you will be an authoress," writes Strindberg. But he fails to say whether such writing is desirable. Personally, a confession of the subjective self is odious. There is this to be said of George Moore's confessions; he deals mainly with abstractions, and turns the light of his artistic self upon topics which are in themselves interesting, and only the more so for his discussion of them. His "Confessions" is a personal creed and a very valuable book of criticism. This may also be said of Marie Bashkirtseff. There is self throughout her book, but it is a self subservient to her art, and her opinions are worth hearing. Mary MacLane talks of herself all the time, and only of other things as they bear upon her soul and intellect. When she discusses poets it is of their effect upon her that she speaks, and her picture of Butte is the only bit of the book which is vivid in itself. Her mania for Keats with its preposterous refrain of "John Keats! John Keats!" sheds not one ray of light upon Keats. In fact, he seems more of a stranger after this reading than he did before.

Mary MacLane's style is full of innovations. She is of the imagist school of prose writers, which is all very well if she did not fall into the use of such flagrant affectations. There is nothing to be said against affectations if they accomplish something worth accomplishing; but they miss fire so entirely in the present case that they grate upon eyes accustomed to reading, more than usual. Some of the phrases are not only new, but ugly and unsatisfying as well. The word "garbledly" for example, and "thrilledly," and a host of the same sort. There is also a strong penchant for capitals and hyphens. "Man-person and woman-person," "Mary-MacLaneness" and "Butte-Montana-ness" are some of the hyphenated artificialities which distress and irritate the reader. Such strivings for the unusual! Then in the midst of some real attainment of poetic phrase-making there will come such trite and commonplace words that scarcely an ordinary schoolgirl would be excused for their usage. "Tea-fights" and "citizenesses," for example.

There is a picture of Mary MacLane in the front of this strange book, and she has a very lovely face, but I shall let her, with her publisher's permission, describe her own loveliness, which she does, on page 179, in the following glowing words:

"I see Me!—my deep gray wanton dark eyes; my lips—like pink flowers—with the incrutable expression; my white fingers—slim, strong, glossy-nailed, silken at the tips. My glass gives Me back to Me, sitting by it, languid of Body, tense of spirit and Mind, bathed in witcheries of Self—I love my Mary MacLane! Ah, I love her!"

Rich, isn't it? I have spoken of a strange use of capitals. You will notice that the writer uses the capital in speaking of Mary MacLane, but in speaking of God she says, "and if God were by me and I asked him the time, the odds are all that he would look at the face of my little toy clock and tell me the time by that. But though he is thus perplexing he knows the right time and could tell me it." The nonchalance with which she speaks of God is a part of the striving for the unusual, which she misses altogether in the chapter containing a conversation supposed to be held with God, but which she attains with real wit in the chapter on Lot's wife, which is one of the really good things in the book.

Save for these few things, and some poetic phrasing, the book could be dismissed as a pathological case. A case of a self-styled "demi-vierge," who, through repressions, mental and physical, is a victim to an ingrowing consciousness. The book lends itself, more than any book which has ever come to my notice, to cheap ridicule, and the tired reviewer may give himself a holiday in the reviewing of it. Mencken could have a beautiful time with it if he would, but there is that in it of poetry and poignancy which should make an ordinary burlesque impossible.

ROMANCE OF HISTORY.

An Examination Test Regarding Events of a Decade.

[Baltimore News:] There has come into our hands a little pamphlet of 200 questions "regarding interesting and important facts occurring or discovered within the twelve years immediately preceding the European war." Some of the questions are of conventional character, a few controversial. They are put out as a "general information" test; but they differ from most such tests in asking less for encyclopedic knowledge than romantic appreciation of current history.

We append ten of these questions, selected almost indiscriminately:

What great modern city was built within five years and then deliberately destroyed by its builders

Why and how did a whole nation go into mourning and remain so for years?

What lawyer's book recently overturned a nation?

What study has caused the death from overwork of many scholars? And why?

When and how were 4000 policemen recently slain one at a time in night and secrecy?

What organizer of a successful revolution shot himself in the moment of victory?

What noted statesman recently "commanded" himself not to die till he had saved his country by revolution?

What most important document was recently burned by a nation's revolutionary leader in the hour of his death? And why?

Where has a baby King been blamed for all the sorrows of his nation?

What King captured a city in defiance of all Europe and then gave it up in defiance of his people?

As answer to the first, we hazard the guess: "The Panama Canal construction colony," this constitutes an indication of the reasonable good faith of the form of the other questions.

We commend the lot to our readers as evidence of how much more than cold statement of fact can be read into news dispatches. From the compiler we look some day for an epic on modern history outdoing Carlyle's "French Revolution."

Studio.

Hector V. Sarno and Caroline Rankin. R. E. Irish will be camera man.

Works His Irish Wit.

Neither prosperity nor reversals have a dampening effect on Charles Clary's native Irish wit, apparently.

"Charles Clary"—this is quoted from the Barstow Printer of Barstow, Cal.—"one of the leading Fox photoplay actors, arrived in Barstow from Los Angeles tonight. He will make this town his headquarters while looking over his mining interests near here."

"They were so small," commented Charlie when he returned to the Fox studio, "that instead of looking over them I almost overlooked them."

No Barrels Handy?

Frank Lloyd, who directs the William Farnum super de luxe productions for William Fox, recently made the thirty-mile trip from San Pedro to Los Angeles clad in a slicker and a blanket.

Mr. Lloyd had been breast-deep in the surf all day long directing scenes for his new productions. He knew that he ran danger of catching cold if he kept his soaked clothing on, and the only substitutes at hand were the aforementioned slicker and blanket. That was why people who live along the beach road caught glimpses between tight-drawn automobile curtains of a huddled-up gentleman understudying a bundle of old clothes.

Reasonable Complaint.

In one scene of Hank Mann's forthcoming Foxfilm comedy, Hank has to submerge himself completely in a vat of soapy water.

"The only trouble with this thing," Hank spluttered as he came up for air, "is that it holds the wrong kind of suds!"

Parks His Sentiment.

Master Francis Carpenter, one of the famous Fox kiddies, returned recently to Los Angeles from a trip to Santa Cruz. Master Carpenter announced quite nonchalantly that a couple of young women fell in love with him there. He was unable to entertain their offers of adoption, however, as he had a picture to finish.

And there was a Retake.

Really it's a wonder any of those Helen Holmes people are alive.

In the production of a scene for the tenth episode of "The Railroad Raiders," William Brunton, juvenile lead with the Helen Holmes company, narrowly escaped serious injury, which in all probability would have put him out of the remaining episodes of the serial.

According to the plot of the story, Brunton is captured by the raiders, bound with ropes and left in their rendezvous. He affects an escape by burning the cords that bind his wrist. The ropes were ignited and all would have been well, except that too good a job had been done in the tieing; his coat sleeve caught fire and the flames licked up his back toward his collar. Not wanting to spoil the scene, he strove desperately to free his hands from the bonds that would not loosen.

To the man behind the camera there was no indication of his danger. Miss Holmes, however, standing on the side lines, saw his plight and recognized the gravity of the situation. A couple of small fire extinguishers had been brought to the set on the off-chance of an accident of this sort. Seizing one of them she rushed into the scene and treated Mr. Brunton to an effective shower bath of chemical-laden water. Of course, the scene was spoiled and had to be retaken, but Mr. Brunton will be able to continue his work throughout the serial. His arms and hands were rather badly burned, but will soon be well.

Note of Warning.

If you men haven't enlisted yet, look out for Dora Rodriguez, the Universal girl, who will just naturally plumb hypnotize you into joining the army if you don't watch out.

On a quest for 40,000 recruits for the government, involving a hike of more than 10,000 miles, Miss Rodriguez left New York yesterday, the start being made with the co-operation of the various branches of the volunteer and regular service. By way of Princeton, Trenton, Philadelphia, Wilmington, Baltimore and Annapolis, Miss Rodriguez will visit Washington, where she will be presented to the President and Army and Navy departments.

Proceeding on her patriotic way, the doughty young hiker will visit Cumberland, Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Cleveland, Akron, Columbus, Dayton, Detroit, Kalamazoo, Chicago, Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake City Los Angeles and San Francisco. The hike will occupy Miss Rodriguez about eight months, during which time she will recruit in each town she passes through.

She Said Something.

"What could be more sad than a man without a country?" emotionally queried a patriotic person of Vivian Martin the other day.

"A country without a man," promptly answered Miss Martin.

She Saw the Light.

Lois Weber is to remain with the Universal after all. She received recently an offer from the Associated Women's Clubs of America to produce pictures for the uplift of young people, and a large fund was to be at her disposal. Miss Weber discussed the proposition with Carl Laemmle, U's president. When she had finished stating her case, he inquired with Machiavellian shrewdness:

"Which would you rather have: 2,000,000 women as your boss, or just one man?"

The inquiry sounded reasonable to Miss Weber, and she decided for the Universal.

Starlet Comes Forth.

Because of the success of her work in "Babes in the Woods," soon to be released, and in the Franklin brothers' Fox production of "Jack and the Beanstalk," little "Baby" Virginia Corbin, the 4-year-old emotional actress, has just been signed up for a year by Abraham Carlos, business manager of the Fox studios, at a good round weekly sum.

The youngster will appear in a series of stories written especially for her. She is at present at work in a special version of "Treasure Island."

Gunn's Fertile Fancy.

Playing the role of a blind person in a picture is said to be a difficult thing to accomplish. Charles Gunn resorted to a novel means of learning how to look like a blind man recently, during his interpretation of the principal supporting role in "The Snarl," starring Bessie Barriscale. In the part of a young millionaire, Gunn is stricken temporarily blind by the discharge of a cannon aboard his yacht, and when he read the manuscript he pondered at length over the task. Suddenly he hit upon a plan.

Going to his dressing-room Gunn bandaged his eyes in much the same way that they are bandaged in the story. Then he groped his way out of the room and walked carefully along the aisle that extends the entire length of the dressing-room structure. His associates at the studio gazed after him in awe, until they learned his purpose. The experiment proved successful, however, for when Gunn undertook to portray sightlessness, minus the bandage, he found that he could do it with ease.

Will Jolt for Triangle.

Ruth McCord, one of the most beautiful of the Ince-Triangle girls, is spending her leisure hours in studying two widely divergent literary works, viz., Demosthenes on Oratory, and Thor's Motorcycle Rules. The reason is that Miss McCord has been chosen to make a pilgrimage to the four corners of the United States, erecting a Triangle memorial at the farthest boundaries north, south, east and west.

Miss McCord's travels will extend over a period of one year, during which time she will make herself personally known to every Triangle exhibitor in America, addressing the patrons of each theater visited. The young lady will travel in a sensational manner, viz., by means of motorcycle, and is announced to start at the southwest corner of the country on May 1. Arrangements are now being completed for her reception in the various cities along her route.

Mr. Ince's Patriotism.

The widely-advertised film which Thomas H. Ince will present to the Navy Department of the United States government will be completed this week. The filming of this picture covers a great extent of Coast territory, scenes having been taken in San Francisco, San Diego, Los Angeles Harbor and in the Ince-Triangle studios at Culver City. In his efforts to produce a picture which will be a valuable aid to recruiting Producer Ince has received the heartiest co-operation of the naval authorities. As soon as the film is placed in the hands of the proper persons it will be shown in all the principal cities of the country, and is expected to drive home in most forceful manner the nation's need for men.

With Single Thought.

No reflection is intended on "The Twisted Thread," notwithstanding its name, when it is announced that henceforth this new Balboa serial will have two directorial fingers in the pie. William Bertram, under whose supervision "The Neglected Wife," by Will M. Ritchey, was brought to a successful close, will co-direct with Edgar Jones. Kathleen Clifford is the star.

Preparedness Note.

Whoever is worried concerning food shortage in time of war, it won't be Charles Ray and Margery Wilson. These two Ince stars, with their director, Victor L. Schertzinger, filmed several scenes of the forthcoming Katterjohn photodrama on a ranch in a near-by valley. Here during the noon rest the company undertook the management of the farm, learning all about rotation of crops, soils and irrigation, from the accommodating farmer, beside doing all the necessary chores, such as feeding the pigs, gathering eggs, watering stock and performing other rural tasks.

New Official Papa.

Baby Gloria Joy, the new child actress of Balboa, is to have a new director, Henry King having accepted a position with the American studio, directing Gail Kane. Mr. King directed the Joy child in one picture.

Mr. King's successor will be Robert Ensminger, formerly assistant director under Mr. King. Mr. Ensminger has had a long and varied stage experience which eminently fits him for a directorship.

Was There Before.

Those theosophists have it all over common mortals when it comes to reincarnating historical characters. Take Corenne Grant, for instance.

William Dummer, sculptor in the art department of the Balboa studio, made a mask of Corenne Grant's features last week for use in "The Twisted Thread," in which Miss Grant plays Aida, the Egyptian princess. Miss Grant has a good start in the role, inasmuch as she is an ardent theosophist and believes she will reincarnate the character with convincing sincerity.

Light Shines for Films.

Lee Arthur, the noted author of "The Auctioneer," which was the successful stage vehicle of David Warfield some seasons back, and of other successful dramas, will henceforth let his light shine for the films. Mr. Arthur has been attached to the Balboa studio staff and is writing a story for Jackie Saunders.

BRAZIL'S OPEN DOOR.

Japanese Immigrants are Made Welcome and a Line of Steamboats will be Established Between Japan and Brazil as Soon as Possible.

[Indianapolis News's Washington letter:] Official reports to this government tell of unusual activities of the Japanese in South America. For the present these activities are confined largely to Brazil, but the authorities here have information to the effect that if plans are carried out, the Japanese within the next few years will be making themselves felt in several of the South American countries. It is a race manifestation that is being watched by the authorities here with the keenest sort of interest. Officially this government is not concerned with the opening of the South American door to the Japanese, but in an unofficial way it is very much interested.

As is well known the Japanese are now shut out of Canada, and there is at least a temporary bar against their entrance into the United States, except in special cases. For several years they have been going into Mexico in considerable numbers, but it is now evident from the official reports, though they are rather meager, that the Japanese government has finally decided to look to South America as a country into which a considerable part of its surplus population can be disposed of. It is assumed here that if the South American countries shall generally open their doors to the Japanese this action would relieve the pressure for entrance into this

The Starr Phonograph

WE CAN tell you of many distinctive features of the Starr Phonograph—of the violin-like construction of its silver spruce tone chambers—of its perfect mechanism and artistic design. But that which is most important of all, which distinguishes the Starr Phonograph more than anything else—its TONE—cannot be described. Only by HEARING it can you realize how vastly superior the Starr Phonograph is to all other instruments.

May we demonstrate?—in your own home, if you prefer.

Prices $75 up. Convenient monthly terms.

Readjusting Our Prices to the New National Conditions

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall and countless other prominent and patriotic women have just pledged themselves to strict economy.

Even before these good women came to this praiseworthy decision to forego elaborate clothing and food, the Reich and Lievre establishment came to a similar decision. Already we have readjusted our marking rate to the new national conditions. Thus thinking women may save considerable money on their apparel at no sacrifice of style.

R. & L. styles could not be better if prices were three times what they are now.

Silk Dresses Less than $10.00 Jersey Suits $20.00 and Less Tailored Suits $20.00 and Less Wonderful Coats

At all prices from less than $10.00 to more than $50.00 Reich and Lievre VALUES are in a class by themselves.

One of a Kind

Afternoon Gowns, the most wonderful dresses in Los Angeles for the money.

The Original models of one of New York's best dressmakers.

$30 to $50

The Appeal to Economy has MADE the Reich and Lievre organization what it is today The Largest Retailers of Women's Ready to Wear in California.

ECONOMY is one of the many reasons why most women prefer to shop at Reich and Lievre stores "Everywhere in California." Women have learned from experience that they can ALWAYS get the same thing for less here in spite of "Sales," "Special Purchases" and other inducements made by others to unload merchandise that is no longer saleable any other way.

Women CAN save money here and at the same time secure the very best styles available in the markets of the world. People have discovered that all Reich and Lievre shops are conducted on a modern basis of efficiency in service, refinement of surroundings in addition to unequalled VALUES at all prices.

For thirty-two years the House of Pease has served the Los Angeles public faithfully and well. We believe that our name is held in the highest regard by all who know us. But our public has been a limited one. We have conducted our business for the minority who sought and could afford furniture and allied lines of the higher and more expensive grades.

Today we stand on the threshold of a new and greater enterprise. In future it will be our purpose to democratize the store—to appeal to every class of buyer, and to equip homes from the humblest to the most magnificent. In other words, we intend to extend our activities in such a manner that all buyers may avail themselves of the splendid values which this house is able to present.

In making this revolutionary change we find it necessary to close out vast quantities of merchandise in order that the new, popular-priced goods now being purchased may find floor space. This Reorganization Sale is planned to accomplish this in a short time. Prices on every article in the house (except a few lines of restricted goods) have been reduced to a point where our friends and customers will secure our high-grade, exclusive merchandise at prices lower than are being paid today for ordinary goods.

—we seek a wider public

At this time we would emphasize that it is not our intention to discontinue selling the grades of furniture for which the house is justly famous. We are simply adding new lines of popular furniture, which will necessitate condensing some departments.

The sale begins Monday morning at 9 o'clock with the promise that it will prove an event worthy of the traditions and reputation that this house so jealously guards.

While we have crowded into this advertisement a great many items, they hardly begin to give an adequate idea of what this sale will afford in the way of values. Please remember that every article in the house (aside from a few restricted goods) bears a special marked-down tag. This is indeed a sale that deserves the patronage of all lovers of fine furniutre.

HAPPY THOUGHT CLUB SYMPOSIUM.

BY EUGENE BROWN.

Just as Prof. Watts Eaton Hughes was prepared to demonstrate that he could live on 12 cents a day, the prices of prunes and corn meal were advanced 40 per cent., and knocked his percentages into a cocked hat.

Some time ago the President appointed Prof. Hughes as a sort of one-man diet squad. The government desired to get the benefit of his zeal and knowledge in solving problems of food conservation and as the professor had no wife or other dependants he could take chances that no married man would essay. So the professor tried out his tummy on various economic fodders. He ran the line from caviare to cactus, but it seemed that every time he ran onto anything that was both cheap and palatable, some doggone middleman would butt in and boost the price. Just when he got to going good on alfalfa, for instance, he was shocked to learn that selected bales had been marked up to $34 a ton. Biscuit made from alfalfa meal cost almost as much as if baked from pastry flour.

He got pinched at every turn of the wheel. He recommended to the government the crossing of the T-bone steak of the table with the T-rail of industry. He figured that this would make a durable and almost impervious breakfast for traveling men. For a long time the hotels and restaurants have sobbed for a fire and burglar-proof steak. This seemed to hit the spot. Then the beef and steel trusts got next to the scheme and boosted prices to make the original cost almost prohibitive.

Now the professor thinks the only way to solve food problems is to transform the consumer into the producer. Accordingly he bought him seven bean seeds, fourteen grains of corn and a handful of onion sets and now proposes to raise his own meals.

The pledge of enduring friendship existing between England and America has brought joy to the bosom of Rarikari Shimose, the Nipponese nightingale. He sees in it an assurance that Uncle Sam and the Mikado must always dwell in harmony, and that trouble makers on both sides will have nothing to show for their activities. The Japanese bard has not written much since he defeated Tagore in a free verse tournament, but at yesterday's symposium of the Happy Thought Club he could not restrain himself. Taking a piece of chalk he went to the club blackboard and after some hesitation presented the following:

Hands Across Sea.

Oh, Brothers Glorious of Glad Thinkso Assassination:
Them white peace of dove are flowing over those wet ocean,
These bird are grandson of vast bird of Freedom,
To-wit: Samuel J. Eagle.
He shall carry those sheet musics to Japan which shall make fat friends,
No more shall poor Japanese boy—aged about forty—
Have to run from brass policeman slob.
We are human fellows, we of each, to help some.
I are of American people the same,
You are of small or large Japanese boy likewise.
Oh, grand! Oh, Gosh!

The club is becoming quite a polyglot affair. It has members from Japan, the Philippines, Cuba and Mexico, as well as from the lands of fair-skinned folk. Now the fair secretary reports an application for membership from Hop Long, the Chinese cuckoo, who had heard of the prowess of the Nipponese pen and wanted to divide the oriental effulgence.

His poetic dissertations on Confucianism are regarded as classics by his own people, but his English muse is somewhat halting in foot and his meter rustles as if he got it from the gas company. It is feared that he will have to stay on probation for a few weeks. It is known that he was once under suspicion of opium smuggling, and it is feared that he might attempt to run the clubroom as a secret hop joint, using the witching Marjorie Heartsease for bait.

He will have to submit his qualifications and references.

There is still room for argument over the qusetion, "Did Eve Paint?" There has been something said on both sides, and one woman said she wouldn't give Adam whether Eve painted or not. Uncle William Snaggs, the Wild Sage of the San Gabriel Wash, and the cultured president of the club, said he wanted to make a few remarks on the subject. Under the head of "Good of the order," he leaned heavily against the mahogany and breathed these words:

"I think I can dispose of the question 'Did Eve paint?' with a negative answer. Figure out why the present-day women paint and you will soon guess why Eve didn't. She didn't have to.

"For why should Mother Eve use paint,
E'en though she was quite human,
With nary man but Adam around,
And she the only woman?"

"Of Eve it can be truly said that she could choose and marry any man she pleased because there was only one man around to be pleased and she was the only female of the species, it follows that he had no choice in the matter. When it comes to the only man on earth trying to dodge the only woman on earth and the tax on bachelors at the same time, said man is a gone goose (or gander) and said woman has such a snap of it that you can wager that Ed. Pinaud never got his start in life from the dame in question.

"I would suggest that the Old Resident cease hogging the secretary's attention for a few moments while she reads my latest and greatest poem, dedicated to the genius who invented the straw hat."

His Skull Guard.

The hat of straw is once more it,
We hail it with acclaim,
Believe me, son, it makes a hit,
And comfort is its name.
The derby roof may be all right,
The tile of silk as well,
But for an airy lid, and light,
The hay chapeau is swell.

'Tis simplified democracy,
And worn by one and all,
The poor, the aristocracy,
The great as well as small,
All sport the kelly made of straw,
The summer top so gay;
The nifty dome without a flaw,
The awning that's au fait.
All hail unto the man who made
The first thatch parachute,
Unto him homage should be paid,
Too long have we been mute.
I'm giving credit where it's due,
And hereby recommend
Some unknown, who's entitled to
A lasting monument.

The Old Resident offered to be one of ten men to put in $10,000 apiece to rear a suitable memorial for the discoverer of the straw domeshield. The president and the curator were appointed as a committee to locate and dig out the gent and then the talk about the memorial will proceed.

The secretary reported a suggestion for a federation, on the part of the Get-Acquainted Club, which also includes a number of lions and lionesses in its membership. Howard Carleton Tripp, the grand geezer of the organization, submitted his prospectus, as follows:

Get Acquainted.

Oh, you bachelor—Intense!
Bowlegged booby, on the fence,
With knee-patches on a spree,
Next year where are you to be
With your lone heart, trouble-tainted?
Do you dust-up, doubt or drool?
Stop your playing knave or fool;
Get a sweetheart! Go to school!
Don't get giddy! Get-acquainted!

As a happy thought the Grand Geezer submitted this: "Any two fools can fight. It takes wisdom, tact and diplomacy to keep out of trouble."

The secretary and the Old Resident were appointed as a special committee to consider federation plans and also to report whether a consolidation or affiliation with the matrimonial bureau would be feasible.

The secretary reported an application for membership from O. Howe Wise of the Chippendale choir of song at the Pacific Abnormal School. The professor said he would be in the city next week and would be glad to take his degree at that time.

This prompted the Cheerful Nut to remark that he would get out his thermometer and give him the third degree.

The professor is one of the guys who is sorry he gave the vote to women and he writes as follows about it:

Ladies First.

Oh, woman! in your hours of tease,
You surely got my goat,
You once went down on bended knees,
And begged me for the vote.

And when you got it good and strong,
It only seemed a starter;
You took to finding all things wrong,
And posing as a martyr.

You reached for office right away
And called opponents traitor,
You found men made of mud—not clay;
You were their regulator.

You'd cut away the soothing drink
Likewise the mild cigar;
Nor ever let the glasses clink
Over the shining bar.

You'd take the job on which I dote,
And feed it to a lady;
You've worn my hat; you've worn my coat—
My pants will soon fit Sadie!

It doesn't seem to me quite right;
And makes me blush like fury,
To be locked up for half the night
With a woman on the jury.

But what's the use of shedding tears;
The world is as we make it;
Would we withhold aught from the dears,
You bet your life they'll take it.

But when I reach the shining street,
Or, maybe, land in Hades,
Must every man give up his seat,
To make room for the ladies?

Louise Josephine Pinkelheimer sneered at the reading of the poem. "I'll bet he's an old stiff and is stingy enough to cut his own hair," she exclaimed.

The secretary reported a bit of verse penned the mystery woman for Town Topics and which she said she kept under her pillow of nights instead of a dream book. It glides happily in this fashion:

Knowledge.

I did not know that Love would come this way;
A flash of understanding, and a smile,
The quick outstretching of our quivering hands,
One touch that lasted but a little while.

I thought that Love would come with lips aflame,
Gold wine—red roses—wild, tumultuous things;
But now I find Love's chariot is made
Of trivial things.

I did not know that Love would leave this way;
A lightly given kiss—a parting sigh,
The closing of the garden of desire,
Locked with the key that people call good-by.

I thought that Love would rift the sunset clouds,
And fly with me on passion's purple wings.
Strange that he chose the ordinary road,
Of trivial things.

David Oliver Tobasco, the director of the forthcoming film production of "Midsummer Night's Scream," reported that he was having some difficulty in introducing the United States Navy in "As You Like It," but would have it all figured out before he got through.

Meanwhile all booster ballads, limericks, or entries of best short poems in the club tournaments, all happy thoughts, applications for membership or club correspondence may be addressed to Eugene Brown, Editorial Rooms, The Times.

The Class in History.

[Indianapolis News:] The pupils in one of the schools of Indianapolis are, from time to time in their history lesson, providing their teacher with answers to her questions on the subjects under consideration, that are worthy of the distinctive name of "howlers," a term recently adapted from Great Britain. Here are some that she has recently added to her collection:

Question—Who aided Columbus on his voyages?

Answer—Patrick Henry, of Virginia.

Question—What part did George Washington play in the Revolutionary War?

Answer—He played in the band.

Question—What were the relations of Capt. John Smith to the Indians?

Answer—He was related to the Indians because he married Pocahontas.

FORTY-TWO years is a long time as human events go.
When this store reckons back
To its small start in 1875
On N. Main near Temple Block,
And follows its successful career
Down through these years to 1917,
We can feel justly proud of
Our mercantile achievements.
We may not have grown into acres of space,
But we have grown into the confidence
Of our patrons—which after all

Fingering Finery.

ON THE RADIANT RIALTO

IN AND OUT OF OUR BRILLIANT MARTS OF FASHION.

By Olive Gray.

Now is the time to buy:

The longcloth or nainsook for home-made underwear. There are special sales at old-time prices, this week.

Books at greatly reduced cost in a sale of the week.

Raisins for furthering California's wholesome fruit industry. Monday is Raisin Day.

White washable skirts all ready to don the first warm day. A sale at surprisingly low price.

The one-more suit, dress or coat in that quittance sale.

"The economy crusade," said a young housekeeper, "has already accomplished one thing for me. I have placed the household upon a genuine business basis. I always intended doing this, but somehow there have been so many social affairs to attend to that I have put it off. Now, however, I regard it as a sacred duty to do this. I keep accounts and when the expense for raw materials nears the prescribed limit I spend valuable time in planning cheap dishes in order to eke out."

"Yes," said her spouse, "and we are living better than ever before since we began housekeeping."

"I study the government bulletins," said the business manager of the young household, learn new recipes and see that each menu contains the properly-balanced ration. It is positively one of the most interesting sports I ever engaged in," she further declared, her cheeks flushing charmingly. "I revel in beating down the high cost, and besides—our bank balance is growing, and oh! I haven't told you about our garden."

"Please don't!" I exclaimed. Everyone has told me about her, his and their garden until I feel like a sort of national Secretary of Agriculture."

"All right," she pouted, pleasantly. "You may want to hear the story next winter when you could write a truly informing tale about the many dollars saved by filling our cellar with provender for the entire season!"

"And then you will not tell " I asked, apprehensively.

"Oh, yes; she'll tell!" exclaimed her husband. "Never fear. She gets up in the night to see how much that garden has grown since she retired, and she even displayed it to visitors by electric light the other evening."

Interesting Vices.

"You have so many charming vices," said one friend to another on her birthday, "that it is easy to find gifts for you, dear. Smoking, gardening, golfing, motoring, swimming—"

Vices, and, I would add, virtues. In the first place, imagine a girl brave enough to have a birthday! It is not only that birthday, but the one's to follow. "Let's see—it was ten years ago, was it not, we attended that birthday dinner to Alice? And she was then—how old? Goodness, but she is growing ancient!" Can't you hear it?

Closes Out Clothes.

Opportunity is shouting at us from that smart shop which is this week closing out clothes.

Then and Now.

That brotherly store which celebrates during the week its forty-second anniversary shows in its advertisements pictures of the modes of then and of now. Amazing are the contrasts, and interesting as well. Contrasts in merchandising are equally astonishing. Interesting bargains mark this anniversary celebration.

White Wash Skirts.

Not skirts which are white-washed, but white skirts which are washable and which are so cheap that you are lead to stop, look and listen, as well as to expend the large silver coin which is a small price for such a purchase. One needs many washable skirts for warm weather wear during a season of separate skirts.

Porch Clothes.

Dresses of cotton, especially designed for wear upon the porch, are to be found in a for-less sale during the coming week. Each season we specialize more distinctively in clothes, choosing something for each and every occasion, and I believe this to be an economy. The less expensive attire saves the better and more costly, and thus creates for itself a raison d'etre.

An Example.

Said my tailor to me, the other day: "You always keep your clothes in good condition, which gives me great satisfaction. I cannot bear to see a nice suit spotted and creased. Last week a lady took home her suit and on the second day returned it for a slight alteration. It looked like an old suit. I could scarcely believe that it was the one so recently finished. The skirt was spotted and wrinkled and I involuntarily exclaimed over its condition. She looked at it and said: 'Oh, yes, I suppose I got it spattered while cooking dinner last evening; I really should have put on an apron.'"

With a dainty, washable house dress to don, few women would think of wearing street clothes at home. In fact, it is a decided extravagance not to immediately take off and carefully hang away one's street attire, upon entering the home.

For Porch Tea.

With the approach of summer, the provident woman is keeping a weather eye open for dainty things for the porch tea table. I noticed in that big housefurnishing store, such novel and pretty sweet holders in clear glass with compartments, similar to the oriental ones. A few pieces of glass upon the summer table lend an air of coolness and give a pleasing variety in effect as well.

Where Sweets are Minted.

Imagine, if you can, a ton and a half of cream wafers—all made from real sugar, with sugar as high as ever! That is an offering of that Buyers' Annual Sale. The price of those wafers—as prettily dainty as colored satin ribbons and as tasty as pretty—is less than the commonest of candy. And they are far from ordinary in quality; but are, in fact, the best. A whole pound for the price of a mere loaf of bread!

Lift the Hat.

A tip on hats! Another one of those famous sales where not all hats are black although many are. And where all prices are less—than you could believe after examining the quality and the inexpressible style.

Library Additions.

Books, books, books! At prices which will set every lover of a good library in the home to conning over his or her catalogue with a view to adding every title which has ever been wished for and not attained. Fractions of usual cost will mean great savings in filling library gaps.

Half Prices.

A long list of cut-in-two prices will attract attention to that big store up Seventh street, during the week. Nearly every department participates in this sale extraordinary.

Hand-made by Maid.

That big jewelry house has some of the finest flags for use on automobiles, where flags usually are whipped to death in short order, unless made from the best of material. These flags are hand-made by a girl who takes great pains with them, using the very best of silk, and hand-embroidering the stars in silver bullion thread. Unlimited wear and luxurious fluttering beauty are the qualities in which these flags excel.

Fashion Tenders Tiny Tips.

Braid embroidery makes the bodice of any plain frock rich and becoming.

New collars and cuffs are made of organdy and many of them are pleated.

The Eton College boy's collar is used for a finish to many one-piece dresses.

Jumper coats are made entirely without fastenings and slipped on over the head.

Bright-colored kid bands are used as an attractive trimming on some spring coats.

The prettiest dresses have used a touch of black which adds richness to any bright-colored frock.

Some white linen collars are embroidered with rose silk and finished with rose cords and tassels.

OLDEST TREE IN WORLD.

The Tule Cypress in Oaxaca, Mex., Six Thousand Years Old.

[Boston Transcript:] The oldest tree in the world! That is surely a distinction. Trees seem to us quite perishable things. Washington's Elm and the old elm on Boston Common are gone long ago; even the elm which was planted in the place of the Old Elm in 1876 shows some signs of decrepitude. Yet even the Old Elm did not go back of Blackstone's time. The great elm in Lancaster, now fallen, which for a long time was the largest tree in Massachusetts, probably did not date back of the settlement of the town. Our oldest trees are the Waverley oaks, the age of one of which Agassiz estimated fifty years ago at 1000 years, and which were certainly in the prime of life when Columbus discovered America. What should we say, therefore, to a tree, still in good condition—not a dead branch nor a streak of decay in it—which is 6000 years old, and which started its growth at a period antedating any human records? Where is there such a tree? In the village of Santa Maria del Tule, in the Mexican State of Oaxaca, where the famous "Tule Cypress" still flourishes, or did flourish at last accounts, and where even revolutionists and bandits are unlikely to have harmed it, so great is the superstitious reverence with which it is regarded by the inhabitants. Many men of science have visited the tule cypress, and their veneration for it is almost as great as that of the local Mexicans. Alexander von Humboldt inserted a metal plate in the side of the tree in 1803, attesting its arborological importance, and noting its dimensions at that time, and this plate has now been almost entirely overgrown by the healing of the wound which the plate made, so that of Humboldt's name nothing but the "Hum" remains in view. This great tree is 126 feet in circumference at breast height above the ground; it shows no signs of decay and may live thousands of years yet.

Why is the Tule bald cypress supposed to be so very old? An interesting article in the bulletin of the Missouri Botanical Garden (St. Louis) explains it. This bald cypress (Cupressus disticha-sabino) belongs to the same genus with the redwood and the "big tree" of California, and with those trees which flourished in prehistoric times. They are all three more ancient than any other American trees, and appear to be a survival of species which have grown extinct except in California and along the Gulf of Mexico and a short distance up our Atlantic coast; that is to say, the redwoods, the two sequoia species, exist in California, and the bald cypress in Mexico, and on our southern Atlantic Coast. Though the sequoias are much taller than the cypress of Tule, they are not so ancient. The men of science estimate the age of the big trees at from 1000 to 2000 years, and the biggest one whose rings have been numbered was found to have been 1335 years old. Their maximum growth is about the same as that of the Tule cypress. But its age has been inquired into, so far as it can be done, by several men of science, and the writer in the bulletin of the Missouri Botanical Garden, who has visited the tree, says that "a conservative estimate of its age would be considerably over 4000 years, and probably nearer to 6000 years." The ring within the tree, therefore, which marks the growth taken in a year in which a certain boy was born in Judea who became the founder of the Christian religion, would be found nearer to the bark of the tree than to its heart. And this is a very impressive thought about a tree. Imagine the generations of men that have sat beneath the abundant shade of the Tule cypress! They must have been rather a good sort of people all along—to let any tree attain to such an age.

OF ART AND ARTISTS

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

Arraignment.

What wage, what guerdon, Life, asked I of you?
Brooches; old houses; yellow trees in fall;
A gust of daffodils by a gray wall;
Books; small lads' laughter; song at drip of dew?
Or, said I, "Make me April; I would go,
Night-long, day-long, down the gay little grass,
And therein see myself as in a glass;
There is none other weather I would know?"

Content was I to live like any flower,
Sweetly and humbly; dream each season round
The blossomy things that serve a girl for bread,
Inviolate against the bitter hour.
You poured my dreams like water on the ground;
I think it would be best if I were dead.
—[Lizette Woodworth Reese in the Sonnet.

The Pasadena Painters.

This remark was recently made to me in a picture gallery: "She's pretty good for an amateur, don't you think? She doesn't have to paint, you know."

The inference was that men and women become artists because they are poor, that the brush or the pen is the best thing they could think of with which to drive away the wolf. And what ineffectual weapons, for such a purpose, these have generally proved to be! No wonder that, holding such a view of art and the artist, the average man considers the poet and the painter imbeciles. No wonder he directs them to the pick and the spade.

The truth is, of course, that the artist does not turn to paint because he is poor, but because he is so much richer than other men—so immensely rich in imagination and ideality that he feels compelled to pour some share of his wonderful treasure into the reluctant hands of his brothers, who may be the fortunate possessors of nothing but money.

Milton, Homer, Beethoven and Rembrandt knew the cruelest pinch of poverty, but for all that they were so rich that every man, woman and child coming after them has been made the beneficiary of their bounty. Show me the multimillionaire who can do so much as that. Even Mr. Ford and Mr. Carnegie fall short.

Pasadena is a city of great material wealth, but I venture to assert that its real riches are just becoming realized. At any rate, the Pasadena Music and Art Association is diligently picking and pointing them out, telling the poor rich man where to find them, and even advising him to store them in his "palatial residence" on walls, in bookcases and in corners. For art is no less the necessity of the proud than the treasure of the humble. It is the wonderful heritage of all.

Pasadena's finest boast, it seems to me, should be its rising painters of pictures, rather than its sunken gardens of Busch. Nine of them are now showing forty canvases in Old Throop Academy, the exhibition being held under the auspices of the Pasadena Music and Art Association. I think it one of the most inspiring collections of pictures ever gathered together in Pasadena, for it is proof positive that art and the interest in art are very much alive in that city. Pasadena is far richer than we had ever supposed possible—for we had forgotten its artists in enumerating its many millionaires.

Passing in review from one room into the other, and beginning with the first of the pictures, we find it to be a pastel portrait by the very youngest of the painters, Ellen Kellogg. It is that of an old grande dame in a black mantilla, with yellow lace at her throat and wearing a red rose against the black. It is well modeled, good in color, the sympathetic presentment of a woman of noble elegance. It makes us wish that the young artist had given us more, for the other eight exhibitors are each represented by five or six pictures, with the exception of Orrin White, who shows only two. Mr. White, as it happens, is also one of the younger painters.

The transfiguring mists of early morning are found in C. P. Townsley's "Castle of Charles VII, Southern France;" the mystery of morning light is seen in his "The Arroyo Seco;" a scheme of pale yellows and blues, and again, dawn's golden glory, in "Venice." The sketch of the splendid viaduct near Pasadena is a fine bit of broad and direct technique in pale blues, greens and yellows. The only figure piece, "Sunshine," shows us a girl in blue on a window seat. Though not structurally strong (the figure is far too long,) it is painted with admirable directness and simplicity, and its scheme of color is brightly attractive.

Caroline Hutchinson Bowles shows five small water colors in the manner of the modernists. They are brilliant bits of technique, full of vibrant color and "pep." They are as decorative as Japanese prints and, indeed, much resemble the brightest of these. Nothing could be more gorgeously alluring than "Autumn Sunset," "A Pink Hill," "The Cloud." The joy of life is found in them all.

There is a big sweep of lines, a certain grandeur of forms, in Orrin White's two pictures of mountains and valley. In "Evening Glow" the tone is one of dun, with a play of many subdued tints under it. Light falls glowingly on the big mountains, whose slopes bear patches of snow. In "High Sierras" the glow is in the sky itself, and it lies superbly on the mountain slopes, making pale blue shadows on the more distant ones. Through it all we feel the cool of twilight.

Benjamin Brown's arrangement is not always on a par with his brushwork. The latter, indeed, is assured and sophisticated, full, free strokes in hues that offer agreeable spaces for the eye to rest upon. "Art Palace in San Francisco" is a moonlight effect, luminous green and lucent blue, the columns of the palace rising in dignified beauty, classically cold and remote. A great glory of prismatic colors is found in "Passing Showers, Yosemite," a glory like unto that of J. W. M. Turner's "The Fighting Temeraire." The wonder of springtime's greens is seen in the foreground of this place of enchantments. A play of deeper and richer colors is noted in "After the Rain," orange and green, with tawny shadows; a sweep of green and blue shore in "California Cliffs, Springtime;" a phalanx of splendid red peaks in "Sunset, Grand Canyon, Arizona."

For the past year or two Louis Hovey Sharp has been advancing steadily in the technique of painting, overcoming the difficulties that arose through his experience as a commercial artist. The proof of his growth is found in such pictures as "The Hopi Reservation," with its feeling of distance and space, and its true poetic quality; in those two shore marines, "The Dying Day" and "The Quiet Sea," as well as in his studies of sycamores and eucalypts, and in his conscientious and well-posed portrait of Miss Cornelia Parker.

Guy Rose gives us "The Blue Pool" from the high Sierras, cold and austere in its loveliness; "The Old Bridge," with its admirable play of sunlit greens that are reflected in a stream; "The Bridge at Vernon," as quiet and lovely in hue and composition as the shadow of a dream, and two brilliant studies of sea and shore, "The Beach, La Jolla," and "The Shore Line." In the first we see the ocean, blue behind strata of yellow-gray rocks and a sweep of sand superbly done; in the second the foreground banks are heaped up like jewels, the sea lies blue beyond them, and the sky is a light blue with many floating clouds. The rhythm is like that of a lyric in verse.

Poetry is also found in Charles Louis Turner's large canvas, "A Summer Fantasie," fairy figures dancing under the moon on the high banks of a vast and shimmering sea. The general tone is amber, shot with gold and green; the loose and spotted technique is finely fitted to the sought-for result. Mr. Turner contributes an excellent still-life study of grapes and a green jar, a shimmering "Spring Among the Klamaths," and two small sketches that are fresh and living in color, "Storm Passing at Evening" and "Noontide After Storm."

From Jean Mannheim comes a large and superbly-painted figure study, a girl in an evening gown of white that shows reflections from firelit grate and daylit window. This picture is flanked by four small sketches of the sea, and I must admit that, small as they are, I like them even better than I do the figure. The figure in "Reflection," as the picture is named, would gain in force and beauty, I think, if the big rectangular bar of orange drapery to the right were eliminated—there is enough orange in the piece of drapery lying on the couch to the left. Then the lovely greens would find their true value, and then the girl would take a perfect placement as the center of interest. The colors on her back and arm are beautiful.

The genuine spirit of the sea is found in each one of the little sketches, and it is rendered with a full and happy brush. The rocks are heavy and massive, though vibrating with color; the sea has movement and weight and quality; the mood is delightfully buoyant in each of them—in "The Breaking of the Waves," in "High Tide," in "Laguna Cliffs" and in "Evening Glow, Laguna."

I have shown—have I not?—that Pasadena is to be congratulated on its wealth.

Portraits in the Little.

My caption might even be "Portraits in the Round, the Oval and the Square," for all these pretty shapes were assumed by the pictures that the California Society of Miniature Painters exhibited at Exposition Park through the week just passed. The painters represented were not so numerous as at previous exhibitions of the society—there were only ten of them—but the standard was higher than ever before, and that is saying much for the general quality of the exhibition.

The jewel-like beauty of the miniature, the costliness of its setting, with the exquisite finish and the perfect fitness of each with the other, has made it a high-bred little aristocrat among paintings. It is, in truth, a very jewel, and as such it is often worn as brooches and buckles, and even as earrings.

A jewel, and yet a picture, for the best miniatures of today, as of yesterday, follow all the traditions of good painting, taking due cognizance of form and planes and values, with high ideals of composition and the highest of color. All these qualities of true painting were to be found in the miniatures exposed last week by the California society, and a few of them had them all at one and the same time.

The beauty of the seven miniatures from Ella S. Bush dwelt in form, color and feeling. How charming and naive was the little blond maid, like a small Ophelia, in "Balustion," and how dreamily thoughtful the red-haired girl, seen against a greenish background, in "A Princess in a Fairy Tale." Then we had "A Lady of Cranford," "A Kappa of Washington," and other lovely young women.

From Rosa Hooper came three that were beautifully drawn, though perhaps a trifle photographic in their accuracy and their negation color. "Doesn't Your Mama Wash Your Face?" showed us a little golden-haired, barelegged child on a lawn, talking to a grumpy bulldog. "Miss Ethel Smith" was a head of classic fineness. "Mrs. Werner" was like an old-fashioned daguerreotype, and was fuller in color than the others—stiff curls, prim flowered gown, gold buckle on pink sash.

Especially attractive, in the collection of five from Alice E. Ludovici, was the charming copy of a picture by Cosway, and the excellent "Portrait of Miss Ludovici," a notably good arrangement. Freda Ludovic gave us two knowing and delightfully-painted animals, "Prize Pekinese" and "Tabby," the cat with wistful eyes turned up toward some invisible and unattainable sparrow.

Fresh color in the modern way characterized the miniatures of Laura M. D. Mitchell, who is secretary and treasurer of the society, Alice E. Ludovici being its president, Rosa Hopper its vice-president. "Portrait Study" was a head as beautiful as one of Burne-Jones's lovely ladies of the golden stair, painted in tones of brown and gray. Fine, too, was "Dutch Peasant Woman," a figure in a green gown, red kerchief and blue sweater—Miss Mitchell is not afraid of the primaries, you observe. A good characterization of Mrs. Henrietta Housh was also shown.

Mabel Packard's work has strength and individuality as well as beauty. She exhibited some fine things, among them being "Mr. Sherman Willson," a distinguished-looking, gray-haired and gray-bearded man, the whole picture glowing like a plum, the background ruddy, the coat of the man holding a bluish bloom. Attractive, too, was the gray-haired woman, "Mrs. Ellwood Gatch," in purple and lace, the face strong and noble in expression, the planes handled with notable success, and "Mrs. J. E. Maurer," a well-poised head against a gray-green background, the sitter wearing a white satin gown relieved by yellow roses.

Mrs. P. V. Steketer showed a portrait in oils that had much b

IRISH PRISON CAMP.

Fiery Celtic Spirits Confined in a Town of North Wales.

[Manchester Guardian:] The Frongoch internment camp in north Wales, where many of the Irish prisoners are confined, has pushed into the public view a modest hamlet which was before quite hidden from the world. Frongoch rests (or did rest before it was disturbed) in the beautiful valley down which the River Tryweryn forces an impetuous and fretful course, impeded by many rocks, to the lake at Bala, where it helps to swell the waters of the Dee. Few people except the inhabitants of the district ever heard of it. The hamlet, however, even before the construction of the camp, had a limited celebrity by virtue of the fact, that it distilled a unique blend of whisky—neither Irish nor Scotch, but Welsh whisky. The making of whisky ceased at the beginning of the war, and it was no doubt the existence of the idle distillery buildings and their power plant that led to the selection of Frongoch as the site for an internment camp. It appeals to the imagination as a peaceful and untroubled corner of the world. But into it have been dumped and carefully concentrated within a barbed wire inclosure many troubled and turbulent feelings.

The camp was originally used as a place of internment for Germans, of whom as many as 1800 were there at one time. In those days nobody except the Home Office and a few military officers ever heard anything about it. But the Irish have a notorious aptitude for making their grievances audible. Since Irish prisoners have been interned at Frongoch their complaints have not only gone to the commandant, but they have leaked into the outer world and found utterance in Parliament and the press. Until recently Irish prisoners (whose number, originally about 1000, has been reduced to between 500 and 600) were kept in this camp. The floors of the granary had been made into huge dormitories, which were described by the prisoners as damp, ill-ventilated and infested with rats. That the dormitories were "stuffy," to use the word of a recently discharged prisoner, and that there were rats in them, does not seem open to doubt. But it would be unreasonable to expect ideal housing to be reached in an internment camp. Those who have the oversight of the physical welfare of the prisoners say that the conditions of the camp are not bad, judged by internment camp standards, and that the health of the men is satisfactory.

Most of the serious troubles in the camp may be traced to the one fundamental grievance of the prisoners—the feeling that they have been wrongfully interned and made to undergo these hardships without ever having had the chance of defending themselves in a trial. This feeling has aggravated and embittered their sufferings, and no doubt given color to their complaints. The effect of nursing this resentment through six months of confinement was frankly and boldly suggested by one of the accused men before the military court. He said: "There are men here who took part in the insurrection; there are men who did not; but most of them are pretty sympathetic by this time with the people who did." A prisoner who was released from the camp said that during his imprisonment, in reply to what, it must be confessed, was a leading question, that had he been a German captured in battle he should not have considered himself hardly used. He had been interned, he said, without trial, and the order for his release was communicated to him without any explanation.

Triumphant Unionist cheers then greeted their leader's victory.

This was the famous contest which by a decisive vote of 351 to 246 deprived the House of Lords of the power of vetoing the acts of Parliament. In a speech at the Primrose League afterwards Mr. Balfour said, "The new method of arranging the relations between the two houses, while it utterly destroyed the House of Lords as a second chamber, which had as its guardianship the fundamental basis of the Constitution, yet it was left with many of its other powers practically augmented. The government really desired, once and for all, that the majority of the House of Commons, however produced, would be the absolute master of the whole Constitution of the country, from the sovereign down to every essential element of which the Constitution consisted."

FRIEND OF AMERICA.

Mr. Balfour has always been friendly to America and the Americans. He has frequently extended graceful hospitality in London to leading men of this country. It is related that while he was in charge of the Foreign Office during the Spanish war of 1898, France and Austria attempted to form a European coalition against the United States, in which some other powers of Europe stood ready to join, if Great Britain would also become a member of the league. Mr. Balfour without hesitation not only declined the offer, but on the contrary let it be known that in case of hostile action on the part of any European nations, Great Britain would be found supporting the cause of the United States. That ended the attempt to form a coalition.

Mr. Balfour's sympathetic attitude toward labor was shown in an address before the Co-Partnership Association in 1908. "We lose a great deal," he said, "by talking as if the labor of the man whose life is devoted to labor is in itself an evil, but that it becomes tolerable because he is paid for his labor. I do not say that labor is pleasurable in itself, but I do emphatically say that unless the work we do in life can be inherently interesting, we have not yet got at the root of any social problem. The art of life is to make uninteresting parts into an interesting whole. No man's work is in itself—take it bit by bit—of an exhilarating character. The uninteresting parts do make an interesting whole, and I am convinced that many people who do not know it themselves, really get most of their satisfaction in life, not from their pleasures, but from their labors." From these premises he argued that "the co-operative system would increase man's interest in his work. That is the valuable result of going deeper than the balance sheet or a conflict between capital and labor. . . . It would be a guarantee of social peace and the great hope of social reform."

HIS PREVISION.

In a speech at a great Unionist meeting in January, 1910, he used these prophetic words: "We are told by those who sneer at these alarms, by those who look back with ill-concealed displeasure upon the additions which the Unionist government made to our fleet fourteen years ago, upon the additions which we wish to make to our fleet—we are told by this class of critics, some of them in very high stations, that all such talk as this gives needless irritation with a great and friendly power. I am a great admirer of Germany. I think the world owes a great debt to Germany for her labors in scientific research, for her marvelous organization. I think we have to learn from her in many departments, but there is one department among others from which I wish every citizen in this country would learn, and that is to face facts. (Cheers.) I am not a pessimist about the future, about the naval future, if the country rises to a sense of its obligations and its necessities. Go about at this moment and consult the statesmen and diplomatists of the lesser powers, and you will find among them a unanimity of opinion that a struggle sooner or later between this country and Germany is inevitable. They have watched with the closest interest that, to foreigners, most mysterious thing, English public opinion, and they have come to the conclusion, I believe wrongly, that we are not alive to the sense of our responsibilities and that nothing can stir us to a recognition of our position, and that, therefore, we are predestined to succumb in some great contest, the occasion for which nobody can foresee, to a country which does face facts, which is alive to its responsibility, and which talks little and does much. While I give a note of warning of our foreign critics, let me say to my own friends, that unless they bestir themselves Great Britain will be in a position of peril which it has not known in the memory of their fathers or grandfathers. Please remember, the only way in which you can secure the peace which you all desire is that you shall be sure of victory if war takes place."

This is a lesson that Americans are now taking to heart.

SARCASTIC REPLY.

In July, 1915, while First Lord of the Admiralty, Mr. Balfour addressed a letter to the New York World, replying to certain criticisms. The missive is a fine specimen of sarcasm. "It is," he says, "no purpose of mine to belittle the courage or the skill of the sailors composing the German fleet. I doubt not they have done all that was possible in the honorable warfare to which doubtless they were inclined, and in the dishonorable warfare required of them by their superiors. But what, in this, the first year of the war, have they accomplished by either method? He tells us that we—the British—have failed to induce the German fleet to come out and fight us, and certainly we have. So far, the German fleet have thought it wise to avoid engaging a superior force, and I am the last person to blame them."

Following is from Mr. Balfour's interview with the American press about a year ago: "The phrase 'Freedom of the Seas' is naturally attractive to British and American ears. For the extension of freedom into all departments of life and over the whole world has been one of the chief aspirations of the English-speaking peoples, and efforts toward that end have formed no small part of their contribution to civilization. About the freedom of the seas in one sense we are all agreed. England and Holland fought for it in times gone by. To their success the United States may be said to owe its very existence. For if, 300 years ago, the maritime claims of Spain and Portugal had been admitted, whatever else North America might have been, it would not have been English-speaking. It neither would have employed the language nor obeyed the laws nor enjoyed the institutions which, in the last analysis, are of British origin."

PERSONAL TRIBUTE.

Says one writer, "Mr. Balfour's resignation from the leadership of the Conservative party in England, will have the effect of removing an irreproachable figure from the stage of public life. Mr. Balfour belongs to the nearly extinct race of statesmen who kept themselves immaculate from all the grosser aspects of their profession. In the most heated controversy he was always a thinker and a philosopher, and bore himself with a dignity that never failed because it was a part of his nature."

Another writer's estimate: "Mr. Balfour is a consummate politician, a master of party management, a born leader. In November, 1911, he announced his retirement from the leadership of the opposition—the Unionist party. He possesses gifts which, if ordinarily irreconcilable and rarely combined in one personality, are invaluable in a modern legislative assembly. Where a leader combines a broad philosophical outlook with subtle analytical gifts, and has the inconvenient gift of seeing round corners, his leadership will often become embarrassing to his opponents."

The Scottish home of Mr. Balfour is Whittingham, a parish of more than 15,000 acres, about four miles from the sea. The estate was bought early in the nineteenth century by the grandfather of Mr. Balfour, who entered a great mercantile house in India and returned as a nabob with more than 1,000,000 sterling. A large mansion of brown sandstone stands on a fine terrace commanding attractive views towards the sea. A yew tree of wondrous girth and centuries old guards the keep of Whittingham Castle.

THE "TANKS" OF CYRUS.

The On-coming Chariots Were Stopped by a Frizette of Poles.

[L'Illustrazione della Guerra:] Apropos of the armored automobile of the British, the Figaro of Paris remarks that the first model of this kind of war automobile is found illustrated in the bas reliefs of Khorsala and Nineveh; armed chariots used by the days of Agamemnon, and which were introduced by Cyrus in the armies of the Persians. Having at hand no gasoline, Cyrus had his chariots or his cars drawn by horses. Sylla at the battle of Cheronea found means of defense against those armed chariots which for centuries had spread terror on battlefields. He armed his soldiers of the second line with poles divided into four sharpened points. These poles were planted on the ground on the advance of the armored chariots launched in an assualt by Archilaus, Mithridates's commander. The first line of the Romans retired in the rear of this barrier against which the armed chariots in their impetuous assault were broken to pieces. Suddenly the light forces of Sylla hurled themselves forward; they surrounded the armed chariots, covering them with a cloud of arrows and a shower of stones. Few of these chariots could escape, amidst the cries of mockery of the Roman soldiers. "Polye," the writer of this article in the Figaro, says that in this third year of the war Hindenburg is not worth a Sylla, nor could the armies of the Teutons rival the Roman legions.

Alphabetic Advantage.

[Washington Star:] "Who was the first man?" asked the teacher.

"Adam," answered the member of Congress who had just answered the roll call. "Or maybe he got the advantage of being mentioned first simply because his name began with the letter A."

HARRIET MONROE LISTS POETS WHO CAN SAY "SHIBBOLETH."

Editors of "Poetry: A Magazine of Verse" Rudely Jostle the Elder Demigods to Make Room for the Modern Striplings—An Anthology that Presents Much that is Best for All that has Been Written in Recent Years—Neoteric Efforts and Purpose Defined.

THE NEW POETRY: An Anthology. Edited by Harriet Monroe and Alice Corbin Henderson. The Macmillan Company, New York.

HARRIET MONROE and Alice Corbin Henderson, two Amazons of Gilead, have stood at the passages of Jordan and challenged the Ephramites to say "Shibboleth," and they have slain forty and two thousand impostors—sending them to obscuration, which, being interpreted, is perdition for a poet. But the three and one hundred that answered promptly and nimbly with their syllables have been exalted to the table of contents in "The New Poetry: An Anthology."

If there is one on earth, and we doubt it, qualified to say who is who and why among the new poets, then that one is certainly Miss Harriet Monroe. A bit of history: Some years ago Miss Monroe was an art critic in Chicago, and it occurred to her that, whereas every fellow who could make a colorful daub on canvas had a place to show his work, a gallery for transient exhibition, yet the poets, unless rigidly conventional and Victorian in propriety, could not find magazine or publisher venturesome enough to put money into poesy. She conceived a monthly gallery for poetry, of all kinds of poetry, a magazine where each son of the Muse could display his wares and get a bit of real money for the same. Poetry: A Magazine of Verse was founded at Chicago, but not with a magical flourish of a wand. No. Subsidies had to be pried from incredulous patrons; private lectures on the duty of Maecenas to Horace vaguely-disturbed, portly gentlemen in their counting-houses, and wily speculators had to be convinced that there was, actually was, a reason why they should invest a few shekels in a proposition that couldn't possibly pay dividends and would probably never be self-supporting. So the existence of Poetry: A Magazine of Verse was guaranteed for five years, and Miss Monroe became the editor.

"New" poetry was unknown in this country. A few Englishmen were rather fearfully experimenting with something they had discovered in France; but Amy Lowell was still counting her poetic feet and putting bells on their toes; Robert Frost was wondering if he were a poet and was secretly trying to discover; Edgar Lee Masters had written some of those eclogues and lullabies that had fallen flat in a first edition and which were later to pad neoteric songs and satires; Nicholas Vachel Lindsay was tramping around the country exchanging his own poems in handbill form for bread and proving to himself that poetry should be shouted instead of sing-songed.

Miss Monroe began publishing things that didn't sound like poetry. Out of the shadows came thousands of poets, some of them so amazed that they did not have to watch scansion, to write love poetry, or even rhyme, that they grew giddy from "licentia vatum"—the headiest of wines—and soon declared Miss Monroe to be an old conservative, and founded magazines and groups and cults of their own.

The renascence of poetry in the United States may properly be dated from October, 1912. It undoubtedly would have come if Poetry: A Magazine of Verse had never been founded, because the Magazine of Verse did not create the urge, but did more than any other factor in the country to give expression to that urge. And Miss Monroe, assisted by Mrs. Henderson, has had a perpetual fight on her hands, both with the conservatives and with the radicals. She is a sweet and gentle woman if people will only not jibe at her poets, but sneer at her favorite saint, Mr. Ezra Pound of Idaho, later of London, who has never gotten over the ecstasy of his discovery that a Greek dictionary if injudiciously used will give one an appearance of great learning, or at Carl Sandburg, who is gloomy as a graveyard on a wet night, or at H. D. or F. S. Flint, or John Gould Fletcher, who she honestly believes know of what they are writing, and lo! Miss Monroe will prove herself a veritable maid of Gilead, and her balm will heal the wounds of her poets and her sword will stain Jordan with crimson.

Her success lies in her catholicity. Though she has rigorously excluded thousands of poets, yet the anthology is a gallery wherein is displayed every form of new verse, and some forms that are not new. During the past few years many anthologies have been issued, some, as those by the precocious Mr. Braithwaite, being nothing more than year-books and intended as nothing more; the others have been designed as something of a curriculum for various "schools." This anthology presents much that is the best of all that has been written in recent years by the poets. True, Cale Young Rice is missing, and should not be if Percy MacKaye is to be mentioned—though he is barely more than mentioned. Thomas Hardy is crowded into three pages that Wilfred Wilson Gibson may have six—veritably, the demigods of one age, if they live long, will be rudely jostled by the striplings of the next. John G. Neihardt, true to the traditions of yesteryear, has two pages, and Edgar Lee Masters, who has forsaken the tinkling lines, has fourteen.

Miss Monroe's and Mrs. Henderson's anthology faces the rising sun. The hopefulness of the great rewards that absolute freedom in prosody shall bring has already been to some extent fulfilled. Amy Lowell's "Patterns," Carl Sandburg's "Chicago," Vachel Lindsay's "Congo," D. H. Lawrence's "A Woman to Her Dead Husband," Eunice Tietjens's "Bacchante to Her Babe," Miss Monroe's "The Turbine" and many others are precious works, each different in style, each strange to the old forms (though some of them are not strange to what the editors have felicitously called "the elder oldest,") but each has the big idea, the dramatic intensity, the sweep and swirl of words that make poetry, no matter what the rules or who the arbiters.

The editors ably defend their position and that of their poets in their introduction: The new form "implies no disrespect for tradition. The poets of today do not discard tradition because they follow the speech of today rather than that of Shakespeare's time, or strive for organic rhythm rather than use a mold which has been perfected by others. On the contrary, they follow the great tradition when they seek a vehicle suited to their own epoch and their own creative mood, and resolutely reject all others. Great poetry has always been written in the language of contemporary speech, and its theme, even when legendary, has always borne a direct relation with contemporary thought, contemporary, imaginative and spiritual life. It is this direct relation which the more progressive modern poets are trying to restore. In this effort they discard not only archaic diction, but the shop-worn subjects of past history or legend, which have been through the centuries a treasure-trove for the second-rate."

But as yet, for the most part, it is scarcely more than an effort, and it is not too much to say that the best of the new is undoubtedly that which has the "organic rhythm" and much the mannerism of the old.

"GOLDEN ARROW" STRONG NOVEL.

Hitherto-unknown Author Leaves Deep Footprint on Current Fiction—Many Other New Books, Including a Potboiler by Kathleen Norris and Amusing Story Called "Too Much Efficiency."

"The Golden Arrow."

Mary Webb, whoever she may be, has left a deep footprint upon the sands and it will take several rolling waves of fiction to obliterate entirely the influence of "The Golden Arrow" (E. P. Dutton & Co.) It is a novel that cannot be raced through, a novel of subtle strength, a grim book, elemental and sustained, almost heavy with the atmosphere of England's rough uplands; and the characters, unfamiliar as their dialect is to western ears, unknown, unsuspected as are their lives and manners, yet touched by the creative pen of this hitherto-obscure author they walk and shuffle along their course, are swayed and broken by passion and become as men and women known intimately and not soon to be forgotten.

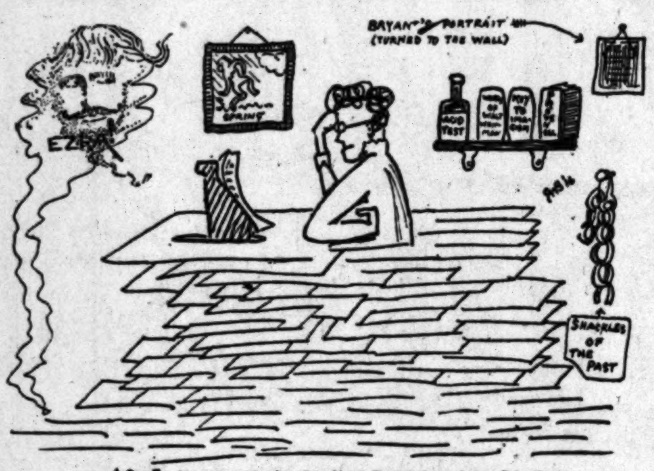
The title, "The Golden Arrow," may mean anything. It is merely a name to mark a book of, odd as the phrase sounds, stern fantasy—a book of elemental strength written with idealistic grace, with the poet's discrimination.

"The Golden Arrow" begins: "John Arden's stone cottage stood in the midst of the hill plateau, higher than the streams began, shelterless to the four winds. While washing dishes Deborah could see, through the small, age-misted pane, counties and blue ranges lying beneath the transparent or hazy air in the bright, unfading beauty of inviolate nature. She would gaze out between the low window-frame and the lank geraniums, forgetting the half-dried china, when gray rainstorms raced across from Cader Idris, ignoring in their majestic progress the humble, variegated plans of grass and grain, breaking like a tide on the unyielding heather and the stanch cottages."

Then into the remote uplands Stephen Southernwood comes, a man of education and some experience in the world, and he loves Deborah. She is selfless, devoted, religious, but is overborne in her love for him and accepts reluctantly his philosophical scruples against marriage, though he later discards these scruples and marries her. Yet eventually he leaves her—then returns, contrite, aching with heart hungriness.

That is the plot, and of no consequence considered apart from the tremendous motif running through the story. A motif it is that may not be defined adequately in a phrase or paragraph. Stephen is a man of some cultural attainments, but shut in on every side by the wild, shaggy crags and primeval hills, with the awful Devil Chair lifted against the sky, the elemental superstitions, the fears and hatred of nature's menace and imperturbability, stir him to unsuspected depths. Once he tries to blow up the Devil Chair which, as the phrase goes, gets on his nerves. "He clambered up the rock and chose a crevice for the cartridge at a point which he judged to be the extreme end of one of the arms seen from a distance. He packed in the charge and tamped it with powdered soil and small stones. His height was dwarfed by the rocks, so that he moved under the dark clouds like an ant on the face of the mountain, and the rocks stood up in ironical massiveness. He clambered down some way and lit a match. 'Now we'll see if you're everlasting!' he said, and, stretching up, lit the fuse and ran over the rocks. . . . From the hilltop where they had been wheeling and alighting since the explosion, a covey of grouse rose with their mocking, staccato laugh. . . . The Chair stood exactly as it had always done. He could not detect even a nick in it at a distance. When he went later to investigate he found that, although he had dislodged quite as much rock as he could expect, he had made little more difference in its appearance than a woodpecker makes to the tree on which it hammers."

There are not many characters in the novel, but each is distinctive: Lily, the eternal feminine with the tortuous mind and duplicity, and Joe, blind to her flaws, loving her blindly, make a subsidiary story in "The Golden Arrow;" and of less importance, but not uninteresting, are the curious old people, eccentric, warped and twisted by the unsocial long years amid the wilds.



AS I IMAGINE MISS HARRIET MONROE EDITING "POETRY"

From "The Masque of Poets,"

By William Rose Benet, in the April Bookman.

"Marshdikes."

Helen Ashton's "Marshdikes" (Brentano's) depends almost wholly on character work and repartee—very good character work with subtle action and reaction, and sharp, clever, but not facetious conversation, with all the persons in the story clean, upstanding characters, give the book unusual attractiveness. Francis Harland visits Celia and Michael Dittany at the English estate of Marshdikes, and is perilously on the verge of love with Celia, but his respect and admiration for both her and her husband keep him sane, and at Celia's urgency he becomes engaged to Letty Underhill, a serious, young maiden who loves him, or thinks she does, very much. But the engagement is broken to the satisfaction of all parties and, though no character stoops, a contenting, though not a "happy," readjustment is made. Michael is a fine character, kind, gentle, yet burning with energy, manfully brave and joyous, though death stands poised with the fatal dart aimed at his heart.

"The Phoenix."

Constance M. Warren's "The Phoenix" (Houghton Mifflin Company) is the elaborate and unemotional story of a young wife's temptation. The story is spread over a lot of characters, filled with a lot of conversation, picks up and drops a lot of incidents, and the plot has a hard time to get any place in particular, but terminates in a theatric regeneration for Janet, who finds on his deathbed the young idealist whom she jilted years before.

Janet throws over Donald and marries Slade, a wealthy diplomat, a dilettante millionaire of Boston. Having nothing in particular to do, she concerns herself with charity work and encounters the unregenerate Agnes Price, who has been turned out of the lap of charity because she is not sorry enough for her sins, and Janet gets herself into trouble with the consciously-good people for trying to help the girl. But soon Janet has troubles of her own, for her cultured husband is paying court to a lady of beauty, and, though she is not sure that he is technically guilty, she does not exert herself to repel the ardent Herman Duer, who presses attention upon her. Then it is that the jilted idealist, after a lapse of many years, reappears in the story, and Janet becomes a spiritual phoenix.

"The Undertow."

Every other novel by Kathleen Norris is a pot-boiler. Look over the list: "The Heart of Rachel," "The Story of Julia Page" and "Saturday's Girl" are full-bodied books, written with obvious care, and show that the author meant to do her best, anyway. Sandwiched in between the publication of those appeared "The Treasurer," "The Rich Mrs. Burgoyne," "Poor, Dear Margaret Kirby," and now "The Undertow"—slender books, but leaded and in large type to give the appearance of bulk, sloppily-dashed-off books, belonging entirely to another class than those first mentioned.

"The Undertow" (Doubleday, Page & Co.) tells of Bert and Nancy, who marry on a small income and save money. They are happy and contented, measuring their small income to fit bills; but prosperity comes and they are carried into tangoes and teas, mix in society, have less time for each other and for their children. But their house burns, and the fire illuminates the situation, so they get a new perspective on the conditions into which they have been drawn by prosperity and resolve to give more time to the simpler, sweeter things of life.

The book was published serially as "Holly Court."

"If Wishes Were Horses."

It is a fearful thing to have one's soul, with all its petty meanness, its big pretenses and sneaking weaknesses, spread on paper, and the soul of Martin Leffley is something even a hardened gentleman like the devil would wish to handle with tongs. The Countess Barcynska hated Leffley with all the fierce, Machievellian hatred of which a woman novelist is capable; so she wrote his story and called it "If Wishes Were Horses" (E. P. Dutton & Co.)

Leffley is an Englishman, and is called a self-made man because he gets into Parliament and makes a fair success of money. The author permits him to appear to succeed—then crushes him. For, after all, it was his wife, and not himself, that helped him upward. But Leffley is a conceited bigot, the seducer of house servants, a man who turns his fine son out of the home and who would let an influential rake have his daughter—a thoroughly contemptible hound, indeed.

And the effect that the Countess Barcynska has intended to make rather falls flat. She is too prejudiced against him, she allows him no glimmering of manhood, but gloats on his weaknesses, foolishness and cowardice, until one is inclined to feel that she has personified her antipathies and called it Martin Leffley. Certainly this creature is too utterly contemptible in every respect to be flesh and blood.

"Too Much Efficiency."

E. J. Rath has built a thoroughly amusing book on a unique idea, and has supplied comedy with the character of H. Hedges, E.E., who is a serious-minded young efficiency expert.

Having reorganized the business of Mr. Brooke and effected an annual saving of some $200,000, H. Hedges, E.E., is detailed by Mr. Brooke to assume charge of his household and introduce efficiency into domestic affairs. Mr. Brooke goes away on a trip and leaves the young man to put his ideas into effect.

The household includes three children—Constance, of an interesting age, and who eventually becomes decidedly interesting to the imperturbable H. Hedges, E.E.; Billy, a youth of years enough to feel that he is his own boss, and Alice, a shrewd maid of 15. Hedges begins by showing the butler how to save steps in waiting table; he puts all manner of restrictions on the children and is inexorable in his requirement of itemized statements for expenditures; permits a party to be given, but does not allow musicians; prevents the elopement of Constance with a young man whom she does not like anyway, and keeps a diary which is discovered by Constance, who is furiously indignant to see the comments made upon herself. But H. Hedges, E.E., finally runs amuck, forgets efficiency and becomes a fast-traveling, high-spending "good fellow."

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

George Kennan on Russia.

George Kennan, who for more than thirty years has been writing of Russia and promoting Russian democracy, spoke last week at the celebration given at Carnegie Hall in New York by the Society of Friends of Russian Freedom. His speech covered the ground of the struggles and sufferings of the Russian revolutionists, men and women, for more than 100 years. He told how during the Russo-Japanese War the gospel of the Russian revolutionists had been spread among 50,000 Russian officers and men in Japanese prison camps. "And," said Mr. Kennan, "we know how the army helped the Duma in the bloodless revolution that made the new Russia last week." Few men are so well qualified as Mr. Kennan to speak with authority on the Russian situation. It was in 1879, when to the average American Siberia was a terra incognita, that he first resolved to make a careful study of the exile system. In 1891 the Century Company published the result of those studies, two volumes entitled "Siberia and the Exile System." In his preface he wrote: "For Russia and the Russian people I have the warmest affection and sympathy, and if . . . I can make the country and the nation better known to the world, and ameliorate, even a little, the lot of unfortunates to whom 'God is high and the Czar is far away,' I shall be more than repaid for the hardest journey and the most trying experience of my life." This book still remains the most authoritative account of Siberia ever written. Two years ago "A Russian Comedy of Errors" appeared from Mr. Kennan's pen, based upon the interesting adventures and strange stories of police espionage of which he had heard and had himself encountered.

George Kennan probably knows more political exiles than any other man in America, and his home, for many years, has been a meeting ground for those "underground" travelers escaping from autocratic tyranny.

The New Jack London Book.

Jack London's first big success was a dog story, "The Call of the Wild." Many people today would probably vote it his greatest work if they were asked to make a selection from his long list of writings. This fact gives special interest to the announcement of "Jerry of the Islands," which was published April 25, for here once more Mr. London writes of a dog. The theme in no way resembles the earlier masterpiece and yet it brings out, as did that volume, all of Mr. London's love for animals and his understanding of them. Never was a dog more lovable, more courageous and resourceful than the Irish terrier, Jerry. Never has a dog had a more adventurous, colorful life. Half-human as he seems, Jerry is still every inch a dog.

"Out West Magazine."

The Out West for April appears with a colonial maiden holding an American flag on her arm, drawn in color by M. Ray Harrison. Among the feature articles is the illustrated "Coming Back of Mabel Normand," "Rings on Her Fingers" by Legare George, "Southern California as a Summer Resort" by D. M. Linnard, and "The Music of the West" by Thomas Askin. As usual, a feature is made of poetry, and fiction is well represented by Carl Clausen, Thomas J. Davis and Georgia Lane.

The President's Message.

"A document that will live forever in history," was the general comment on President Wilson's address before Congress calling upon that legislative body to take up the sword of justice in order that the world "may be made safe for democracy." And not twenty-four hours after the speech was made, Doubleday, Page & Co. had it in type and were preparing the announcement of an edition of this message in permanent form so that every American may keep by him this ringing statement of fundamental Americanism. The President's message is now ready for distribution.

Gustav Kobbe.

Gustav Kobbe, author of "All-of-a-Sudden Carmen," which will appear in April under the Putnam imprint, was born in New York City in 1857. His father was Consul-General, with diplomatic functions, from the old Duchy of Nassau. As a boy Kobbe saw Lincoln's funeral procession pass through New York, his father, as the representative of a foreign government, being in the cortege.

Kobbe's mother came of a New London family, descended from a Spanish sea captain, who early in the eighteenth century, his vessel having been wrecked on the Race rock, settled and married in the Connecticut town. From this ancestor he inherited, besides his innate love for music, drama and art, a passion for the sea. As a result, about the same time his book on the Wagner music-dramas was brought out, the Century Magazine was printing his "Life on the South Shoals Lightship" and "Life on a Lighthouse," two vigorous and picturesque articles.

Besides his books on music and the novel, "All-of-a-Sudden Carmen," he is the author of "Modern Women," a series of biting stories on certain feminine types of today; a novel by him on the theme of mistaken identity is shortly to run in one of the magazines, and for many years he has contributed a Sunday page on art to one of the large New York newspapers. He also represented a New York newspaper at the first performance of "Parsifal" at Bayreuth. He has now in course of preparation, for issue under the Putnam imprint in the fall, a comprehensive "Guide to the Opera."

For six years he lived in Europe. He is a graduate of Columbia College and of the Columbia Law School.

A Monument to John Hay.

China is preparing to honor the memory of John Hay, founder of the policy of the "open door," as no other foreigner, living or dead, ever has been honored in China. Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, the Chinese Minister to the United States, now in Washington, has been advised by one of the leaders of the Chinese Senate that a bill has been introduced in Parliament and was virtually assured of passage for the erection of a monument to the former American Secretary of State in the central park of Peking. "By what was one of the most adroit strokes of modern diplomacy, Hay thus accustomed the world to accept the open door as the only decent policy for it to adopt toward China," says William Roscoe Thayer in "The Life and Letters of John Hay" (Houghton Mifflin Company,) one of the most successful biographies of recent years. "Not one of the governments concerned wished to agree to it; each saw more profit to itself in exploiting what it had already secured and in joining in the scramble for more, but not one of them, after Hay had declared for the open door, dared openly to oppose the doctrine. It was as if, in a meeting, he had asked all those who believed in telling the truth to stand up—the liars would not have kept their seats."

"Aviator and Weather Bureau."

In these days of action it seems especially desirable that practical, authoritative information should be conveyed as briefly and directly as possible.

"The Aviator and the Weather Bureau," by Ford A. Carpenter, meteorologist, in charge of the Los Angeles Weather Bureau, constitutes what might be called an ideal form of a practical manual up to date.

In the thirty-two pages of text every sentence is pregnant with scientific and logical advice, expressed in everyday language, confirmed and visualized by twenty-four illustrations which illuminate valuable text.

The Signal Corps aviation school at San Diego, applied meteorology for the aviator, weather observations from an airplane and investigating the upper air are clearly and fully treated from the point of view of the practical aviator.

Dr. Carpenter has brought in the timely publication of his manual the resources of his office and over two decades of experience as weather forecaster in San Diego and Los Angeles, preceded by service in the United States Signal Corps and personal experimenting aeronautics.

Our fleet of aircraft, as well as students of air flight, could not wish for a more valuable and suitable manual of safe guidance among the clouds of Southern California.

Isaac F. Marcosson.

Isaac F. Marcosson, whose new book, "The War After the War," has just been published, has returned to London after spending two weeks at the British front in France as the guest of Field Marshall Sir Douglas Haig, commander-in-chief of the British army on the western front. He also visited the Belgian and French armies. Mr. Marcosson has had opportunities to view fighting at close range such as no other civilian perhaps has been granted. Upon his return to London he was the guest of honor of the American Luncheon Club at the largest and most distinguished gathering in its history. It included members of the Cabinet, and other branches of the government, diplomats, captains of industry and a large representation from the literary world. He was introduced by Lord Northcliffe as "America's supreme and most brilliant authority on business."

Cyclopedia Reprinting.

Almost coincident with the publication of the final volume of The Cyclopedia of Horticulture comes the announcement of the reprinting of the entire series. Apparently "The Cyclopedia" is sharing in the popularity of those books which seek to solve the high cost of living problem by inspiring the reader to the cultivation of the soil. Certain it is that if one would have the most accurate and complete reference work in the horticultural field, a work beautifully illustrated, to which over 500 collaborators have contributed and which gives the sort of practical advice most needed—that work is The Cyclopedia of Horticulture. The second edition contains many minor corrections in all of the volumes.

How to Grow the Potato.

Probably more people will grow potatoes—or try to grow potatoes—this summer than ever before in the history of the country. A book has just been published which tells us just how to do it—"The Potato," by Arthur W. Gilbert, Mortier F. Barrus and Daniel Dean. These three men combine about all that is known both from the practical and theoretical standpoint about potato growing. Dr. Gilbert was formerly teacher of farm crops and director of the agricultural extension work at the University of Maine. Dr. Barrus is an authority on potato diseases and is so known throughout the country. Mr. Dean is a successful commercial grower. The chapters that they offer will be of distinct service to the beginner in this branch of farming and will prove helpful to the more experienced grower as well.

Germans and New York.

The following quotation from "The Pan-German Plot Unmasked," a book by Andre Cheradame, recently published by the Scribners, has a certain timely interest:

"In 1898, before Manila, the German Rear-Admiral Von Gotezen, a friend of the Kaiser, said to the American Admiral Dewey: 'In about fifteen years my country will begin a great war. . . . Some months after we have done our business in Europe we shall take New York and probably Washington and we shall keep them for a time. We do not intend to take any territory from you, but only to put your country in its proper place with reference to Germany. We shall extract one or two billions of dollars from New York and other towns.'"

CIVIL WAR DAYS.

WHAT HAPPENED TO ME. By La Salle Corbell Pickett. Brentano's, New York.

Mrs. Pickett became engaged to George E. Pickett when she was a child with the whooping cough and he was a young but veteran officer back from Mexico. She was then a little girl—a very, very youthful maiden, indeed—and one day spied her "soldier," whom she had admired from a distance, alone on the beach under a large umbrella. She crept up and anxiously asked if he, too, had the whooping cough, because he, too, was isolated from other people and much alone. She found it was sorrow that made him lonely, and she, scarcely more than an infant, then and there promised to comfort him and be his little girl, and also his wife just as soon as she was grown.

"He took a ring from his guard chain," Mrs. Pickett writes, "and put it on my finger and gave me a tiny gold heart inscribed with 'Sally,' which had been the name of one of his loved ones, and I crept out from under the umbrella pledged to Lieut. George E. Pickett of the United States Army. . . . I still have the ring and the heart, and am indebted for this reminiscence to the little red memorandum book which he gave me years after, when he was Gen. George E. Pickett of the Confederate Army"—and soon to be the hero of a famous charge.

It was years, many years later that she kept her promise, and then she was literally smuggled through the lines and her wedding took place in camp.

These reminiscences cover a period extending from Mrs. Pickett's childhood to the death of her husband, and give vivid pictures of the "old South," of what the South endured in the war; and she relates graphically various incidents, describing the escape of her family to Canada, the return to the States, the visit with President and Mrs. Grant at the White House, and the re-establishment of the old home in Virginia. It may well be called "a charming book of memories of a regime which has passed away, which few are living to recall."

CRABB'S SYNONYMS.

CRABB'S ENGLISH SYNONYMS. By George Crabb. Harper & Bros., New York.

A hundred and one years ago an Englishman by the name of George Crabb, aged 38, published a book of synonyms in which he differentiated the meanings of words more or less carelessly used as equinyms. As the English language is filled with words having their roots obscured and remote in dialects, in dead and modern languages—roots running through strata of buried lore and entwined about the debris of ruined civilizations—he had no small task in searching out the taproot to substantiate the distinctions he marked for respective group words.

But for a century his book has stood pre-eminent, alone, authoritative, counseling the speakers of English wherever they went—and they are always going out to the far places and bringing back new words to bejewel the dictionaries—and no book has arisen to challenge seriously in its particular field "Crabb's Synonyms."

So, by way of celebrating their own centennial, Harper & Bros. have issued an edition "revised and enlarged by the addition of modern terms and definitions arranged alphabetically with complete cross references throughout," to which John H. Finley, Commissioner of Education in New York State, has written the introduction.

It is an excellent edition, worthy of more study than it will ever get, but an elimination against which some, at least on nodding terms with the elder edition, may protest is found in the conspicuous absence of quotations which Crabb included to illustrate the definitions made. True enough, they were often serious-minded quotations, pointing a moral, and this finicky generation, woefully in need of having some morals pointed to it, is averse to being patted on the head with platitudes or having attention grappled by maxims, though they be culled from classic writ.

But a feature of the book that shall not, as is done in most cases, be passed over in silence is the price. A soundly-printed volume it is, not at all ungainly in size—convenient, in fact, scarcely more than two and a half inches in thickness, yet with 768 pages, and offered in this day, with paper so high that flimsy, padded novels are climbing to a price not at all in keeping with their value, at $1.25 net.

PRUSSIAN.

THE SOUL OF GERMANY. By Thomas F. A. Smith. George H. Doran Company, New York.

"The Soul of Germany" first appeared some two years ago, but it was too severe, too specific and too explicit for Americans to credit or view welcomingly the analysis of a soul so perfidious and brutal as the German government has since revealed to an appalled world.

Prof. Smith was formerly on the staff of the University of Erlangen, Bavaria, and he has written what he thinks of the German people. Even now it seems too broad a condemnation, too heated, too much the expression of a personal aversion to a people among whom he spent an incomprehensible number of years for one who so adjectively loaths them. But history records that Prof. Smith has been to a great extent accurate in his analysis, yet that the analysis is not soberly made—it is hectic, inflammatory, and not a credit to either the author or to those that admire it.

SOCIALIST PEACE MOVES MAGNIFIED.

MORE NOISE THAN MEANING IN CLATTER FROM EUROPE.

New Russian Government is in Hands of Men of World Repute, While Berlin Uses Reported Conference of Nonentities to Cloud Public Opinion.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ALTA LOMA, April 28.—For the last few weeks frantic efforts have been made to magnify the Socialistic peace moves in Europe. It is a well-established fact that all extreme parties or even faction of such parties possess a wonderful ability to make noise in this world—and the more preposterous and even absurd their pretensions the more attention they attract. It is this ability to make noise that keeps them alive, no matter how small in numbers and how insignificant in influence they really are.

Thus some tools in the unscrupulous hands of Bethmann-Hollweg, disguised as extreme German Socialists, meet or are said to have met in Copenhagen, or Stockholm, or elsewhere in some neutral country, some extreme Russian Socialists—persons utterly unknown in their respective countries, and, pretending to represent unknown bodies; and this obviously prearranged and mysterious meeting occupies the first pages of the newspapers of the world for a week or more!

The Kaiser and extreme Socialists, read out of their own party, which is officially pledged to the German imperial government, as co-workers and conspirators! Is it not absurd on its surface? Is it not obvious that it is only another nefarious scheme to mislead the public opinion of the world, to discredit Russia, to disrupt the Entente, to create hestitation and doubts in our own country?

Let us reason a little for ourselves. What are the facts?

On one side we see the strongest (or supposedly the strongest) autocracy in the world overturned in a week, without much trouble and with very little bloodshed; a provisional government established, accepted by the country and its army and navy, and officially recognized by our own government, which is exceedingly well informed upon the real condition of things in Petrograd and Russia in general, through several consecutive and concrete reports of its Ambassador there. Mr. Francis certainly proved to be the right man in the right place, an able observer, a true servant of his country. There is no evidence whatever that these reports are disputed from any quarter; on the contrary, the press of all neutral countries confirms them in toto. This provisional government, containing such men of world-wide reputation as President of the Duma Rodzianko, President of the Ministry Prince Lvov, Mr. Milukof, Dr. Shingarev and others, is evidently wideawake, has already declared a broad, practical, progressive platform, and decreed many reforms of the greatest importance, and is firmly promulgating them in a dignified, wise, businesslike manner. Autocracy left the country prostrated, the treasury empty, all departments of the government demoralized and disorganized, the people hungry because of treason, causing the breakdown of the transportation system, and because of lack of any foresight.

Russia contains over 8,000,000 square miles and 180,000,000 of people, and besides attending to the truly Herculean task of bringing order into the above chaos, at this moment defends alone a war front in Europe and Asia over 2000 miles long against all the four nations of the Central European union. She has about 6,000,000 men on the front, and practically all the European part of its as yet impassable because of the spring this year being so late. This new government, in the midst of its enormous work, has repeatedly assured its allies and the world of its determination to continue the war until complete victory is achieved. Every Zemstvo and every city, every civic organization and every paper—in fact, the whole Russian press is today unanimous—declared the same. There is absolutely no evidence of any kind, reliable or unreliable, against this determination of a great nation, of its government and the people.

On the other side there are only vague, insinuating rumors, all coming straight from Berlin, that a Russian-German socialistic confab somewhere threatens the whole of the above described structure and determination.

To my mind, it is a well-established fact that long-standing attempts to make Socialism serve also as a religion are definitely destroyed by this war, and that its adherents are split today more than ever before as to the moral side of its teaching. Russian Socialists, like those of every other country, are also hopelessly split today. There are four irreconcilable factions in the Marxist camp alone, and only one of them, the so-called "poragentzi," are represented as being involved in the Russian-German socialistic confab.

Even granting all these people claim, what of it? Have not we ourselves had Henry Ford and his shipload of cranks of all ilks? Do we not have La Follette, Stone and Company? Did not our last national socialistic convention split, also, and have not Russell and his friends left the party? And did not London vote for the war bills in the House? What foundation is there for threats from Washington to the new Russia, that she can have no help from us unless she gives special pledges not to conclude a separate peace? And is that statement the truth or only the result of inspired imagination?

New Russia must be dealt with tenderly and kindly. She is necessarily sensitive and has her hands full, bringing her household to order and eliminating the pro-German elements from her official personnel. She cannot be held responsible for German plots. She, like any country and especially ourselves, has her full quota of cranks and extremists. And just now tens of thousands of her political exiles are returning home from all parts of the world, every one of them full of radically-advanced ideas as to the remedies her political ills need. But the noise they make ought to be judged, according to its real sources and merits.

That is how we would like to have our own constant irresponsible clatter judged in Europe.

[Signed]

GEORGE A. BEVERLEY,
(Ordained.)
Psychologist. Metaphysician.

He was born with the strange and remarkable power—power not meant to gratify idle curiosity, but to direct, advise and help men and women who are in trouble and suspense concerning the everyday affairs of life. He for several years has been guiding thousands in the path of discovering their mental capabilities. This man is Dr. Beverley, who discovered the means of revealing the intuitive power of knowledge which is within everyone. He claims that if one will but study one's self there will be unfolded possibilities for the accomplishment of all the higher purposes in life which were before hidden. By the exercise of his peculiar intuitive powers, which are the result of years of study, he is enabled to point the way to develop the latent spiritual powers in the individual, to the end that he or she may pursue a course in life destined to bring happiness, success and the full enjoyment of life's purposes. During the past few years Dr. Beverley has been consultant and adviser to many men of high standing in the United States. These men have felt that within them were latent powers which when developed would increase their powers for the pursuit of happiness and success in life. As a result of their confidence in Dr. Beverley they have traveled thousands of miles on repeated occasions, each time to secure new knowledge of themselves and to testify to the benefits received from former consultations. The knowledge possessed by Dr. Beverley is of a high spiritual order, and appeals only to those who have a desire to develop their mental proclivities to the end of raising themselves higher in whatever avenue of life they may have set their helm. By the peculiar insight into character which is possessed by this remarkable man, he is able to delineate every phase which exists in the character of the seeker for knowledge. By his unusual powers he is enabled to point out the existence of powers within one which never had shown themselves, and which when known prove to be the means of arriving at a fulfillment of all of life's purposes and desires. To those in need of such advice as Dr. Beverley can give he will prove that time lost in delaying to grasp the opportunity he offers is a waste of the precious moments of life. If you feel the impulse to call do it now; it may mean the turning point in your life. Studio and office 1157 W. EIGHTH ST. Free reading-room and metaphysical library, open from 10 to 8 daily. CONSULT CLARKE.
Ordained Phenomenal Psychic and Healer.
50c. LOW FEE THIS WEEK. 50c

The world's greatest thinkers declare that the success or failure of the individual depends upon the degree of development of his latent mental powers—that each individual carries with him the best solution of the problem which he presents.

Through long years of work and study Prof. Clarke has so developed his spiritual self that things which are obscure and hidden to others are as clear to him as an open book. He offers his services to those who are in doubt or trouble; ill in mind or body; who are failing to realize what they desire.

For a short time only this remarkable psychic has consented to offer his services to the public for a nominal consideration. To all who bring this advertisement this week he will give his regular full $2 reading for 50c.

Many of the best people have come—Many who have never consulted a psychic before. Why? Because he intelligently unravels their trouble; gives truthful information, relief, success and satisfaction; gives knowledge that is power. There may be a better position, better salary or business for you—perhaps you are waiting for something you will never realize.

Call today—tomorrow may be too late.

REV. MADAME ZENDA,
Ordained Medium.
Do the Dead Return?

Madame Zenda says: "There is no necessity of the dead returning, as they are ever present about us, though unseen by mortal eyes."

HER WORK IS HER RELIGION.

She is not a mystic, she uses no cabinet, no darkened room, no burning incense, but courteously receives her callers in plain open light and at once impresses them with the sincerity of her purpose—to help and advise them.

To those in sorrow, doubt and distress, Madame Zenda offers her services.

She has helped many to happiness and success. Why not you? If YOU FEEL the impulse to call, OBEY THAT IMPULSE—CALL AT ONCE. Hours 9 to 9 daily. Special sittings, 25c. 1824 S. VAN NESS AVE. Take W. Washington or 16th st. cars. Phone West 3230.

None better or wiser than he.

For three centuries his family were palmists. SCIENTISTS the world over use the PALM as a MEANS OF IDENTIFICATION, as an index of truth it is infallible. PROF. CAIRO possesses A FORCE, A GIFT, A POWER that none can explain. His remarkable success at New York, London, Paris, Berlin, Ireland and the San Francisco exposition is evidence of his power. His work is recommended to by thousands. No matter how badly worried or perplexed you may be call on this remarkable man. He will prove that he is all he claims to be. He has been of great assistance to others and he can be to you. Consultations daily and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., $1. 636 GLADYS AVE., Bdwy. 4729. Santa Fe or Stephenson avenue car on E. 7th st.

PROF. C. IRVIN ALTHOUSE,

NOTED ASTROLOGER AND PALMIST OF NATIONAL FAME AND REPUTATION.

STUDIO PARLORS, 621 S. BROADWAY.
A RESIDENT OF LOS ANGELES 31 YEARS.

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an experienced practitioner in the science of modern ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The horoscope shows the powerful influence of the planets in ALL AFFAIRS OF LIFE. It shows disease, deaths, love and marriage, financial affairs, investments, changes, talents, environments, about children, relatives, when and where to travel, who to seek or avoid, when in danger of losses, troubles, etc., etc. Also your good periods coming—GIVING DATES of these events for the FUTURE.

PROF. ALTHOUSE read E. H. Sothern, Nat Goodwin, Schumann-Heink, Gadski, Admiral Schley, David Starr Jordan, ex-Gov. Pardee, ex-Senator Clark, Senator Smoot, Baron Rothschild, Gen. Chaffee, Edison, Sousa, Modjeska, Capt. Hobson, Julia Marlowe, Anna Held, Jefferson, Sembrich, Lillian Russell, Calve, Admiral Evans, H. E. Huntington, etc. EXPERT PALM READER. READINGS BY MAIL.

DR. J. A. LARSON writes: "Your reading was the most satisfactory I ever had in my life. I know a great deal about these sciences, and I consider your work is the most THOROUGH and RELIABLE of any reader in the United States."

MY SKILLED work must not be classed with other readers. Therefore do not waste your money on the idiotic advice and warning of HUMBUG astrologers, palmists, psychics—those doing dishonest work.

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S wonderful proficiency in the casting of HOROSCOPES and in HAND readings has brought him a LARGE and SUCCESSFUL PRACTICE. The most private confidences are reposed in him, and his advice is sought in the most difficult and critical circumstances. Personal attention given. STRICT PRIVACY. HIGHEST GRADE OF WORK that skill and many years' experience can produce. HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

TO LET—

The BELMONT Apts. Figueroa at Tenth st. The BELCAMP Apts. 2407 West Ninth St.

It has been dark and dreary for the past few days, but not in our lobbies and apartments. When the weather is too bad to go out of doors our guests have just as good times at home. We exert ourselves to make things pleasant during gloomy weather periods. And such action is simply in line with our policy of making each of our houses, in all that the phase implies,

"the place like home."

We want our guests to feel that home-like atmosphere so necessary to real satisfaction and so foreign in practically all apartment-houses. And we feel that we have succeeded, for our guests tell us that the BELMONT and the BELCAMP, as the case may be, are their "really, truly home."

There is another feature of our houses which seems to appeal to our guests. We do not allow our furniture and equipment to deteriorate and run down. We employ a painter and paper hanger by the year—and keep him busy. Every room in our houses is kept up—up to the minute. If we had to pay rent we could not do these things, but we don't. Every dollar we take in goes back into the houses.

It may cost a trifle more to live with us than in inferior places, but we are satisfied that we give more for every dollar expended with us than any other place in the city. If you are not perfectly satisfied where you are, would it not be well worth your time to call and see what we can do for YOU.

The BELMONT, $30 and up.
The BELCAMP, $20 and up.

FOR SALE—CHANDLER SIX—

Owing to the extreme popularity of the Chandler automobile we have sold an exceptionally large number in the past three years. This naturally would result in a certain percentage of these being offered for sale in the used car market. A large number of those offered by speculators in used cars have been refused by us owing to the severe service they have been given in the stage line business; therefore they are on the used car market at prices less than what a first-class CHANDLER should bring. This is naturally confusing to the average purchaser who scans these columns and finds a CHANDLER of a given year varying in price as much as $100. We claim that there is not $25 difference in the value of all the used Chandlers offered for sale, when you take into consideration their condition, and we can readily prove this to you if you will call in our salesroom and look over the thoroughly rebuilt 1915, 1916 and 1917 CHANDLERS we are offering for sale. Even were our price higher than the average (which is not the case) these cars would still be worth the price asked considering the exceptional service and guarantee agreements we enter into with our used car purchasers. Over 70 per cent. of our used car CHANDLER sales turn into new ones later on which undoubtedly proves that we are developing a large clientele of satisfied CHANDLER owners when we sell them these used cars. The very fact that the chief adjuster of the Continental Insurance Co., the Western manager of the F. W. Woolworth Stores, and the general field manager of The Petroleum Company have all purchased used CHANDLERS from us and that the latter gentleman is now driving his second used CHANDLER, is good evidence that a rebuilt used CHANDLER is a far better investment than a cheap new car. These gentlemen are ones who give an automobile exceptionally hard service, and the fact that they purchased from us the highest priced used CHANDLERS in stock is proof of the fact that it never pays to purchase a car by price wholly. First consideration should be the house you are doing business with; second, the condition of the car plus the mileage it has been driven, and thirdly, the price. You will find any of the used CHANDLERS we are offering for sale at least $100 above the average, and yet we are ready and willing to compete in price with any first-class CHANDLER offered for sale in these columns. You should not fail to visit our used car department where every courtesy will be extended to you. Read our other advertisements in today's paper. A phone call will bring any car to your door. Open evenings by appointment and Sundays from 11 to 4 p.m. Used Car Department of the CHANDLER SIX, 1136 S. Olive. Phones: 60895 or Main 3459.

FOR SALE—BUICK SIX TOURING CAR AT $725, terms. If you can appreciate a car that has been given extraordinary care and would like to purchase an automobile that is at least $200 above the average in condition, you should not fail to see this one. The owner of this car could not possibly have kept it in more perfect condition and the moment you ride in it you will appreciate that it is miles ahead of a car of the same year that has been given average consideration. We are not used car speculators. All used cars offered by us have been taken in trade on a new car. Open Sundays 11 to 4 p.m. TERMS. 1136 S. OLIVE ST. Phones: 60895 or Main 3459.

FOR SALE—STUDEBAKER SIX TOURING CAR, late 1915 model, at $550. Terms. Tires are in perfect condition, as well as the paint and mechanical condition. There is no doubt but that this is a real opportunity, as you ought to be able to get this much for the car a year from now if you give the car only half the care the former owner did. If you purchase this you have one that is ready to go to San Francisco, if necessary, without a single thing being done to it. Open Sundays 11 to 4 p.m. Phones: 60895 or Main 3459. Address 1136 S. OLIVE.

FOR SALE—WILLYS-KNIGHT, 1916 MODEL, 5-passenger touring car for $850. Terms. This car is absolutely in perfect mechanical condition. This is the only Willys-Knight touring car on the used car market, and if you are looking for something of this type, it would pay you to answer this advertisement at once. This car was traded in on a new CHANDLER SIX because the owner needed a larger car. 1136 S. OLIVE. Phones: 60895 or Main 3459. Open Sundays 11 to 4 p.m.

FOR SALE—KING EIGHT, LIGHT FIVE-PASSENGER, late 1916 model, $750, TERMS. We have thoroughly overhauled this car and will not hesitate to guarantee it in every respect, as it is as good as a new car and it would be hard to tell it from a new one. Fully equipped and with excellent tires it should prove to be an exceptional bargain for some one. Open Sundays, 11 to 4 p.m. Phones: 60895, or Main 3459. Address 1136 S. OLIVE.

FOR SALE—FRANKLIN SIX LIGHT FIVE-PASSENGER touring car, $475. Terms. This car is fully equipped in every respect, has a very quiet motor and shows wonderful power and speed. Owing to its exceptional condition we will guarantee it fully. CARL C. GILDNER, 1034 South Main. Open Sundays 10 to 4 p.m. Phone Main 3459.

FOR SALE—1915 LIGHT 5-PASSENGER CHALMERS Six, $675, terms. This car is fully equipped in every respect and we guarantee its mechanical condition fully. It looks like new, runs like new and is as good as a new car. Read our other advertisements in today's paper. Open Sundays 11 to 4 p.m. Phones 60895 or Main 3459. Address 1136 S. OLIVE.

FOR SALE—LIGHT FIVE-PASSENGER CADILLAC touring car, toy tonneau model, $150 cash. This should prove to be the best offer in today's paper, as it is fully equipped, has excellent casings, and is in good mechanical condition. CARL C. GILDNER, 1034 S. Main. Open Sundays 10 to 4 p.m. Phone Main 3459.

FOR SALE—1915 METZ ROADSTER, $100 DOWN and balance in $20 payments. Price $275. Here is a fully equipped car that will give you more service than a Ford, and certainly may be operated a great deal more reasonably. CARL C. GILDNER, 1034 S. Main. Open Sundays 10 to 4 p.m. Phone Main 3459.

FOR SALE — CHEVROLET "BABY GRAND," light five-passenger, late 1916 model, $175 down, balance $325 at $32.50 per month. This car is fully equipped in every respect including electric starter, excellent casings, etc., and we will guarantee it fully; also furnish liberal service to the purchaser. This is a real opportunity. CARL C. GILDNER, 1034 S. Main. Open Sundays 11 to 4 p.m. Phone Main 3459.

TIRES— BIG TIRE SALE THIS WEEK! —TIRES

500 slightly used tires taken off wrecked cars. Some nearly new. Must be sold for cash at once regardless of cost. Ford sizes $1.50 to $3.50 while they last. Hundreds to choose from. Larger ones $3 to $7.50. Tubes $1 each.

WHY PAY BIG PRICES?

You will surprise yourself at the bargains you can pick up here, as we wreck from ten to twenty cars per week that people have been running every day and some have put on new tires just before we got them. We put these on sale at once at prices that enable you to save 25 to 50 per cent. on your mileage.

POULTRY—POULTRY SUPPLIES
For Sale, Exchange, Wanted.

FOR SALE—

COMPLETE POULTRY SUPPLIES.

A REAL INCUBATOR at $8. If you are raising poultry on a small scale and want a good, dependable hatcher, we recommend the Queen "Lincoln Special." This 60-egg incubator has all the desirable features of the larger Queens.

BUCKEYE No. 14 is another real good buy in a moderately priced incubator. This little machine is a real Buckeye, which means that it is a real hatcher—the price, $9.50.

If you are looking for a larger incubator we can sell you a machine that will meet your every requirement. We are agents for the celebrated QUEEN, CYPHERS AND BUCKEYE incubators, three of the best hatchers on the market.

POULTRY FOODS.

Feed your baby chicks BLATCHFORD'S MILK MASH—a dry milk equal. This food will keep the tender digestive organs of baby chicks in a healthy condition, and will insure a quick, sturdy growth.

Another excellent food is CONKEY'S BUTTERMILK STARTING FOOD. Keeps chicks in a strong, healthy condition and is especially useful for fattening birds for market.

COULSON'S EGG FOOD should be kept before laying hens all the time. It contains all the necessary ingredients for egg production; best results obtained when fed with Coulson's Scratch Food.

DARLING'S MEAT CRISPS—contains the highest per cent. of protein. This nutritious food should be fed to all laying stock as it will greatly increase egg production.

SEMI-SOLID BUTTERMILK is an excellent food for growing chicks, or for fattening birds for market; 65 lbs., $3.75. Special prices on larger quantities.

EGGS FOR HATCHING.

Reliable hen eggs, duck eggs, and turkey eggs, in all the standard varieties. We also carry boxes for shipping eggs.

LICE EXTERMINATOR.

Universal Carbolineum is a reliable exterminator of lice and vermin. One application of this strong disinfectant will rid your coops, nests and hen houses of lice and mites for one whole year. Carbolineum is an excellent wood preserver as well as a reliable disinfectant.

A RELIABLE TURKEY BOOK.

Mrs. A. Basley's "Western Poultry Book" will tell you how to raise hens and turkeys successfully. It is a practical book by a practical, experienced woman. Special price—50 cents.

We also have a large list of books on the following subjects: Poultry, turkeys, rabbits, birds, bees, goats, dogs, cats and birds.

FOOD FOR RABBITS.

Specially prepared rabbit food including chopped alfalfa. For complete information on successful rabbit raising, get our rabbit book.

FOOD FOR GOATS.

We recommend Blatchford's Lamb Meal for young goats. It is a scientific food that will produce real results. We take subscriptions to the "Goat World."

Scientific.

HILL IS RIVAL OF BREA PITS.

Eminence in Harbor District Yields Fossil Treasures.

Pleistocene Sea Shells are Recovered in Thousands.

Coast Story Told by Almost Microscopic Remains.

The bigger the gun, the happier the warrior. The smaller the shell the happier the biologist. Not the shell that sends vessels to the bottom, but the shell that, through countless ages, has arisen from that ocean's floor. In the harbor district is Knob Hill, sliced in two to make room for a boulevard, and there J. O. Beebe of No. 342 West Fifty-fourth street, a scientist nationally known for his work with crinoids and as a close student of evolution, has been engaged the past two years in collecting several hundred thousand shells of the pleistocene period.

The object of the vast collection is entirely for biological research work.

"In my long study of crinoids," said Mr. Beebe yesterday, "I became familiar with beach lines. When they made the cut through Nob Hill I was looking for the very thing I found. About sixty feet above the ocean was a stratum of shells about a foot deep, from which the contents trickled down. Close by were other strata. Prof. Joseph Le Conte, the finest geologist of the Pacific Coast, held that this coast had not changed in 3,000,000 years because of the Japan current and other factors. Though I am not the only discoverer of a contradiction to this belief, this collection of fossil shells proves there occurred about 10 per cent. change during that period between the pleistocene age and today."

MIDGET REMAINS.

The minuteness of the shells is a marvel. Thousands would perhaps not fill a tea cup. The labor of distributing not only requiring an accurate eye, but the most delicate handling, cannot be overestimated. The shells could never be handled with tweezers, and it has been something of a secret with just what Mr. Beebe has handled his almost infinitesimal skeletons of ancient sea life. A moistened broom straw is the sole implement employed. So small are some of the shells that the finest flour sifter was required in sifting out the soil. The smallest shells are of so great value to the biologist because it is in the earlier stages that all forms of animal life bear such distinct resemblance to one another, and upon this the theory of evolution advances. Deviations come in maturer life, which this collection of shells, older than the great animals unearthed from the La Brea pits, or about 500,000 years, conclusively illustrates.

The strata of shells are under that of La Brea and are preserved by circumstances as fortunate as those exemplified at La Brea, only instead of oil acting as a preserver, at Nob Hill it was a roof of adobe from twelve to twenty feet thick, preventing any chemicals from seeping through to the strata of shells below, and allowing no petrification. Down to the tiniest and most fragile the shells retain their ancient perfection, which is rare among collections of fossil shells. Of these Mr. Beebe's local collection probably many new species, since these have not been located in the catalogues of authors on Pacific Coast shells. There are about seventy-five species represented in Mr. Beebe's collection, obtained from Nob Hill and other diggings in the vicinity of the harbor.

FITTEST SURVIVE.

Among shells the survival of the fittest holds true. Mr. Beebe disposed of a collection of smashing sharks' teeth to the Cambridge museum of comparative zoology some time ago, but still has a small quantity in his possession. The brachiopods, or square-hinge shells, contemporary with the smashing shark, were dovetailed, preventing the shark from smashing the shell so easily. Today the shark's teeth are pointed, quite different from the ancient shark's teeth, and today the few remaining brachiopod shells have no dovetailing, that feature having been eliminated with the passing of the smashing teeth of their enemy.

Although Mr. Beebe still has a fine collection of crinoids, his greatest collection, which is one of the two largest in the United States, was sold some years ago to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington. Scientists everywhere concede Mr. Beebe the title of casting the finest crinoid reproductions in the country, and his workmanship is found in many colleges. His crinoid casts are fitted together with a skill that defies detection, the art having been acquired when, in earlier days, he learned the jeweler's trade.

In the near future Mr. Beebe, now "72 years young," proposes to return to Iowa, the scene of the great crinoid finds, and collect a large number of fossils of coal plants which belong to the subcarboniferous period, and show the beautiful pattern work of the barks of trees in bygone ages. The exhibition will show the evolution of wood, and it is Mr. Beebe's plan to loan the collection to a scientific institution, since his own home could scarcely accommodate the weighty and sometimes massive objects.

SAVED BY A SCREAM.

Thugs Waylay Victim and are About to Rob Him when One of Two Frightened Women in a Passing Auto Shrieks; Bandits Flee.

A woman's scream is an unwelcome song at times, but last night it saved Thurkle H. Mortensen of No. 606½ East Fifth street, from losing his wealth and suffering more painful injuries.

Mr. Mortensen was stopped by two young men at Sixth and Gladys avenue. When he refused to hand over his purse, one of the bandits struck him on the head with a revolver.

At that moment, an automobile containing two women was passing by. One of the women, seeing Mr. Mortensen attacked, screamed and fainted. Bewildered, the two thugs ran through an alley without attempting to search Mr. Mortensen's pockets.

His wounds, which were superficial, were treated at the Receiving Hospital by Police Surgeon Stadfield.

BOMB-PROOF CELLAR.

Lively Experience of a Volunteer in a Trip from Paris to Nancy.

[Boston Transcript:] A dash to a bomb-proof cellar by a whole family, from grandparents to a dog and two birds, is described by Miss Margaret Ames, a volunteer worker of the American Fund for French Wounded in Paris, who recently has visited the region about Nancy.

"From the moment we left Paris," says Miss Ames, in a letter to the Boston headquarters of the fund, No. 304 Bolyston street, "we felt that we were under military escort and strict observation. There were only two or three women on the train, and even they left us at Chalons, so did many officers, who were going to Verdun.

No who has followed the gyrations the billboard proposition as it has handled by the municipal au- ities has any doubt either that will be able to keep on stalling thing along for another month, after the regular election.

Billboards.

The ordinance that has been drawn up could not have been much more favorable to the interests that are defacing the city's streets with their multi-colored thug havens had it been drafted by the billboard attorneys themselves. It would practically have the effect of perpetuating the nuisance in all the districts that now suffer save a few given over to fine mansions. The billboards it would eliminate would never be missed. The ordinance amounts to a defiance of public opinion by its authors.

It has undoubtedly served to disarm the hostility of the billboard combine and its allies and the suspicion exists in many quarters that it was intended to serve just that purpose. It is still a long ways from being a law, and the Council is most assuredly in no hurry to make it a law. The political sop is a time-tested institution, and this tentative ordinance looks suspiciously like a sop.

In the opinion of the Fact and Comment man, there is no reason for thinking that the City Council really favors the idea of flaunting the citizens of Los Angeles for the benefit of a few billboard men or that the Welfare Committee itself will hold out or ever intended to hold out for such a programme for perpetuating the billboard nuisance as it has suggested. The truth is that the billboard men and their supporters and apologists have been making life miserable for the City Hall people, and especially those of them who are seeking re-election. The billboard question it is plain, was brought up at a time when it was inevitable that the officials would do anything and everything to dodge and postpone action.

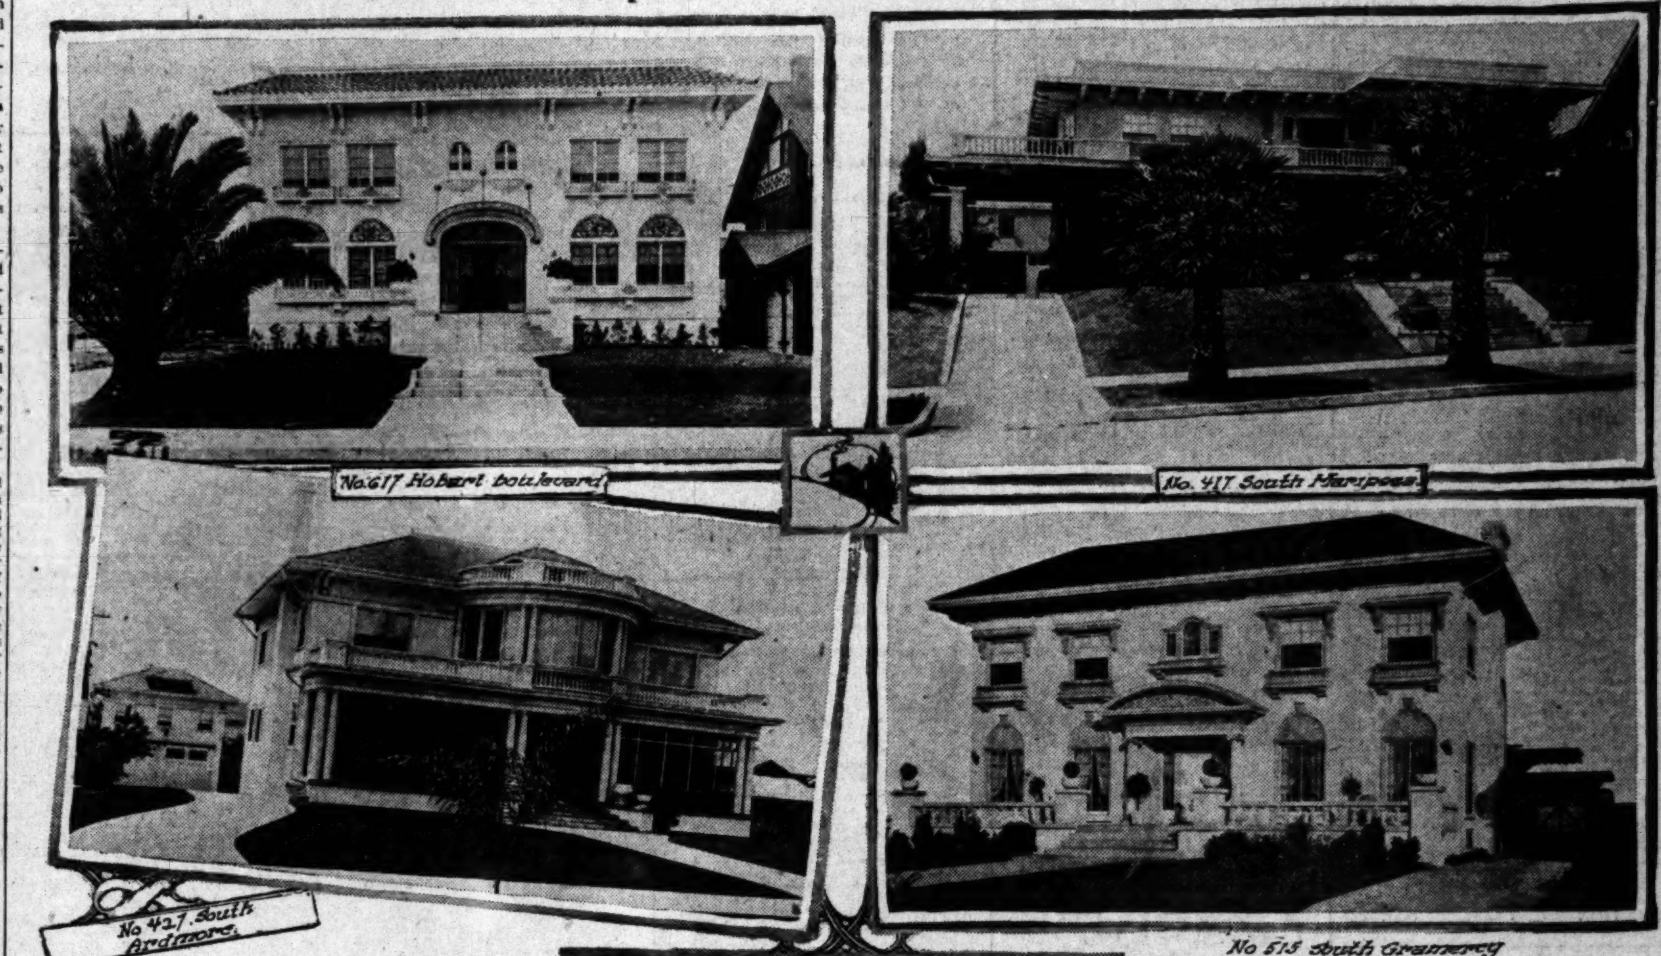
After They're In.

Unless the citizens and taxpayers, who have set out to end the exploitation of the city's residence districts by the billboard combine intend to camp on the trail of the city authorities as relentlessly as do the billboard interests themselves, the best thing to do apparently is to let the question ride until after the June election. It is all very well to talk about the city's interests coming first. Candidates for office aren't in the habit of looking at it in that light, never were and probably never will be. Their minds are centered on the getting of votes and on side-tracking everything else. It might be a good thing to accept the situation and wait.

After the successful candidates are firmly established in their seats, they may be less afraid to express their minds on the question and more disposed to hurry things along. Nothing but evasion can be expected for a few weeks yet. There is little danger that the Council will ever pass any such ordinance as its committee has drawn up. It isn't going to run the risk yet awhile of offending the billboard men, on the other hand, by courageously following the lead of Chicago and other cities and casting the billboard bodily from the residence districts, as the United States Supreme Court has plainly declared every city has the right to do. The Council isn't going to do anything, in fact hasn't the slightest intention of doing anything until the elections are safely over, if it can possibly help it.

After the June election the big obstacle to frank, above board relations between the citizens and their chosen representatives in office will have been removed. Then, maybe, the great mass of taxpayers who keep the City Hall inhabited by salaried officials may have an opportunity to get a hearing from these timorous individuals who are now afraid to call their minds their own.

Attractive Wilshire Properties that Have Just Changed Ownership.



Convincing evidence that the war has not hurt the real estate market in Los Angeles.

The houses pictured are among the many fine places that have been transferred since the United States entered the world conflict. That at the upper left was sold through R. C. Mitchell Company, the one beside it through H. R. Kells, with the Wright-Callender-Andrews Company. Giles & Laack handled the sale of the Ardmore residence. The Gramercy house was sold through R. E. Ford, with the Janss Investment Company.

REPORT CASH SALES.

Dealers Announce Important Residence Transferes.

Giles and Laack report the following recent cash sales of residence property:

For Bertha S. Olmstead to Frank L. Benepe of Bozeman, Mont., twelve-room residence on lot 75x150 feet in size at No. 427 Ardmore drive, $25,000; for H. H. Braley to L. B. Martin of Sioux City, Iowa, 150x180 feet, northeast corner Windsor boulevard and Fifth street, in Windsor square, $12,500.

To H. H. Lechler for nonresident owner ten-room residence on Western avenue between Fourth and Fifth streets, $12,500; for Winnie A. Barnhill to B. F. Weber of Zanesville, O., eight-room residence at No. 335 South Van Ness avenue, $7500; for Mary Stanley to Ira Marshall, lot on Manhattan, between First and Council, $2500.

SOLD FOR CASH.

The sale of an eleven-room residence at No. 515 South Gramercy place is reported by Ralph E. Ford, manager of the Wilshire department of the Janss Investment Company. Joseph Kaiser, a local capitalist, was the buyer. Charles H. Bareford, the seller, is stated to have received $16,000 cash for the property.

NEW COUNTRY CLUB PLANNED.

CULVER CITY TO HAVE FINE GOLF COURSE.

Association Takes a Long-term Lease on Hill Lands—Expects to Start Attractive Structure of Rustic Type in Near Future. Architect Employed.

The Culver City Country Club, an organization perfected during the past week, has leased 105 acres of land in the rolling hills just north of Culver City and plans to at once build a clubhouse and lay out a golf course. At an outdoor luncheon held at the club grounds last Wednesday the following officers were elected: George W. Somerville, president; Harry H. Culver, vice-president; H. W. McNutt, secretary, and E. H. Allen, treasurer. The directors are John D. Carsen, J. F. Haight, H. W. McNutt, George W. Somerville, Harry H. Culver, E. H. Allen and Charles R. Stuart.

The club has obtained a twenty-year lease of the property secured, and the laying out of the projected links is already under way. Plans for the clubhouse, which will stand upon a high knoll commanding a sweeping vista of the city, the valley and the ocean, are now being drawn by A. S. Heineman.

The building will be of semi-rustic type and will be completely equipped for the convenience of golfers and tennis players. A special feature of the club layout will be a fully-equipped children's playground near the clubhouse.

The membership of the club, it is announced, will be limited to 500 regular members. A limited number of persons residing outside of Los Angeles county will be accepted as nonresident members.

UNIQUE FEATURE.

Model Bungalow Complete in Every Detail to be Exhibited.

An interesting plan for the advertising of real estate has been worked out by the Kleinberger & Edwards Company in connection with its Walnut Park subdivision adjoining southeast Los Angeles. The company will in the near future open for exhibition a model bungalow home occupying large grounds on the Long Beach boulevard front of the tract.

The bungalow is in the colonial style and has been carefully planned as to design, arrangement and setting. The interior is being completely furnished by the firm of Peck & Hills. The Germain Seed Company is laying out the grounds.

ADD TO TRACT.

Plans for the opening of a new annex of acre and half-acre suburban homesites at New Ramona Acres were revealed in the letting of a contract during the past week by the Janss Investment Company for the grading of a large acreage paralleling the electric car tracks at Wilmar station. Contracts were also placed for the oiling and graveling of extensions of Columbia street, Del Mar avenue, Hellman avenue and Jackson avenue from New Ramona Acres through the new tract.

MARIPOSA HOME SOLD.

Large Residence in Wilshire District Bought by Los Angeles Attorney.

H. A. Kells, manager of the house and lot department of the Wright-Callender-Andrews Company, reports the following sales:

For Willis H. Steele to William J. Hunsaker, residence at No. 417 South Mariposa avenue, $28,500; for John L. Plummer to Henry C. Harris, block between Second and Third streets on the west side of Norton avenue, $30,000; Sarah A. Beano to Fred L. Fallas, northeast corner Orange street and Union avenue, $15,000; for W. E. O'Brien to Mildred E. Mudd, No. 2427 Fourth avenue, $20,000.

W. T. S. Hammond to A. B. McGaffey, house at No. 530 Shatto place $35,000; for Ben L. Gubser to E. A. Robbins, house at No. 219 South St. Andrews place, $6500; for Harry W. Wilson to Alice J. Harrison, two flat buildings at Nos. 1433 and 1437 South Vermont avenue, $12,500.

INCOME BUILDINGS.

Apartments for Hollywood—Several Flat Projects Now Taking Shape.

An apartment-house of forty rooms will be started this week by H. R. Taylor, Jr., at the corner of Hobart boulevard and De Longpre avenue in Hollywood. The building will be divided into eight five-room apartments. It was planned and is to be built by Taylor Bros. Its cost is given at $20,000.

The contract was let during the past week for a twenty-room flat to be erected by Grace C. Longley on Eleventh street, between Grand View and Hoover. Work will be started in a few days on a twenty-room flat for R. F. Bowden at No. 2935 Leeward avenue. R. Ohlf has had plans drawn for a twenty-room flat to be built on Catalina street between Eighth and Ninth. Rachel Gitelson is about to start a sixteen-room flat at Nos. 829 to 833 West Fortieth street. E. F. Fortner will build a sixteen-room flat at No. 1928 Cahuenga avenue.

FLATS EXCHANGED.

The R. C. Mitchell Company reports the sale of a five-flat building on Hobart boulevard near Wilshire boulevard for J. A. Rogers, a well-known builder, to a local investor. The consderation is given at $35,000, Mr. Rogers accepting as part payment a tract of land in the San Joaquin Valley, the balance being adjusted by cash and mortgage. The building occupies a site 60x150 feet in size and is divided into four apartments of six rooms each. D. C. Mitchell represented both buyer and seller.

NEW RAMONA ACRES.

The Janss Investment Company reports the following sales in its New Ramona Acres tract in the San Gabriel Valley: To I. F. Thoms, large lot, $1400; to T. H. Lutz, acre, $1650; to E. F. Lesley, acre, $1300; to E. G. Beswick, acre, $1450; to H. J. Suttle, lot, $700; to Catherine Granville, acre, $1500; to F. E. Leech, one and one-half acres, $1700; to L. O. Golden, lot, $675; to F. L. Monson, acre, partly improved, $1450; to J. J. Gibbons, acre, $700; to I. N. Lucas, acre, to be improved with house, $1300; to A. N. Greer, lot, to be improved with four-room bungalow, $1300, and to C. Zeeder, lot with four-room bungalow, $1300.

NEW RESIDENCES.

Fine Places Now Being Planned for Windsor Square—Many Large Homes for Other Sections of West Side. Many Bungalows.

A number of fine homes are to be started within the next few weeks in Windsor Square by recent purchasers of building sites in the Wilshire district subdivision. Plans for several of these places are now being drawn and other owners have announced their intention of perfecting building arrangements in the near future. One firm, the Milwaukee Building Company, is now preparing designs for three of the new Windsor Square residences, a twelve-room house for H. L. Deering, an eleven-room house for Irwin J. Muma and a large dwelling for James Martin. Henry C. Lee and Horace Boos are among the other intending builders who are now having plans drawn.

Plans are under way for a fifteen-room house to be built by Dr. J. W. White at Tenth and Westmoreland.

Work will be started this week on a thirteen-room house for John Item on Hobart, between Wilshire and Seventh. Henry C. Harris has had plans drawn for a ten-room house to be built at No. 256 South Norton. Seville Taylor is about to start a ten-room house at No. 1814 North Edgemont. J. R. King will build a ten-room double house on Hobart near Hollywood boulevard. H. R. Taylor, Jr., has let the contract for a ten-room double dwelling at No. 5255 De Longpre avenue. Plans have been drawn for a ten-room double dwelling to be erected by Charles W. Fricke on First near Dillon.

Plans have been drawn and the contract let for a nine-room house for Thomas Mills at No. 1429 Genesee street. E. N. Nuttnig will start work this week on a nine-room dwelling at Seventh and Western. A building permit was taken out last week for a nine-room house for George Taylor at No. 244 South Oxford. N. B. Smith will build a nine-room house at No. 1954 Canyon drive. Work will be started at once on a nine-room residence for the California Bungalow Company at No. 926 Edgemont street. Louis B. Heeb has had plans drawn for a seven-room house at No. 1744 North Van Ness.

Following are some of the bungalow projects upon which work is about to be begun in different parts of the city: Ten-room double bungalow for Rudolph Brunner, No. 2003 Fifth avenue; eight-room bungalow for William Heath, Spaulding street near Sunset; eight-room double bungalow for Orville H. Gilbert, No. 653 West Thirteenth street, San Pedro; seven-room bungalow for Ira A. Marshall, No. 773 North Kenmore; five seven-room bungalows for E. O. Gerbording, Fourth avenue near Tenth; six six-room bungalows for W. A. Geller, Avenue 54 near Pasadena avenue; two six-room bungalows for Los Angeles Investment Company, Nos. 4919 and 4949 Third avenue; six-room bungalow for F. J. Newberry, No. 239 North Gramercy place; six-room bungalow for Mrs. Ella B. Squires, No. 922 Fourth avenue; five-room bungalow for Mrs. Marion Schmidt, Bella Vista way, Hollywood; five-room bungalow for Mrs. Della Thibeau, No. 6654 Selma; five-room bungalow for Leta K. Held, No. 2626 East Fifth; two four-room bungalows for Mrs. S. A. Bengel, Nos. 601 and 603 Amador street.

ANGELES MESA SALES.

George I. Hughes, of the house and lot department of the Angeles Mesa Land Company, reports the following sales in that subdivision: Five-room bungalow to Florence Parker, $2300; five-room bungalow to Rev. Caroll Ghent, $2300; six-room bungalow, to R. J. Blocker, $2700; two lots, to Marshall H. Dean, $2400, and five-room bungalow to Jessie E. Russell, $2600. A movement is now on foot to get a right of way for the extension of Santa Barbara avenue from its present terminus to Mesa drive, in the Angeles Mesa tract. This, it is declared, would cut the traveling distance from this part of the city to the beaches by from three to five miles.

MARYGOLD ACRES.

The Guy M. Rush Company reports the following recent sale in its Marygold Acres farm subdivision in the Empire Valley: To H. D. Sandros, ten acres; to O. Ford, five acres; to M. Thomas, twenty acres; to W. J. Burberry, five acres; to J. C. Thompson, twenty acres, and to L. J. Smith, five acres. The tract is laid out into parcels of from five acres up, some planted to fruit trees and others vacant.

LARGE GROUNDS. LIVE OAK TREES.

If you have wished for a Southern California home—just your ideal, all ready for you even to the least detail, without ever having to bother building it—or giving it any attention whatever—your wish has come true—in this beautiful home. "It is an ill-wind that blows no one any good"—this house was built by the owner for his own home, and now circumstances prevent his occupying it, and it must be sold. You have only to see this place to realize the unusual care and thought—all well directed—that has been given to the building of this home.

The lot is 117x200 feet and has been laid out by a most efficient landscape gardener. House is set back fifty feet from the street, and is so located on the lot that the yard at one side is sixty feet wide; the grounds throughout are as beautiful as Southern California flowers and plants can make them.

The house, a 10-room residence, expresses harmony and beauty in every line. Across the front of the house is the large living room, library and den. These rooms all opening together, are well adapted for entertaining. The main rooms, as well as the dining-room, are all finished in hardwood. The four lovely bedrooms are in white enamel, with exquisitely dainty paper hangings on the walls. The breakfast-room is a little jewel, circular and practically all windows. Buffet in ivory, center light in silver and chintz.

The indirect lighting system, some of the fixtures being of Italian alabaster, gives a wonderfully beautiful effect at night. Three bathrooms, two of them tiled and fitted with the most expensive plumbing, pedestal bowls, massive roll tubs.

There is a large cement basement with a furnace and hot water heater. The entire house has been planned with the idea of quiet, dignified beauty, and most of all, to be comfortable. The 2-story garage has room for two machines, and above are servants' quarters, with bathroom, sink, built-in closets and all conveniences. Bowser underground gasoline tank.

A few words can scarcely give any idea of what to expect in this beautiful Oneonta Park home. Anyone who is looking for a home to meet their ideas of beauty and comfort will find it in this property. Courtesy to agents.

Located at 1001 MILAN AVE., Oneonta Park, South Pasadena.

Can be seen daily from 1 to 4.

FOR SALE—
A REAL SACRIFICE.

7-room bungalow on one of the best streets in the Southwest section, was built for home and contains many attractive features not found in the built-to-sell house. Close to schools, stores and 2 of our best car lines. Lawn, flowers, garage, etc. Owner is compelled to sell, needing money in his business—this place is worth $4800 of anybody's money, but can be bought for a whole lot less. If you are looking for a worth-while snap and a home you will be proud of, let us show you this—you'll buy it. J. C. HOVIS & CO., 236-7 Bradbury Bldg. Main 8458, 15226.

FOR SALE—NEW FOUR-ROOM BUNGALOW AT 5542 Bandera street. Has cement veranda and steps, built-in buffet and window seat, bath, lavatory, toilet, sink, hot water heater and boiler, unusually good plumbing for a house of this size. Size of lot 40x120 feet deep to alley. Price $1500, $75 down, balance $15 per month, including interest. House alone would cost this amount, considering the present high price of building materials. ONE OF THE BIGGEST BARGAINS EVER OFFERED TAKEN IN UNDER FORECLOSURE AND CAN BE HAD FOR THE AMOUNT OF THE MORTGAGE, AND IT IS CLEAR.
A bungalow court of 10 double houses of 8 rooms each, built of hollow tile, modern in every respect and fully furnished. Sound-proof walls between apartments, steam heat and hot water plants, separate gas floor furnaces, woodstone floors in kitchen and baths, disappearing beds and large basement. Court is planted to beautiful trees and shrubbery, and has sun parlor overlooking bluff and ocean. Property is located in the nearest beach town, comprising three lots with 150-ft. frontage on Ocean avenue, asphalt paved, and 225 feet to edge of bluff.
These lots alone are worth today $30,000. The houses cost to build and furnish $55,000. This property has an income as high as $10,000 a year. Parties who foreclosed mortgage do not want property and will sacrifice for less than half its cost.
$40,000 takes it, and it is sure one bargain. Terms one-half cash, balance can remain at 6 per cent. Here is a chance to get a fine income property for half its value, and can be had at this figure only by reason of the necessity of settling the mortgagee's estate.

FOR SALE—
A beautiful white plastered flat building, ideally located in the heart of the Wilshire district. Built along lines of modern French architecture and one of the handsomest structures of its kind in Los Angeles. It is finished in selected genuine mahogany and old ivory rubbed to a piano finish. The entire four flats are heated with a modern gas-fired steam heating plant, and a hot-water plant furnishes steaming hot water any time of the day or night. There is a garage for each flat. A vacuum cleaner is piped to each apartment, also to the garages for the use of automobiles. Absolutely nothing was left undone in the construction of the building. It is now under lease to highly desirable and well-satisfied tenants for $3720 a year. This property is a genuine bargain for $30,000.

Water at Huntington Beach

Helps Kidney Sufferers.

Low-priced Accommodations.

The seaside has long been recognized as helpful for kidney troubles, but Huntington Beach is specially favored among the beaches in possessing such soft, pure water, unusually free from injurious minerals. Hundreds have found relief.

It is an ideal place to spend the summer—5 big conventions will be held there, something doing every minute; a 3-mile bathing beach and sanitary, open-air plunge; splendid public library; wholesome atmosphere, no saloons; 4 or 5 may have a week's outing for only $7.50 close to the surf.

Many prefer to own cottages as property is so low-priced. Home sites, 50x145, only $200. There are many acre-homes where chickens, berries, vegetables and fruits net good incomes. A big acre, 300x150, close to high school, only $850. Easy terms. Spend the summer at Huntington Beach. Write, phone or call for free booklet. See HUNTINGTON BEACH CO., 531 Van Nuys Bldg., corner of 7th and Spring, and arrange for free trip to Huntington Beach.

FOR SALE—

VEGETABLE LANDS.

$250 an acre.

If you are looking for the best vegetable land in the State see Nuevo Ranch. This property is only two hours' ride, by train or paved auto boulevard, from Los Angeles. The soil is deep, rich, fertile, easy to work, and there are no rocks or alkali. One of the best water rights in Southern California goes with this land. You have all the water you need. This month 150 acres are being set out to vegetables at the Nuevo Ranch. We know that Nuevo Ranch is the best buy in Southern California for the money. Come as our guest and look at this property—if you don't agree that it's a bargain just say so, and we'll promise not to bother you again. We are printing the letter of Mr. R. M. Barnett of Orange county. Read what he has to say about Nuevo Ranch:

Gentlemen: Just one year ago I came to the Nuevo district from Santa Ana and bought five acres of land. Last fall I planted four acres to potatoes and I sold my crop for $1041. Out of my profits I bought a paying business in the town of Nuevo, and also an automobile.

I consider this a pretty good record for a young fellow, starting out with a new piece of land. I have planted my land to apricots. This is a country for a young man. There is no doubt about the future of the valley.

(Signed) R. M. BARNETT.

Mr. Barnett is only one of scores of men who have bought at Nuevo Ranch and MADE MONEY. Send for our new illustrated booklet, which contains signed statements from experienced ranchers who have bought Nuevo land.

FRUIT LANDS.

Nuevo Ranch is not only the best vegetable land in the State, but it is the best fruit land that can be obtained at $250 per acre, or even twice the price. Nuevo Ranch is located in the rich San Jacinto Valley, in the very heart of the apricot, olive, walnut, peach and plum district. Nuevo Ranch adjoins the rich Hemet district, where full-bearing orchards bring as high as $1200 an acre. Nuevo Ranch is in a settled community with fine schools, social and transportation advantages. If you are an experienced rancher or fruit grower, if you know good soil when you see it; if you appreciate the benefits of an abundant water supply—we want you to see Nuevo Ranch as our guest.

FOR SALE—OR EXCHANGE—

REGAIN YOUR HEALTH
With Pure Mountain Air.
Elevation 1100 Feet.

You can "come-back" with that old-time punch if you own this paying 11-acre apricot, olive and orange orchard with a beautiful large and artistic bungalow equipped with hot and cold water system. The bungalow is the most beautiful in this very excellent section. You will like it. Large barn, etc.

The orchard is a veritable mine for profit and with the planting of vegetables between the rows of trees you will be able to add a great many hundreds of dollars to your income. The soil is a fertile, mellow loam. Soft pliable, easy to work. NO ALKALI, and rich in elements that make for healthy growing production.

"Your health will be greatly benefited when you live at this elevation—1100 feet. Drink in this pure, balmy mountain air, soft and laden with health-giving properties and you will be renewed and remade. The tonic of light outdoor work in the orchard will add years to your life and you will thoroughly enjoy every moment of your life."

PRICE ONLY $7000. This is less than $700 per acre with all the fine, up-to-date improvements thrown in. Adjoining acres are selling for $1750 per acre. This is a most wonderful bargain. Why not make a good substantial profit and regain your health at the same time? DO IT NOW. Might exchange for clear if good. GUY M. RUSH CO., 901 Story Bldg. Broadway 24, 60055.

FOR SALE—

ENCINO ACRES.

2½, 5, 10 and 20-acre tracts with streets graded and aqueduct water for irrigation and domestic use. Encino Acres is the most beautiful location in the San Fernando Valley on the State highway. Part of this tract is level, adapted for the raising of all kinds of fruits, vegetables and cereals, being a deep, rich loamy soil. About 500 acres of this tract is the most beautiful rolling hills, laid out for choice country home sites and is bound to become another Hollywood. Also part of this tract is the finest walnut land in the State. About 17 miles from the center of the city with paved highway all the day to the land. This is beyond a doubt the finest small acreage subdivision ever placed upon the market. If you fail to see this before purchasing you will be the loser. Prices right. Terms one-quarter cash. Maps, full particulars and pamphlets and a trip over the land by calling or telephoning our office. Ask for Encino Acres Dept.

W. H. HAY,
400 O. T. Johnson Bldg., Fourth and Broadway.

FOR SALE—OR EXCHANGE—FOR GOOD FARMing land, accessible and not exceeding $200 per acre. The best investment in Los Angeles county, 29 miles from Los Angeles on the Valley boulevard, in city or Pomona on First street, west city limits. Twenty-two acres. This property has a frontage on the paved and lighted boulevard of nearly 1000 feet. Property woven-wire fenced; land all thoroughly piped for water, also city water. The property is surrounded by a magnificent rose hedge. Fifteen minutes' walk from postoffice; two blocks from car line. Several good buildings on the place, also fine glass conservatory 30x30 feet. All busses to and from Los Angeles pass this property. The land is beautifully situated, perfectly graded—looking up to "Old Baldy" on the north and beautiful rolling hills to the south. No washes at any time from rains, free from winds; cool in summer and warm in winter. Four hundred shares of water stock go with the property. This is a grand piece of property for a home or an extremely fine proposition for subdivision. Soil good enough for any purpose. The owner has moved away and the property is offered on quick sale at the low price of seven hundred dollars per acre. On a straight sale basis, take about $7000 cash to handle this. THIS BUY CANNOT BE DUPLICATED IN LOS ANGELES COUNTY FOR LESS THAN $20,000 TO $25,000. Address owner, C. E. HOWLAND, Los Angeles, P.O. Box 1933.

FOR SALE—THERE IS A REASON WHY WE have sold over one million dollars' worth of the Patterson Ranch when other subdivisions have been standing still or swapping for mules, second mortgages or broken-down autos. It is because you purchase direct from the owners and save from 20 to 30 per cent., that all subdivisions must carry where they are being sold out by big realty corporations. Also, our prices are from one-third to one-half less than is being asked for land of a similar nature at other points in Southern California, and to the fact that we have had sugar beets the past year producing from 12 to 26 tons per acre, with an average sugar content of 20 per cent., which at the prevailing prices brought $7 per ton, and all grown WITHOUT IRRIGATION. Over one-half million dollars has been made by local purchasers who have known the property from 15 to 30 years. By purchasing at the present time you can secure this year's crop now, growing on land, by merely paying for the work done to date. This will very materially reduce the amount of your first payment. We also have some choice lima bean land at reasonable prices which requires no irrigation. For alfalfa, fruits, garden truck, etc., we have FLOWING ARTESIAN wells, some of them exceeding 100 miner's inches. Indorsed by all local banks, and Board of Trade. Write for map, booklet and price list.

FOR SALE—
800 TO 1000 TONS ALFALFA HAY. NO. I don't sell the hay. I sell you the land and you sell the hay or feed it, it's up to you. This farm produced last year 815 tons, scale weight, dry alfalfa hay. Present conditions indicate a much heavier yield for 1917, say 800 to 1000 tons, worth at prospective prices—Oh, figure it yourself. But the result is something startling. The proceeds will pay about one-half the entire cost of the land. There are 135 acres, 125 in solid alfalfa. A small new bungalow, tenant house, new barn, hay scales, 2 windmills and other improvements. Is on two main line railways with loading track at corner of land, and on two main paved roads. Price $35,000, $12,000 cash, balance about to suit.

ANOTHER: 160 acres best rich Manteca loam, three miles from Manteca, on the main road, 120 acres first-class stand of alfalfa, 1917 crop should run 800 to 900 tons; 40 acres now being planted to beans. The place is equipped as a dairy ranch, except dwelling. There is a large hay and feeding barn, holds 150 tons, milking barn, milking machine, electric separator and pump, 2 silos, sheds and yards. This season's crop should pay more than half the purchase price. Price $225 per acre, $8000 cash, balance about to suit you at 6 per cent.

STILL ANOTHER: 40 acres on State highway, 2 miles from Manteca, 25 acres in alfalfa that should cut at least 10 tons per acre this season; 15 acres beans. Price $10,000, $3000 cash, balance 5 years at 6 per cent.

These lands are under the most efficient gravity irrigation system in California. This dry season is the profit year for irrigated lands. Look up hay market reports and size up prospective dry year prices, then come at once or you may be too late.

W. J. WOODWARD,
Manteca, Cal.

FOR SALE—WE ARE MANUFACTURERS OF olive products and therefore know but very little about the art of real estate advertising, but it happens that we know of what we believe to be the best land proposition in the whole State of California, and we are confident that after an investigation you will agree with us that it is offered at less than half its present value, and can quickly be made worth much more than that. Ranch consists of 397 acres, 135 of which are in 20-year-old olives, besides some 200 acres of fine plow land, suitable much more than that. Ranch consists of 494 acres, 220 of which are in 20-year-old olives, besides some 200 acres of fine plow land, suitable for lemons, pears, peaches, beans, etc.; abundance of big live oak and sycamore trees and good stream running through the place, just right for subdivision; furnished house, new tractor, horses, cows and chickens included in price which for quick action account of owner's extreme old age, is only $65,000, only $15,000 to $20,000 cash required, balance 8 to 10 years at 6 per cent. City or beach residence from $5000 to $10,000 would be considered as part payment, thus reducing amount of first payment. We'd like to show this proposition to some substantial party who knows an extra rare bargain when he sees it, as we own an olive mill at Fallbrook, and want to find a purchaser who would be interested in growing more and better olives. PRATT OLIVE CO., 615 E. 3d st., Phones Home A4888. Main 3606.

FOR SALE—
At Bishop, Inyo county, my ranch of 160 acres. A splendid modern 2-story residence, electric lights and telephone.

Good barns and hog wire fences.

Chickens, turkeys, hogs, cows, a bunch of 12 fine young Percheron horses; full equipment of implements and tools, first-class harness, saddles, wagons, etc.

60 acres growing wheat, 25 acres alfalfa, 5 acres fruit, 70 acres blue grass and clover.

Bishop Creek, about 10 feet wide and 3 feet deep in mountain water, runs through my pastures, my water rights are abundant and free.

I cannot ranch any more, and I wish to sell the whole plant, as it stands. It is a "going concern" I will not exchange it for your equity in a rooming-house, but I will take one-third in clear Los Angeles property, one-third cash and one-third mortgage. $60,000 will buy it.

FOR SALE—A BARGAIN, 135 ACRES IN THE Elsinore section, 56 acres alfalfa land; 75 inches of water, 35 acres bean land; 40 acres grain land; buildings and stock; price $10,000; good terms; no trade; the 56 acres under the pump is worth the price of the whole ranch.

320 acres in Juniper Flats, north of boulevard running from Perris to Hemet; 220 acres tillable, 150 acres just plowed and ready for beans or Kaffir corn; no improvements, good springs and meadow; this is a bargain at $6500; one who will improve this ranch can turn it over immediately at good profit.

690 acres stock and grain ranch, San Diego county, 400 acres can be farmed; 60 acres choice alfalfa, two pumping plants; good buildings; price $15,000, $5000 cash; this is high-grade and a perfect bargain at the price.

FOR SALE — ARE YOU LOOKING FOR REAL good clothing cheap? Of course, you are. So go to Cohen's Misfit Clothing House, with four stores in Los Angeles, which were built by the appreciative customers of Cohen, who was wise enough to give them the best possible values and good service and backed by a guarantee of satisfaction that has no strings tied to it. This clothing is nearly new, some of it like new, all of it strictly clean and as sanitary as new clothing. Alterations on men's clothing free by expert tailors. Choice over 2000 suits, sizes up to 62. Mail orders solicited. Prices range for suits, $4 to $15. Some cost over $50 new. Pants, $1.50 up. Dress suits for rent, $1 per day. For sale, $7.50 to $17.50. Some cost to $100 new; all are mostly very latest styles. Put this under your hat, we are not looking for suckers. I make money without sucker's money. You will get first-class treatment if you buy or not. Come and see us; the obligation is ours. At my ladies' store, suits, dresses, evening gowns, skirts, shoes, hats, etc., practically at your own price. Ladies' store, 204 W. 8th st. Three men's stores at 218 W. 1st st. (with a larger stock than ever,) and 808½ S. Spring st., 111 E. 7th st. P. S.—I thank my customers and friends that helped me to build up this large business and I thank my helpers in my stores, for there are none better in Los Angeles.

FOR SALE—
Hand-made furniture to order.
Do you want a chair or a table or a davenport or any other piece of furniture made—hand made—in accordance with your own ideas as to design, material, finish, etc.?

Or, have you some article of furniture you want to duplicate or match?

Or, have you some old piece, broken, which you wish to have repaired in such a manner that you can't find the patch?

We can make anything you want—and it is all hand made—the kind of product your grandfather and his father bought. Nothing shoddy—nothing cheap—nothing but the best—and built to last for generations.

Any kind of wood or style or finish—hand carving—upholstering in any material you may select.

Orders accepted for only the best class of work. We want to serve only particular people—people who can't be suited elsewhere. THE WOODCRAFTERS, 952 South Figueroa st. Main 5944.

Los Angeles "Municipal" Fish Markets,

To feed the world's biggest fish hatchery,

On Oak Creek, in Inyo county, near Independence. This is a view of the picturesque water supply dam with the high range of mountains in the background.

Sportsmen, Attention!

GREAT PLANT TO SUPPLY TROUT FOR SOUTHLAND.

First Unit of Mt. Whitney Hatchery, Destined to Become World's Largest, is Completed—State Law may Conserve Fine Natural Spawn Supply in the Fish-filled Rae Lakes, Near By.

ALMOST in the shadow of the country's highest peak, Mt. Whitney, there has just been completed what is designed to become the largest and best-equipped fish hatchery in the world. This is located on Oak Creek, Inyo county, four and one-half miles from Independence, the county seat. The new enterprise of the California Board of Fish and Game Commissioners is of particular interest here, in that the entire southern part of the State and regions as far north as the Yosemite Valley are to receive fresh supplies of rainbow trout from Oak Creek.

The initial capacity of the hatchery is 6,000,000 eggs, but the present building, 200 feet long and 45 wide, is only the first unit of a much larger plant. Engineers have estimated the flow of Oak Creek, which gushes from the granite buttresses, is sufficient to operate the hatchery through the next quarter-century of development.

SPAWN AT HAND.

There is the further promising feature of the Rae Lakes, in close proximity, which fairly teem with matured trout, and which now furnish unlimited spawn. A caution is sounded, however, by the commissioners, to conserve this supply. It is feared that when a comfortable trail shall have been constructed to these egg-supply basins the excellent fishing will attract hordes of anglers, with the result that the supply of spawning trout will be reduced, seriously handicapping the hatchery.

The remedy suggested is the creation by the State of a fish and game district to embrace the Rae Lakes basin.

Eastern brook trout were first introduced in California in 1872 and in 1894 the first of the famous Loch Leven trout were brought to the State.

Some idea of the present activity of the State fisheries may be had from the distribution in 1916 of trout from the Sisson hatchery alone. There were forty-three carloads of trout averaging 100 cans each, in addition to the many thousands sent out by messengers. It is a matter of record that no State in the Union has become more successful than California in establishing new food and game fishes, although few of the population realize the wide extent of the work.

Anglers throughout the Southland may well rejoice over the completion of the Mt. Whitney hatchery, as it constitutes a guarantee of future good fishing in the streams and lakes. Millions of fry will be distributed annually, which will furnish clean sport not only for residents, but for the thousands of tourists who vary their sightseeing with camping trips.

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce was invited to name the new hatchery and suggested the Angelus, but the commission later decided to name it for the famous mountain to which it is adjacent.

LOCALS LICKED BY SAN DIEGO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, April 28.—The San Diego High School nine trounced Manual Arts here this afternoon in an exhibition inter-scholastic game by a 12 to 2 score. Devine held the Manual swatsmen completely helpless and would have shut them out had he been given the proper backing in the field. After being held to one lone run for three innings and no hits, San Diego jumped on Walter Hammerman's delivery for four hits and four runs. Four more runs on two hits were added in the fifth and three more scores on three hits in the sixth. Ed Case, young rookie, broke into the game this afternoon and carried away the batting honors with two hits, one a double, in four trips to the plate. The score:

SECOND ROUND TRIP IS FINISHED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—For the third time out of four trips, Ray McNamara, the intrepid driver who is piloting a Maxwell touring car between Los Angeles and San Francisco on one of the greatest automobile runs ever staged in California, beat the time of the S. P. "Lark" and arrived in this city at 9:26 o'clock this morning.

This trip completed the fourth journey and the second round trip between the two cities. The fifth trip will begin here tonight and will end in Los Angeles at the Western Union Offices, Sunday morning. The sixth trip will start at 8 o'clock Sunday night in Los Angeles, and will finish in San Francisco Monday morning.

There is still doubt as to whether the four round trips can be completed, as never before has any automobile been subjected to treatment so strenuous.

He enjoyed himself immensely until a swarm of uninvited rodents invaded his plant. These rats would have accomplished the disintegration of the corporation if the engineer had not thought of importing eight tame snakes, purchasing them from the natives. These reptiles quickly ate what rats they could catch, and frightened the others away, so that soon they were the only animals on board.

The next period is devoted entirely to three unsuccessful attempts to float and salvage the stranded freighter. A wealthy Guatemalan was the first to pour out a fortune in the attempt. After losing a major portion of his money, he sold his rights. The new purchaser, an American, also tried unsuccessfully. After him came a well-known salvage company.

But the Sesostris refused to be moved, and when the British Columbia Salvage Company purchased the $1,000,000 freighter for $55,000 in the spring of 1916, pessimists considered that another sum was about to be sacrificed to the shifting sands.

EXPERTS TAKE A HAND.

Led by Capt. Strafford, one of the most successful salvage engineers of the world, a squad of fifteen experts left Victoria July 4, 1916, on the tug Pilot. Since that time they have been working on the stranded vessel.

Tragedy again entered the story last February, when the Pilot foundered in an equinoctial storm off the Guatemalan coast and nine men were drowned. Among them were First Officer J. Birss and Engineer W. C. Patterson of the salvage expedition.

Because the engines of the Sesostris had been kept in excellent order, Capt. Strafford was able to rig up winches run by motive power derived from them. A battery of centrifugal pumps sucked more than 100,000 cubic feet of sand from about the partially buried ship.

A small canal was dredged from the inland lake in which the Sesostris wallowed to the high water mark. In this way the huge ship was finally brought into deep water. The original cargo had been removed years before by means of a specially built railway spur connecting with the Guatemalan railway lines, so that when the Sesostris finally did glide into deep water, she bobbed up like a cork. It was necessary to pump back some of the sand that had held her captive for ballast. And as she steamed into San Diego yesterday she carried this memento of her long captivity.

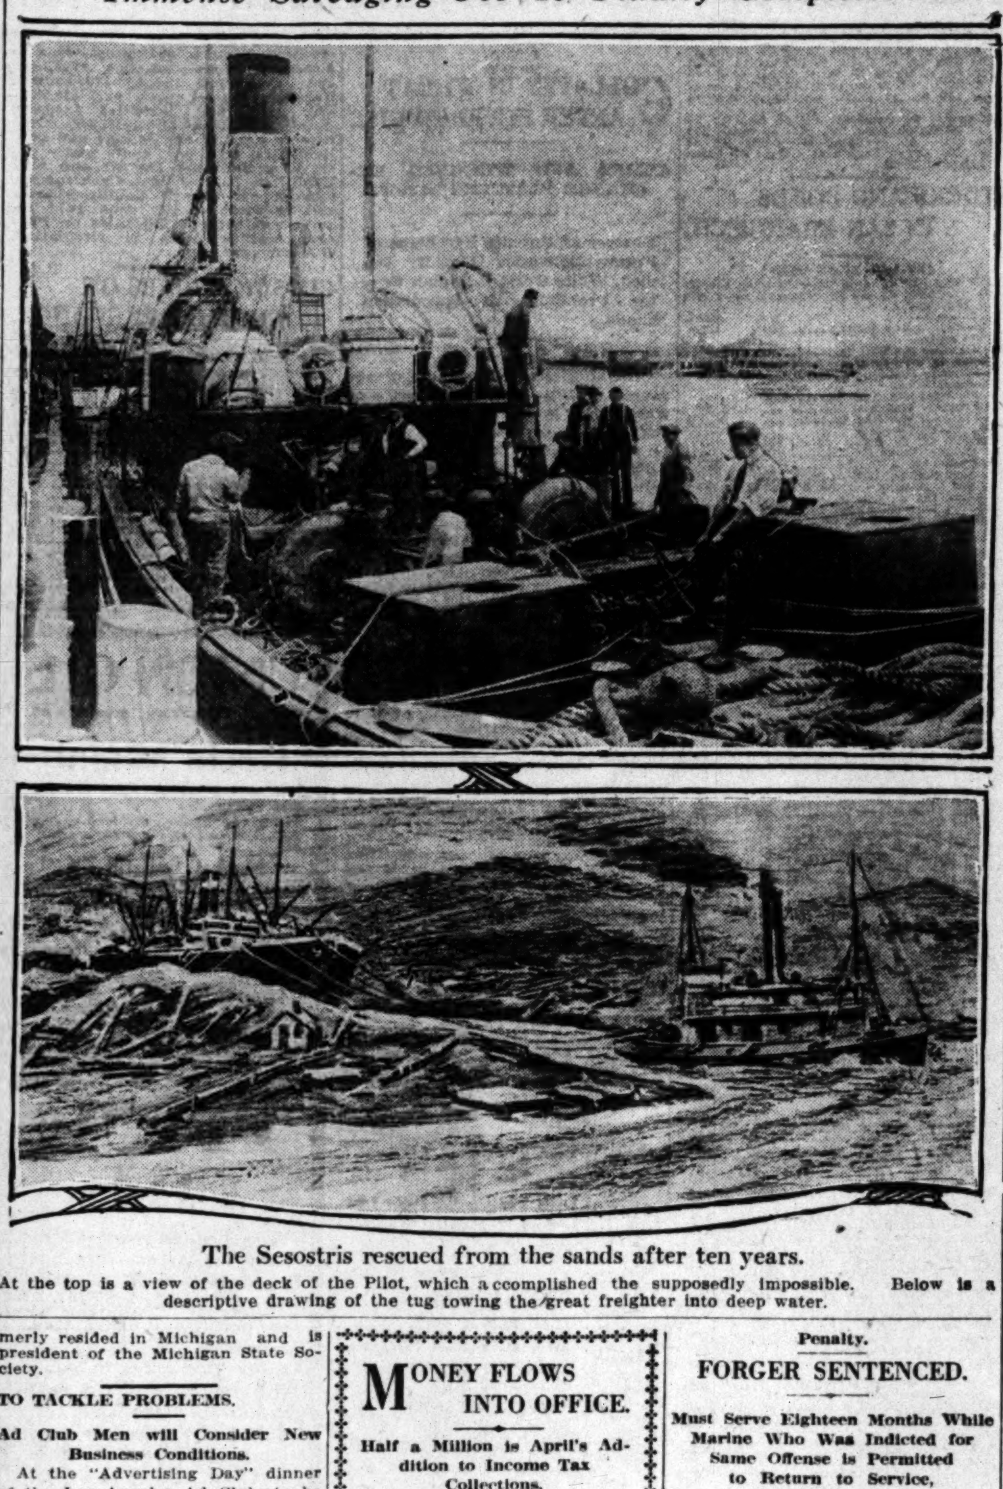
RETURNS TO PORT ALONE.

The British tug Nitinat started towing the resurrected freighter north. Scarcity of fuel, however, made it necessary for the tug to cut loose about 483 miles south of Point Loma, and the Sesostris continued her return to the world alone.

One of the bitter ironies left by the hand of Fate, in so far as her original owners are concerned, at least, is that after losing their $1,000,000 craft, her valuable cargo and the services of one of their ablest sea captains, they now will have to contend with their old freighter as a unit of the mercantile fleet of their enemies. It is planned to start the boat under her new name in the immediate work of carrying supplies to the allies.

The salvage company that performed the miracle expended about $250,000 in the work. As the vessel they purchased for $55,000 is now worth at least $1,000,000, they will clear about $700,000 on their nine-months' work.

Immense Salvaging Job Is Finally Completed.



The Sesostris rescued from the sands after ten years.

At the top is a view of the deck of the Pilot, which accomplished the supposedly impossible. Below is a descriptive drawing of the tug towing the great freighter into deep water.

LES HENRY LINES UP LOTS OF CLASS FOR MEET.

Several World Records Slated to go by the Board When Swimmers Get in the Water—Sandy Goodman to Make Terrific Bid for Honors in Short Distances.

A big entry list has been received for the swimming meet to be held this afternoon at the Ocean Park bath-house under the management of Les Henry, chairman of the Swimming Committee of the Southern Pacific branch of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Entry blanks have been sent to most of the swimmers of Southern California and it is possible that heats will have to be run in some of the races, as there have been so many of them returned signed already. Entries closed last night and the programme was made up at that time.

A new record should be set in all four competitive events. Sandy Goodman, Jack Kilburn, Guy Sylvester and Mark Howlett, all want the 100-foot record and are preparing to get it.

AHA!

Tod Burns, Herbert Clark, Sandy Goodman and Floyd Sisk are all going after the 66 2-3-yard back-stroke record. This record is held by an Olympic Club man by the name of Jensen at 49 seconds. All four swimmers believe they can come under this mark.

Dorothy Burns after setting two records last Sunday is going to be satisfied with one this time if she can improve upon the time set by Miss Ruth Stacker of Honolulu in the 30-yard dash at 17 3-5 seconds.

SURE TO FALL.

As there is no known record in the 25-yard breast stroke race for men it is certain that a new one will be set up in this event. The time should be so good also that it should stand for some time to come, as there will be four of the best breast-stroke swimmers on the Coast entered. L. Irving Messenger, well known as Ike, will have a hard time beating his team-mate, Charles Haylock, the bald-headed wonder; Bobby Vint and [illegible] Buck. All four have been practicing on this sprint event and should swim very close together. The judges will have a hard time catching the winner in this race.

THE PROGRAMME.

33⅓-yard dash—S. Goodman, Guy Sylvester and Jack Kilburn (recognized American record held by Duke Kahanamoku, 15⅗s.)

30-yard dash for women—Miss Dorothy Burns and Miss Lena Richmond (recognized American record held by Ruth Stacker, Honolulu, 17⅗s.)

25-yard breast-stroke race for men—L. Irving Messenger, Charles Haylock, Bobby Vint and G. Buck (no official record known.)

66⅔-yard back-stroke race—Tod Burns, Herbert Clark, S. Goodman, Floyd Sisk and G. Banks (recognized American record, 49s., held by H. Jensen, Olympic Club, San Francisco.

FRED SNODGRASS HANDED RELEASE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, April 28.—Fred Snodgrass, outfielder of the Boston National League club has been unconditionally released, it was announced today. His contract, which called for $6000 a year, it is said, expired this year and rather than sign at a lower figure, he decided to go into the automobile business in Los Angeles.

How Much Bread in a Barrel?

LOS ANGELES, April 28.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In your issue of this date there is an article headed, "Bread Prices in Infancy," which contains the statement, twice reiterated, that only 180 twelve-ounce loaves of bread can be made from a barrel of flour.

A barrel of flour contains 196 pounds of sixteen ounces each, or [illegible] ounces, and 180 twelve-ounce loaves contain 2160 ounces, not of flour, but of bread, which amounts to a loss in weight from each barrel of flour of 966 ounces. What becomes of this?

When I was in the army our commissary officers and bakers figured that sixteen ounces of flour would make eighteen ounces of bread, and the best of bread, at that. If their figures are right, a 196-pound barrel of flour will make 336 twelve-ounce loaves.

There is some difference as between government estimates and those of the bakers.

The public is entitled to the truth.

Producers' Plight.

SAN GABRIEL, April 28.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The production of butter and eggs has been rapidly growing in Southern California. Eggs have been exploited to aid the sale of real estate, and many persons with small capital have invested their all in an effort to gain a livelihood thereby.

But if hens are to lay they must be fed. On the 18th inst. hen feed was 121 per cent. higher in price and eggs only 51 per cent. higher than last year at the same date.

How can the producers continue? The condition of many is pitiable. To hold off loss of their only source of income many families cut off all luxuries and numerous necessities. And now they must sell their laying hens for meat at a far lower price than their laying value.

Today eggs are by far the cheapest food with meat value, and should be largely consumed. This is also true as to butter. Why are they comparatively cheap?

Until this year the price of poultry products has been controlled by middlemen and the producers have been compelled to accept the prices they set. Since January 1 the producers have organized, in the same manner as the citrus growers, to sell products and buy feed direct. The middlemen say they can make more money on cheap eggs, so they have exerted every effort to maintain low prices.

One may say this is good for the public, but it means death to the butter and egg industries and ultimately higher prices for a limited production.

If the public would use butter and eggs liberally at present low prices it would help both itself and the producers.

McNally's Strong Platform.

Urging as one of his strongest qualifications his experience in handling the business of a big city, obtained during the ten years he was sergeant at arms of the Chicago Aldermen, Thomas Jefferson McNally, well-known business man, is making a strong fight to qualify in the Councilmanic race. A part of McNally's platform follows:

"Abolishing the pay station telephone, which double-taxes the citizens of Los Angeles, most of whom have a telephone in their home and are forced, through the pay station, to pay again when using the phone downtown.

"More leisure time for the members of the fire department.

"More policemen to safeguard the lives and property of Los Angeles citizens and better pay for the police officers.

"Strict jitney-bus regulations.

"Against any new bond issues.

"A clean and efficient business administration by capable business men and a 'square deal' for all."

Indorsed by Supervisors.

Capt. John J. Haisch, candidate for the Council, has the backing of many of the most influential citizens, among them being Supervisors Dodge and McClellan. Of him they made the following statement:

Capt. John J. Haisch, formerly of the United States Army, was Superintendent of Transportation, Quartermaster's Department, U.S.A., in Manila, P. I., from 1898 to 1902. As assistant to the depot quartermaster during that time, Haisch had full control of and distributed supplies for hundreds of thousands of men.

Previously he was a lieutenant of the famous Twentieth Kansas, under the late Gen. Funston, and of the Thirty-sixth Infantry, under Col. (now General) Bell.

Such experience would be of value to the city of Los Angeles, not only in its relation to the military necessities, but also in relation to the question of municipal improvements and the handling of similar matters of importance.

Busy Week for O'Brien.

T. L. O'Brien, Council candidate, former member of that body, said yesterday he had been on the go all week and was given encouragement everywhere. He spoke before the Colorado State Society Tuesday evening in the Times Assembly Rooms; Wednesday, before a gathering at Lincoln High School; Thursday, at the home of Mrs. Fenner Webb, and Friday he presided at a meeting of the Proximo Club. Mr. O'Brien formerly resided in Michigan and is president of the Michigan State Society.

THOUSANDS TO MEET.

County Sunday-school Association Convention Expected to Draw a Large Crowd Here; Excellent Features are Included in the Programme.

Arrangements for the Los Angeles County Sunday-school Association Convention, to be held at the Bible Institute in this city May 10 to 12, have been completed. It is expected that fully 3000 delegates will attend. The excellent programme will include a concert the evening of May 10, when 500 voices and an orchestra will take part, and a story-telling hour by Miss Edith Brubaker, from 5 to 6 o'clock the afternoon of the 11th in the lecture room of the Bible Institute. The second annual banquet will be held in the evening of May 11 at the Temple Baptist Church. Dr. Frank M. Dowling will be toastmaster. Sunday afternoon, the 13th, Marion Lawrence will address the men at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, taking for his subject, "The Sunday-school Preparing for the Billy Sunday Campaign."

This year each delegate will pay a registration fee of 25 cents, in exchange for a programme, notebook, badge, breakfast and lodging.

Edward J. Ruenitz,

General secretary of the Los Angeles County Sunday-school Association, to convene here May 10.

MONEY FLOWS INTO OFFICE.

Half a Million is April's Addition to Income Tax Collections.

Day before yesterday was the banner day for receipts at the office of Collector Carter, the total amounting to $133,000, paid on account of the income tax, by corporations and individuals. The total receipts of the office for April were in the neighborhood of $500,000. The total payments of income tax in the local district will aggregate $2,000,000, but it is not all due and payable until before the close of June.

The splendid manner in which the taxpayers are responding to the call of the government to make early payment is a subject of much felicitation on the part of Collector Carter.

Japanese Steamship Company to Add Six Great Liners to Its Pacific Fleet—Will Make Los Angeles Harbor Port of Call.

The Toyo Kisen Kaisha Steamship Company, operating a line of steamers between oriental ports, Los Angeles and South America, plans to have six additional vessels on this route by the fall of 1918, according to an announcement made yesterday by D. F. Robertson, manager of the steamship travel department of the California Savings and Commercial Bank.

The steamship Anyo Maru will leave Los Angeles Harbor Monday with a heavy list of passengers from this city for Valparaiso and other South American ports. This vessel, which is 18,500 tons, is one of the most completely-equipped liners that sail the Pacific waters. The San Francisco Maru, now in course of construction, will shortly be launched and placed in commission on this route. When in commission she will be the largest ship on the Pacific.

W. H. Avery, assistant general manager of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha Company, who has just returned from a business trip to Japan, yesterday stated that the company was planning a world-wide advertising campaign to attract tourists to Japan. Much of this business will be of benefit to Los Angeles, as many of the tourists will stop here en route.

JAILED AS ROBBER.

Electrician, Out of Job, Said to Have Confessed.

Carl H. Wickum, 38 years old, electrician, was arrested late yesterday afternoon by Detectives Hickok and Erven and held pending an investigation of the report that he is responsible for a series of robberies in the Wilshire district.

Wickum is said to have entered the home of J. B. Gist, No. 400 South Serrano, a week ago, obtaining money and jewelry. The officers will endeavor to connect the prisoner with other robberies. They stated he admits four robberies.

Wickum lives on South Coronado street. He is married, has two children and stated he had been out of work for some time.

FORGER SENTENCED.

Must Serve Eighteen Months While Marine Who Was Indicted for Same Offense is Permitted to Return to Service, After a Lecture.

United States District Judge Trippet yesterday sentenced Philip Mesquera, convicted of forgery, to serve eighteen months on McNeil's Island. Mesquera was for a time at the Whittier School of Correction and he has a jail record. He forged the name of his brother-in-law, Henry Cort, to money orders and cashed them.

Alfonso Salazar, jointly indicted with Mesquera, but in whose case the jury disagreed, was given a lecture by the court and will be returned at once to his command, a marine detachment, at Honolulu.

Deputy United States District Attorney Palmer asked that the indictments still pending against Salazar be quashed and the court agreed. Mr. Palmer said the boy is a good soldier, according to his superior officers, and the country needs defenders more than possible convicts.

CONTRADICTS ARTIST.

"Silver Queen's" Answer, Filed in Suit Growing from Painting of Portrait, Denies Statement that She Arranged to Have Picture Made.

Mrs. Susanna Holmes indicates in the answer she filed yesterday to the suit of Albert Salzbrenner, portrait painter, for $2500 for painting her portrait, that she intends to oppose the action. She denies she made an agreement with Mr. Salzbrenner or that she agreed to pay him the reasonable value of his services or pay him any sum. A flat denial is made that he at any time or place painted a portrait of her.

Mr. Salzbrenner states in his complaint that he has painted portraits of celebrities all over the United States. He was commissioned by Mrs. Holmes, the "Silver Queen of Utah," to paint her portrait, he says, and declares she agreed to pay him the reasonable value of the work. He fixed this at $2500, which he says she refused to pay.

SLAVERY CHARGED.

Motion-picture Photographer Arrested on Woman's Complaint.

Louis R. Fuster, who says he is a moving-picture photographer and who has a small studio in Hollywood, was taken into custody yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Cavanaugh, on a complaint charging violation of the Mann white slave law.

The complaining witness is Miss Ethel Ladner, who alleges Fuster brought her to Hollywood from New York for an immoral purpose. Fuster was held in $2000 bail by United States Commissioner Hammack.

ARMY OF JAPANESE READY TO BATTLE FOR UNITED STATES.

Twenty-three Thousand Trained Soldiers will Take the Field in Four Months if Offer Made Here is Accepted—Would Equip Themselves.

TWENTY-THREE thousand Japanese will be ready to fight for the United States against a common enemy, within four months if plans made public yesterday by local Japanese and indorsed by Mayor Woodman are successful.

These men, to make up a fully equipped army division, would be called at once from every part of the United States, to prepare themselves to aid their adopted country in the war against Germany. The plans for assembling them are being arranged by members of the local Japanese colony, assisted by Harry J. Wolf, editor of the Trans-Pacific Monthly, a Japanese magazine published in Los Angeles to further the relationship between Japanese and Americans.

Five thousand posters, bearing a call to the Japanese to assemble and fight for the United States, will be printed this week at No. 225 North San Pedro street and distributed throughout the Japanese colonies in this country. The posters will also be placed in Mexico, to call the Japanese out of that land to aid their countrymen in America. It is believed this latter move will bring every Japanese out of Mexico.

According to estimates there are 80,000 Japanese in the United States and of this number between 40,000 and 45,000 men between the ages of 14 and 45 years of age have had military training. These would go to make up the "Japanese Legion," as the proffered army would be called.

COMPLETE DIVISION.

It is proposed to organize a complete division of 23,000 men, including infantry, cavalry, light and heavy artillery, machine-gun companies, an aero squadron, an ambulance corps, etc.

This first division would be ready within four months for active service. Immediately upon the formation of the first division, organization of a second division would be started. The funds for the equipping of the entire Japanese legion would come from donations by the Japanese themselves. Local Japanese have announced their intention of raising money to finance the legion, and funds for the equipping of such an army would also be forthcoming from Japan, they say.

The division would be drilled for both land and sea warfare, as are the marines of the United States service. For equipping the forces the Japanese have motor boats and automobiles, both touring cars and trucks, and there is an aero squad of twenty-one Japanese who hold licenses from the Aero Club of North America.

The matter of transporting the Japanese to fields of action would be up to the United States government. Every Japanese who has a truck would give the use of his machine to the division for transportation purposes. They are not fully equipped with rifles and ammunition, but money for the purchase of weapons would be immediately forthcoming. Numbers of local Japanese have already started to equip themselves, according to their own statements.

WOULD FIGHT MEXICO.

That they are willing to fight against the Mexicans, whom German agents are trying to arouse against this country, has been asserted by the Japanese behind the formation of the legion. Up and down the Pacific Coast are Japanese fishing villages, equipped with boats which have both engines and sails. These craft could in a short time be transformed into swift little patrol vessels for duty along the Coast and to protect the ports of the Pacific against depredations.

It is said that in every Japanese Christian church in Los Angeles sermons will be preached urging the congregations to prepare to fight for the United States.

A number of prominent Angelenos, headed by Mayor Woodman, have indorsed the plans offered by Mr. Wolf and his Japanese associates. M. G. Yuasa, president of the Japanese Association of Los Angeles, representing more than 10,000 Japanese in Southern California, has also indorsed the enterprise.

TEXT OF POSTERS.

The following is the wording of the posters that are to be printed this week at the offices of the Trans-Pacific Monthly:

"Every able-bodied male and female Japanese resident of the United States of America, who is between 17 and 45 years of age, is hereby requested to report, in person, by mail or by telegraph, at once, to the recruiting office listed below, to be enrolled in the Japanese legion of America.

"Said Japanese legion will be formed into a military organization and offered to President Wilson, to prove the loyalty of the Japanese people to their adopted country, the United States.

"To enroll in the Japanese legion will be aiding in the fight for citizenship rights in the United States. Now is the time for the Japanese to show the American people that Japanese are deserving of citizenship rights in this United States, by proving that you are ready to fight for the United States.

National League.

ROUSH OF CINCINNATI HOLDS BATTING HONORS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, April 28.—With twenty hits—four of them three-baggers—to his credit in twelve games, Roush of Cincinnati is out in front for batting honors in the National League, according to unofficial averages, including games of Wednesday, April 25, announced today.

Jack Smith of St. Louis and Griffith of Cincinnati, however, who have played in fewer games than Roush, are batting .667 and .500, respectively. Smith has made only six trips to the plate and Griffith twelve as against forty-two for the Cincinnati player.

NEW YORK LEADS.

New York is leading in club batting with .290, and Chicago in fielding with .971.

Leading batters: Jack Smith, St. Louis, .667; Griffith, Cincinnati, .500; Roush, Cincinnati, .476; Burns, New York, .442; Cravath, Philadelphia, .395; Merkle, Chicago, .391; Wilson, Chicago, .375; Reuther, Chicago, .364; Kauff, New York, .364; Herzog, New York, .361; Elliott, Chicago, .353; Bancroft, Philadelphia, .350; Cruise, St. Louis, .347; Wheat, Brooklyn, .333; Fischer, Pittsburgh, .333; Zimmerman, New York, .333.

SPEAKER AHEAD.

In the American League, Speaker of Cleveland, the 1916 batting champion, continues in the lead with an average of .429, although W. Johnson of Philadelphia and Rumler of St. Louis, pinch hitters, batted .600 and .500, respectively, in five games. Speaker has played in twelve, going to bat forty-two times. Cobb of Detroit, in forty trips to the plate, is batting .350.

Philadelphia and Boston, with a percentage of .252, are tied for the lead in club batting.

Leading batters: W. Johnson, Philadelphia, .600; Rumler, St. Louis, .500; Speaker, Cleveland, .429; Menosky, Washington, .400; Danforth, Chicago, .400; McInnis, Philadelphia, .396; Peckinpaugh, New York, .371; E. Foster, Washington, .364; Hoblitzel, Boston, .355; Cobb, Detroit, .350.

CLAIMS MILEAGE EASILY INCREASED.

"Ordinary heating of fuel before it enters the cylinders is of little value in these days of lower gravity gasolines," says J. W. Corser, inventor of the carburetor bearing his name. "Super-heating will assist in breaking up the fuel, but even in that case there is danger of over-expansion of the gas before it is exploded under compression by the spark.

"On the Corsers we take the air into the carburetor direct when gasoline is being used," said Corser. "This is because the mechanical action of the 'ventura' ring in the chamber where air and gasoline meet is so rapid that the fuel is litterally beaten into finest spray. We have increased mileages any where from 10 to 40 per cent. with the Corser in the heavy cars.

"Where the owner wishes to burn distillate we heat the air that is taken into the carburetor. This is done to assist combustion, the volatile properties of distillate being less than that of gasoline. Where there is imperfect carburetion, and therefore incomplete combustion, the unburned fuel on the piston walls is pulled past the rings into the crank case. The result is a thinning of the lubricating oil."

THIS CAR SHOWS "GASOLINE" RECORD.

According to word received yesterday by the Aston Motor Car Company, Pullman distributors, a Pullman car carried off the honors for the highest gasoline mileage in its class in the annual trade tour held under the auspices of the Kansas City Automobile Association.

Leaving Kansas City on Monday, the motor car cavalcade began a week's jaunt through northeast Kansas in the interests of good roads and good motor cars, the 1917 Pullman, driven by George W. Compton, being the pacemaker.

On the first day—a run of 109 miles—it was necessary to traverse sixty miles of muddy roads but the Pullman arrived thirty minutes ahead of time. On Tuesday, after a run of 143 miles, Compton and his Pullman finished second with a perfect score, having picked up the pilot en route.

Due to tire trouble, the Pullman finished eleventh on the third day of 136 miles, but scored a perfect run of 92 miles on the following day, finishing fourth. By a perfect run of 106 miles on Friday the Compton car came in fourth.

Saturday, the last day of the tour, brought the cars back to Kansas City, after a run of 160 miles, the Pullman finishing in sixth place with a perfect score.

On the entire jaunt of 746 miles over good, bad and indifferent roads, the Pullman experienced no motor trouble whatever and surprised the owners of many high-priced cars.

DEFENSE COUNCIL IS FULLY ORGANIZED.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, April 28.—The County Council of Defense, recently authorized by Gov. Stephens as a unit of the State Council of Defense, was organized here yesterday. Judge T. A. Norton, as chairman of the council, and Sheriff Charles A. Taylor and Dist.-Atty. C. A. Palmer, appointed by the Governor, named four additional members. They are John F. Beckett of Arroyo Grande, Jay Scolding of Paso Robles, James H. Bradhoff of Cambria and County Horticultural Commissioner S. V. Christierson. Chairman E. Black of the Board of Supervisors, one of the Governor's appointees on the local council, was unable to be present. Authorization was given those promoting home guard movements to proceed with their organization. As a result, the first home guard in the county was organized at Paso Robles last night.

LABOR SHORTAGE A SERIOUS PROBLEM.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, April 28.—Material is being assembled for the construction here of the new passenger station, freight depot and freight yards which will be built by the Santa Fe railroad as a part of the extension from Fresno to Porterville.

Rails have been laid as far as Strathmore, six miles north of here, and crews will be started to work north from the city limits, if sufficient men can be secured. Engineers in the employ of the company stated today that a shortage of all classes of labor promises to become a serious problem.

YOUNG WOMEN SHOW PRACTICAL ECONOMY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, April 28.—Economy of a practical sort is to be practised by the young women students of the Visalia High School. At a student body meeting, at which plans were discussed for a coming reception, it was voted that during the remainder of the war period the costume for all social affairs consist of a middy blouse, with a white skirt of some inexpensive material.

Recently the girls of the school enlisted in the work of aiding in the case of vacant lot gardens and will devote particular attention to the production of potatoes.

DEMAND FOR COPPERS FEATURE OF TRADING.

Heavy Selling of United States Steel and Related Industrials Causes Unsettlement — Railroad Bonds Tend Lower, but Internationals are More Steady — Total Stock Sales 260,000 Shares.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 28.—The market was unsettled during the greater part of today's brief trading period. There was a sharp demand for coppers, particularly Utah, in response to latest trade advices, an advance of one-half to a full cent being reported in the refined metal for midyear delivery.

Heavy selling of United States Steel and related industrials, the leathers, motors and oil forced the light list back. Declines became more abrupt later on general offerings of rails.

Short covering effected partial recoveries, steel making up more ground than most industrials and closing at 115¾, a loss of ¼ point.

Utah retained only a fraction of its extreme rise of 2⅝ points. Rails made little or no recovery.

Total sales, 260,000 shares.

Railroad bonds tended lower with stocks, but internationals were more steady. Total sales, par value $1,715,000. United States coupon 3s declined 1½ per cent., the registered 4s 1 per cent. and the coupon 4s ½ per cent. on call during the week.

THE METAL MARKET: LEAD, COPPER, ETC.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 28.—A firmer tone developed in the copper market toward the end of the week following announcement that the government would pay a price of 25 cents for 100,000,000 pounds. No immediate improvement in the volume of business was reported. Quotations for spot and nearby deliveries of electrolytic were nominal at 30 to 31 today while larger dealers were asking 26 to 28 for the third quarter with other quotations ranging down to about 25 cents for August and September.

Iron was unchanged.

COLORADO TUNGSTEN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DENVER, April 28.—Colorado concentrates, 60 per cent., 17.00 per unit; crude ores, 60 per cent., 15.00; 25 per cent., 9.40 to 12.00; 10 per cent., 8.70 to 10.00 per unit.

QUICKSILVER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, April 28.—Quicksilver: The price is unchanged on a quiet market at 113.00 per 75-pound flask in wholesale quantities. Jobbers quote 1.50@1.75 per pound.

STRONG MARKET ON LOCAL EXCHANGE.

UNION OIL RECORDS SHARP ADVANCE.

Home Telephone Stocks Climb. Believed that Merger Plan is Ready to be Completed—Poor Showing Made by Associated. Nellie in Demand.

The local security market was strong at yesterday morning's session of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and a number of the leaders registered sharp advances. Union Oil opened higher at 126.00 and climbed with each sale, final dealings being recorded at 127.25. The Rights moved up with the stock and trading in the same was heavier than for some days past. Home Telephone issues showed improvement, the common stock selling for 65.50 and the preferred being in good call at 93.50 bid. Although no authoritative announcement has yet been made regarding the merger proposition, it is believed in financial circles that the consent of the Attorney-General of the United States has already been secured for the completion of the consolidation. This is the reason why so many insiders are in the market at present on the buying side. Associated was in bad shape Saturday and sales were posted at the new low mark of 60.00. Final bids raised the price to 60.75 but the general consensus seems to be that the stock is a sell and not a buy at current quotations.

Mining shares were practically featureless with prices steady for the majority of issues. Big Jim advanced a point and there was a strong demand for Nellie at 17½, although not a single share of that security changed hands. There are so few stockholders in the Nellie company and the stock is held so closely that at the present time when the company is on the verge of important developments it is almost impossible to get a share. Activity in Arizona Ray was marked during the past week, and according to reports from Phoenix, Ariz., the managers of the ompany are preparing to refinance development work on its properties. The stock has held around 2½ during the last few days and outside sales in the issue are reported as being heavy.

LOCAL CLOSING. STOCK QUOTATIONS.

COLLAPSE IN WHEAT AFTER FEVERED RISE

ALLIES AND WINNIPEG EXCHANGE FLATTENS BULLS.

Rumors of Entente Purchases of Future Deliveries Officially Denied, While Great Canadian Center Prohibits All Speculative Trade.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, April 28.—Feverish advances of 12½ here in the price of wheat today were followed by a sudden collapse of 15⅛, owing largely to official denials that the Entente Allies had been purchasing future deliveries at Winnipeg and because of action of the Winnipeg Exchange in prohibiting all speculative trade. A wild finish in the Chicago market resulted, with the market varying from 2½ under yesterday's close to 7 advance, with May at 2.74 to 2.74½ and July 2.25 to 2.26. Corn closed ¾ off to 1 up, and oats off 1¼ to 1½. In provisions the outcome ranged from 7 decline to an equal gain.

Uncertainty of wheat traders at the finish was due in great degree to the fact that the recent great advance in Chicago prices was based largely upon the assumption that upturns in the Winnipeg market were due mainly to purchases of Great Britain and her Allies.

Corn broke sharply with wheat after having jumped with that cereal to new high levels. Business in oats attained large proportions but otherwise the cereal duplicated the course of other grain.

Provisions, like other commodities, advanced to fresh top records and then crumbled down.

NOTE—In the above tabulation of tides the daily tides are given in the order of their occurrence, commencing with the early morning tide in the left-hand tide column, and the succeeding tides as they occur. On some days but three tides occur, the fourth tide occurring on the following morning. Comparison will show the high and low.

PORT ITEMS.

Plans are being formulated here by local parties to attempt the salvaging of several thousand redwood railroad ties, along with hundreds of feet of other lumber, including pine boards, size 2x12, which were part of the deckload of the steamer Prentiss, washed overboard in a recent storm off Point Vincente, several miles north of Point Fermin.

About 3000 of the railroad ties are high and dry on the rocks and have not been damaged. It is practically impossible to get a boat through the kelp beds to the shore, so the ties will probably be hauled up the 100-foot precipice to the top of the bluff and brought in on auto trucks.

The Brighton Beach Company has been authorized by the State Corporation Commission to sell 50,000 shares at 25 cents per share, the proceeds to be used for leveling and improving lands leased from the Harbor Commission. The company plans to erect an amusement park on the beach at Terminal Island.

JULY $1.50 ABOVE FRIDAY'S CLOSING.

OPENING DECLINE FOLLOWED BY SHARP ADVANCE.

Realizing Causes Slight Falling off and Final Transactions are Irregular—Wet Weather, Accompanied Unfavorably Low Temperatures—Few Offerings.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, April 28.—Following an opening decline of 5 to 10 points the cotton market today made a sharp advance, with July contracts selling up to $20.26 or more than $1.50 a bale above Friday's closing figures. There were slight reactions under realizing and the close was irregular, the final quotations showing net gains of 20 to 36 points for the day.

The opening decline was due to liquidation and scattered local selling on report of good rains in the Southwest. About the only complaint based on weather conditions received from the South for the last week has been with reference to droughty conditions in parts of Texas, which the rains reported this morning were believed to have relieved. At the same time, the wet weather was accompanied by unfavorable low temperatures and evidently failed to inspire any selling of consequence. At any rate, the market very soon turned firm and showed net advances of 24 to 36 points in the late trading. Covering was the chief factor on the advance. But there was also further buying of new-crop months by trade interests and a little scattering demand from outside sources.

Buyers found very few contracts offering around the ring, reflecting the stronger technical position brought about by the decline of the previous week.

COURT NOTES.

MISCELLANEOUS BRIEFS.

DAMAGE SUIT. A hot-water bottle so hot that it burned his feet interfered with Norman Jacobs' duties as a shoe salesman, and yesterday he filed suit against Dr. R. Nicol Smith for $5000 damages. He says Dr. Smith gave him medicine for a chill. The medicine stupified him and while he was in this condition, Eleanor Nichols put a hot-water bottle at his feet. Mr. Jacobs alleges she was not accustomed to attend to sick persons.

GOING TO RAISE CROP? HERE'S THE RIGHT WAY.

School Agricultural Head Prepares a Manual Showing in Detail What to do and What not to do in the Home Gardening Movement—Each School District to Serve as a Clearinghouse for Information.

FOR the information of those wishing to co-operate in the home-garden campaign inaugurated by the agricultural department of the city of Los Angeles, Clayton F. Palmer, supervisor of agriculture in the schools, has prepared a manual of direction at the request of Albert Shiels, Superintendent of Schools, in which specific instructions as to crops to plant, best soil to choose and most successful methods to be employed in the raising of foodstuffs on vacant lots, acreage and in home gardens are given.

The plan of operation follows: Each school district will serve as a clearinghouse where all information will be cheerfully supplied by principals and teachers, and advice and instruction given to all boys, girls or other citizens seeking it. Citizens who feel disposed to aid are requested to register at their respective school districts.

Lot or land owners wishing to co-operate by loaning their property to those willing to cultivate it should at once register their names and a description of the property, giving the lot, block and street number as near as possible. They can also assist greatly by applying for water connections. Ross Davis, room 6 City Hall, will give the names of owners of all lots to those seeking information.

TEAMSTERS WELCOMED.

Teamsters willing to plow and harrow ground may register with school principals in their district. If pay for the work is desired it may be had when the crop is harvested. Principals of all schools will maintain a bulletin board, giving all desired information. Consult the principal of your nearest school for all information.

In selecting vacant lots, do so with the idea of using the ground for at least two years. Avoid filled ground and select only rich, productive soils. Also avoid adobe or thin, sandy lands. The following soils are best adapted to a great variety of crops:

Sandy-loam soils are easy to cultivate, hold moisture if well cultivated and will grow big crops of corn, beans, sweet and Irish potatoes, squash and pumpkins, as well as almost every variety of vegetable such as peas, cabbage, radishes, onions, carrots, lettuce, spinach, kale, egg plant, Swiss chard, kohl rabi and, if sheltered from frost, bell and chili peppers.

While adobe soils are not desirable, they are very strong, and if great care is exercised in preparation and cultivation at the proper time (an hour's delay often being the difference between success and failure) they will produce bumper crops of tomatoes and cabbage. This soil is not adapted to the production of edible root crops. By all means do not attempt to dry farm. Failure is almost certain.

SOIL PREPARATION VITAL.

It should be laid down as a cardinal principle that proper preparation of the soil is one of the primary essentials to success. After the ground is thoroughly plowed (deep plowing is always desirable) it should be well harrowed and thoroughly leveled. This is one of the most important factors in the preparation of a garden. Every lump left in the garden is a menace. Pulverize the soil and save future hard labor and insure a better crop.

The ground should be well irrigated before plowing. It is planned to utilize the fire hydrants for this purpose. After the soil is thoroughly pulverized and leveled, irrigating trenches should be laid out with the slope of the land so that the water will flow freely. This will save work, conserve water and make gardening a pleasure instead of a backbreaking chore.

The high price of sets makes it desirable that seeds be used wherever possible or practicable. This may be done by the use of a cold frame, which is built in a sunny place, preferably running east and west. The frame is a simple matter consisting of two four-foot strips nailed end on to two eight-foot strips of about 1x6 dimension. It is merely a shallow box without a bottom that is set on the ground, which lafer is well pulverized, and then filled with rich loam well mixed with thoroughly rotted manure, or leaf mold.

SHADE IS ESSENTIAL.

When the soil of the frame is thoroughly pulverized and the seeds sown, either broadcast or drilled in in rows (consult seed catalogue instructions for different seeds) the box is well watered and covered with lath, one inch apart, burlap, ripped barley sacks, cheese cloth or other material that will give shade and a circulation of air.

The coverings should be removed when the seedlings begin to break through, but if lath covering is used, they should be left on until the plants are well established. The plants should be allowed to harden in the open a few days before transplanting.

The following vegetables are readily transplanted: lettuce, beets, kohl rabi, radishes, onions and turnips and, if proper precautions are taken, they will produce more heavily for being transplanted. The onion should be transplanted when about the size of a soda straw and the beet should be pinched back before being reset. Great care should be taken to see that the hole is sufficiently deep to allow the long slender root ample room to find loose soil in which to grow and develop.

The double row methods of planting crops has been proven the best. Plant in companion rows about ten inches apart and allow from twelve to fourteen inches between the companion rows. This permits easy irrigation and prevents danger of flooding. Use the trench or ditch method of irrigation wherever possible and allow the water to run slowly in a small stream. This permits more complete saturation and gives the water time to percolate over a wider area. Cultivate as soon after each irrigation as possible. This holds the moisture and saves water.

DO NOT BE STINGY.

By all means, raise as many vegetables that will keep as possible. Beans, potatoes, sweet and Irish, cabbage, corn, cucumbers, egg plant, pumpkins, squash and tomatoes. Potatoes do best in the lighter soils and should be grown to the limit, as they are one of the big food staples that have been high lately.

The use of wheel hose in the garden is suggested wherever possible as a great deal of labor may thus be avoided. If the garden is intelligently cared for, it will produce an abundance of crops that more than compensate for all the labor put forth. The successful gardener also will have the added satisfaction of knowing that he has done a real patriotic and practical service to his country.

Arrangements have been made for giving complete instructions to the school children. The Board of Education recently provided for the assignment of teachers to practically every school in the city. They will supervise the home gardening work of the pupils evenings and Saturdays for the remainder of the school year.

Arrangements also are being made for the use of school garden tools at the homes of the pupils. These will be loaned by the school districts to those who are unable to purchase the necessary equipment. They will be charged against the individual and must be returned when they have finished with them. Since the supply will be limited, those borrowing tools will be requested to return them at the earliest moment so that they may be loaned to others.

This movement, which is being so ardently supported by the schools, should appeal to every loyal citizen. Food and more food is essential to the nation's success in the great undertaking of aiding in the re-establishment of law and order in the world, for the United States must furnish the bulk of the food on which the great conflict is to be fought out to successful conclusion. Plant something today! Cultivate and care for it and add your mite to the sum total of the world's food supply! It's a patriotic duty. Do it now!

For Storing.

AMATEURS ARE URGED TO PLANT LATE POTATOES.

A WARNING to amateur potato growers has been sounded by the Committee on Agriculture of the Chamber of Commerce. Many city-lot gardeners have planted tubers with the expectation of having a crop that may be stored for the winter. It is to these that the warning is especially directed.

Extensive experience has shown that the early-grown potatoes—those planted in the early months of the year—will stand storage only for about thirty days. It is the second crop—planted in late July and early August—that may be stored successfully.

While there is likely to be a large early crop of potatoes in Southern California, gardeners need not anticipate that this will be enough to make potatoes plentiful until next season. It will be necessary to plant second crops.

All who have planted potatoes are urged to send to the college of agriculture of the University of California, Berkeley, for circular No. 161, dated March, 1917, and entitled, "Potatoes in California." This bulletin is sent free of charge and contains much valuable information for growers.

Early Rose, British Queen and Burbank varieties are recommended for second crops. The first crop should mature in seventy to ninety days, while the late varieties require from 130 to 150 days.

Potatoes do not thrive under irregular moisture, hence every attempt should be made to keep the moisture supply sufficient and constant, and care should be taken to apply the water to the root, leaving the leaves unsprinkled. A light cultivation should be given after each irrigation, to break the crust in the furrow and conserve the water applied.

SERBIAN BOY TRIES TO WALK TO CANADA.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BRYN MAWR, April 28.—Robert Stdany, 12 years old, was picked up by officers here this morning early. He says he is on his way to his old home in Serbia, that he wants to go there to get a good education and learn ten languages. He says that he can speak five languages now and proved it.

The boy had walked from a ranch near Ensenada to this place on his way to Canada. He expects to see the Serbian Consul there and get transportation to his old home. His father and mother died a few weeks ago and he was left alone in the world.

He insists that he must go to Canada, as his father and mother gave their histories to the Consul there when they landed from the old country. The boy was taken to the county detention home.

STRANGE ELEMENTS.

Stand Alone or Cannot Be Combined With Others.

[Seattle Post Intelligencer:] There are certain elements which have no chemistry; that is to say, they are not combined, and cannot be combined with other elements, or else they are always found in combination with other elements and it is impossible to separate them.

Fluorine was in the last class until Moissan obtained it in the form of a gas by using an electric current at very low temperature.

The air contains five elements of the first class, viz., helium, neon, argon, krypton and xenon. Nearly 1 per cent. of the air is argon, according to Dr. John Waddell of the School of Mining, Queen's University, writing in the Scientific Monthly, but only one part in 170,000,000 of the air is xenon.

Helium has been found in microscopically small cavities in rocks and is also found in the air. It was not possible to liquefy it, all other gases being liquefiable, until in 1908, when the Dutch chemist Onnes did it by subjecting it to intense cold. Helium boils at 45 degrees centigrade above absolute zero. Absolute zero—the point at which no substance contains any heat is -273 deg. C. Helium has been chilled to within 2.5 degrees of this and still does not freeze.

There is one part of krypton in 20,000,000 parts of air by volume, one part of xenon in 170,000,000 parts of air and one part of neon in about 55,000 parts of air.

There is another element, niton, which belongs to this group, but it is not found in air. It is given off by radium and is sometimes called radium emanation. Niton decomposes so rapidly that in less than four days it has diminished to one-half of what it was at the beginning of that time.

"The Russian chemist Mendeleef," says Dr. Waddell, "whose arrangement of the elements according to their atomic weights in series and in groups was epoch-making in the science of chemistry, suggests that there may be two other elements in the group, elements very much lighter than hydrogen, one of them almost infinitely lighter. One is the corona of the sun, the other the luminiferous ether. At present we have no means of testing Mendeleef's hypothesis."

CREDIT AS CAPITAL.

May be Invested in Various Ways but Should not be Squandered.

[Wall Street Journal:] A prominent member of the financial district, who has had many ups and downs—financially—who has been independently rich on several different occasions, and who has as frequently been in the place where he did not know where next month's rent might come from, states unequivocally that "credit is a man's best capital."

He says that credit is something that may be invested and used to great advantage in business, but should not be squandered, lived on or worn away. "A man's credit may outlast a dozen fortunes and enable him to succeed on another attempt," he avers, and states further that he has recently written something to the effect that it is useless and foolish to advise men to keep out of debt. Useless—because men who are not so constituted cannot keep out of debt; and foolish because the great majority of men cannot do business without credit.

"To use one's credit in business may be a wise and profitable investment, but to live on credit, and thus wear it away, is always dangerous. A man should live on what he earns; and invest his credit only after careful investigation, and when his best judgment convinces him that it will be safe, and likely to yield a profit."

The author of the foregoing is now in circumstances of affluence, after having lost nigh well on to a dozen fortunes. He attributes his final success to the fact that he never abused his credit.

SALVAGE HUMAN SHIPS.

Derelicts in Baltimore Used to Give Life to Weak.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer:] Over 100 derelicts from the Friendly Inn in Baltimore have undergone blood tests at $1 apiece this winter at the Union Protestant Infirmary, a branch of Johns Hopkins, for transfusion cases.

Of the 100, twenty-five have been accepted, and have been paid $25 for submitting to transfusions. In addition to the $25, those who are accepted are being paid at the rate of $1 a day to keep themselves in condition until they are needed. The plan was evolved by a number of the leading surgeons of the city, assisted by the agents of the Federated Charities.

Recently, John Robbins, 25, of Buffalo, N. Y., who, homeless and without employment, sought shelter of the Inn several weeks ago, submitted to a transfusion operation at the infirmary. His blood was given to a little girl of good family who is suffering from anemia. Most of the cases are said to be completely successful.

A history of the families of the men whose blood is used is studied and only those of good blood are accepted. The blood of these men from the Friendly Inn now courses through the veins of a number of prominent men and women of Baltimore.

STATE'S PROJECTS PROSPER IN CITY, TOWN AND COUNTRY.

CALIFORNIA'S industrial and agricultural activities and the efforts of citizens to develop communities are already bearing fruit. The beach cities will be more attractive, both to pleasure seekers and home builders than ever before and good seasons are expected. Every farming community reports increased planting and extraordinary efforts to produce a big food supply. New industries are being established and others are being projected. Other opportunities for the investment of capital in legitimate enterprises are being offered throughout the State and it is the purpose of The Times in this department to give information concerning them. Chambers of Commerce also undertake to investigate and give information concerning projects in their communities.

Imperial.

VALLEY FEEDS EAST.

Twenty Carloads of Lambs and Large Quantities of Onions Sold to Buyers Who for First Time Outbid Pacific Coast.

An average of forty carloads of food per day was shipped from Imperial Valley last week. Shipments will increase until May 15, when there will be a slackening of carload lots until the great cantaloupe season begins, May 20, which date inaugurates the greatest activity of the valley's year.

A solid train of lambs went from Brawley last Tuesday to Denver. The twenty carloads of fine stock, fattened on barley pasture in the north end, were bought by W. L. Chambers of Denver. Many of the lambs were produced from sheep brought from Colorado by Mr. Chambers last year. Hitherto practically all the lambs raised in the valley have been sent to Los Angeles and San Francisco markets. The market in the Rocky Mountain States is practically bare of lambs, Mr. Chambers states.

Shipment of hogs, cattle, sheep and poultry continues actively. Twenty-nine carloads of this live stock, other than the trainload of lambs, were shipped last week mostly to Los Angeles and San Francisco. Lettuce shipments still continue heavy. From Brawley alone an average of six cars were shipped every day last week. Onions from 635 acres, asparagus from 600 acres, strawberries from ninety-five acres, a carload of butter per day, and more than a carload in mixed lots of eggs every day swell the total.

The Southern Pacific is preparing for the beginning of the cantaloupe, watermelon, tomato and new potato season, which will begin in ten days. At Brawley the company is moving the stockyards from the city limits to the R. N. Miller acreage north of the city, and will run three spur tracks, each 1200 feet long, to help take care of the huge shipments of cantaloupes which will, it is believed, total 6000 cars this year.

The potato growers, who will begin to dig Burbank spuds next week, will harvest 70,000 sacks of the fine Imperial product, which brings from 8 to 12 cents per pound on the Los Angeles market. D. Kimora, Meloland, has the largest planting, 120 acres. There are other potato ranches of from ten to sixty acres scattered throughout the valley.

Imperial Valley white onions are being sent out by the carload, chiefly to eastern markets. The asparagus season is closing, less than carload lots being the rule now. Within two or three weeks the first apricots and peaches to be produced in the United States will reach the 1917 market. The first apricots generally bring $1 a pound. The large acreage of early table grapes will begin to yield up the first grapes of 1917 the last of June, when a large crew of expert girl packers from Fresno will be brought here to pack them.

Orange County.

PRE-COOLING PLANT.

Santiago Association to Spend Hundred Thousand Dollars to Advance Citrus Interests—A Five-acre Site Purchased.

The Santiago Orange Growers' Association, a co-operative association and one of the many successful institutions of that kind in Orange county, has decided to take another step to advance the citrus interests of the county that bears the name of the orange. The Santiago association has voted to spend $100,000 in the erection of a pre-cooling plant at Orange, where its packing-house is located.

The association has bought five acres on West Palm avenue, adjoining the Santa Fe tracks at Orange. This pre-cooling plant will be used for preparing hundreds of cars of oranges for shipment every year. It will be used not only by the association that is to build it, but also by other associations.

The Orange county citrus growers have operated successfully through the exchanges that represent them in their selling methods. The varied brands packed by the Orange county associations are well established in the trade in the East.

The county's biggest asset in the citrus line is its Valencia groves. There are but a few districts in the world where the Valencia grows successfully, and Orange county claims that it has the premier district of them all. Packing of Valencias will start sometime in May, possibly not until the last of May, as those in charge of the selling want to wait until the eastern market is cleaned up of Navels before Valencias are started. The Orange county crop is in excellent condition, and the ranchers are expected big prices this year.

To Increase Supply.

BIG WHEAT FARM.

Los Angeles Men Planning to Grow Grain on Big Scale in Idaho. Ten to Fifteen Thousand Acres for Next Year is Expectation.

Several thousand acres of land suitable for wheat farming in the upper Snake River Valley in Idaho will be sowed to wheat this year, if the plans of F. C. Grimes, a Southern California agriculturist, with headquarters at the Hotel Clark, are carried out. The lands are situated in the heart of the wheat district which last year raised more wheat to the acre on an average than any other district in the United States. They have been cruised and soil-tested, and it is estimated that from 150,000 to 300,000 bushels of wheat can be added to the United States supply for 1918 from this plan.

The lands are held by the government and leased at low rentals to farmers for terms not exceeding five years. Several Los Angeles capitalists have become interested in the matter, and it is expected that a pool of sufficient size to handle the entire acreage will soon be made up.

Mr. Grimes and his associates expect to harvest 1000 acres or more this fall, and to have a total of 10,000 to 15,000 acres in fall wheat for the 1918 crop.

Venice.

NEW BEACH AVENUE.

Connection with Road to Los Angeles Likely to be Followed by Improvements and Advance in the Value of Property.

The South Beach of Venice promises to witness a change in the way of improvements during the next few months. Some time ago it was pointed out that this section was in line for improvements and now several changes have been announced.

Leona avenue will be opened from Washington boulevard to Speedway, which will give a straight road from Los Angeles to the beach and thence to Venice proper. This will mean a marked advance in property in that section.

The completion of the Manhattan-Venice boulevard will also add to the value of the property, as it will form a connecting link with the south beaches of Santa Monica Bay.

Long Beach.

BIGGER TUNA PACK.

Capacity of Canneries Largely Increased and Number of Boats Practically Doubled—Additions by Big Concerns.

Preparations are being made by hundreds of fishermen in Long Beach Harbor for the manning of the largest fleet this year that has ever left a southern port in quest of the "chicken of the sea." Scout ships are bringing in reports of the presence of albacore and tuna along the coast of Catalina Island, which indicates that the big canning season will open earlier this season than usual. Operations are expected to commence the last of May or the first of June, although last year the season did not open until July 1, an unusually late year.

Additions have been made to the Long Beach canning companies' holdings on the various harbor channels, but the coming season will undoubtedly see the greatest strides in the history of the industry.

Three-quarters of a million dollars is a conservative estimate of improvements now under way or contemplated by the packing concerns for the coming season.

New boats are being delivered weekly to a number of plants. The fleets of some will be increased from 100 to 300 per cent. this year over last.

Two score big new nets were received by harbor fishermen this week and are now being dyed in tanbark for preservation.

Fishing smacks are being overhauled in general, the harbor presenting a busy scene of action with the preparations for the coming season.

Most of the money on improvements will be expended in providing units where sardine canning can be carried on the year around with interruption by the tuna and albacore season.

Workmen are completing new bunkhouses for the Halfhill Tuna Company's fishermen. They have the conveniences of a modern apartment. This plant is also installing a unit that will increase its output 33 1-3 per cent. over last year. The Halfhill fleet will be close to 300 per cent. greater this year than last.

New bunkhouses are also being erected by the Long Beach Tuna Canning Company, and plans are in preparation for the building of an additional unit to the present plant. The Long Beach Tuna Canning Company, which handles the big California grays killed by Whaler John Dolphin Loop, Long Beach's famous sea scout and leviathan lancer, will spend several thousand dollars for additional equipment and facilities.

Several improvements and enlargements are about to be made by the South Coast Canning Company, one of the biggest packing concerns in the West. A new unit will immediately be erected that will give this plant 10,000 additional feet of floor space and will nearly double the output, the present capacity being 2000 cases of sardines per day.

Redondo Beach.

BATH-HOUSE OPEN.

Active Summer Resort Scene of Many Improvements Due to Work of Chamber of Commerce. Move for Consolidation Started.

Redondo Beach has expended $2500 for the interior of the bath house. New fountains, steps and side-walls are completed, and the house thrown open for the summer season.

The Edison Electric Company and the Pacific Electric are providing lights to be thrown on the American flag at the top of a ninety-foot flag pole in the center of the city, every evening. It can be seen for miles out to sea. The searchlights are being installed from the walls of the bath house and dance pavilion.

The Redondo Beach Rod and Reel Club will be born into the world next week with the installation of tables in the sun parlor of the new $125,000 municipal pier. Anyone fishing from the pier, after signing, can receive a button and prizes will be given for the best catch every day.

Redondo Beach is also to have a new band, which will play Sunday concerts and dance music. The new orchestra will make its initial appearance next Tuesday.

A movement is on foot to merge the three cities of Redondo Beach, Hermosa and Manhattan into one city, to eliminate the heavy overhead expense of hiring city officials for the three cities within a radius of six miles of each other.

From Coachella.

ONION SHIPMENTS START

Crop Will Give Growers of Little Valley Three-quarters of a Million Dollars — Asparagus Men Also Getting Big Returns.

Sales of Coachella Valley acreage have been stimulated in the last thirty days by the anticipated onion crop in the Thermal and Coachella districts. The California Vegetable Union estimates a yield of 262 cars from the Coachella district and 476 cars from the Thermal district, giving the valley a total yield for 1917 of 738 cars of 540 crates to the car, or a total yield for the entire valley of 398,520 crates. Preparations for harvesting this enormous crop, which comes from a little valley only eight miles wide and thirty miles long and 130 miles from Los Angeles, have been under way for some time and now carload shipments are arriving at Los Angeles daily.

The average production of onions for the valley amounts to approximately 500 crates to the acre and the cost of growing, harvesting, crating and hauling to the shipping point, including interest on the money invested in land, is between 50 cents and 55 cents per crate. Crystal wax onions have been selling whole sale at $4 per crate, and silver skins at $5 per crate. These two varieties are the most popular with the Coachella growers and are really the only two varieties extensively grown there. At the present prices there should be distributed this year to Coachella Valley onion growers over $750,000.

Other crops in the valley are also proving most gratifying, particularly asparagus. One farmer, J. L. Hudson, has already taken $3000 from eight acres of asparagus and is still shipping. Naturally, such results are attracting to the Coachella Valley not only the small farmer, but the large grower as well, and sales are being made there daily.

Santa Monica.

ROOM FOR INDUSTRIES.

Chamber of Commerce Secretary Prepared to Give Definite Information to Investors Seeking Opportunity.

Santa Monica is offering unusual opportunities to manufacturers of special lines, especially those where women and girls are employed. There are several reasons, says William A. Gibson, secretary of the Santa Monica-Ocean Park Chamber, why these kind of industries can thrive to advantage in Santa Monica.

He points out especially that Santa Monica is an unusually healthful place in which to live and that the other necessities such as railroad facilities, nearness to water transportation and a selling field, are all evident.

There are many sites at present for such industries and the best of conditions are offered to investors. Santa Monica has a certain section where manufacturing of such a kind can be carried forward with success. Secretary Gibson has lists of available property and will aid investors in every way.

In addition, there are many chances for the erection of attractive hotels or apartment houses in Santa Monica. Along the Ocean Front, which is the attraction for thousands of visitors, are several available sites. This is also true for hillside sites, where a high-class hotel may be erected.

Tulare.

WHOLE COUNTY ACTIVE.

Porterville Building Many Houses, but has not Enough—Sheep Industry Grows—New Poultry Plant—Lindsay Hotel Completed.

Building permits for the construction of new residences in Porterville reached a new high mark this spring, and since January 1 have amounted to more than $50,000 each month. Despite this rapidity of construction the demand for houses exceeds the supply. Several instances have been reported by the Chamber of Commerce in which families are living temporarily in surrounding towns to await vacancies which will provide them with homes.

Sheep fattening has become a valuable Tulare county industry and by late spring more than 20,000 head will have been finished for the block in feeding pens near the Visalia city limits. Rations of beet pulp and cut alfalfa have been fed and shipments of the finished animals are being made at the rate of about 1000 per week to packing-houses in San Francisco.

Tulare is to become the central collection and distribution point for poultry products for the southern portion of the San Joaquin Valley. Construction is well under way on a modern refrigerating plant, which will cost upwards of $8000 and which is to be operated by the McCullough Provision Company in conjunction with the Tulare Rochdale Company and the Tulare Co-operative Poultry Association. Poultry products shipped from the immediate vicinity of Tulare are increasing in value steadily, the total business now approximating $20,000 per month.

Generally considered the center of an exclusive citrus and deciduous fruit district, Exeter is taking a place as a dairy center, according to the monthly report of the Exeter Creamery Association. For the thirty-day period, which has just closed, $22,954 was paid out to patrons for their butter fat, on a basis of 38½ cents per pound. Organized work is being done by creamery officials to still further increase the total of deliveries to the local plant.

F. M. Carter, superintendent of the Terra Bella irrigation district, reports that thirty-four miles of the total of fifty-two miles of ditch necessary for the distribution system of the district will be completed by Saturday night. It is stated the entire construction will be finished in ample time within the limit of the contract. Water will probably be turned on the lands under the first unit of construction not later than July 1.

All difficulties incident to securing the rights of way for the Santa Fe's extension through the Porterville orange district have been settled and a large crew of men and teams are grading on the construction north of the city limits, through the Sunnyside section. It is predicted by engineers in the employ of the company that the tracks will be laid and trains running to Porterville not later than July 1.

Construction has practically been completed on the Hotel Lindsay, built by George Edwards, and which gives Lindsay a hotel equipment which will rank with the best in Tulare county. The investment is $30,000. The Central California Electric Company moved to its new building on Sweet Brier avenue. The office and plant represent an investment of about $10,000. E. B. Caldwell, until recently of Southern California, has taken possession of a new building, 75x110 feet in size, which will be occupied by his department store.

According to announcement from the offices of the Tulare County Surveyor, $10,000 will be expended this year on reconstruction and extension of the mountain highway from Big Meadows to Sand Creek. This is a part of the highway to connect Gen. Grant Park and Giant Forest. The Board of Supervisors have made application to the Federal government for an appropriation of $25,000 for aid in the construction of a mountain road to Kings River Canyon, a part of the system to reach the base of Mt. Whitney, and connect in the valley with the State and county highways now under construction.

In Many Places.

ORCHARDS ARE FINE.

Beaumont Has Over Two Hundred Thousand Fruit Trees—Walnut and Fullerton Look for Big Nut Yield—Plant Quickly Made.

Information gathered by Deputy Assessor W. A. Sewell shows that there are 216,874 commercial fruit ples lead with 118,973 trees, filling ples lead with 118973 trees, filling 1700 acres. Cherries and pears follow in the order named. Orchards intended only for family use are not included in the report.

Warm weather of the past week has made the effect of materially hastening the maturity of Valencia crop, which, contrary to early reports, will be practically normal. This means an output of 1750 cars or more of late fruit from the Lindsay district. The navel bloom is heavier than has been reported for years, and as the blossom is very evenly distributed over the trees, probably means a large proportion of the blossoms will be matured.

The outlook for English walnuts in the Walnut district this spring appears to be good, although the young sets are so small that they are not easily distinguished among the bright green leaves o fthe trees. The spring has been backward because of cool weather and the sets have not developed as repidly as has been the case in former years. Considerable new walnut acreage will come into bearing this fall and that will increase the revenue of the community.

Though too early to tell what proportions the walnut crop in the Fullerton district will attain, growers and shippers are unanimous in the verdict that this year will be a banner one. The nuts have set in clusters of two and three with a sprinkling of clusters of four. Fungus, which is largely responsible for the June dropping, is almost wholly absent from the groves.

Announcements is made of the reorganization of the Magnesite Refractories Company of Porterville, through which Edwin de Moulin, a wealthy manufacturer, formerly of Illinois, has taken over the block of stock held by H. E. Doyle of San Francisco and has been elected to the prisidency. H. L. Voss, a San Franciscan, has been chosen superintendent of the company's big property just north of here. Main business offices of the company will be located in the Marsh-Strong Building in this city. Arrangements have been made for the construction of branch tracks of the Pacific Electric Railroad to the company's mines and mill.

The Stebbins Dry Concentrator Company of Los Angeles has just completed the assembling and shipping to Barnes and Grivel, Calexico, 100-ton dry concentrator plant within fifteen days of receipt of order. This comprises the designing of the plant and the purchase, assembling and shipping of all machinery. The mill consists of engine, rock crushing machinery, grizzly, sorting belt, screens, elevators, conveyors, concentrators, dust handling machinery, electric lighting equipment, pulleys, belting, and all machinery required for a complete concentrating mill. It was necessary to get this mill out in record time because it had to be hauled to the mine over a road that overflowed with the spring rises of the Colorado River.

SUNDAY CONCERT.

A concert will be given at Tally's Broadway Theater this morning by Reginald Martin, organist. Following is the programme: "Marche Religieuse" (Guilment;) intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana" (Mascagni;) Prelude in C-sharp minor (Rachmaninoff;) Serenade (Schubert;) Grand Offertoire (Batiste;) "A Little Love, a Little Kiss" (Silesu;) "The Rosary" (Nevin;) "At Dawning" (Cadman,) and Overture, "Poet and Peasant" (Suppe.)

These special concerts, which are a Sunday feature at the theater, are proving a popular innovation.

TO WEST SEVENTH.

Large Japanese Art House Will Move to New Shopping District.

The Yamato, Nos. 635-637 South Broadway, has taken a ten-year lease on thirty-five feet of frontage in the mercantile building now being built by Huntsberger & Monnell on the south side of West Seventh street, between Hill and Olive, immediately adjoining the new home of the Ville de Paris on the east. The deal, which was closed through the agency of Metcalf & Ryan, involves a given total rental consideration for the term of $275,000.

The new quarters of the Japanese art concern will include the basement and first and second stories of the frontage secured and will be in the same building and between the stores to be occupied by the Wetherby-Kayser Shoe Company and the Bartlett Music Company. The leasing of frontage to the latter firms was handled through Metcalf & Ryan and was recently announced in The Times. The shoe company has thirty feet and the music concern twenty-five feet, including in both instances basement and two floors.

The Huntsberger-Mennell Building, it is understood, will be two stories high for the time being, the walls being made sufficiently strong to carry four additional floors. The excavations for the structure have already been completed.

WITH THE BUILDERS.

Plans are being prepared by Frank Wilson Young for a two-story brick garage to be built by H. A. Park on West Sixth street between Lucas and Witmer. The structure will cover a ground area of 50x100 feet. Frank L. Meline is drawing plans for a two-story brick garage to be erected on Hollywood boulevard between Cherokee and Hudson streets by John Shell. The building will be 37x200 feet in size. Work is to be started this week on a one-story brick garage at No. 5416 Santa Monica boulevard for F. Connell. The contract has been let for a one-story brick garage for G. D. McGilliard at Nos. 1409 to 1413 East First street. F. A. Grant is about to start a one-story brick motion-picture theater on Western avenue between Second and Third streets. Harry L. Harris has had plans drawn for a one-story brick store building at Avenue 55 and Pasadena avenue.

LEASE TRANSFERRED.

E. M. Whilton, hotel broker, reports the sale of the lease and furniture of the Finkle Arms apartments at No. 912 South Figueroa street, for Eddy and Daisy Harrison to Mrs. Elizabeth Withington. The building is of brick construction and contains 103 rooms in two and three-room apartments. Mrs. Withington is stated to have paid $12,000 cash and to have assumed a lease which calls for a total rental of approximately $80,000.

TRADE REPORTED.

H. Jerome Toy & Co. report the exchange of 160 acres of land in San Diego county and the realty of the Colton Hotel at Colton, both owned by C. C. Wandries, for a trust deed on an orange grove in Perris Valley, owned by Otto Georgi. The deal is declared to involve about $12,000 on each side.

WOODEN AND STEEL CAR IS SUPERIOR.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, April 24.—That the composite, or steel frame and wooden superstructured gondola car is superior in nearly every respect to the steel car, was the declaration of William Queenan, assistant superintendent of the Burlington railway shops before the Western Railway Club in this city, and in summing up the advantages he specified the following items:

That the initial cost of the composite gondola with the present price of steel should be less than the all-steel gondola.

That the composite type of car costs less to maintain than the steel gondola.

That sides of the composite car do not bulge as do those of the steel car.

That records show while the composite car costs more to repaint than the steel car, they do not require painting as frequently.

That a large portion of the repairs to composite cars can be taken care of at other than steel car shops.

That certain properties in coal cause corrosion to steel and that wood is not affected by these.

He gave record of 1000 cars of each type built in 1903. During the last fiscal year, 167 of the wooden cars were in the shops, and 332 of the steel, and the average cost per car of the steel car repairs was 86 per cent. higher than of the wooden or composite cars. The average number of the cars repaired shows fewer repairs were needed by the composite cars and that the number in service therefore was larger.

CASE OF CAMPBELL RESTS IN COURT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, April 28.—Vainly protesting the limitation of time set by Superior Judge Stanford, Attorney Sloan for Gov. Campbell this afternoon rested the case for the contestee in the Governorship fight. He stated that many more precincts would be presented were time allowed. Motion thereupon was made for the striking out of the vote of the precincts of Bisbeel, Swansea, Keohane Ranch, Cottonwood, Curtis, Miami 3, and Eager, with suggestion that the contestee would welcome a decision at once. In all these precincts it was shown that errors or irregularities had been shown, at least equal to those for which the judge had thrown out Snowflake precinct.

If any one of the larger precincts named be thrown out it will mean the retention of Campbell in office. At present he is a few votes behind. Immediate action was not wanted by the Hunt attorneys, however, and so the case went over till Monday, when argument for the Hunt side will be presented.

ENGINEER OFFICERS TO FORM A COMPANY.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 28.—A complete company of engineer officers, 150 strong, will be established at each of the fourteen officers' training camps to be opened May 8.

Applicants qualified will be commissioned immediately and given the pay of their grade although they may serve as privates in the provisional company during the three months period of training.

Competent engineer officers from the regular army will be assigned to each company as instructors.

ARIZONA EMPLOYERS FORM ORGANIZATION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, April 28.—Declaration of the local building trades for closed shop conditions on all buildings started after this date has been met by organization of the building contractors of Arizona, who announce "the right of the employer to run his own business, unalterably opposed to the universal card system proposed to be installed." Approval of the new organization has been given by the Phoenix Merchants and Manufacturers Associations "as indicating high principles of right and justice that cannot help but encourage building." No general strike is expected Monday as pending jobs will not be affected.

EIGHT MILLIONS IN OIL DEAL.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

TOLEDO (O.) April 28.—A deal for Oklahoma and Kansas oil properties said to represent a value of $8,000,000 was being closed today by the Paragon Oil Refining Company. The Paragon company will take over the majority holding of a group represented by J. W. Gildland of Tulsa, Okla., who is here ... the directors of the ... pany.

400 Houses Needed at Torrance

The Modern Industrial City

Over 500 MEN leave TORRANCE every night for Los Angeles and other points. It would be impossible to secure all of these men for residents of Torrance, as they own their homes in Los Angeles and elsewhere, but it is reasonable to presume that we could secure a certain percentage of them, IF WE HAD PLACES FOR THEM TO OCCUPY.

There Is Not an Empty Room, House or Lodging Place in Torrance Today

TORRANCE is a desirable place to live, and has all modern conveniences. A contract has just been let for a $30,000 Grade and High School Building. Owing to its nearness to the ocean—about 4½ miles—Torrance has a delightfully cool climate all summer.

OWING TO THE URGENT NEED FOR HOUSES in TORRANCE we would be willing to make a liberal arrangement with any responsible subdivider, whereby he could have an opportunity to participate in profits without assuming a great deal of liability himself.

We Think the Conditions in Torrance Are Worthy of Investigation by Any Responsible Builder or Subdivider.

Lima Beans The tillers of the soil in Ventura county—particularly those engaged in the cultivation of lima beans—have experienced a season of unprecedented prosperity and quotations would indicate the era will continue. Farmers who wish to live in one of the most favored sections in California can purchase foothill land adaptable for bean cultivation at moderate prices. Ventura offers wonderful possibilities for those with even limited means.

Sugar Beets The land located in this county on which sugar beets can be grown can be purchased at prices that will annually leave a good surplus in the growers' hands. Oxnard has a sugar factory that has fostered the industry and co-operated with the farmers in a manner that has been mutually profitable.

Investors The man of means can find opportunities for profitable investment in the long established oil fields of this county and at the same time take advantage of the scenic beauty and rare climatic conditions of the Ojai Valley with a home at Nordhoff.

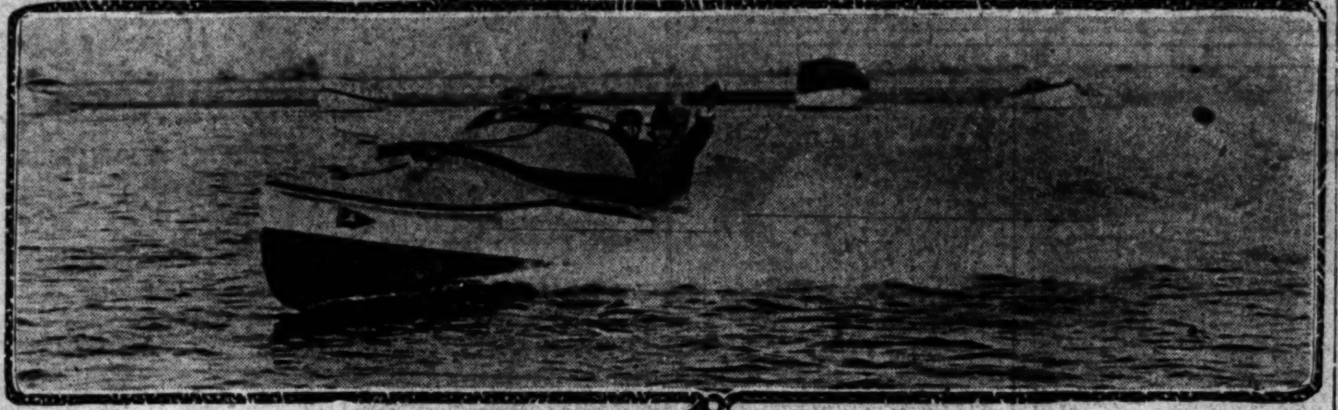
ELKS BASEBALL TEAM TO MAKE A TRIP.

Manager Laswell will take the Elks baseball team, expert representatives of "99," down to Santa Monica this afternoon for the second game of the season. The game will be staged on the old Southern Pacific grounds near Sunset Inn. Harry Stewart, former Vernon pitcher, will be on the mound for 99, and Dr. J. O. Barnett is slated to handle his delivery. Mike Shannon, who acted as a pinch-hitter against Whittier last Sunday, will be used only on the coaching line.

BASEBALL EXPERTS MISS CONSCRIPTION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 28.—President Johnson of the American League said today that while he had no assurances from government officials, he has reason to believe that if the conscription law becomes operative, it will not be applied to players on his circuit until the season ends in October, as they are now being given military training under army sergeants.



Delivering a "war" message at Avalon.

If the occasion ever arises, and it's possible, there's a car in Los Angeles and a boat at Wilmington that can deliver a message sent from the top of Mt. Wilson to Avalon, Catalina, in two hours and fifty-five minutes. A Franklin car, driven by Ralph Hamlin, and a boat with Joe Fellows at the wheel, established this record last Tuesday, and in case of "war," it is to be presumed, both would be willing to "whip up" a bit. The upper picture shows the Franklin at the postoffice on Mt. Wilson. The center photograph shows the Franklin speeding down the dangerous mountain road and the fourth picture shows the boat en route to Avalon.

ANGELS AND BEES DIVIDE UP FIRST DOUBLE-HEADER.

Weather a Trifle Too Cold for Hogg to Warm up in the Opener, While Rube Evans Allows Only Four Hits. Pete Standridge is Patriotic and Victorious in Second Game Staged.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

FOR a time it was feared that the Angels would lose a majority of their games yesterday, but they grew stronger toward evening and won the chaser, 8 to 1, after having lost the eye-opener, 3 to 2. In this charming manner was the first double-header of the season in these parts celebrated.

Rube Evans and his quaint, southpaw curves were too much for us in the opener. Hogg, while effective, was not always so at the right time. Bradley is said to be the only Hogg ever passed up by J. Ogden Armour. J. Ogden looked over him down in Tampa a year ago, and then decided to ship him West on the hoof. But the great pork prince saw Hogg in the spring, when he was not at his best. Bradley, like a watermelon, is best along about July 4, and like a persimmon he is not bad in the fall. He pitched good ball at that for this season of the year, and it would be unjust to criticise him because Evans allowed only four hits. That was no fault of Hogg's. Rube is the person who should be criticised, and we hereby do so. Consider yourself criticised, Mr. Evans.

Chance called for volunteers for the second game, and Pete Standridge responded with patriotic favor. Pete, being of military age, and unable to get married as yet, said he might as well volunteer as the conscription bill had passed. Salt Lake completely succumbed to his loyal pitching, and would have been skunked but for an error in the second. Meantime, the Angels riddled Herb Schinkle for an even dozen hits, and scored at random. Herb is regarded as a promising young pitcher. Yesterday he promised to do better the next time, and he was only a day older than he was on Friday. So he is still young and promising.

A double-header being a novelty this early in the season, quite a bunch of bugs were out to look at it. It being Saturday, the ladies were compelled to dig up. Had they not dug up at the ball park, they probably woud have been digging in the garden. The fair sex is loyal, even if erratic, and is generally there with the goods in a crisis—providing hubby has the price of the goods.

The first game was played in a rain, which, while light, was wet. This hampered the Angels, who seem unable to strike their stride in the mud. They did better toward evening, when the landscape became comparatively arid. Mud holds no terrors for the Salt Lake athletes, who have been accustomed to playing the great national pastime on snowshoes.

FIRST GAME.

Throughout the frontispiece the Angels were to be observed in the act of trying to ketch up. They managed to twice, but fell down on their third attempt. Salt Lake scored in the first, and Los Angeles tied it in the fourth. The Bees repeated in the fifth, and the Angels fired the other barrel in the same inning. Bernhard's boys scored again in the sixth. This proved to be the winning run, as the defenders had completely petered out—used up the last potato in the sack as it were.

Salt Lake's run in the second was the perfect product of a single by Ryan and Shinn's double, all of which happened with two out. The Bees filled up the bases later in this round, but Hogg tightened and turned them back.

Los Angeles countered in the fourth, when Killifer walked with one out. Meusel drove to Orr, and it looked like a hand-me-down double play until Gislason dropped Billy's throw. Killifer and Meusel executed a double steal. The former scored on a sacrifice fly by Boles after Davis had walked. Hogg grounded to Orr. Mr. Orr played a brilliant game in the field, at bat and on the bases, which includes all the departments which a ball player is supposed to illuminate.

Evans walked in the fifth, and scored on a brace of singles by Tobin and Rath. Maggert evened it in the same frame, when he walked, stole second, took third on a fielder's choice that proved the wrong guess, and counted on Gardner's single. Hogg passed Ryan in the sixth, Shinn sacrificed and Orr singled. This proved to be the deciding ace. Chance sought to start something in the ninth, and came near doing it. He batted for Hogg, and Evans walked him. Maggert eliminated himself and the P. L. by hitting into a cinch double play.

Via Automobile and Motorboat.

REMARKABLE RECORD IS ESTABLISHED IN MT. WILSON-CATALINA ISLAND SPEED RUN.

"SUPPOSE, just suppose," said the automobile editor of The Times to Ralph Hamlin, "that the Pacific squadron should be lying off Catalina Island; that army officers had been on the summit of Mt. Wilson making use of the observatory instruments; that it should be essential for them to communicate with the commander of the fleet; that the wireless was out of commission and the weather was so foggy that heliograph flashes could not be discerned, and that there were no aircraft available. How long do you imagine it would take to deliver the message, and how could it be done?"

"That's a subject worth thinking about," replied the dealer in Franklin and Scripps-Booth motor cars. "The message could be taken from the peak to the shore by automobile and from there to the fleet by boat, but how much time would be required is something I never have thought about. Tell you what I'll do, though; I'll find out for you."

"What do you mean, find out?"

"I'll make the trip from the top of the mountain to Wilmington and get Joe Fellows to take me in his motor boat across to Avalon. How does that suit you? When I come back I'll tell you how much time it took."

MAKES FAST TIME.

The proposition was accepted and, accompanied by Roy H. Compton and Joe Fellows, Mr. Hamlin made the trip, last Tuesday. Here is the result: From upper to lower toll gate on Mt. Wilson, nine miles, thirty minutes. From lower toll gate to Fellows's landing, Wilmington, 48.9 miles from summit, 1 hour, 35 minutes. This part of the run was made in a Franklin demonstrating touring car, driven by Hamlin. From Fellows's landing to San Pedro breakwater in motorboat Joe Fellows, III, five miles in 15 minutes. From breakwater to Avalon Harbor, Catalina Island, twenty-four miles, one hour flat. Total distance, 77.9 miles in 2 hours, 55 minutes.

The Franklin car left the upper toll gate on the mountains at 5 o'clock in the morning. It was barely light enough to pick the way along the trail. The fastest speed down the grade was twenty-seven miles an hour and this was made only once. The average was a little better than fifteen miles an hour. It was necessary to slow down to five miles an hour on some of the turns and accelerate rapidly to get to the next.

"WIGGLES" DOWN.

The Franklin stuck to the trail and wiggled its way down the grade, much in the same manner as a snake progresses. The last two miles were made through a fog in five minutes.

When the boulevard leading to Lamanda Park was reached the fog was so dense it was impossible to see 100 feet ahead of the car. There was no other traffic on the road and Hamlin shoved the Franklin along as fast as it was safe to go under the conditions. One or two minutes were lost by mistaking the road and ending in a blind street at Lamanda. The San Gabriel boulevard was followed to the Rio Hondo, where a bridge was out and it was necessary to make a detour into Montebello and the Whittier road.

HAVE TO SLOW DOWN.

The course led south over the Rivera-Downey boulevard and the fog and numerous railroad and highway crossings necessitated slowing down frequently. Long Beach was reached on American avenue and the Anaheim road was taken across to Wilmington. The Franklin was abandoned and five minutes were consumed in transferring from the automobile to the Joe Fellows III, said to be the fastest motor boat on the coast, and getting under way again. The run from the inner harbor to the breakwater was made at a speed of twenty miles an hour.

The fastest previous time ever

RIM OF THE WORLD HILL CLIMB IS GREATEST EVER HELD IN CALIFORNIA.

BY HARVEY E. WESTGATE.

TEN years ago the most powerful automobile in the country would have balked on the Rim of the World Hill climb course, with its grade of from 10 to 20 per cent., and its hairpin curves and dangerous canyon drive before the switchbacks are reached. Last Tuesday ten cars whirled up the eight-mile course, in from eighteen to twenty-five minutes, without an accident worthy of note, the drivers thinking little more of the trip than does the stage driver, who makes it twice each day for the greater part of the year.

The contest was won by a Hudson super six, a private-owned car, driven by Ben Buxton. Previous to the race it had been driven 13,000 miles, and from all appearances, and judging by its performance, it still is good for several times 13,000 miles. All honor to the winner, for this is but one of many records held by the Hudson, but still more important to the buying public is the fact that every car in the race proved its ability to negotiate steep hills at a rapid rate of speed. In short, the contest proved that while some cars may excel others when it comes to speed, and power, all are speedy enough and powerful enough for ordinary motoring.

COLE SECOND.

A big Cole eight, piloted by H. L. Perkins, won second honors, reaching the finishing line in 19m. 14s., and a Studebaker whirled across the tape in 20m. 27 4-5s. The latter was driven by W. C. Martin.

However, the real big feature of the race was the way the little four-cylinder cars performed. For instance, a Maxwell, two Chevrolets and a Dodge made the long, hard trip in faster time than one ordinarily drives on a smooth boulevard. The Maxwell's time was 20m. 36s., one Chevrolet was clocked at 20m. 38s. and the other at 20m. 47s. The Dodge, although experiencing a little hard luck on the way, crossed the line in 22m 22s.

To be sure, the small cars had the best of it when the switchbacks were reached, because of the fact that faster time could be made around the sharp, dangerous curves, but on the getaway stretch the big cars were able to hit up a clip beyond the speed of the smaller machines.

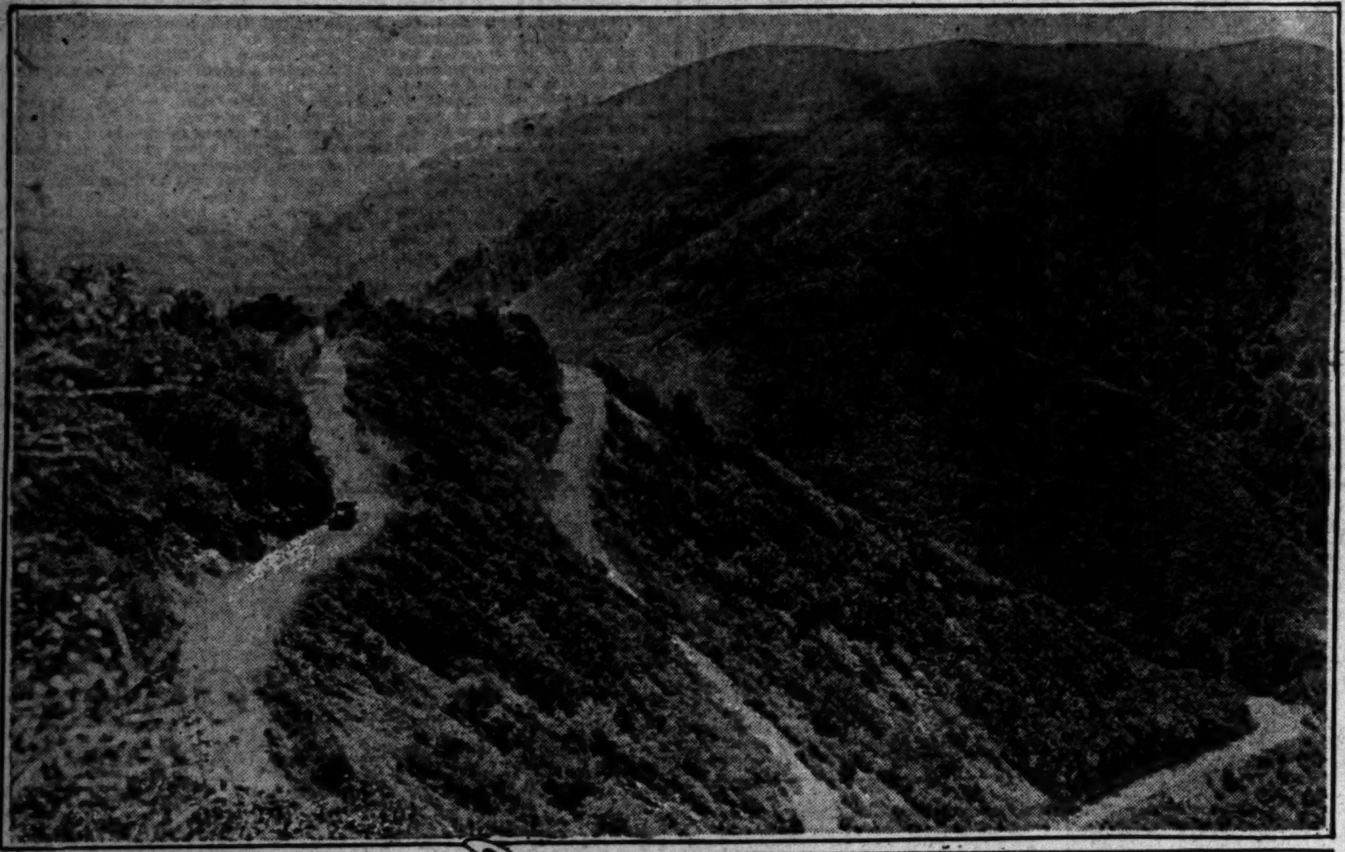
The Chalmers and a King eight were the only cars failing to finish, and nothing short of "hard luck" describes what they went through. The Chalmers reached a point close to the finish, at top speed, and would have pushed the time made by the Cole and Studebaker if a wheel, previously weakened while going through the canyon, had not given way while making one of the sharpest turns in the switchbacks. At the time of the accident, which put the Chalmers out of commission, it was closely pushing the time of the Hudson.

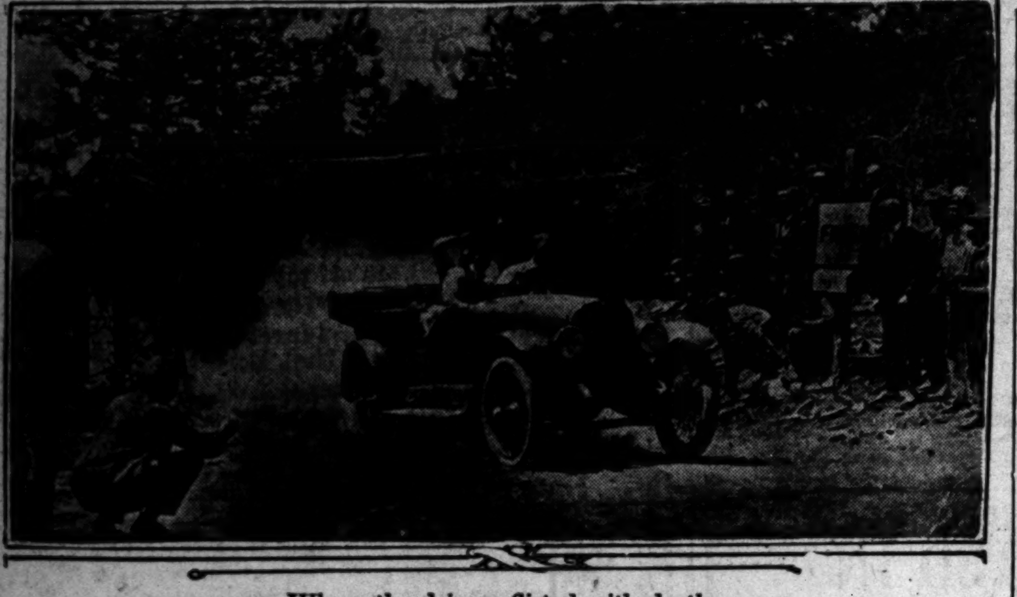
The King eight, after getting away to a sixty-mile-an-hour-clip, and negotiating the greater part of the course at an exceedingly high speed, was compelled to stop because of the clogging up of the gasoline feed pipe. By the time the pipe was cleared out, all chance of winning was gone, and the driver turned the car back towards the starting point.

FIRE IS HANDICAP.

One of the little Chevrolets, which finished sixth, made the greater part of the trip after it had caught fire. Chauncey Clem, the driver, was compelled to "stand up" and drive, the flames coming too close to the seat he had been occupying to be comfortable. Even with this handicap he drove the eight miles in 20m. 47s., which is about twice as fast as the average dare-devil stage driver makes the same trip.

It was a great contest—the greatest, in fact, of its kind, ever held in Southern California—and the chances are this event will be staged ever year. Thousands of people saw the machines at some place along the course. Hundreds of cars filled with spectators were parked at the starting point, others were lined up along the switchbacks, and fully as many were at the finish to see the cars kick up a cloud of dust as they mounted the last hill and darted across the line.





Where the drivers flirted with death.

Here are three views of the famous Rim-of-the-World hill climb course. Above is the sturdy little Maxwell rounding a curve at thirty miles an hour and kicking up clouds of dust and gravel. This car finished fourth, and won the honors for four-cylinder cars. In the center is a good view of the switchbacks, showing the Hudson super-six, winner of the contest, coming up the switchbacks at a faster clip than most people care to ride on a straightaway boulevard. Below is another picture of the Hudson crossing the line at the finish, after making eight miles up the streep mountain grade in a trifle over eighteen minutes.

English Jockey Club stewards have decided that the substitute horse race for the famous Epsom Derby, the blue ribbon event of the English flat racing season, shall be run off at the first extra meeting arranged at Newmarket on May 30 and the Oaks Stakes on June 1. The famous classic, the Ascot Cup, has been reinstated and this season styled the Newmarket Gold cup. It will be run at the second meeting, June 12.

Just Beginning!

MOTOR TRUCK INDUSTRY MERELY IN ITS INFANCY.

"WHEN I say that the motor truck industry is in its infancy, I believe that I am within the bounds of truth," said D. F. Poyer of the D. F. Poyer Truck Company, distributors in Southern California of the Republic truck.

"And mind you, I realize at the same time the great strides that have been made in the perfection of trucks in the past few years.

"The war has proven beyond any doubt the absolute reliability and efficiency of the motor truck. It has been put up against the hardest sort of usage and the manner in which it has stood up has been a surprise to its manufacturers.

"Although the motor truck today may be found in almost every line of commercial endeavor as well as in the service of nations, the number now in use will be but a drop in the bucket when comparison is made with those that will be turned out—say five years from now.

"After the war, when the business of the world will have to be readjusted, the demand for motor trucks will be unprecedented. The increased cultivation of land areas which the war has shown us to be of vital necessity will take care of an immense output. With increased good road mileage, American farmers will depend more and more on the truck in the movement of crops.

"Russia will be a wonderful field since its awakening and the time is not far distant, I believe, when that country with its great undeveloped natural resources, will draw upon the United States for trucks by the shiploads."

Poyer stated that the Republic factory is now turning out three-quarter ton Republic Dispatch trucks in such quantities that in the future prompt deliveries can be made.

HUDSON SUPER-SIX
Wins Again

Another Link in the Unbroken Chain of Big Hudson Victories was Forged by the Super-Six That Last Tuesday Won the "Rim of the World" Hill Climb

Defeating a dozen other competitors over the heart-breaking eight miles through Waterman Canyon and the famous switch-backs, the Hudson Super-Six again proved its mastery.

There is a tremendous significance in the CONSISTENT VICTORIES OF THE SUPER-SIX.

Tests of every sort, drivers of varying skill—yet the Hudson wins and wins again. What is the answer?

DOWNRIGHT SUPERIORITY OF THE HUDSON SUPER-SIX.

Unchallenged. It takes a Super-Six to beat a Super-Six. The wonderful reserve power and endurance of the Hudson motor IS NOT MATCHED IN ANY OTHER CAR.

PERFORMANCE. That is the ONLY TEST of any motor car. Where was there ever a motor car built that could distantly approach Hudson's record of performance?

Remember that the Hudson Super-Six won the Pike's Peak hill climb, that it holds the mile stock car speed record—stock acceleration records—the non-stop race record—the 24-hour record—the single transcontinental record—the double transcontinental record.

Remember the wonderful showing of the Hudson Super-Sixes at Santa Monica? And now, the "Rim o' the World" hill-climb. In every one of these events THE HUDSONS RAN TRUE TO FORM.

That is the mark of the thoroughbred.

Investigate the Super-Six for yourself. Consider its beauty, experience its extreme comfort and easy-riding qualities, test it in EVERY SORT OF DEMONSTRATION AGAINST ANY OTHER FINE CAR, and you will quickly understand why the Hudson outsells every other car in the world with a price above $1100.

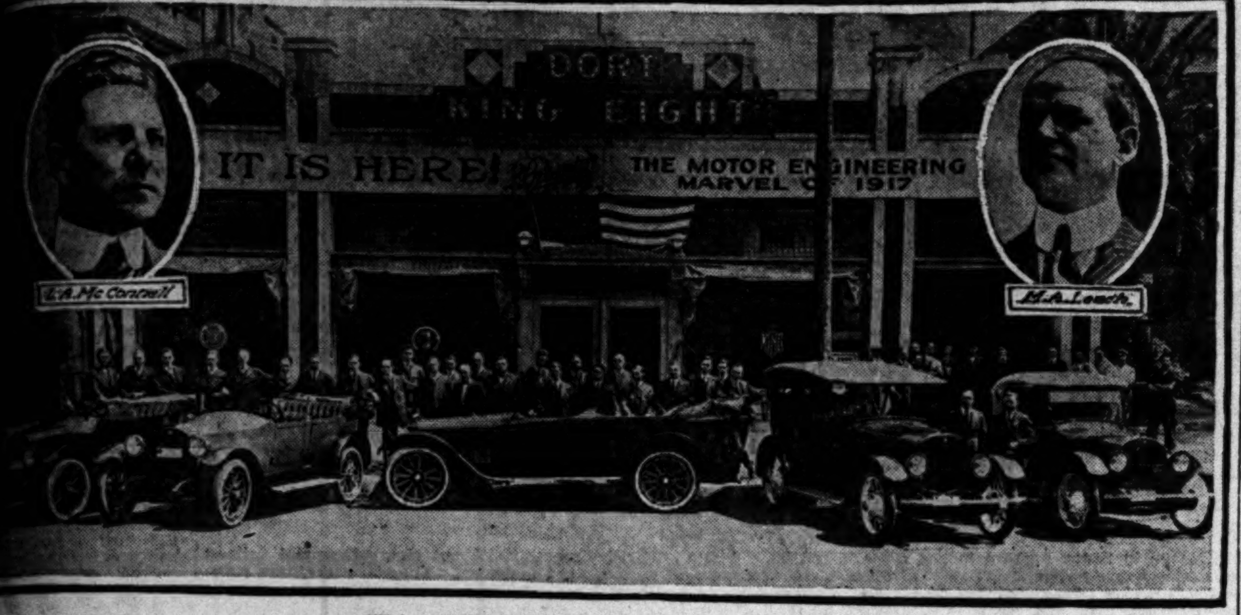
IGHT MILLION DOLLARS' WORTH OF CARS SOLD BY THIS ORGANIZATION ANNUALLY.

BY L. A. M'CONNELL,
Sales Manager Leach Motor Car Company.



"Live Wire" Leach's headquarters.

ach, manager of the Leach Motor Car Company, has earned the title of "Live Wire" Leach. L. A. McConnell, his sales manager, not to be ne, is after a title, too, and members of the sales crew are thinking of calling him "Live Actor" McConnell. Recently these two hustlers, r looking over the field of motordom, and comparing the number of cars handled by other agencies, together with the volume of business and amount of capital represented which stands back of their various lines, began using the slogan: "Los Angeles' Largest Motor Car Distributors." The various distributors, of which the Leach Motor Car Company is one, claim to do $8,000,000 worth of business a year. Mr. onnell, in an interesting article, sets forth his argument as to "why, and how," the company is entitled to the slogan.

motor car industry of to- y has reached such enorm- proportions that one is wonder at the gigantic fig- at are given out when statis- compiled.

Among the first to join him was M. A. Leach, then in the service of the Dort Motor Car Company, as western sales director, but now known as the "live wire" dealer of Los Angeles, and J. W. Frawley of the Frawley Motor Car Company of Dallas, Tex., distributors for the Dort, Premier and Reo, and Earl Stapleton of the Stapleton Motor Car Company and Federal Motor Car Company of Oklahoma City, which companies act as distributors for the Dort, Premier, Liberty, Reo and Briscoe.

Leach is a native son and realizing that the Pacific Coast is the greatest market for motor cars, he joined Dr. Skelton and formed the Leach Motor Car Company of Los Angeles. Later, J. W. Frawley came West and with Leach and Dr. Skelton formed the Leach-Frawley Motor Company of San Francisco.

Today these associated distributing houses in conjunction with the J. W. Frawley Motor Company of Dallas, the Federal Motor Car Company of Oklahoma City and the Stapleton Motor Car Company of the same city, control the entire southwest territory for the Dort. The local house also has the Southern California and Arizona territory for the Premier, King and Liberty, and with the San Francisco house controls California for the Liberty six and G.M.C. motor truck.

EIGHT MILLIONS.

The combined territory sales of these five concerns reaches the enormous total of over $8,000,000 annually—the largest volume of any motor car distributors in the United States and with a total capitalization involving hundreds of thousands of dollars back of it, the Leach Motor Car Company represents one of the strongest institutions of its kind anywhere.

Not only does the local house handle the greatest number of different makes of high-class motor cars, but controls, with but one exception, more dealers than any other distributor in Southern California. It is a common occurrence for the Leach Motor Car Company to have as many as four dealers in one town.

This institution also has more territory men in the field than any other distributor, in addition to a highly efficient live retail selling organization that ranks with the best in the automobile game.

Because of its backing and its associates with an $8,000,000 sales volume—its selling force—line of cars and actual sales—the Leach Motor Car Company can justly lay claim to the title, "Los Angeles' Largest Motor Car Distributors."

WHAT LEACH SAYS.

In speaking of the remarkable progress and development of the Skelton motor car interests throughout the Southwest, Mr. Leach says:

"It takes a big man to do big things, and Dr. Skelton is the big man in this case. He picked men he knew could produce—he gave them ample backing, and our five houses are doing a volume of business today that justifies his conviction. We chose the Dort as a starter because we all knew it to be a remarkable car at the price, built by a conscientious body of manufacturing men whose sole purpose was not to grab big salaries for themselves, but to build a car that would give the buyer a 100 per cent. run for his money.

"Next we absorbed such other makes as we deemed advisable for each territory. The King eight, for instance, in Los Angeles. Then with our ears to the ground we scouted around for other cars. So successful had been our undertakings thus far that instead of being the seeker we became the sought for, and we added the wonderful Premier to the Los Angeles, Dallas and Oklahoma houses, and the Liberty and G.M.C. motor truck to both the Los Angeles and the San Francisco houses, also the Smith-Form-a-Truck to the latter branch.

PLAN NEW HOME.

"Our one aim in business is to secure the confidence of the people. We hope to have the name 'Leach' in Southern California be the sterling mark of motor car values to teach the public that for each dollar he spends with us he will get 100 cents of value in return. We are rendering a service that has no superior anywhere and we are going to continue to do so.

"At present our various departments are housed in three different locations, but it is planned to combine these in the near future under one roof, with three or four floors beneath the roof as well. But with the plans as yet not definitely formulated, we are not in a position to give out any information about this important step.

"The Leach Motor Car Company has handled—is handling—and will continue to handle the Premier, the King eight, the Liberty, the Dort and the G.M.C. motor truck. Purchasers of any of these cars can rest assured that his car will be accorded a continuous service at the hands of a concern that is here to stay."

"Perkins was credited by observers with making a superior getaway at the start," said Mr. Irving. "He tolled into the first turn at a speed of fifty-five miles an hour, and a retired racing driver is quoted as saying it was the prettiest piece of driving shown during the contest. In making the grade past the grocery store he had the Cole eight doing sixty miles an hour.

"The time made by Perkins's car into the switchbacks was eight seconds faster than that of any other car, according to spectators. His was the last car to go up the switchbacks and the eleven that had preceded had torn up the road until the turns were littered with broken rock and dirt. The heat on the desert, where the start was made, had increased several degrees between the time the first car started and when Perkins left. A loss of one minute and forty seconds was sustained by the Cole at one time through inability to get gasoline as the result of the hard pounding up the grade. This stop eventually proved long enough to cost Perkins first position."

"KEEPING COOL" AIDS BUSINESS, HE SAYS.

That the present crisis which the country is facing has not and will not affect the regular routine of business, if the people themselves will only keep cool and let the business condition take care of itself in the natural way, is the opinion of F. H. Osler of the Osler-Racine Rubber Company.

"Business is good and is going to be good," says Mr. Osler, "and we can do a great deal towards helping our country if we all preserve our equilibrium and go right along transacting our business in the regular way, investing our money, broadening and reaching out for more business, instead of drawing in our borns and trying to depress things.

"The demand for Racine country road tires is greater today than it has ever been before, we are looking forward to the best season that we have ever had, and we can see nothing but good business reflected in the signs of the times."

Horse Sense.

DON'T "SPEED" A NEW CAR.

You Can Ruin Machine on the First Trip.

Dealers Should, and Some do, Warn Buyers.

Good Second-hand Autos in Big Demand.

BY HARVEY E. WESTGATE.

Every owner of a new car has an opportunity of saving several hundred dollars, or throwing a similar amount away, during the first 500 or 1000 miles he drives it. If "you" know the game you won't have to have the details, for you realize this statement is true—but if you're a beginner—well, if you're a beginner, it will pay you to read this twice, paste it in your hat, and tie a string around your finger to remind you of it daily. Here's the "secret:"

Drive your car slowly, not to exceed twenty-five miles an hour—and better still, not to exceed twenty miles an hour—for the first 500 miles. After that you can safely increase the speed to twenty-five miles an hour for the next 500 miles. After you have driven it several thousand miles you can open it up and know that you are not overstraining the engine.

Perhaps you want to know "why" a new car should be driven slowly. Very well, here's the answer:

NEW CAR STIFF.

A new car is stiff in all its "joints." The pistons fit the cylinders as snugly as the manufacturers dare to have them fit. The compression is good when you get your car, and you want to keep it good. There is plenty of oil in the crankcase when you leave the salesroom, and the pistons, when the car is driven slowly, are working up and down in the cylinders, shaving off rough edges that are so minute the human eye cannot detect them. If you should inspect the cylinders you wouldn't see any "rough" edges, for the simple reason that they are so minute it requires a magnifying glass to detect them—but they're there, nevertheless.

Driving a new car at a rapid rate heats the engine. Heat expands—cold contracts. You learned all that years ago, but you had forgotten to apply the rule to your engine.

Now then, if you are heating the cylinders you are expanding them. When the engine cools off they contract. And if, at the end of 500 miles, in case you have been driving your car too fast, you discover creases on the cylinder walls made by the pistons, and the compression has decreased until you have lost considerable power, don't blame the makers of the car. Blame yourself, instead, for you alone should bear the blame.

WERE YOU WARNED?

However, it may be that the salesman who sold you the car failed to do his duty in warning you about fast driving. Some salesmen think only of commissions, and lose interest in you after you have signed the check. Ordinarily, however, the dealer sees to it that his salesmen take special pains to impress this important bit of advice on every buyer. Furthermore, the time is close at hand when every successful dealer will have an expert to hand out just such advice—a man who will get a buyer up in a corner, look him in the eye, and shake his fist at him, if necessary, while he delivers this advice:

"Don't drive faster than 20 miles an hour for the first 500 miles."

It doesn't make any difference whether the car be a Ford or a Pierce-Arrow, or any car in between—this rule holds good. If you want proof ask any dealer who "knows." If you want further proof try out a car that has been broken in carefully. Try it on a steep hill, and then try it on a car that has been speeded up from the time it left the salesroom. The former will make the hill on high, and do it easily. The latter will make it on second, or low. Or, if it does go up in high it will be an effort, and you will notice the absence of that smooth, yet powerful hum of the motor.

TIGHTEN BOLTS.

Also, and furthermore, the rest of your car will be benefited by a slow, careful breaking in. Tighten the bolts after the first few hundred miles, from the radiator to the tail-light—on top, in the middle and underneath. Get the squeaks out. Keep the car clean. Give it the same careful attention you would give a car costing $10,000 and your reward will be greater than you can imagine.

Then, if you should want to sell it, after driving 5000 or 10,000 miles, you can get several hundred dollars more than would be the case had it been abused. The prospective buyer will quickly see that it has power and is free from rattles, and his wife will notice that it has been well cared for, and looks, and rides like a new car.

There's a big demand for second-hand cars that "look and ride like new cars." There is comparatively little demand for cars that "look and ride as though they had been rescued from a junk pile."

MOVE TO LARGE, HANDY QUARTERS.

The local branch and service station of the Prest-O-Lite Company, Inc., is now located at Fifteenth and Hope streets, having been removed from No. 410 West Pico street.

The new location provides much more room and a more convenient arrangement than the Pico-street quarters. The capacity for accommodating automobiles, and facilities for the repair, charging and testing of all makes of starting, lighting and ignition batteries, have been largely increased and it is claimed that this new station is now one of the most complete and best-arranged battery service stations in the West.

V. T. Combs, special representative for the Pacific Coast, explains the move as follows:

"At the new building our one big object was to make things as convenient for the motorists as possible, and we believe they will appreciate our present arrangement. We can handle thirty-five cars in this building and any one of them has a clear way in and out at any time—there's no waiting, shifting or standing along the curb. Double-width doors at either end of the building make a driveway straight through."

RUBBER CUSHION SAVES RIM CUTS.

Rim cuts are quite a common thing among motorists and are the result of the rim of the wheel coming in contact with the carcass or body of the tire, due to under-inflation, or when the car is turning around and the weight of the car tends to push the wall of the tire up against the rim.

To do away with this and to make rim cuts almost a minus quantity the new Mason tire, which is handled locally by the C. Fred Thompson Tire Company, has an extra cushion of thick rubber just above the channel and with which the rim comes in contact, instead of the carcass, as it does in other tires.

"This feature, together with the extra large air chamber of the Mason tire, appealed to us very strongly," says M. M. Robertson of the Thompson company, "and combined with the toughness of the Mason tread, was the principal reason for our choosing this tire from among the many that were offered to us."

PAIGE
The Most Beautiful Car in America

THIS new five-passenger Paige Linwood "Six-39" quality has simplified the actual physical effort of driving a motor car. We have tried to design and manufacture in this Linwood a car which a woman or youngster can drive with ease and safety. See the Linwood, ride in it, drive it and see whether or not we have succeeded.

The motor is tremendously powerful and flexible. The gears shift noiselessly with a pressure of the finger. The brake is quick, easy and sure. The entire control will give you a new conception of pleasurable and luxurious driving.

You will not only enjoy it, but you will be proud of the Linwood, because, in addition to its mechanical excellence, it is a Paige—"The Most Beautiful Car in America."

Another Victory!

Maxwell Scores Again!

—an absolutely stock Maxwell touring car finished ahead of every other four-cylinder car entered in the great San Bernardino hill climb event last Tuesday!

FOURTH place among all cars entered! First place among all fours entered! The test proved for the ten thousandth time the power developed by the wonderful Maxwell motor.

It demonstrated again the efficiency of the Maxwell cooling system—when the Maxwell finished it was so cool that several spectators were able to place their faces against the radiators!

It showed again what the Maxwell will do on a long, steady, hard, uphill drive at a high speed.

But it is no new thing for the Maxwell to make such a run. All over America the car has duplicated Tuesday's performance.

In every sort of test—speed, power, economy, endurance—the Maxwell stands supreme. Maxwell Quality is without a rival.

It is to maintain this quality that a price advance has been announced to take place on May first. Rising costs of quality materials have compelled the Maxwell Company to advance the price.

But you still have time to get your Maxwell at the present "bargain" figure.

Velie

Four Big Names Behind One Automobile!

THE world-wide reputation of four of the biggest manufacturers in the automobile world is staked on the QUALITY and PERFORMANCE of the VELIE!

TIMKEN! Continental! Remy! Velie! — and the Velie name doubles the guarantee that those parts of the car made by Timken, Continental and Remy factories are perfect.

TIMKEN AXLES — used both front and rear on the Velie! Axles which in a test were twisted, then bent double, cold, and straightened out again without a break, fracture or crack! Timken axles are admitted to be the best axles ever known to the automobile industry.

CONTINENTAL MOTOR! A special motor designed by the combined engineering staffs of both Velie and Continental organizations. The Velie-Continental motor is easily accessible. It develops power. It has far more speed than you will ever use, even in an emergency. It runs smoothly, quietly, without the slightest hint of vibration.

REMY starting, lighting and ignition! Exactly the same as used on cars selling several hundred dollars higher than the Velie!

TO all these big names is added the enormous reputation for quality, precision and reliability of the Velie Motors Corporation.

HUNDREDS of Velie Sixes are now making friends (and exciting envy) on the highways of the Southland.

EVERY Velie owner is pleased with the car and its performance. No other car on the American market embodies so many standard and high-priced features at so low a price.......... $1185 At Factory

A fire-swept garage.

This is how the "remains" of a big garage in Santa Barbara looked after it had been destroyed by fire recently. About eighty thousand dollars' worth of autos were burned. In this conflagration machines valued at many thousands of dollars were destroyed. That is, everything about them that was burnable was consumed, the remaining portions of the cars being so badly damaged as to be little better than junk. The greatest loss in machines in the destruction of this garage was suffered by the Inter-Insurance Exchange of the Automobile Club of Southern California, this amounting to $10,600. This sum, states Manager Ralph Reynolds of the exchange, was paid by the evening of the day upon which the fire occurred.

CAR HAULS MACHINE GUN UP FORTY PER CENT. GRADE

WHEN the flying squadron of the Home Guard was organized by the police department, the Mercer and Jordan Pacific Coast agency was one of the first to respond with a car and crew. The result of this enlistment was a remarkable hill climb last week to demonstrate the practicability of hauling machine guns to the tops of the mountains and hills in the line of defense around the city.

With Jack Ruddle, sales manager of the Mercer and Jordan Pacific Coast agency at the wheel, a Jordan not only went up a hillside of great steepness, but it towed another touring car in lieu of a machine gun. The hill thus conquered was near the entrance to Cahuenga Pass, being to the right of the abrupt heights on which are the ruins of the burned residence.

The Jordan had to break its way over the rough ground and through weeds, which made traction uncertain as the power was applied to the rear wheels of the Jordan. But the car successfully made the ascent, first alone and then towing the second car.

In reporting the climb to George R. Bentel, head of the Mercer and Jordan Pacific Coast agency, Ruddle said:

"I was told that only one other car ever had climbed that hill. None certainly ever has attempted to tow another car up the side, which has pitches as steep as 40 per cent. We never have found any hill too steep for the Jordan where it could get traction. That's all we want.

"The Jordan, because it was called 'the luxury car,' may not be regarded as being possessed of so much power. But, in fact, the car is in reality a regular brute for the rough work."

Several more Jordans were delivered last week in individual painting and trimming. There also were three Mercer deliveries. One of them was to Mrs. H. H. Harrison, who, with her husband, will tour in the new car to Salt Lake City. This car, a sport model, is painted in a new submarine gray, one of the latest shades to be introduced by the Bentel shops. The trimmings are of harmonizing colors.

MILLER COMPANY NOW INCORPORATED.

The incorporation of the Harry A. Miller Manufacturing Company was effected last week, according to an announcement made by Harry A. Miller, president of the concern. Frank A. Adamson, for many years associated with Miller and his business partner before the incorporation, is vice-president, and M. B. H. Miller, brother of Harry, is secretary and treasurer.

H. A. Burgess, at one time representative on the Coast for the Jeffery factory, and also associated with motor interests in this section for a number of years, is now a member of the office force of the Miller plant.

Adamson is now in Indianapolis, where he is looking after the rehabilitation of Barney Oldfield's De Lage, which is equipped with a Miller motor and carburetor, and which the dean of racing pilots will drive at Uniontown, Pa., Cincinnati and Chicago. Harry A. Miller will leave for the East in a short while to look after the company's interests.

"Although we are making prompt deliveries of Miller carburetors, it is keeping the plant on the jump to keep pace with the demand," said Miller.

Keener competition in business than the world has ever seen before has driven the great manufacturing institutions to the use of electric power. It gains them greater efficiency, continuous operation and dependable and economical power-service.

This smooth, dependable, economical power is the motive force of the modern Detroit Electric. It is the simplest, most easily controlled power the world knows. You touch a lever and you are moving, at a snail's pace or at twenty-five miles per hour.

There's no noise, no pounding, no odor, no steam or gas. Simply silent, delightful travel. You move the lever back. You stop! Your power is cut off. No chance of mishap. Safest car for woman or child. Powerful, and efficient, and economical enough to satisfy the hard-headed business man. It is the modern power. The Detroit Electric is the modern motor car. CHANGE IN SALES LETTERS SAVES FORTUNE ANNUALLY

THE manner in which the Goodrich Rubber Company changed their sales letters by "a peaceful revolution," and made an approximate saving of $18,000 a year, throws an interesting sidelight on the psychology that enters into business.

This company long ago realized the vital importance of making the sales letters, which are sent out every day by thousands, represent the institution in the best possible way. As F. R. Carroll, district manager for the Pacific Coast, expressed it, "The Goodrich company wished to put the quality of its letters on a basis with the quality of its products."

Just how to go about it, however, was a rather delicate problem. For if there is one subject upon which the average business man does not receive suggestions gratefully, it is on the matter of his business letters. The very fact that 99 per cent. of us feel that our letters are probably far from what they ought to be, makes us peculiarly quick to resent interference or suggestions for our improvement.

DICTATION.

When one considers that there are 800 men dictating letters daily in the home offices of the Goodrich company and 100 more in the branches and depots, and that many of these are high-salaried officials of power and authority, one realizes how keen was the necessity for diplomacy in approaching the question of improving the letters.

The answer, so far as the Goodrich company is concerned, has been found in the staging of a "Better Letters Campaign." The results achieved in the initial stages have been so remarkable that the story is well worth recounting.

"A House is Judged by Its Letters" is the slogan of this campaign and the evident idea underlying it is to make a correspondent write a letter which uses the same tone and is as simple and direct as a personal conversation would be between the writer and the person addressed.

The stenographers are given the same slogan to emphasize the fact that a slovenly letter or one eccentric in typewritten form, is as out of place as a badly-dressed, unkept salesman would be.

TEN BOOKLETS.

Realizing that so many things which needed to be said about the writing of a good letter could not be dumped all in one bundle on these 900 correspondents with any hope that they would be understood and made a part of each man's daily work at once, a series of ten booklets was issued. The booklets in very attractive dress and format have succeeded each other in logical sequence every two weeks. This time was allowed for each one to make its impression before the next one appeared. The first dealt naturally with the "Beginning of a Business Letter." Then followed booklets dealing with "The Ending of a Business Letter," "Good Paragraphing Makes Letters Forceful," "Suggestions for Stenographers," "Clearness and Conciseness."

These booklets are copyrighted by the Goodrich Rubber Company, but they state that sets of the booklets will be willingly sent to any firm asking for them. At present a number of big eastern schools are using them as text-books.

SMALL CAR MAKING LARK SCHEDULE FOR EIGHT TRIPS.

A FIVE-PASSENGER Maxwell touring car, driven by Ray McNamara, and carrying four passengers, left the Ferry Building at San Francisco, Tuesday night, at 8 o'clock, in an endeavor to follow the schedule of the Southern Pacific's fastest train, the "Lark," for eight consecutive nights—or four round trips.

The first run from San Francisco to Los Angeles was made in thirteen hours and fifty minutes. The second run, starting at the Western Union offices in Los Angeles at 8 p.m. Wednesday and finishing in San Francisco at 9:26, Thursday morning, consumed but thirteen hours and twenty-six minutes, the Maxwell beating the Southern Pacific Lark by nineteen minutes.

On Thursday night the car left San Francisco at 8 p.m. for the second round trip. This schedule will be continued until a total of four round trips have been made, or eight consecutive one-way journeys.

McNAMARA AT WHEEL.

The steel-sinewed McNamara is driving the entire distance himself, snatching a bite to eat and four or five hours of sleep between runs. The run is being made at his suggestion.

"In all the annals of automobile 'stunts' this run is without an equal, and even though the Maxwell fails to finish the eight trips, those already completed demonstrate the power, speed and endurance of the sturdy little car, as probably no other test has ever done," said Harry A. Lord. "The Maxwell is cutting a wide swath in automobile records the country over."

Lord is engineering all of the Maxwell demonstrations now being made in Southern California. Continuing, he said:

"For the past year, McNamara has been proving Maxwell quality in all parts of the country. First we hear of him breaking the cross State record in Michigan, then we read of his remarkable run to Chicago from Indianapolis in the Maxwell. He then bobs up in Florida and captures the record between Jacksonville and St. Augustine. Now 'Mac' is in California, proving that the Maxwells we sell out here are capable of duplicating the performances of their eastern brothers.

"The car McNamara is driving is not a Maxwell racing car, it is a five-passenger Maxwell touring car with full equipment except top and upper glass of windshield, and was taken from our salesroom. Four passengers are being carried on each trip.

"This is the same Maxwell car in which McNamara recently made the sensational twenty-four-hour run between Los Angeles, San Diego, Bakersfield and Santa Barbara, in which the Chanslor & Lyon cup was captured. It is not, however, the car which came in ahead of all four-cylinder cars in the San Bernardino-hill climb. That car was driven by Ned Lord, McNamara being in San Francisco at the time of the run."

MACK ERWIN WANTS CAR THAT NEVER FALTERS ON THIRTY PER CENT. GRADE.

YOSEMITE PILOT

Yosemite pilot car in action.

This is the car that will head the big parade into the Yosemite and Big Tree country this spring. It's a Chalmers, and Mack A. Erwin, the "Yosemite Booster," says he chose the Chalmers because of the remarkable record made in that mountainous country by other Chalmers cars. It is expected the number of visitors who will visit Yosemite this summer will be double the number that visited the park last year, largely because of improved road conditions and more liberal park rules.

A TOUCHDOWN was scored by the Chalmers 6-30 during the past week, when the Greer-Robbins Company delivered a five-passenger touring model to Mack A. Erwin, the Yosemite booster, who has charge of Yosemite tours and excursions to Camp Curry. This Chalmers has been named the Yosemite Pilot, and will head the many hundreds of privately-owned cars that will visit Camp Curry and the valley this year because of the new and liberal rules that will be in force regarding driving in this famous scenic place.

Mr. Erwin is enthusiastic concerning the selection of a Chalmers for the work. Commenting upon it, he said:

"The Chalmers was chosen for this special and arduous service from a long list of cars that have been in high altitude service during past seasons, demonstrating endurance qualities. These have spelled failure for many standard motors in continuous service of this kind. Last year the Chalmers broke the record for endurance on the stage run from El Portal to the Big Trees. That car climbed 5000 feet twice a day, approximating 10,000 miles for the season on a grade as high as 30 per cent. If this car had run the entire 10,000 miles on one grand straight-away course at the same grade of 30 per cent. it would have reached an elevation at the end of 2884 miles up in the air at the close of the season.

"The 'Big Tree' Chalmers was the only car that answered 'present for duty' every day during the open season for tourists in the snow zone. It never faltered, never failed, was always on the job and naturally was our choice for the coming season. I have been interested in the large number of people that actually witnessed Chalmers performance on those eventful trips, that have since purchased on the strength of what we were able to get out of our car. Many others are contemplating buying a Chalmers for the same reason. It's the car for road work in the Yosemite this year, as well as for comfort anywhere at any time."

The Yosemite Pilot has already started its season's duties, in the advertising service of Camp Curry, delivering automobile maps of all the roads in the higher altitudes. According to Mr. Erwin, this is the first exclusive high Sierra road map ever made. It also contains all the rules and regulations in condensed form. Mr. Erwin announces that this map is being distributed free at the headquarters of the Yosemite Pilot at No. 604 South Spring street.

MAKES DESERT ROAD TRIP TO IMPERIAL.

G. H. Herbert returned Wednesday after making the round trip to Calexico, going via San Diego and returning via Banning.

"I knew practically nothing about the 'desert' road to the valley when I was called to Calexico on a business matter," Mr. Herbert told Harris M. Hanshue, manager of the local Apperson branch, "so I drove my eight-cylinder Apperson roadaplane down the coast road to San Diego and then across. By this route the speedometer showed the distance was 319 miles.

"There are eighty miles of dirt road from the San Diego city limits to the Imperial county line, where good road is encountered for the first time. The mountain passes are rough, the grades are steep, there are many washouts and the road is rough. The new Imperial county highway is in only fair condition, but a boulevard leads into El Centro.

"If the trip is made via Banning, through Colton and Beaumont, it is only 242 miles to Calexico. There is highway all the distance to Banning and to a point a few miles beyond. It is a good dirt road out of Palm Springs and twenty miles of excellent highway leaving McCain's Springs. Leading into and out of Mecca, there are nine miles of sand road, which is the worst on the entire journey. This is where the road skirts the Salton Sea, but I found it necessary to shift from high gear only when passing other vehicles and getting into the soft sand. This is a much easier route on both car and passengers. The scenic beauty of the trip is not known to any but a few Los Angeles motorists and the grades are so easy that I averaged fourteen miles to the gallon of gasoline."

HEAVY CARS AND MEN HANDICAPPED.

Joseph Brinker, well-known authority on motor car designs, in comparing light men and light cars with those of more bulk and greater weight, in a recent issue of a leading eastern weekly, said:

"The big, heavy men must expend a considerably larger part of their energy in moving themselves through space than do the lighter men. The latter are more active and use up more of their muscular energy in performing actual work rather than moving their own bulk from place to place.

"So it is with the lighter car, as compared with the heavier one of the same motor and horse power. The latter is less efficient than the former because it must carry around its additional weight. This means more wear on the car itself, more wear on the tires and a greater relative consumption of fuel for the work performed, all of which means a higher operating cost."

Commenting on this somewhat picturesque comparison between light and heavy cars, Froman Speers of the Bekins-Speers Motor Company, Southern California distributors for the Grant Six, said:

"Brinker's comparison briefly summarizes the great advantages of a car of the Grant Six type over heavier cars of the same horse power."

THIS TIRE WIZARD NEVER HAD A PUNCTURE! LUCKY DOG.

THERE is in Los Angeles a "tire wizard" who enjoys such a unique and unusual tire record that he has quit telling about it—for he says his friends shrug their shoulders and smile suspiciously as though it couldn't possibly be done.

But he has proved beyond a doubt, he says, that given a light, well-balanced car, it is simply up to the driver what tire mileage he will get and what tire trouble he will suffer.

Ben Williams, a local jeweler, is the man who enjoys this marvelous record. He has driven 39,000 miles in Chandler motor cars—over every sort of road, under all sorts of conditions, from the rock-strewn, tortuous, winding roads of Yosemite Valley to the foot-deep sand trails of the Sonora desert, yet in all that time he has never had the least bit of trouble—not even so much as a puncture.

"Tire service has always been more or less of a hobby with me, for I have always stoutly maintained that with the right car it is up to the driver how much tire expense and misery he heaps upon himself. And I believe I am right in this opinion, for I have not confined myself to any one brand of tires, having used five different makes in my car experience.

NOT A PUNCTURE.

"My first car was driven 15,000 miles, and when it was turned in for a new Chandler the original air was still in the back tires. The second car was driven 15,000 miles, with never a sign of tire trouble or adjustments of any sort. Then I turned it in for another new Chandler, which was driven 9000 miles, and just last week turned in for a new series Chandler. I confidently expect to have the same gratifying tire service from this new car.

"Of course, the car's got to be right in the first place—light in weight, free, flexible and without vibration, for motor deficiencies quickly establish a corresponding degree of tire trouble. I chose the Chandler because I found it embodied all these features to a greater degree than any other car of its class.

"Of course, I must admit the puncture proposition is purely a matter of luck, for any car is liable to pick up nails in the road. But tire mileage is in direct proportion to the weight of the car.

FOLLOWS RULE CODE.

"Then I simply follow a simple code of rules which every driver knows, but does not observe. These have become second nature to me, unconsciously followed while I am at the wheel of the car.

"I always release the clutch when going around curves and coast. Most drivers think it's necessary to 'step on her' and speed up the motor, with a resultant grind on the tires.

"I religiously observe the motto, "Slow starts and slow stops," for these two things save tires to an incredible extent. That's about all, with the exception that my tires are kept inflated at from sixty-five to seventy-five pounds. The light, easy-riding Chandler does not require eighty to eighty-five pounds inflation. I always avoid ruts and rail wear and steer clear of tracks and road ruts always."

ONE SET OF TIRES RUNS EIGHTY THOUSAND MILES.

EIGHTY thousand miles on a set of tires on a Packard twin-six car seems like a very large statement at first glance, but there are four tires on a Packard twin six that have run over 19,000 miles apiece and are good for many more, so that the total of the four will easily exceed the amount stated, according to the owner's reports to the Earle C. Anthony, Inc.

"This is not an unusual case either, for there are affidavits on file at the Packard agency verifying such reports," said Mr. Anthony. "In one case a tire ran over 35,000 miles before it was discarded. The others of the same set made an average of over 18,000. Another set made as good an average and both sets were on Packard twin-six cars operated by Owen Brothers & Wells in a local livery service.

"William Farnum reported 15,000 miles on his set of tires when he exchanged his first twin six for the Pasadena model he is driving now.

"H. H. Cotton in the Merchants' National Bank Building gave a report on two front tires still in good condition on his car with a mileage of 17,600.

"One thing that helps to get the mileage is the smooth, continuous flow of power. Another is the even balance of weight of the chassis. The fact that the cord tires can be successfully retreaded helps many owners to get large mileage, but in the case of Mr. Cotton he has not retreaded his tires as yet. The rear pair went 12,600 before he replaced them with the non-skid type this winter, and he carries them in the tire rack as extras. He reports that he has never had one of the original set off the rims because of punctures or other troubles.

"Many persons do not realize what a smooth flow of power means in saving tires. When we had the old one-cylinder cars you could count the power impulses by the depressions on a sandy road where the engine jerked the wheels. With the two-cylinder type the depressions were not so deep, with a four-cylinder they are still perceptible, but with the twin six you cannot find a trace of the power impulse on the road surface. That absence from jerk relieves the rubber from a grinding off of the surface and reduces the shock on the tire walls as well."

Several of the tires that have run from 17,000 to 22,000 miles have been borrowed from the owners and have been put on display at the salesroom of the Packard agency at Tenth and Hope streets.

KING EIGHT CYLINDER

The Greatest "8" Ever Built

If motor car value is gauged by the result of actual car owners' tests, such as the King was put through last season, then the King "8" is, honestly, the greatest "8" ever built.

The mechanical efficiency of motor cars has reached a state of perfection in the Chassis of the King "8."

To this has been added new body types that are the last word in the perfected art of coach building. Four distinct models invite your inspection.

The King "Foursome" is the smartest sport car ever turned out—typically a four-passenger car with ample storage room for luggage and sportsmen's outfits.

The Seven-Passenger model is a luxuriously comfortable car for seven people. Its appearance is a mark of true elegance.

The Roadster for three is a real roadster, embodying all the conveniences and refinements that make this type of car so popular.

The Seven-Passenger Sedan—an aristocrat among motor cars—as commodious as a living room.

LIBERTY SIX

A Triumphant Success

"Turning work into pleasure" is the real mission of the "Liberty." Its builders, with but the comforts of the owner in mind, have produced in the "Liberty" a car that is as easy to drive and to care for as it is to use a self-filling fountain pen.

A slight pressure of the pedal disengages the clutch—a pull of the little finger applies the emergency brake—curtains and top that can be put up in four minutes, are some of the features of the "Liberty," There are dozens of others.

A powerful quiet motor that exerts its power through gears that cannot be clashed is indeed a pleasure to operate.

Speaking of color schemes.

example of beautiful color schemes and interior and top work, the Willys six displayed at the spring show of the Willys-Overland Company is a fine example. This car was finished in cream with dark brown fenders and radiator and a dark brown pantasote top. The seat covers were in flower design, with a background of cream and brown checks, which gave a most striking and beautiful effect. The car was the center of much interest, and is an example of the finished work which the Willys-Overland Company are now turning out.

VISIT TO FACTORY OPENS EYES OF LOS ANGELES MAN.

A REPRESENTATIVE of the Empire Motor Sales Company, local agents for the Empire line automobiles, visited the factory time ago and was so impressed the factory methods of the Em- company that he brings back siastic accounts of the way the is getting production in full on their 1917 models. They exceeding all former production by a wide margain, he says.

The Empire models for this consist of two chassis, four and cylinder, with six different body he said. "The four-cylinder is furnished with a five-pas- touring body or with the speedster body ever out by any popular-priced manufacturer.

The six-cylinder is furnished five-passenger open touring with a four-passenger road- body and convertible sedan

"I was much impressed by the methods employed to secure high quality, which has always characterized Empire cars, and, while there is abundant evidence of activity, yet there was no evidence of that feverish haste that might result in lack of attention to details. In the paint shops the work is done by specialists, who plainly take a pride in their art, and, after spending thirty minutes in this shop I was able to understand why the finish on Empire cars has been the subject of so much favorable comment.

"In every department the watchword seemed to be 'do it right,' and a small army of inspectors was on the job to check each operation as it was completed. As my guide showed me through the stockroom he said that more than $1,000,000 worth of material is kept on hand at all times, so that no delay in procuring new material at any time can tie up the production schedule, which is rapidly approaching thirty cars a day."

In following out this idea Mr. Hower determined that a most run should be made in a length of time and under the adverse conditions.

From the top of Tehachepi a quick run was made Mojave over the Willow Springs and the factory representa- decided that the car should be a test through sand and over going.

"The driver was therefore in- after leaving Willow Springs to cut across country and not follow the beaten trail, which conforms to the section lines. In spite of the extremely rough going, the car rode like a cradle. Although two cars were encountered which were stuck in the sand, the Willys-Knight eight was not only able to go around these cars, but pulled them out of their difficulty.

CREW PLEASED.

"All in all, the trip demonstrated to the satisfaction of the members of the crew that the Willys-Knight eight was capable of the hardest usage to which an automobile can be put and combined with its sturdiness, ease of riding and beauty of line, makes it a peer of the most expensive and exclusive cars.

"The test showed an average mileage of 12.7 miles to the gallon for the entire trip. The water consumption being less than a teacupful; and oil consumption of three pints for the entire distance of 390 miles."

Mr. Hower said that one of the most remarkable features of the trip was that, owing to the lack of vibration in this new eight-cylinder Knight, the driver at no time felt the least fatigued, although one man drove the entire run.

Chandler Power
IS Power

Chandler power is not power on paper. It is power on the hills and mountainsides; it is power in the mud and sand.

Four years of skillful and conscientious manufacturing effort have developed and refined the Chandler motor to a point approximating perfection. Chandler owners long ago named it The Marvelous Motor, and now, more than ever before, it is the wonder Six, powerful, flexible, enduring.

On high gear and without apparent labor it pulls the hard, steep grades and winding hill roads where other motors shift to second.

In crowded traffic it responds to every demand.
On open roads it answers every call for speed.
The Chandler motor is a fact-motor.
What any Chandler will do every Chandler can do.
The Chandler Company has never built a special demonstrating car.
The Chandler Company has never furnished to any Chandler dealer a special gear ratio.
Every Chandler is a demonstrator.
Chandler motor features include:

Solid Cast Aluminum Crank Case
Extending From Frame to Frame

Silent Chain Drive for Motor Shafts

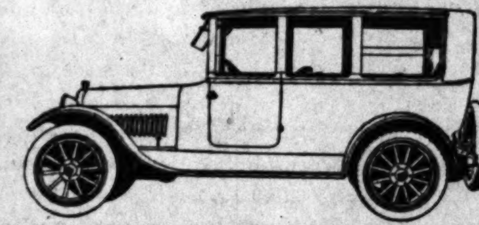
Bosch High Tension
Magneto Ignition



Summer Comfort
Winter Luxury

THE new Chandler convertible sedan offers the most attractive seven-passenger convertible type of body yet produced. This body, Fisher-built, is exceptionally roomy and comfortable. It is deeply upholstered and mounted on springs which absorb all the stress and shock of the roadway. The left side door is immediately opposite the driver's seat so that the driver to get in or out of the car does not have to disturb its other occupants. The auxiliary seats face forward, folding down into the backs of the front seats as in the Chandler touring car, and offer the same comfortable riding qualities. The forward side windows and the door windows lower away entirely by adjustable strap. The rear side windows lower half way by adjustable strap, and are entirely removable as are the window posts. The back panel of the body is of metal, highly finished. The workmanship throughout is of pleasing refinement.

No Inflation In Chandler Price

If we asked one hundred or two hundred dollars more, the Chandler would still be under-priced.

Where many makers have added as much as three hundred dollars to their selling price within the year just past, the Chandler price is only one hundred dollars higher than the sensational low price established more than two years ago.

There is no inflation in the Chandler price.

And if we asked you to pay hundreds more just because we thought we could get it, that would not make the car better.

Colors that are Beautiful

Any color that is monotonously repeated becomes common and loses its zest. Variety, contrast, dignity, and distinction are necessary to beauty.

That's why we encourage Winton Six buyers to choose unusual combinations. Not absurdities that shriek, but tasteful, individualized variations that give just the right touch and flavor of art.

Our color experts are constantly creating new combinations, ranging from effects that are striking to the quietest of charming harmonies. And in addition to this wealth of choice, you are assured that your Winton Six will present a depth of color that became almost a lost art when horse-coach building ceased. Consider us at your service. Simply telephone.

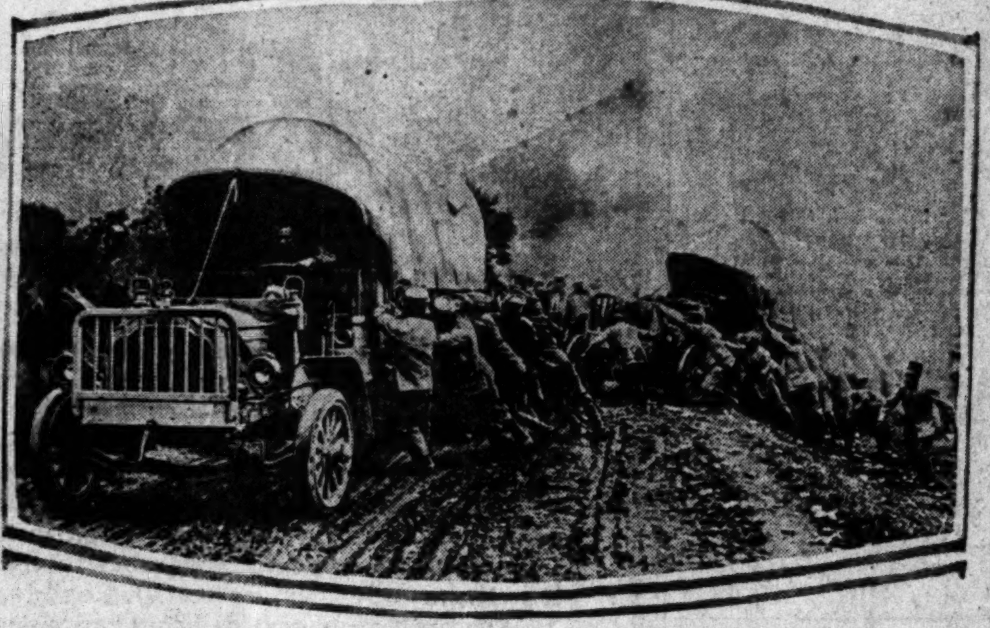
TRUCKS PLAY IMPORTANT PART IN "WAR" GAME AS WELL AS IN "PEACE."



Somewhere in France.

Earle C. Anthony (Inc.,) distributors of Packard autos and trucks, has just received some pictures of Packard trucks in service at or near the firing line in France. Many of these trucks are, and have been, doing service daily, and judging from the reports received the French government is highly pleased with their sterling qualities. It takes a "real" truck to meet the requirements of a government at war, as all motor vehicles are called upon to go over smooth roads or fields torn to pieces by shot and shell, carry heavy loads and make fast time. This picture would suggest that an order had just been issued to rush supplies to the front at full speed.

MOTOR trucks have become an immense factor in the European war, as the fate of thousands of soldiers has been decided by their ability to handle supplies of munitions and get them to the firing line on time.

There are hundreds of them in France and Macedonia. When they approach the danger zones they have to travel with lights out and often get off the road in trying to go around the holes made by explosive shells.

A correspondent of L'Illustration, the famous Parisian magazine, graphically describes a supply train as follows:

"On all the roads we encounter the interminable lines of supply trains, awaiting darkness before they venture into the danger zone. Mules loaded like the balance of Justice advance sure-footedly along the road. The drivers swear in all languages. Here are the Russians in their heavy boots, the Madagascans with bare feet and preferring to carry their shoes on their shoulders, the Annamites with dead faces, the Serbs, the Zouaves, the Colonials. All the flood pours toward the north, where the cannon fire projects fantastic figures on the sky. Two camels complete this picturesque procession through the kingdom of darkness towards the stars.

"Still farther back in the dark night comes the file of trucks, with their shining eyes searching the road on which they run. They come from all directions, lighting their way, piercing the dark, peopling the impenetrable desert with their vivacious presence."

PEACEFUL PURSUITS.

"While American machines are helping the Allies, other hundreds are used in peaceful pursuits here at home," said Earle C. Anthony. "One of the last trucks to be delivered was a ton and a half worm-drive Packard for use between San Bernardino and Gus Knight's camp in Big Bear Valley.

"On a preliminary trip the truck hauled a load of over two tons of gasoline, which will be sold to the sportsmen who go to the well-known resort to catch rainbow trout."

Road conditions into Bear Valley by way of Victorville, which is the only way open at present, have been greatly improved in the last two weeks.

Most of the road has been dragged or scraped from Victorville across the Mohave desert and the road through the Cushingberry Canyon is in good repair. The grades are steep in many places, but the Packard truck was able to get through the canyon with its 50 per cent. overload without trouble. Quite a bit of the road had to be done on low gear, as on the Johnson grade, but never once did the water in the radiator boil and no water was added.

When the Johnson grade was reached patches of snow began to appear along the side of the road, but there was none on the roadway itself.

After passing Doble there are several mud holes, which, however, are rapidly drying out. In one of these the truck was stuck for an hour, but finally, with the use of brush and chains, pulled itself out without assistance.

COMPANY TWO THOUSAND CARS BEHIND ITS ORDER

INSISTENT and increasing demand for Hupmobiles is setting the Hupp Motor Car Corporation of Detroit by the ears. In a strenuous effort to be ready to meet the terrific requirements for automobiles in May, and confronted by the fact that the company is already 2000 cars behind in unfilled orders, officials of the Detroit concern have faced the predicament bravely and assert that they have matured plans that will enable them to smash delivery records for all time. This is the substance of correspondence between Greer-Robbins Company, Hupmobile distributors for this section, and the sales department of the Hupp company.

And then, as the days, weeks, months, years and ages reeled off in endless succession, there finally arrived the modern high ceiling, wide-walled, perfectly ventilated, brilliantly-lighted modern living-room, with a broad outlook on the surrounding landscape, unrestricted by any dead wall or unsightly obstacle.

VENTILATION.

More than fifty years ago we passed that stage where we would tolerate a living-room in which the inmates were compelled to sit within six inches of the wall; and yet with the regulation top of the modern automobile of any make today, in which automobile many of we Californians spend as many or more of our waking hours than we do in our homes, the rear-seat passengers are forced to sit with heads within one to three inches of the back wall of the top and the nature of the roof is such that sight-seeing and ventilation in hot weather are more or less restricted.

This is why, in every motor party on a fine day, there is a continuous clamor by all the young bloods of the party to "let's put the top down," notwithstanding the pressing need for protection from the heat and glare of summer sun. And this is why, despite the blistering rays of July and August sunshine, many people will drive all day long with the top folded down. The present types of regulation tops used on all automobiles sacrifice to a certain extent two of the principal things for which people buy automobiles, sightseeing and fresh air.

THE REMEDY.

The new Studebaker summer top remedies this condition with a back wall that is eighteen inches from the heads of the rear seat passengers, gives the high vision line, unobstructed view and ventilation, together with that priceless boon of hot-weather motoring, "the high ceiling shade effect." In addition to these advantages, this new top adds one-third to the storage room in the tonneau and provides carrying space for two full-length upper and lower berths in the car, together with a large umbrella tent or two fly tents with blankets and bedding for six or seven passengers, leaving the running boards free for the storage of bins for cooking utensils and groceries so that a touring party can live on the road with all the comforts of home.

The display of this camping car on our salesroom floor is proving a source of keenest interest on the part of owners of every kind of car and it is believed that when this camping outfit comes into general use this summer, hundreds of thousands of dollars will be saved in hotel bills by Californians who journey to every part of the United States via the automobile route.

BATTERY MAN IS RUSHED WITH WO

A large shipment of Vesta batteries and Vesta plates was received last week by Alle S. Hamilton of the Los Angeles Ignition Works, who reports a larger volume of business right now than at any previous time. A large force of men is kept busy all the time.

Mr. Hamilton says his large floor space is at times not large enough to accommodate the business that comes into his shop, which is a good sign of the condition of the automobile and allied industries.

WAR HAS INCREASED CARBURETOR ORDE

According to C. G. Harness, technical manager for the Master Carburetor corporation, the entrance of the United States into the world war has lead to a marked activity in this country in airplane construction. "I am advised that many inquiries are received by the factory concerning the adaptability of the Master for airplane work," he said.

The perfect air control feature of the Master, in his opinion, has caused manufacturers and those experimenting with flyers to turn in its direction to help solve the problems of the air. "The Master's air control has a wonderful advantage when it comes to light and heavy air pockets, with which air pilots must contend," stated Harness.

"BEST IN THE LONG RUN"

SIX CARS PRESENTED TO NATIONAL GUARD.

The announcement by Walter M. Brown that he and his sales department have enlisted as a unit in the local home guard organization, and that he will provide a Stutz car for any use desired in this connection, seems to have acted as an example for other Stutz car dealers throughout the country. It has remained for the Stutz Motor Car Company to go a step farther along this same line, however.

President Harry Stutz has announced that he will give the Indianapolis National Guard six Stutz chassis constructed specially for ambulance work. An Indianapolis body-building company has agreed to furnish the ambulance bodies. Not only has Mr. Stutz made the gift of the chassis, but he has promised to assist in enlisting thirty first-aid men to accompany the cars. Men in the Stutz factory already have agreed to go with the cars as drivers and enough enlistments have been agreed upon to constitute a full company.

"The fifty-six-inch rear springs on Stutz cars that insure easy-riding qualities will make them exceedingly well adapted for use in the ambulance service," said Mr. Brown. "Then, too, high power and great speed, such as is possessed by all Stutz cars, are valuable assets to this class of work. The motor ambulance has proved one of the most important factors in connection with army relief work abroad and this country will unquestionably be amply provided for in this respect."

RIDING COMFORT IS WHAT COUNTS ON A LONG JOURNEY.

"RIDING comfort is all important to the transcontinental traveler," said O. E. Aultman, one of America's best-known portrait photographers, who, with his wife and son, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday, after a silver wedding journey of more than 3500 miles over the Spanish Trails Highway, in a new Velie six.

Starting from Denver on February 1, where the snow was deep, the Aultmans motored southward to El Paso and turned eastward on the old Spanish Trails Highway, driving as far as New Orleans. After a short visit in the Crescent City the westward journey was undertaken and the family arrived here yesterday to spend several months on the Coast before returning to Colorado in the Velie.

PRAISES HIGHWAY.

Aultman has much to say for the Spanish Trails Highway, over which the journey was made, and expressed wonder that more winter touring is not done on this "all-seasons" route. "The roads are excellent from New Orleans to Phoenix, and the stretches of poor roads between Phoenix and Yuma are easily mastered if the car is a god one," said he yesterday. "Although our trip was made while snow and ice bound the States north of us, we had warm, sunshiny weather every day except two in New Orleans, where it rained.

"The Spanish Trails route offers many features of scenic beauty which are decidedly out of the ordinary, and this trail should become more and more popular as an 'all-season' route, California with her wonderful paved roads and scenic beauties is a fitting climax to such a trip as we had. Although the tourist should give careful consideration to every part of the car he uses for such a trip, riding comfort should be the first and last thing he should assure himself of.

"There are many good cars, the mechanical construction of which will guarantee a safe journey, but there are few which offer sufficient riding comfort to make such a tour really enjoyable to the physical senses. The long days of constant riding are bound to fatigue the most experienced traveler, and riding comfort, roominess and resilience should be prime factors in choosing a car for long trips.

"Our selection of the Velie six was made after several days of trying out different makes of cars, and we chose the Velie primarily for the fact that it was the most comfortable car we could find.

"No motor trouble of any kind was experienced and only one spark plug was cleaned. In two of our Goodrich tires we brought Louisiana air to Los Angeles."

EVEN WAR SCARE FAILS TO STOP PROMPT DELIVERY.

"DESPITE the hardships being brought about by war conditions in various industries, the automobile business has not been seriously affected as yet," declared J. V. Baldwin. "When the first war scare took place certain well-known automobile men of the country prophesied a complete demoralization of the automobile industry, but such has not taken place in any part of the United States."

Word was received recently by Mr. Baldwin, distributor of the Saxon car in Southern California, to the effect that fifty cars are leaving the factory every day now, going overland to points as far distant as Indianapolis and Louisville. As a result, Saxon dealers are getting their full quota of cars for spring delivery, car shortage, embargoes and other traffic troubles notwithstanding.

The temporary factory of the Saxon motor car corporation, equipped and put in operation within a week after the other plant was put out of action by fire, is now turning out 225 cars daily. The freight car situation, which has hit every motor car factory in the country badly, is not preventing the Saxon company from shipping cars to its most distant distributors, but the driveaways have been made necessary to give sufficient freight cars for the long shipments.

Chicago, Rochester, Fort Wayne and many other cities closer to Detroit are being supplied by the overland route. Dealers were asked to drive away cars when the railroad strike threatened some time ago and they responded to a man. Although the strike has been averted, the company will continue the driveaways until the traffic congestion is relieved.

Dealers report they found the cars in good running condition at the end of the overland trip and really in better shape than when they left the factory, the road trip allowing the motor to get well worked in. Great care was taken in the handling of the machines, only the most reliable drivers being placed in charge. By the time the car was turned over to a purchaser the stiffness was eliminated.

In order to place the far-famed chummy roadster on the salesroom floor in time to be inspected by prospective purchasers, it was necessary to send Carol Stilson, well-known local salesman for the J. V. Baldwin Motors Company, to Bakersfield, to drive the car to this city. In this way all possible delay by freight congestion was prevented.

Almost Every American Family Can Own a Maxwell Car

Because it costs only $6 to $8 a month to run a Maxwell—much less than the average American family spends on luxuries.

The average American family spends a great deal more than $6 or $8 a month on amusements and luxuries, most of which mean nothing—wouldn't even be missed.

If you owned a Maxwell you'd want to be out in it as much as possible

—which automatically would cut out more than enough of the cost of other pastimes to cover the cost of running your Maxwell —and besides, you'd be living better, healthier, happier, in the great out o' doors, —and you'd take your place in the world as the owner of a motor car.

That's what the brains behind the Maxwell have done

—given the world a car every man can own.

An achievement! Isn't it?

The Proof of These Statements

There's no theory about these cost-of-operation figures. They're based on what thousands of Maxwell owners are actually doing—running their cars on an absolute outlay of only $6 to $8 a month.

These enthusiastic Maxwell owners tell us, too, that they get upwards of 30 miles out of a gallon of gasoline—many do better than that.

The Maxwell holds the world's record for a non-motor-stop run. A Maxwell stock car made 22,022 miles in 44 days and nights—went 22 miles on every gallon of gasoline used on that long jaunt.

We could tell of many other supreme tests of Maxwell power, endurance and economy, —magnificent deeds, never equalled by any other automobile,

—but we'll cite just one more:

A woman drove this Maxwell 9,700 miles.

Mrs. Miriam Seeley, Professor at the Oregon Agricultural College, made a 9,700-mile tour across the Continent and back in a Maxwell.

Her total expense account was 1½ cents a mile, including gasoline, oil and repairs.

And, remember, her journey was made on all sorts of roads—good and bad—across the desert and over the mountains.

That's the Maxwell! Isn't that the car for the man who knows the worth of a dollar?

The World's Greatest Motor Car Value

The Maxwell touring car, equipped with all accessories, costs you today only $665 f. o. b. Detroit. Yet every bit of metal in it is the finest obtainable for the purpose used, and is rigidly subjected to the most advanced scientific tests.

Material cost has risen tremendously. How, then, can the best be used in a car priced so low?

The answer is—

—the purchasing power of an institution as vast as the Maxwell Motor Company,

—the most efficient machinery,

—the brainiest and most skillful mechanics,

—vigilant and scrupulous technical and executive supervision,

—and the development of one model, of time-tried and proved design, to as near perfection as brains and skill can make it.

The Maxwell engine is a marvel of power and punch—simple, steady, durable and flexible.

Maxwell parts are all of known efficiency—not an experimental item in the whole car.

Maxwell—a Car to be Proud of

With refinement of finish, with grace and dignity of form and line—your Maxwell will show up splendidly alongside any car.

It is roomy and comfortable, too.

Let the Car Speak for Itself

Come to our sales rooms and look the Maxwell over,

—inspect the car thoroughly, inside and out,

—ask us as many questions as you care to,

—you needn't take anything on faith, for every statement made here can be verified.

The Maxwell will make good, and we know it.

Chalmers 7-Passenger Touring Car—Price $1500 Los Angeles

All America Applauds Chalmers 24-Hour Traffic Test

In 487 daily newspapers has been told the story of Chalmers startling performance. From Maine to California motorists are talking of the car that discovered something quite new in automobile standards. Never before has an automobile done what the Chalmers did during the day beginning noon of March 26th. To cover 586.8 miles in 24 hours through Chicago's crowded streets was truly a notable effort. To do it with a stock 7-passenger car, carrying four observers, on high gear, without motor stop, and to make 14 miles to the gallon of gasoline, was to pile up the superlatives.

Here is that flexibility you have been longing for. Here is economy in a big car that appeals to all experienced owners. Here is assurance of steady running, of consistent speed, of solid satisfaction. There never has been recorded an equal to this performance. Never before has the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association been asked to set its seal on such an effort. Chalmers builders dared this unique test because they knew what a Chalmers could do. They knew what was in its motor, its clutch, its axles and wheels. They proved the quality that so long has been associated with the name Chalmers.

Will you come and take a ride in the twin brother of the car that did this? You will be under no obligation. Be our guest for a "joy ride."

FOUNDATION FOR BIG AUTO COMPANY LAID YEARS AGO.

"SOME twenty years or more ago the foundation of one of the most popular automobiles of today was laid. Then in its embryonic stages, farming implements, wagons and such were the products turned out by this concern. Keeping astride with the improvement stages of modern times, this organization has as its specimen of production an automobile well known to ardent motorists.

"The Mitchell factory, which is one of the oldest in the United States, started on its successful career by making wagons and all kinds of farming machinery. Even at the present date wagons and buggies are oftimes discerned which bear the Mitchell trademark, while it is a daily custom to see numerous automobiles bearing the same insignia.

"Little did the founders of this auto concern realize that some day the time would come when the automobile would play a distinctly important role in the process of cultivating the soil. The time has now arrived when every person available for service to be rendered in tilling the soil has been called upon by the United States government to do his part. Along with this universal movement comes the role to be depicted by the automobile.

"In nearly every line of modern workmanship where the services of an automobile has been called upon it has responded to the call, and as a result a complete revolutionizing of that particular industry has taken place. There is little doubt but that the automobile is due to assume the leading role in the back-to-the-soil movement.

"The usefulness of the automobile in farm work has been clearly demonstrated before. Giant harvesters, tractors and various kinds of implements are now operated by the auto gas engine. There is not sufficient time left for the construction on a large scale of the above-mentioned machines, consequently any kind of machine, whether it be a seven-passenger car or a roadster, as long as it has the power, will come in for its share of the work.

"For more than eighty years the Mitchell company has been making farming implements, wagons, etc. During the last few years Mitchell cars have been used by a large number of California farmers in the performance of farm functions. It is not an uncommon sight to see a farmer sitting in a machine with a plow attached. Now that an appeal has been sounded by the government that everybody take a hand in the 'back to the soil' move, farmers, and especially those in Southern California, are employing automobiles to a great extent," concluded Mr. Baldwin, manager of the J. V. Baldwin Motors Company and distributor of the Mitchell car in Southern California.

WORM-DRIVE REAR AXLE STANDS TERRIFIC HEAT.

"THE worm wheel in a worm-drive rear axle will withstand a terrific heat without being damaged in the least," said C. L. Doerr, district manager for the Signal truck, who has been making headquarters here with C. S. Anthony, local agent for the Signal.

"Only a short time ago a big truck equipped with a Timken-Detroit worm-drive axle, such as are under Signal trucks, went through a big fire in Baltimore. CLUB SIGN SHOOTERS BECOMING REAL PESTS

ONE of the most troublesome type of pests with which the Automobile Club of Southern California has to deal are the fellows who convert the road-direction signs erected by the club into targets, in connection with which to display their marksmanship. It is almost beyond human comprehension how motorists who have sufficient "horse sense" to operate a machine will maliciously destroy signs which have been erected for the benefit of the motoring public and which are serving their purpose very efficiently. But that this practice is being indulged in is the claim made by Secretary Mitchell of the auto club.

"The damage done by these troublesome fellows amounts to several thousand dollars each year," said Mr. Mitchell recently, "notwithstanding the fact that the club is doing everything within its power to put an end to the trouble."

The most recent case of sign destroying has just been reported [illegible] the officials of the auto club, [illegible]curring in the region of [illegible] A motorist, who is not a [illegible] of the club but who is in [illegible] with the organization, called [illegible] headquarters and reported [illegible] seen several young fellows [illegible]ing up" a sign on the highway [illegible] Bakersfield.

DO "YOU" KNOW HOW TO WASH AN AUTOMOBILE?

"FAILURE to wash an automobile when the bath is needed, will, more than anything else, cause its appearance to deteriorate, and in the end means a good-size bill for its outward rehabilitation," said Al G. SPEED CONTESTS OF REAL VALUE TO AUTO BUILDERS

LACK of active participation in automobile racing in any form does not prevent a motor car manufacturer from profiting from the lessons learned through speed contests. The builders of National cars have been out of speed contests in any form for four years, or since the day that Joe Dawson won the International Sweepstakes on the Indianapolis Speedway, but they continue to gain from racing competition.

"During the eight successful and thrill-glutted years that the National Company built racing cars and maintained racing teams, W. G. Wall, the chief engineer, and his assistants, studied under that best of teachers, experience," states H. C. McVey, the Los Angeles dealer in National cars. "From that experience they learned not only to develop and build automobiles that captured the national stock championship, the Los Angeles-Phoenix desert race, the 500-mile motors Marathon at Indianapolis, and other classics, but also gained a knowledge that has been most [illegible] the design and construction [illegible] and twelve-cylinder pleasure [illegible]

The most recent case of sign destroying has just been reported by the officials of the auto club, this occurring in the region of Bakersfield. A motorist, who is not a member of the club but who is in sympathy with the organization, called at club headquarters and reported having seen several young fellows "shooting up" a sign on the highway near Bakersfield.

He took the number of the machine driven by the youthful gunners and upon being given this number the club's officials immediately began an investigation. The machine bearing the number was found to belong to a resident of Santa Barbara who, for the day, had permitted the car to be taken out by several young relatives. Later these youths acknowledged having made use of the signs for target practice.

The automobile club immediately took the initial steps toward prosecuting the offenders, but upon learning that they had later enlisted in the navy, the club's officials decided to drop the matter.

re two men who "do things." Neither is very "long" on conversation, but both are of the type who allow their "works" to speak for them. H. J. Coger, for eight years district sales manager of the Buick Company, now vice-president and manager of the Troy Motor Sales Company, is on the left, and John J. Troy, president and treasurer of the same company, on the right. The Troy company recently succeeded the Hartwell Motor Car Company, and handle the Jeffery products. To acquaint every owner, and prospective owner, of a car or truck, with the merits of the Jeffery line, backing up each statement by facts as revealed by demonstrations, is to be the policy of the company in building up what they believe will be one of the largest agencies on the Pacific Coast. Mr. Coger has been in a position to watch the accomplishments of C. W. Nash, president of the Nash Motors Company, and has every confidence in him as a producer. He is satisfied he will furnish the various organizations, which he is taking great pains in selecting, with a product which they may be proud to sell. Mr. Troy is by no means a stranger in Los Angeles, as there are a great many of his Dartmouth friends in this vicinity. As a financier Mr. Troy is one of the youngest, but one of the keenest, who have launched into the auto business for themselves.

But down at the salesrooms of the Pioneer Commercial Auto Company, White distributors, they are talking about a "new kind of a four-cylinder car," a White with sixteen valves, which they declare is bound to be the "coming car." In fact, they make so bold as to say that a sixteen-valve, four-cylinder car, not only is to be the coming car, but the car of the present, as soon as all of the motorists have had a chance to take a ride in one.

That it will largely eliminate sixes, eights and twin-sixes, in the next five or ten years, is the prophecy of the sales manager, and he completes his argument by saying that factories now engaged in turning out "fours" by the tens of thousands will awake shortly and get into the sixteen-valve game.

The White, in addition to its wonderful power and flexibility, also is one of the best-finished cars at anywhere near the price that has been shown in Los Angeles.

"When a dealer has a car that will stand comparison with others, whether from a standpoint of power, flexibility or beauty, and come out with flying colors, it is only natural that he invites comparison," said Mr. Shropshire, "and we certainly invite comparison—that's exactly what we want. If prospective buyers will try out the Yale on the hills, on the level boulevards, through sand and mud—anywhere, at any time—and then put other cars through the same test, we feel confident we know who will make the sale."

The new cars come in seven-passenger touring and four-passenger roadsters.

Two Special Steamers Chartered by One Company to Deliver Large Quantity at Factory—Many Tire Concerns Trying to Get "Under Cover."

Bending every effort to provide for its future needs of crude rubber before its large reserve stock is depleted, the Norwalk Tire and Rubber Company is making extensive arrangements to obtain record shipments of plantation and Upriver Amazon rubber and be entirely independent of market conditions which are forcing prices higher and higher.

"The large eastern concern has fortunately always maintained a big reserve stock of crude rubber in order not to be embarrassed with current market conditions, but in order to strengthen its position, the factory has decided to charter two special steamers to transport crude rubber direct from South America to the Connecticut factory," said a member of the Lichtenberger-Ferguson Company, factory distributors of Norwalk tires.

"Several other large tire concerns have communicated with the Norwalk factory, expressing a desire to shoulder part of the expense of chartering the steamers in order to obtain a share of the shipments, but no decision has been made in this matter as yet. Full arrangements for making these special shipments are expected to be negotiated during the next thirty days.

"It is intimated that a Federal investigation of the rubber situation will take place in the near future," declared Louis Lichtenberger, president of the local distributing firm. "Several of the larger tire concerns," he continued, "have been making private investigations, and during the past ten days have gotten together and compared notes. It is revealed that while considerable rubber has been imported during the past three months—in fact, a much larger quantity than was believed to be in the country, only a fraction of these importations have been placed on the market. Thus it is apparent that some certain parties have formed a combination and are holding immense quantities until prices soar sky-high. This together with the limited shipments made for the past year has already increased the price of crude rubber to a point where the prices are beginning to be felt by the motoring public."

FACTORIES FACING METAL SHORTAGE.

The question of securing metals from the East is becoming more and more of a problem, according to Los Angeles manufacturers who have to depend on that market for raw materials. With the advent of the war the prices of steel and iron have continued to advance, and the demand is so great on the other side of the Rockies that western manufacturers who have not already contracted for materials may soon face a shortage which will prove disastrous if the condition is not remedied. Representatives of three local firms were sent to Pennsylvania last week to learn the exact condition of affairs, and a prominent eastern truck manufacturer who contemplated the erection of a plant near Los Angeles is holding up plans until he learns the outcome of the situation.

"We contracted for our 1917 supply of raw materials the middle of last year," said G. J. Woodward of the Woodward Truck Attachment Company, builders of the auxiliary transmission for Ford cars, "but even with this advantage we are finding it rather difficult to keep up with orders, owing to the demand for our product. We would gladly sign contracts right now for our 1918 supply, but such a course is impossible with the country on a war footing. "Four speeds for Fords" has proven an attractive slogan for us, and the orders continue to pour in, but the fact that we are able to fill orders at all is due to the foresight of our purchasing agent, who instinctively felt the present condition of affairs a long time ago."

WAR CALL ADDS TO TRUCK SALES.

The Golden State offers a wide and varied field for the manufacture of light truck attachments and transmissions, according to W. P. Sleddon, manager for the Pacific Auto Sales Company, distributor of the L. & B. truck attachment, and the Langbein four-speed transmission for Fords.

"Ranchers, truck gardeners, vineyardists and agriculturists in general realize that the time is at hand to speed on all kinds of crop production if the demand at home and abroad is to be met," said Sleddon.

"To expedite the movement of material and crops, truck attachments are essential from an efficiency standpoint. Their economy of operation and ability to do the work in hand has been proven beyond doubt.

"I look to see California respond to the President's call for bigger and better crops in a manner that will open the eyes of the nation."

AIR IS CHEAP, BUT RUBBER COMES HIGH.

In these days of advancing prices on almost everything, it behooves everyone to watch every avenue of consumption to make sure that there is no waste, and one important thing for motorists to look out for is the care of their tires, because with just a little more attention they can be made to give considerable more mileage than is secured by the average motorist.

"You spend good money for automobile tires, and you should see that you don't waste it by abuse," says B. F. Wade of the Wade Tire and Rubber Company, who has the agency for the Tyrian tire.

"Under-inflation almost invariably results in rim-cutting, and frequently causes tread separation, neither of which would happen if the motorist would only take the trouble to see that there was air enough in the tire before starting out."

The far western track and field meet will be held in Fresno, Cal., October 6. Teams representing the Northwest and Rocky Mountain sections are expected to take part in the events.

Announcing the New Studebaker Two-passenger Roadster

HERE is an entirely new type of Roadster. Its seats are form-fitting arm chairs, set at exactly the right height and exactly the right angle—and they are adjustable to suit the leg length of the driver.

It is as beautiful a roadster as you ever saw.

Its lines are strikingly distinctive—the paint and varnish work excellent.

It is upholstered in genuine, long grain, semi-glazed leather—not only genuine but high grade.

Its power is effortless. It has the snap, the flexibility that you must have in a car of this type.

It will glide through crowded traffic on high at a mile an hour. It will pick up to forty or fifty miles an hour in half a block.

In ratio to power it is most economical in its consumption of gasoline.

It has the perfectly balanced Studebaker Chassis that has frequently enabled Studebaker owners to get from 8000 to 10,000 miles on a single set of tires.

Its long, resilient three-quarter elliptic rear springs make it remarkably easy riding.

Come in and see this new model.

Here are Brief Specifications

6 cylinders—full 50 horse power—122-inch wheelbase—Studebaker-Wagner 2-unit starting and lighting system—Timken bearings throughout—35x4½ Goodrich tires, safety treads on rear—full-floating rear axle, aluminum running board, leather-bound silk mohair top with one man action, Blackmore patent door curtain opener, Stewart speedometer, Yale pin-tumbler ignition lock on dash.

BATTERY NEGLECT COSTS MILLIONS.

"Three forms of energy are used in the modern automobile—mechanical, electrical and chemical," said an official of the Electric Equipment Company.

"The mechanical form has been with us so long that even a school boy is familiar with its fundamental principles. The electrical energy has been used in other lines to such an extent that it, too, is more or less familiar and is not altogether a mystery.

"The chemical form of energy is used only in one place, and that is the storage battery, and it seems yet to have much mystery and uncertainty thrown about it. Like most unknown pieces of apparatus the battery is frequently neglected, and it is doubtless true that the estimate of $50,000,000 a year as the cost of neglected batteries is small. The worst feature of the loss and wastage, due to neglected batteries, is that it might be avoided if a regular inspecion was made of the battery by a competent battery station.

"We are glad to note that our inspection department, now housed in its own building, is regularly inspecting more batteries than ever, and we feel that we are doing our part to see that the chemical side of every electrically equipped car gives service and satisfaction to its owner."

Ray Thomas, president of the Electric Equipment, is in the East on a business trip and will be gone for about four weeks. He will spend considerable time at the United States Light and Heat Corporation plant at Niagara Falls, whose batteries the Electric Equipment Company represents for the entire State.

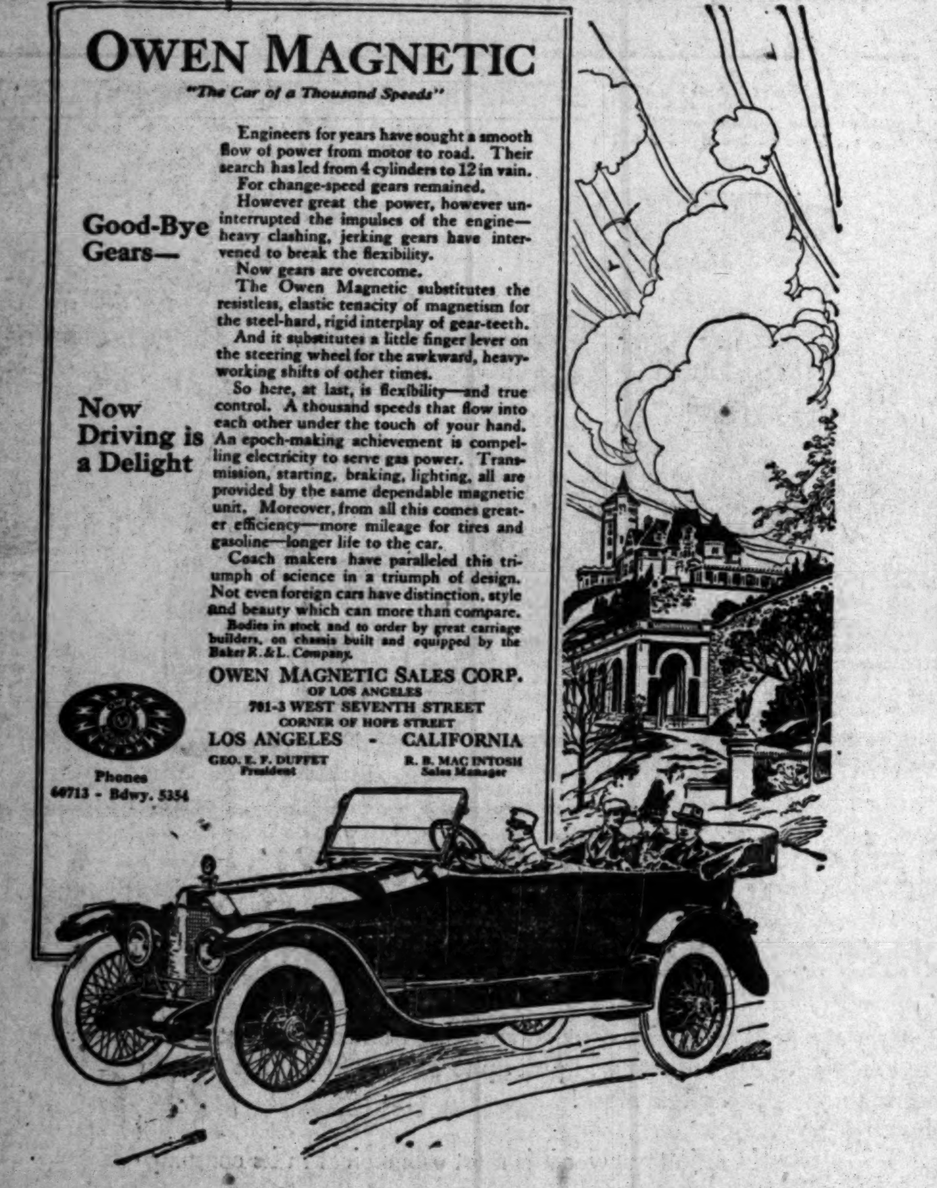
ANOTHER COMPANY TO SELL TIRES HERE.

The constantly increasing demand for automobile tires in California, and more particularly in Southern California, has induced another well known manufacturer of high-grade tires to establish a main factory branch on the Pacific Coast.

The Insulated Metals Corporation of Plainfield, N. J., has appointed Charles W. Harris manager of their Pacific Coast division, with headquarters in San Francisco, where the factory will carry a large supplementary stock of Century tires and tubes for the protection of their distributing agents. Mr. Harris has already closed with Wayne-Cook & Co., Trinity Building, Los Angeles, for the distribution of this line in Southern California, Arizona and Nevada.

The manufacturers claim for this red tread that it is so exceedingly tough and strong that in many cases the non-skid device is hardly worn smooth even after the tires have been run as much as 12,000 miles.

The purchasing power behind The Times' circulation makes this paper the supreme selling force for merchants, brokers, agents and general tradesmen, and no advertiser can get his proportionate share of business without using its columns.



OWEN MAGNETIC

"The Car of a Thousand Speeds"

Good-Bye Gears—

Engineers for years have sought a smooth flow of power from motor to road. Their search has led from 4 cylinders to 12 in vain.

For change-speed gears remained.

However great the power, however uninterrupted the impulses of the engine—heavy clashing, jerking gears have intervened to break the flexibility.

Now gears are overcome.

The Owen Magnetic substitutes the resistless, elastic tenacity of magnetism for the steel-hard, rigid interplay of gear-teeth.

And it substitutes a little finger lever on the steering wheel for the awkward, heavy-working shifts of other times.

Now Driving is a Delight

So here, at last, is flexibility—and true control. A thousand speeds that flow into each other under the touch of your hand. An epoch-making achievement is compelling electricity to serve gas power. Transmission, starting, braking, lighting, all are provided by the same dependable magnetic unit. Moreover, from all this comes greater efficiency—more mileage for tires and gasoline—longer life to the car.

Coach makers have paralleled this triumph of science in a triumph of design. Not even foreign cars have distinction, style and beauty which can more than compare.

Bodies in stock and to order by great carriage builders, on chassis built and equipped by the Baker R. & L. Company.

Take a Tip From the Tractor

IF tractors were used in Broadway it would be a splendid advertisement for Miller Geared-to-the-Road Tires. Tractors were the first to use geared-to-the-road treads. Miller engineers adopted what had been proved the most efficient and positive means of insuring road traction.

Miller Tires

literally act like a gear by meshing into the inequalities of the road surface.

Equally individual and exclusive as the unique tread, is the Miller vulcanizing process which retains all of the natural vegetable oil and wax of the fabric and all the native resiliency and toughness of the rubber.

You never get a lifeless Miller Tire—it simply cannot happen.

You always get a sturdy, cohesive, well-built tire that gives you the mileage you ought to get.

With Miller Geared-to-the-Road Tires on your car you come as close to having the ideal tire as you're likely to in this world.

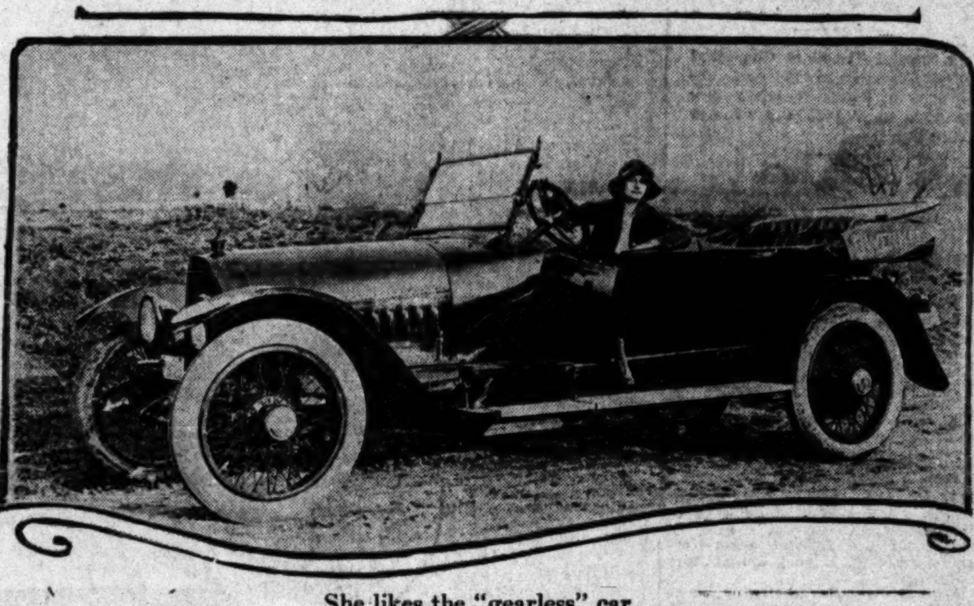
MILLIONAIRES WRITE CHECKS FOR THREE "GEARLESS" AUTOS.



She likes the "gearless" car.

This is Ruth Stonehouse, directress and lead with the Universal Film Company, and one of the Owen Magnetic cars—the machine that has a thousand speeds and requires no shifting of gears.

"WHEN W. A. Clark, Jr., and Howard Huntington—men who could pay any price for a car and not miss the 'change'—make up their minds after several demonstrations that the Owen Magnetic is the car they want, it would seem as if the public is beginning to take the Owen Magnetic at its real value," said R. B. MacIntosh, sales manager of the Owen Magnetic Sales Corporation.

"Mr. Clark heard of the car, asked for a ride, was accommodated, and after asking a few questions he wrote a check for the amount. After using it awhile he bought another, making two seven-passenger touring cars of this type he has purchased within a very short space of time.

"Howard Huntington did likewise. After a spin or two he was convinced he never wanted to shift gears again, and ordered a five-passenger touring car."

In speaking of the many advantages claimed for the Owen Magnetic, one of the recent converts to the gearless car said:

"It's difficult to tell just where the Owen Magnetic is most appreciated—in the business district or in the hills. If one is riding in traffic it's worth something to be able to throttle down to one-tenth of one mile an hour, and keep moving, instead of stopping and shifting gears all the time. No car could be easier to handle in traffic. A small boy could go down Broadway, after a few lessons. Any woman driver is safe, and her nerves will be in better condition than if driving a gear-shift car.

"Up in the hills, where there are many sharp turns, grades calling for low and second-gear work, and both rough and smooth highways, the Owen Magnetic is at its best. There is absolutely no shifting of gears, as you merely give the engine a little more gas and away you go, whether it be a 10 per cent. grade, a 20 per cent. grade or one so steep the average car has trouble in making it even on low."

After hearing what the owner of the Owen Magnetic quoted above had to say about the car, Ruth Stonehouse of the Universal Film Company, who is herself an Owen Magnetic booster, said "Amen!" in a loud voice.

"Them's my sentiments, too," said the film star. "There's as much difference between an Owen Magnetic and the ordinary car as between day and night, with the Owen representing the 'day' side."

STORAGE BATTERIES PROPEL FIVE NATIONS' SUBMARINES.

"SUBMARINES of five great nations are propelled under water by Gould storage batteries—those of the United States, France, Russia, England and Japan. In the city of Seattle is a Gould 'stand-by' battery with its circuit breaker set at 10,000 amperes. This battery will carry Seattle's entire lighting and street-car load for twenty minutes.

"A Gould battery hauls great trains of passengers and freight through the Michigan Central tunnel at Detroit, Mich.

"In New York, the fire-alarm system depends upon Gould batteries, and the city of Barcelona, Spain, will soon enjoy service from a battery of 140 cells with a capacity of 6000 amperes for one hour, the greatest battery installation in Spain.

"In choosing a starting-lighting battery for your car, you cannot judge the quality beforehand.

"You have got to trust the maker," says W. L. Brown of the Delco Service Station.

"The quality of the Gould battery is based on an exclusive feature, the Gould super-hard plate, which differs from all other plates in the density and hardness of its active material.

"Battery building is a highly specialized, complex industry. To build good batteries requires more than capital, plant and men. Experience is almost indispensable.

"Wherever absolutely dependable battery service is required, for street cars, submarines, railroad signals, train lighting, power plants and armored cars on the battle front, Gould batteries are always on the job.

"The life of your storage battery will be increased if you give it attention and care, testing and keeping filled with water.

"When filling your radiator give a thought to the silent battery that is doing more than its share; perhaps it is sadly in need of a drink."

Good batteries respond to kindness and resent cruelty just like animals.

PEOPLE "NEAR MEXICO" ARE NOT WORRYING ABOUT WAR.

"THE people who are nearest to the things thoughtless people are worrying about are precisely the most prosperous and confident people in California at this date. This is a good sign that the others who are doing the worrying are without foundation for their fear and might just as well be going comfortably about their business. The people of Imperial Valley who are nearest to the 'Mexican danger' are just now astonishing us by the unprecedented activity in buying of Paige automobiles," says Stanley W. Smith, Paige distributor.

"When John H. A. Campbell made his famous record-breaking ride through the storm between San Diego and the valley and thence from El Centro to San Diego he heard the people in the Imperial Valley talking about Paige stamina and power. They looked up the record of the Paige apparently, but there was no immediate [illegible] amount to anything.

"Now 'the most [illegible] America' has apparently won the [illegible] fection of many of the valley [illegible] dents. They are buying Paige [illegible] buying them fast. HOLLYWOOD TO HAVE AUTO CLUB BRANCH

THE pioneering department of the Automobile Club of Southern California, which is always restlessly endeavoring to conquer new sections of its territory, thereby giving the motorists and others of those localities the benefits of the club's many departments, is now centering its efforts on the region in and around Hollywood. It is the plan of the club to establish a branch in Hollywood in the very near future, the date of this step depending entirely upon how soon the club is supported by the motorists of that section to the required extent.

Judging from the manner in which the people of the new territory are rallying to the support of the club workers the chances are that within a few weeks the much-desired club branch, with its free information bureau, will be a reality, and that the motorists in that [illegible] tion will be afforded [illegible] service along touring [illegible] and other lines as is any other [illegible] tion in this part of the State, [illegible] means the State as a whole.

E. Broox Randall, who has already done a great deal of "[illegible] sion" work for the club, is [illegible] intending the branch [illegible] the Hollywood district, and [illegible] nothing but praise for the [illegible] of that locality for the [illegible] manner in which they are [illegible] him up." The residents of [illegible] realize the importance of a [illegible] of the club being located in [illegible] midst, and for that reason [illegible] them have moved to "[illegible] row. They well know that in [illegible] days of motor touring [illegible] portance cannot be placed [illegible] bureau, where the motorist may [illegible] at any time and receive the [illegible] last word in the way of [illegible] mation.

SUBMARINES MAY SINK OUR SHIPS AND RAISE TIRE COST.

"THE crude rubber market would undoubtedly be seriously disturbed by the loss of a few cargoes by submarines," said Roy R. Meads, manager for the Pacific Rubber Company, factory distributors of Federal and Racine horseshoe tires. "While the crude rubber market is high, fabric is also up in the air and everything in this line points to a worse condition instead of better.

"A review of the situation, however, tends toward higher prices than now in effect, in the very near future. Just how soon another advance will be made we are not prepared to say, but it may be expected at any moment."

Although tire factories are [illegible] ing overtime to supply the [illegible] for smaller sized tires, Meads [illegible] not expect this demand to be [illegible] satisfied for a couple of [illegible] when the plants will have [illegible] new equipment for [illegible] in larger quantities of the [illegible] sizes.

Meads does not anticipate [illegible] the calling of men to the [illegible] have any material effect [illegible] force employed in the large [illegible] tories. "Many of them are [illegible] artisans and their labor is [illegible] furnish material that is [illegible] essential to carrying on the [illegible] ness of the nation, as well [illegible] war in which we have taken [illegible] inent part," he said.

EASTERNERS "TUNING UP" CARS FOR TRIP TO COAST.

CORRESPONDENCE from the East points to this season furnishing a record in the number of motorists who will hark to the alluring summer call of the Golden State. Not only do California's mountain and shore resorts beckon the easterner. Apparently the desire to motor into the Golden West and see the scenic wonders that it holds has got into the blood of those east of the Rockies who have never viewed them from a motor car.

"We have been advised from the factory," said Don Lee, California distributor for the Cadillac, "that an unusually large number of Cadillac owners will this summer tour to the Coast. As a rule, it seems to be their intention to use both the Lincoln highway and the Santa Fe trail. Although patriotism is rampant in all sections of the land, it would seem that thousands may be patriotic and at the same time enjoy their vacation periods."

"There can be no doubt," stated J. E. Brown, Los Angeles manager of the Don Lee branch, "that motorists in the East are [illegible] the fact that a journey [illegible] country by motor car is [illegible] huge undertaking as it [illegible] thought to be. The [illegible] have been so well [illegible] there are so many [illegible] even in out-of-the-way places [illegible] the most timid are taking [illegible] are possessed with a desire [illegible] 'adventuresome' trips [illegible] known.'" a—Now quite a favorite line with the eastern experts, and probably superior in point of strength to other alternatives. 22-18 is more generally known and almost exclusively patronized by both the English and Scotch exponents during the international match at Boston in 1905.

				W. wins

b—Of course, this was an oversight; 12-19, 31-27, 7-14, etc., brings the play back into familiar lines. The text loses.
c—Entirely premature, the situation hardly warrants such immediate measures.
d—The ending has for the past few moves been handled with consummate skill.

23-19	19-15	31-26b	27-24

a—3-8 is best here.
b—Of this move Kear says: "Introduced by R. Mar in his match with Wyllie; it is one of the finest pieces of strategy ever shown on the board."
c—In Kear's Encyclopedia a note is given that "2-7 has been given to draw here, but it is very questionable if it can be upheld. 3-8 loses by 20-16, 2-7, 26-23."
d—The play by Mar gives 3-7a, 26-22, 19-26, 30-14, 12-19, 15-10, 6-15, 22-17, 13-22, 25-4, 2-6, 4-8, 6-9, 28-24, White wins.
e—2-7, 26-23, 19-26, 30-14, 12-19, 15-10, White wins.
f—Black being unable to regain the piece, is forced to resign.

GAME NO. 44—TWO KNIGHTS' DEFENSE.

Dr. Emanuel Lasker, champion of the world, and Dr. Siegbert Tarrasch, after Lasker the strongest player in Germany, played a match during the autumn at the Cafe Kerkau in Berlin. The first game was drawn and Lasker won the five last. Notes by S. Mlotkowski.

Resigns

a—Lasker did not used to be partial to the Two Knights, which was long considered unsound. Probably he was aware of just the line of attack that Tarrasch would adopt against it.
b—Kt-Kt5 at this point is now generally considered too dangerous and 4—P-Q4, PxP; 5—Castles has also lately received a setback. However, 5—P-K5 gives White a good game.
c—All book so far, but here Black deviates. The idea was that Black must take the knight and then White retakes with the queen and obtains the freer position.
d—White is taken by surprise and goes to pieces early. If KtxKt Black could have answered Q-K1 or more aggressively Q-R5, though the latter move involves the sacrifice of a pawn.
e—Black has now a great advantage. It seems strange that a player of Tarrasch's class, and with the White pieces, should get into such a muddle so early in the game.
f—This loses quickly, but White had no good move.
g—Deciding the game at once, for if pawn retakes Black plays Q-R7, threatening mate at K7 and attacking rook.

Another road from the east coast to Tampa is projected, to be known as the Gulf-Atlantic trail. It will pass through Fellsmere, Broadmoor, DeLeon Springs, Bartow, Lakeland and Plant City and will run just north of the Everglades.

Vernon Fights.

WILL HUNEFELD VS. F. FARREN.

Lightweights Scheduled to Put up Great Fight.

Kid Williams to Mingle with Rees in Semi-windup.

Young Brown Hopes to Secure a Knockout.

BY KAY OWE.

Willie Hunefeld, having walloped everything in sight at Doyle's Vernon arena, will try his hand at a main event Tuesday evening. He will run up against a tough young proposition in the shape of Frankie Farren. Both of these boys are championship claimants and are high-class pugilists.

Hunefeld and Farren ran into each other about eight months ago and the resulting scrap was disastrous for the local youngster. Farren planted several stunning blows on his opponent's head and Hunefeld hit the floor a couple of times. Hunefeld, however, was noticeably not in shape and he credits his defeat to his poor condition.

WANTS A MATCH.

Since that time Hunefeld has been trying to get a match with Farren. The battle Tuesday should settle once and for all the logical champ.

The exhibition Tuesday will be a technical affair with both men doing some large league boxing. Farren has a terrific punch and has the necessary amount of brains to make the punch count. He keeps his head on all occasions and breaks out into a slugging fest once in a while when he thinks it will get him somewhere. He is a boxer first, last and all the time.

Hunefeld has a wicked left jab which he complements with a hard right swing. He is a wonder at staying away from an opponent's blows and seldom gets the full effect of a punch. He is exceedingly quick and is depending upon his speed to keep out of harm's way.

GOOD FIGHT.

If Farren is fighting up to form he should give Hunefeld a terrific go. But the local youngster is in fine condition at the present time and will probably be able to tame his opponent down to a manageable state.

In the semi-windup, Kid Williams, a San Diego boy of considerable repute, will take a swipe at Louie Rees. These experts favor the knock-down-and-drag-out type of pugilism and are expected to tear each other very much to pieces. If Williams lives up to advance notices he will put Rees away without exerting himself unduly.

Young Fritz is to stage a comeback and take Jack Romero on for four fast rounds. Fritz has taken a rest of several weeks' duration and is feeling like $100.

Young Brown and Little Joe have been hooked up by Matchmaker Wad Wadhams in what looks like the feature preliminary of the evening. Brown has been fighting neatly for some time and won a clever decision over Gene Watson last Tuesday evening. Little Joe is a San Diego product and will undoubtedly make things interesting for the local champ.

Ralph Lincoln and Tommy Richards are scheduled to do some tall stepping and the little Lincoln stands a good chance of getting a neat thrashing.

Referee Harry Lee will open the programme promptly at 8:30 and will undeavor to keep peace and order at all times.

The combined capacity of all Michigan companies engaged in the manufacture of trucks now is between 200 and 300 trucks daily, and these factories are holding themselves in readiness for war operations, which probably would raise this total in a short time. There are about 1000 trucks immediately available.

RIVERSIDE WINS FAST BALL GAME.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, April 28.—Only twenty-eight men went to bat for San Bernardino today in the Citrus Belt League game with Riverside and the locals won by a score of 6 to 0. "Frenchy" Allec was on the mound for Riverside and he held San Bernardino hitless until the ninth, when the visitors made a single between second and first with two men down. Coombs was hit hard in the early part of the game, but settled down after the third and pitched good ball. His support was poor. It now looks as if the pennant in the Citrus Belt League rests between Riverside and Chaffey. The score:

Riverside, 6; hits, 11; errors, 2.
San Bernardino, 0; hits, 1; errors, 4.

Batteries: Allec and Caldwell; Coombes and Winkleman. Umpire, W. L. Leamen.

TENNIS CLUBS DIVIDE RIVERSIDE HONORS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, April 28.—The Casa Blanca and Rubidoux clubs of Riverside and the Corona Club met today in a round robin tennis tournament, the third meet of the year for the Citrus Belt Tennis Association, and divided honors evenly, Miss B. Oldendorf and Miss Dolly Bettner winning the ladies' doubles and Richard Dole the men's singles for Casa Blanca; Mrs. E. O. Street and W. S. Easton, the mixed doubles for the Rubidoux Club, and Freeman and Copelen the men's doubles for Corona.

The final meet of the season will be played at Hemet on May 30.

Remarkable Record.

made from the San Pedro breakwater to Avalon was one hour and ten minutes, the record being held by the Joe Fellows III. The ocean was exceptionally calm and Hamlin told Fellows that if he could reach Avalon in one hour, the entire distance from the mountain would be covered in less than three hours. Fellows said he did not believe he could make it in such fast time, but declared he would try and get everything out of the boat there was in her.

BOAT IS SPEEDY.

The last three miles he put on every ounce of power there was in the huge marine motor and this distance was covered in five minutes. A number of boatmen were on the pier when the party arrived and they said one hour's running from the breakwater to Avalon had been undreamed of. After remaining in Avalon long enough for Fellows to sign a contract to build a pleasure boat for a visitor on the island, the return trip was made and Hamlin was at the Jonathan Club at 11:30 o'clock to prepare for luncheon with friends, whom the night before had told him they did not expect to see him again for at least two days.

The question of "how long" had been aswered and the possibilities of motor transportation again were demonstrated as superior to any other form of locomotion.

POMONA ANGLERS ON WAY TO BIG BEAR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POMONA, April 28.—More than 100 persons have taken out licenses to fish on the opening day of the trout season. No less than twenty business and professional men are packing up their outfits today so that they can make an early start for Big Bear Valley tomorrow afternoon, or Monday morning. Charley George has already gone to the lake. Harry Pratt and Ralph Ford left this morning and Chaffey Shepherd, Anson Thomas, Jack Afflerbaugh, Mark Potter, Allen Nichols, J. W. Hutchinson, Percy Hunsaker, Will McMullen, W. E. Stevens, Wilson Frederick are leaving tonight or tomorrow for Gray's Camp by way of the Victorville road.

More than $1,000,000 will be spent this year to improve and extend Colorado's system of State highways. The commission has apportioned $600,000 from the State road fund for this work and about $500,000 has been pledged by several counties to use jointly with their respective shares of this State money.

GRANT SIX

THERE'S a good deal of sound sense in getting a car under $1000 for your first car. Thousands of GRANT SIXES are sold to "first car" buyers partly because these people want a full-sized, full-powered, good looking Six at minimum cost, and partly because the GRANT SIX has a wonderful reputation for behaving well in the hands of inexperienced motorists.

And the used-car value of GRANT SIX is higher than that of any other car in its price class.

The GRANT SIX is the safest "first car" to buy. You don't have to be a watchful, experienced motorist to run it economically. It will average 18 to 20 miles per gallon of gasoline and 900 miles per gallon of oil from the day you get it.

If your first car is a GRANT SIX, it is four chances out of five you'll be so satisfied with it that you'll make your second and third cars GRANTS also.

Back of this season's new Overland Big Fours and Light Sixes are a direct line of nine preceding models from which they were developed.

They directly continue the line of models that made the Overland name stand in the public mind for integrity of value.

Overland policy has steadfastly sustained that integrity of value in the car throughout its entire service in the hands of owners.

Over three hundred thousand of these cars are now in use and the helpful suggestions of their owners and of the more than four thousand dealer and factory-branch organizations that sold and served them, are largely responsible for the balanced greatness of this season's Big Fours and Light Sixes.

Their new beauty, their perfected easy riding qualities, their proven sturdiness and mechanical excellence, their admitted tire, fuel and oil economy make them worthy of the confidence we enjoy, that they will still further enhance Overland prestige.

They embody the wisdom of the unmatched Overland experience in building cars of this type.

They are dominant values, cars of proven dependability and sterling worth.

As long as we have them for delivery before May 1st, the prices are $850 for the Big Four, $985 for the Light Six—thereafter $895 and $1025.

Sothoron a Puzzle to the Cleveland Bunch.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, April 28.—Young's fumble of E. Collins' grounder in the fourteenth, gave Chicago a 2 to 1 victory over Detroit. It was Chicago's fourth straight win from Detroit. The feature of the game was a lightning double play in the fourteenth, when E. Collins speared Hellman's line drive and tossed to Risberg, doubling Cobb off second and retiring the side.

RUGBY UNION TO CONTINUE PLAYING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—The California Rugby Union, at its annual meeting here tonight, decided to continue the game next fall, despite the war. If the call to the army depletes the college teams the sport will be fostered among high school boys.

Officers were elected as follows: A. T. Murray, president; Edgar Pomeroy, vice-president; R. W. Dodd, secretary; John Gibson, treasurer; committees, Finance, F. C. Behrens, J. Arrocochea and J. Gibson; International Games, R. R. Templeton, Otto Rittler and H. R. Stolz; Secondary Schools, C. L. Tilden, Amos Elliott, C. S. Morris, H. R. Stolz and Otto Rittler; referees, George Green, W. von Mandershield and H. R. Stolz; rules, R. R. Templeton, W. von Mandershield and H. R. GREAT EXCITEMENT OVER QUAIL LIMIT.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, April 28.—Local sportsmen are exerting every possible effort in the closing hours of the Legislature, to help defeat Senator Luce's bill which would make the weekly limit on quail ten instead of fifteen as at present.

The San Luis Obispo Rod and Gun Club has wired both Senator Rigdon and Assemblyman Greene to do their utmost to prevent the passage of the measure, charging that it would be a grave mistake to make any change in the present law at this time. Reasons for the opposition to the bill are that if it carried the farmers would be over-run with quail, and would soon be requesting permits to trap them, and that hunting licenses would not be so readily sought, reducing the revenue, and thus curtailing much of the effective work of the Fish and Game Commission.

SHERMAN INDIANS DEFEAT REDLANDS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, April 28.—A ninth-inning rally won the game for the Sherman Indians here this afternoon, defeating the University, 4 to 2. The Indians hit the ball in the ninth, were given able assistance with healthy errors and made three big runs. Up to that time it was anyone's game with Redlands on the long end of a 2 to 1 score.

At that it was the best and fastest game seen here this season. The errors were noticeable by their absence up to the ninth. Green pitched a good game for Redlands and kept the hits well scattered and well infield. Lord, the speed artist for the Indians, was not hard hit often, but it was hard when be did get nicked.

In the seventh frame, Green pitched but three balls, and Jones made a wonderful catch far out in left field. The Indians did not seem to be able to hit the slow ball of Green, but when he served up one with some smoke on it they ate it up. The score was:

OCCIDENTAL TIGERS DELIVER THE GOODS.

The Occidental Tigers delivered the goods in a high-powered baseball game yesterday and defeated Whittier College, 7 to 3. The Tigers showed superiority in every department of the game and were not in any very serious danger at any stage of the proceedings.

McClintock pitched excellent ball for the Eagle Rock delegation and held the Quakers to five scattered hits. E. Murray and Buckmaster did the honors for the Oqakers.

At critical points the Whittier team unlimbered several errors which proved exceedingly costly. The score:

Occidental, 7; hits, 9; errors, 3.
Whittier, 3; hits, 5; errors, 6.

ITO SIGNS UP WITH M'GRATH.

Tim McGrath is the lucky guy, after all. Under his promotership Ito will wrestle Gus Kervaras. Tominago, the manager of the world-famous Japanese ju-do and jiu-jitsu expert, made that announcement yesterday.

"Ito will wrestle for McGrath," said Tominago. "We have absolute faith in his fairness and he is entitled to the match as he made the first arrangements for it."

Ito and Tominago deserve only praise for the attitude that they are taking. Tremendous pressure was brought to bear upon them by the leading Japanese in this community in an effort to have Ito break his word with McGrath and to wrestle only under Japanese promoters.

The only request that Ito made yesterday was that the match be held at the Shrine Auditorium and on a Saturday night. Ito wants the match then so his Japanese followers will be able to attend.

Angels-Bees.

during which there was a heavy run on the hot-dog counter, and the boys were off again with their heads up and their feet down, which is the correct position for athletes. Maggert lost no time scoring, doing so in the first on a walk and steal, and Gleichmann's single. Salt Lake tied it in the second. Earl Gardner threw low in trying to complete a double play, and Truck Hannah landed on second. Safeties by Schinkle and Tobin scored him from that point. If the Bees believed they were going to win the game they were misguided, although possibly sincere. In the home half of the second, Davis walked and Bassler singled. Standridge sent both across with a gorgeous triple, and counted on Gleichmann's single. There was another walk and another hit in this inning, but they couldn't be used. This made it look bad for old man Schinkle's son. Davis saw Killifer sticking around second in the fifth, and drove him in out of the wet. Gardner, Killifer, Meusel and Standridge engaged in some free and easy hitting in the seventh, which, with Shinn's throw that took a bad hop, scored three. Gleichmann was bounced in the fifth. Schultz lobbed a wide throw. Gus made a nice catch, but pulled his hoof off the base. Orr was called safe. This enraged Gus, who protested at the top of his voice. Brashear, just to prove that Schultz is not the only guy who can make a bad throw, threw Gus out of the game. This got Kitty in bad with the giddy throng. Boles finished the game at first base with consummate grace and skill. The scores:

CONSCRIPTION MAY GET COAST LEAGUERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—Just how the prospective selective conscription will affect players in the Pacific Coast Baseball League is being determined by President Allan T. Baum today, who is compiling a record of the ages of the men employed by the various clubs.

"We have done a lot of thinking in the last twenty-four hours," said President Baum today, "but we are not going to cross any bridges before we get to them. I am under the impression that the majority of our players are over the limit prescribed in the bill now before Congress so that only a few will be affected."

Well, Rather.

BEAVERS SEND MANY RECRUITS

Ship Quantities of Stars to the Big Leagues.

Angels Run a Close Second with Quite a Flock.

Oaks Manage to Send [illegible] Sixteen Men.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

All Coast League teams have served as incubators for the majors, but Portland and Los Angeles have hatched out the largest flocks of future greats. McCredie, who has been continuously at the helm of the Portland club since its advent into this circuit, has mothered a flock of thirty-seven. Los Angeles is a hot second with thirty-four.

That "many are called, but few are chosen," applies to the tyro athlete graduating for a trial in fast company, yet a comfortable majority of those sent up by the Beavers and Angels won their spurs, and several of them developed into players of more than average ability even under the standard of play required in the majors.

Portland has made a specialty of sending up crack shortstops, and in this respect has a record probably unequaled by any other minor league team in the country. Ex-Portland pitchers also have cut a wide swath in the big-time circuits, while Larry McLean had few, if any, superiors as a backstop when not monkeying with strong drink.

Los Angeles has not specialized in any one department when producing for the market, but those probably attracting the largest attention were trained on first and second base at Washington Park. The club turned out two prize first sackers in Hal Chase and Frank Dillon, and contributed a burnished brace of [illegible] bag performers in Tim Flood and Fred Raymer. Among the others, Cravath, by his long service and home-run hitting, won the greatest renown.

Oakland has sent up sixteen men, which is just equaled by the combined output of the Sacramento and Salt Lake clubs. Fifteen men have been recruited from San Francisco.

The Vernon club, being the youngest in the league, ranks last with eleven. The percentage of Tigers who made good has been very large. Here is the list:

Portland — Graney, Olson, [illegible] Ryan, Seaton, Fisher, [illegible] Groom, Kores, James, Hagerman, Krapp, Gregg, Steen, Rodgers, Bancroft, Peckinpaugh, Kuhn, [illegible] Donohue, Sweeney, Ote Johnson, Cooney, Breen, Schafly, McLean, Essick, Kinsella, Klawitter, [illegible]ness, LaLonge, Coveleskie, [illegible] Noyes, Reuther, Roach, [illegible] and Guisto.

Los Angeles — Cravath, [illegible] Beall, Carlisle, Ellis, Burns, [illegible]ard, Daley, Oakes, Leverenz, [illegible] Gray, Atz, Jasper, Chase, [illegible] Johnson, Delhi, Hosp, Meusel, [illegible]erly, Dillon, Orendorff, Raymer, Newton, Flood, McMullen, [illegible] Love, Hallinan, Wolter, [illegible] Standridge, Horstman and Koestner.

San Francisco — Schmidt, [illegible] Bodie, Tennant, Zeider, [illegible] Suter, Miller, Whalen, Iberg, [illegible]las, Corhan, Heilmann, Couch and Jones.

Oakland — Cutshaw, [illegible] Bliss, Heitmuller, Lewis, Johnston, Alexander, Lively, Boice, [illegible] Truesdale, Ness, Quinlan, [illegible]worthy, Martin and Elliott.

Sacramento and Salt Lake — Young, Stroud, Gandil, [illegible] Nealon, Jay Hughes, Hap [illegible] Thomas, Orr, J. Williams, [illegible] Shinn, Gedeon, C. Williams, [illegible] and Fittery.

Prōdium Process Means Millions Saved To Tire Users

THE Prōdium Process has done for rubber what vanadium did for steel.

It has made it stronger and tougher, and vastly increased its wear-resisting qualities.

Republic Prōdium Process Tires are practically immume to road cuts and chipping, and wear down as smoothly and evenly as a piece of tempered steel.

Even after the Staggard Studs are gone, many miles of service remain in the tire.

The history of the Republic has been a chronicle of progressive improvement in tire making.

It is fitting that the Prōdium Process should be a product of the Republic laboratories.

The Staggard Tread was the first effective non-skid tire.

The Biddle Motor Car Company, of Philadelphia, Adopts the Corser Carburetor as Stock Equipment for 1918 Model.

THE CORSER makes all fuel good, from the lowest grade of distillate to the highest grade of gasoline.

With our multiple spray method of breaking up the fuel, and the absolutely automatic control of the air, making our instrument superior to all other makes of carburetors for all altitudes.

In 99 out of 100 cases it will increase your mileage from 20 to 100 per cent., sometimes more.

If you are not satisfied with your present mileage, or the power that your motor develops, try one of our carburetors, and if we do not deliver the goods, both in power and economy, then we will replace your old carburetor and you do not have to pay one cent.

Is THAT FAIR? Give it a trial, that is the way the BIDDLE MOTOR CAR COMPANY did and they were convinced of its superiority and hence the CORSER CARBURETOR was adopted as stock equipment on all their 1918 models.

Now is the time when fuel is high to have one installed on your car

BEAVERS SEND MANY RECRUITS

Ship Quantities of Stars to the Big Leagues.

Angels Run a Close Second with Quite a Flock.

Oaks Manage to Send About Sixteen Men.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

All Coast-League teams have served as incubators for the majors, but Portland and Los Angeles have hatched out the largest litters of future greats. McCredie, who has been continuously at the helm of the Portland club since its advent into this circuit, has mothered a flock of thirty-seven. Los Angeles is a hot second with thirty-four.

That "many are called, but few are chosen," applies to the tender athlete graduating for a trial in fast company, yet a comfortable majority of those sent up by the Beavers and Angels won their spurs, and several of them developed into players of more than average ability even under the standard of play required in the majors.

Portland has made a specialty of sending up crack shortstops, and in this respect has a record probably unequaled by any other minor league team in the country. Ex-Portland pitchers also have cut a wide swath in the big-time circuits, while Larry McLean had few, if any, superiors as a backstop when not monkeying with strong drink.

Los Angeles has not specialized in any one department when producing for the market, but those probably attracting the largest attention later trained on first and second base at Washington Park. The club turned out two prize first sackers in Hal Chase and Frank Dillon, and contributed a burnished brace of B. bag performers in Tim Flood and Fred Raymer. Among the others, Cravath, by his long service and home-run hitting, won the greatest renown.

Oakland has sent up sixteen men, which is just equaled by the combined output of the Sacramento and Salt Lake clubs. Fifteen men have been recruited from San Francisco.

The Vernon club, being the youngest in the league, ranks last with eleven. The percentage of Tigers who made good has been very large. Here is the list:

Portland — Graney, Olson, B. Ryan, Seaton, Fisher, Pernoll, Groom, Kores, James, Hagerman, Krapp, Gregg, Steen, Rodgers, Bancroft, Peckinpaugh, Kuhn, Madden, Donohue, Sweeney, Ote Johnson, Cooney, Breen, Schafly, McLean, Essick, Kinsella, Klawitter, Harkness, LaLonge, Coveleskie, Raftery, Noyes, Reuther, Roach, Sothoron and Guisto.

Los Angeles — Cravath, Berger, Beall, Carlisle, Ellis, Burns, Howard, Daley, Oakes, Leverenz, Nagle, Gray, Atz, Jasper, Chase, Ernie Johnson, Delhi, Hosp, Meusel, Easterly, Dillon, Orendorff, Raymer, Newton, Flood, McMullen, Terry, Love, Hallinan, Wolter, Zabel, Standridge, Horstman and Koestner.

San Francisco — Schmidt, Vitt, Bodie, Tennant, Zeider, Weaver, Suter, Miller, Whalen, Iberg, Douglas, Corhan, Heilmann, Couch and Jones.

Oakland — Cutshaw, Maggert, Bliss, Heitmuller, Lewis, Johnston, Alexander, Lively, Boice, Wares, Truesdale, Ness, Quinlan, Kenworthy, Martin and Elliott.

Sacramento and Salt Lake — Young, Stroud, Gandil, Sheehan, Nealon, Jay Hughes, Hap Meyers, Thomas, Orr, J. Williams, Graham, Shinn, Gedeon, C. Williams, Lynn and Fittery.

Vernon — Agnew, Klepfer, Gips, Piercy, Wilhoit, Spencer, Bates, Ellis Johnson, McGaffigan and Risberg.

QUINN PITCHES AIR-TIGHT BALL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—Quinn pitched airtight ball, keeping eleven hits well scattered, walking none, and striking out four. It was Vernon's first win in this series. In three innings Oakland got two hits without scoring.

AVERAGE GOLFER MAKES GAME POORER THAN IT SHOULD BE; HOW TO IMPROVE.

BY HARRY VARDON,
The World's Most Famous Golfer.

Another Article by Harry Vardon will be Published Next Week.

VERY often the first thing to escape notice is that which is most obvious, and a circumstance which the average golfer is [illegible] overlook is that nearly every [illegible] every course is a proposition in tactics.

I am writing now of the hole as [illegible] stands as a problem by itself, uncompelled by any consideration as [to] the state of the match or medal [round]. Sometimes the position is so [illegible] that even the thinking player [illegible] to throw discretion to the winds, [and] make up his mind for a series [of] death-or-glory efforts. But that [is not] frequently the case, and what [I would] point out is that, day in and day out, four golfers in every five [fail] to realize that the hole is a [problem] at all.

They see the flag stick in the distance and determine to make a bee line for it. Certainly we want to [get] close to it in as few strokes as possible, but frontal assault is not always the best means to the end. [By] driving a few yards off the direct line we may render the second [shot] very much easier. Naturally, it happens often that there is nothing better than the direct line. A weakness of the ordinary golfer is [that] invariably he bothers about nothing else. He does not stop to consider the most favorable place from which to play his approach in [relation] to the slope of the green. [That] is precisely the matter on which he ought to reflect as he stands on the teeing ground. He should always be thinking ahead.

As a result of either the cunning [of] the links architect or the configuration of the land, most holes reward the player who gives a moment's consideration to this question [of] tactics. It is a poor hole that does not incite the good golfer to [such] thought. For a long while Britain was remiss in the matter [of] making the golf test a real problem. Holes were far too straightforward and easy. From letters which I have received, I gather that whole-hearted efforts to remedy this [defect] have been made since 1913, when last I had the pleasure of visiting the United States, and the [courses] then were a hundred times [more] interesting than on the occasion of my previous tour in 1899-[illegible]

As a model, I could suggest nothing better than Detroit, assuming [that] it is now as I saw it three years ago. At Detroit, you have to be playing the hole all the while; not merely slapping away at it. Archie [Simpson], one of the most beautiful [players] of a golf club that ever [Scotland] produced, said to me when I played him in the age when he [was] past his prime: "The game [is] against me now." Detroit [is] not past its prime; it is only just coming into its kingdom. But, as [it] itself did to happy Archie Simpson, it fetches against you.

All the while you are hard up against the proposition of conquering the difficulties. The second [hole], so far as I can recollect it, was [one] of the best on the course. You [had] to place your drive to a nicety so [as] to open up the green; if your tee [shot] went agley, you had bunkers [to] carry with a very long second [shot]. You deserved all the satisfaction you enjoyed if you effected [the] carry, but it was much simpler [to] put the tee shot in the right [place]. That, I submit, is golf as golf should be.

Another hole that I liked immensely in America was one at Mayfield. It was just a drive and a chip. But how interesting a drive and how fascinating a chip! It was slightly dog-legged, with a river on the right. You had to place your drive precisely so as to carry over a corner of the river with your chip—truly a beautiful hole. Mayfield was one of the most natural looking courses that I saw in America, and I enjoyed particularly the carries from the tees over the brows of hills. I hope it has not been altered much.

And Brookline, where we played for the championships—that had some fine holes. I remember especially the second, fifth and eleventh. At the first named, you had to place your drive to the right so as to have the full width of the green [on] which to chip. If you drove anywhere else, you had a huge [bunker] to carry with your approach. The beauty of the fifth hole lay in the testing nature of the second shot, made with either a brassie or an [iron], according to the wind and the length of your tee shot. This second stroke had to carry a chain of bunkers, and only a perfectly [hit] ball would do it.

The eleventh, I thought, was the [best] hole on the course. You had [to] drive over 150 yards of long [grass] in a sort of miniature valley [and] then face a carry over a water [hazard] with a cleek or iron. The [green] sloped towards you, so that there was every incentive to hit this [shot] boldly, as there should be with [a] very different approach. It is good [for] the architect to remember that, [when] he has the ground made for [a] testing hole, he should beware [of] overdoing its qualities as a trial [by] cramping the space on which the player has to approach.

These are holes that occur to me [at] random as being worthy types [of] American courses. There were [many] other excellent titbits the numbers or natures of which I cannot readily recall. What I would [like] to urge is the desirability of [the] multiplication and the consequent encouragement of a race of thinking golfers.

Take the case of a green which [slopes] a little. If its drop is to the [right], you must place your drive a [little] to the right so as to have the [slope] of the green on to which to approach. If you drive down the middle, you will be pitching on to [the] side of the hill instead of against [it], and that cannot fail to be a precarious operation.

We have many holes in Britain which illustrate this point, as, for instance, the second at St. Andrews, [where] you must place your tee shot [to] the right so as to pitch your [second] shot against the slope of the [green]. At the thirteenth on the [same] historic course, you do best by driving so far to the left as to be on [the] fairway of the sixth hole, because then you have the green open, [with] its full length awaiting the [run] of the ball. If you drive straight [you] have a bunker confronting you [on] the right, while the green is elevated to the dignity and danger of [a] plateau, with hills and hollows guarding it.

My home course, Totteridge, has an admirable example of the dog-legged hole. It is the sixteenth. By driving well to the right, you face the full width of the green and pitch against the slope. When you take the direct line, the green is hidden by hedges and trees.

The number of golfers who, at short holes, utterly disregard this question of tactics is extraordinary. The average player is particularly fond of a short hole. He may be one of the multitude of long handicap men, but he never fails to believe in his ability to obtain a three when the pin is situated no more than 150 or 160 yards from the tee. And yet how does he set about the task of achieving this apparently simple feat? As a rule, he selects a starting place in the middle of the teeing ground, regardless of the direction of the wind and the inclination of the green, and tries to play straight on the pin.

That is all right when the green is level and there is no wind, but, in other circumstances, a moment's reflection will probably mean the difference between a successful and an unsuccessful shot. Suppose the wind is blowing from left to right. The game then is to begin on the right hand side of the teeing ground so as to hit the ball into the wind. Then you can play the shot with far greater power and confidence because you know that the wind will hold up the ball when it is losing its initial velocity.

If you play straight down the course from the middle of the teeing ground, as most golfers do, the wind will get hold of the ball near the finish and take it off the line. There is a kind of corner in the atmosphere at which to aim so that the wind will hold up the ball at the right time. One cannot describe its exact location, since it has no corporeal existence, but it can be conceived and felt by anybody who takes the trouble to consider the extent to which the air is disturbed.

If the green happens to slope in the same direction as that in which the wind is blowing, then you are indeed in clover, for in addition to holding the ball up to that imaginary corner in space, you will strike the incline when the object drops, and the combination ought to be quite sufficient to insure the ball stopping on the green.

When the putting green is unguarded by bunkers, and no more than a moderately short approach has to be attempted, it is as well for the player to consider whether he shall pitch the ball or run it up. Personally, I think that pitching is the safer method in most cases; certainly it is so when one is playing against the slope of the green, and in most cases it is so when one is capable of applying "cut" to the ball with the mashie so as to make it bite the ground when it falls and stops.

But the average golfer does not care to risk the "cut" mashie shot, which needs skillful execution, and, presented with a green which falls a little away from him or which, even being level, is so keen as to make the ball hard to check after its pitches, he is justified in depending upon the running-up shot so long as the ground in front is suitable. A mid-iron is a good club with which to play this stroke, and, in order to reduce the loft of its face, one should stand a little more forward than usual. That is to say, the hands should be a trifle in front of the ball during the address.

In order that neither small rises in the ground nor unseen impediments—such as particularly strong tufts of grass—shall check the run, it is desirable to impart a little pull to the ball. That will enable it to overcome such obstacles, and it is easy to learn. It is a matter of turning the right hand half over at the instant of impact, as though you were turning a key in a lock. It is as well to remember that you can get a long way with a short back swing when the shot is accomplished in this manner, and, therefore, the clean hitting of the ball is only a matter of ordinary care. The back swing can be so short that the club is always very well under control.

I have a mongrel club which I use for the stroke; it is nearly straight-faced, and, for want of a better name, I call it a running-up mashie. A mid-iron, however, will meet the case if you stand a trifle forward, and so, for that matter, will an ordinary mashie. You can always reduce the loft by this procedure of addressing the ball with the hands just in front of it instead of level with it.

TROUT ANGLERS NOT MUCH WORRIED BY THREATS OF WET WEATHER ON OPENING

A reminder of the trout season.

Here is Miss Sue McManamy of the Morosco Theater forces reminding us that the season for the festive trout opens May 1 and that it behooves all anglers to get busy and catch their dinners in the trout streams, thereby saving the expense of cooking.

DARK, lowering skies, portentous of rain, promised to put a "damper" on the enthusiasm of trout anglers yesterday, but such ardor takes considerable dampening. Getting wet goes with the game.

Rain threats evidently were a false alarm. Reports from Bear Valley, San Gabriel's forks and other mountain Meccas of the worm wrigglers, fly flickers and spoon spinners came in to the Fish and Game Commission over the wire, telling of bright sunshine above the clouds, streams still low and clear. Ideal conditions for fishing prevailed yesterday.

So the exodus of angling licensees, scheduled weeks ahead to move today and tomorrow, will leave the city behind at various hours, and in departing will pile up the customary new record that seems to be the rule of each succeeding sporting season's opening. The way fishing and hunting continue to attract surprises those most who are in closest touch with the wonderful interest in these games. Each year has set a new mark, and if sales of angling licensee count for anything 1917 has boosted the figure to unheard-of levels. Yesterday the southern office of the Fish and Game Commission closed its books with over 7500 licenses placed, to 4790 at a corresponding date last year. Local sporting-goods dealers, who then took twenty-five and fifty at a time, were laying in 250 and 300. The convenience of securing one's license where he buys his outfit has proved immensely popular with sportsmen, while a chance to earn 10 cents for the time and trouble of issuing each license has been decidedly appreciated by the dealers, who are rushed doubly at such times.

Latest reports agree upon rather better than usual supply of fish in nearly all the creeks worth fishing in any normal season, and those who get well up into the sunny heights wih find good-sized trout responding readily to properly-presented "feathers." Should rain develop out of the present "Scotch mists" of the lowlands, though bad for the fisherman, a good stir-up of the streams would be the best possible thing for the fish. Water is low and clear, trout are too easy to find, and the enormous opening-day crowd is certain to give the streams quite a cleaning except where the congregation is so great that everything with fins is scared beneath the stones.

By way of getting the latest information for angling licensees, the Fish and Game Commission got in touch with deputies on "trout-patrol" yesterday, all of whom agreed upon one thing; that the streams will be fairly crowded in their territory. Fishing in the smaller side creeks up the coast will suffer from low water and moss. All the San Bernardino streams should be in the best shape they have been in any opening of recent years.

VENTURA RIVER—SLUSHED.

Deputy John J. Barnett says the Ventura River is full of seven and eight-inch fish—also moss. It will provide better fishing than any of the side creeks, which are low and mossier than usual, with fish none too plentiful and small, the larger ones having run down with the lowering water. He looks for better fishing later. Much the same may be said of the Santa Ynez, but the fish will be five to six inches mostly, some smaller. Too little rain this spring.

SAN GABRIEL.

The San Gabriel is in splendid shape throughout, and will draw the heaviest patronage in its history. The new auto road is good within three crossings of the intake, and the canyon tomorrow night will look like an army bivouac.

THE MALIBU CLOSED.

Those who select the readily-accessible upper Malibu are likely to meet disappointment, as the Rindge interests have a fencing gang enclosing the upper border of the Malibu ranch with guards to stop trespassers, and Mrs. Rindge has given them orders to arrest any who attempt to fish down the creek. The boundary is only a short distance below Crater Camp. The Malibu is in good condition, water higher than at opening date last year, and plenty of fish, but there is little open fishing left.

SANTA YNEZ FINE.

Deputy Henry J. Abels telephoned in from Santa Ynez yesterday afternoon that the stream is in fair stage of water, getting mossy but not enough to interfere seriously with fishing, and full of trout of all sizes. He had just looked it over and saw a number of trout rising, ranging from fingerlings to ten-inch fish, and predicted all who came there would get messes and the good fishermen would get limits. He had just arrested a "sooner" and took him to Lompoc where a $20 fine was collected.

BEAR VALLEY.

Deputy Malone from Bear Valley reported everything in San Bernardino county that ever had fish would be kind to the angler this year from the lake to the streams usually not good at the opening. Deep Creek and all its tributaries draining the north slopes will be particularly productive this season, as the whole stream is full of good-sized fish.

SAN BERNARDINO STREAMS.

Streams around Little Bear Valley will be well fished, and the creeks draining the big valleys north of Skyland are due to turn out some beautiful limits of sizeable fish to good fly-casters.

All told, Los Angeles stands a fair chance to learn what trout tastes like this week.

SAN JACINTO NEEDS REST.

Deputy Jas. Gyger, who watches over the San Jacinto like a hen over her babies, made a big haul of spawner-stealers and $150 fines were imposed on the six men recently. The San Jacinto was badly swept by the storms of January, 1916, and needs all the nursing the State can give it to restore it as a trout stream. Heavy plantings will be made again this fall from the first of Mt. Whitney hatchery's rearing of Sierra spawned trout. Meanwhile Gyger is enforcing the law to the hilt.

ORANGE COUNTY CREEKS.

Los Angeles sportsmen are inclined to be good fellows and leave the little Orange county creeks to the natives. Low water and quite a few fish are reported.

Now that the smoke of incessant battle in their behalf is beginning to blow away from the "firing line" at Sacramento, sportsmen down this way are taking quite lively interest in learning what the Fish and Game Commission has been able to save for them out of the threatened wreck.

Having secured from the preceding Legislature very nearly what the State convention of sportsmen recommended four years ago, the fish and game board confined its efforts this winter mostly to maintaining those common-sense regulations, which had worked out well and were generally approved by the public. Yet, notwithstanding the minor nature of changes advised by the Fish and Game Commission, it could not control, or prevent the introduction by various legislators of a swelling flood of bills entirely out of joint with the policy established in 1913 by the delegates of 20,000 sportsmen most directly interested.

Beyond bracing up weak points discovered by enforcing the present law, providing for the proper regulation of kelp, and asking further public aid for the public duty of conserving commercial fisheries, the Fish and Game Commission asked little of the Legislature; but other interests insisted upon all manner of radical, unenforceable innovations.

One of the bills proposed would have worked the farming interests of the State injury beyond estimate by decreasing at this doubly-dangerous time birds and animals considered by the ablest authorities to be beneficial rather than deleterious. Destruction of several song and insectivorous birds was raised from a local matter to a State issue.

Measures considered as "conservation run riot" were pushed with misguided enthusiasm against the advice of the State board charged with exploiting fish and game to the greatest good of the general public.

Attacks upon established institutions for maintaining protection and propagation were launched with all the animosity a small but bitter minority could inject into their chronic enmity toward the health-giving games men play out of doors.

Restrictions without reason, impossible to enforce, and certain to defeat themselves by discouraging the sporting interest which pays for enforcement by purchasing licenses, were only beaten by repeatedly bringing the verdict of the State's ablest experts into the committee rooms.

From start to finish, it was a ceaseless conflict. Fish and Game Commissioner Frank M. Newbert of Sacramento, president of the board, one of the State's ablest, keenest sportsmen, by day and by night championed the cause of rational conservation—"more fish to catch, more game to hunt"—until his physical endurance became one of the features of the session, and friendly legislators dubbed him "the fish and game lobbyist;" then, from sheer inability to further follow his pace, acceded good-humoredly to the broad justice of his cause.

No other State seems to have produced quite so unique a character in the molding of fish and game legislation as Newbert. Seemingly without limits either as to strength or good-nature, with a jest for all, his jovial personality presented interesting proof of what outdoor sports will do for a man; and California sportsmanship played in luck having so staunch a friend so inexhaustible in enthusiasm at the front. Not only were the radical measures mostly buried under an avalanche of votes, but some notable gains were attained for constructive conservation of the safe and sane sort.

New laws mostly will not become effective until August, but a list of the various measures will be compiled as soon as possible. The new laws represent, according to Executive Secretary Carl Westerfeld of the State board, "an enormous amount of work, most of which was done by Frank Newbert . . . and finally succeeded in suppressing a large number of vicious bills, also succeeding in passing most of those advocated in behalf of fish and game, which on the whole has not much to complain of."

WHO AM I?

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world.

I have destroyed more men than all the wars of the nations.

I am more deadly than bullets, and I have wrecked more homes than the mightiest of siege guns. I steal, in the United States alone, over $300,000,000 each year. I SPARE NO ONE, and I find my victims among the rich and poor alike, the young and the old, the strong and the weak. WIDOWS AND ORPHANS KNOW ME. I loom up to such proportions that I cast my shadow over every field of labor, from the turning of the grindstone to the moving of every railroad train. I massacre thousands upon thousands of wage earners a year. I lurk in unseen places and do most of my work silently. You are warned against me but you heed not. I am relentless. I AM EVERYWHERE—in the house, on the streets, in the factory, at the railroad crossings, and on the sea. I bring sickness, degradation and death, and yet few seek to avoid me. I destroy, crush or maim; I give nothing, but take all. I AM YOUR WORST ENEMY.

I AM CARELESSNESS!

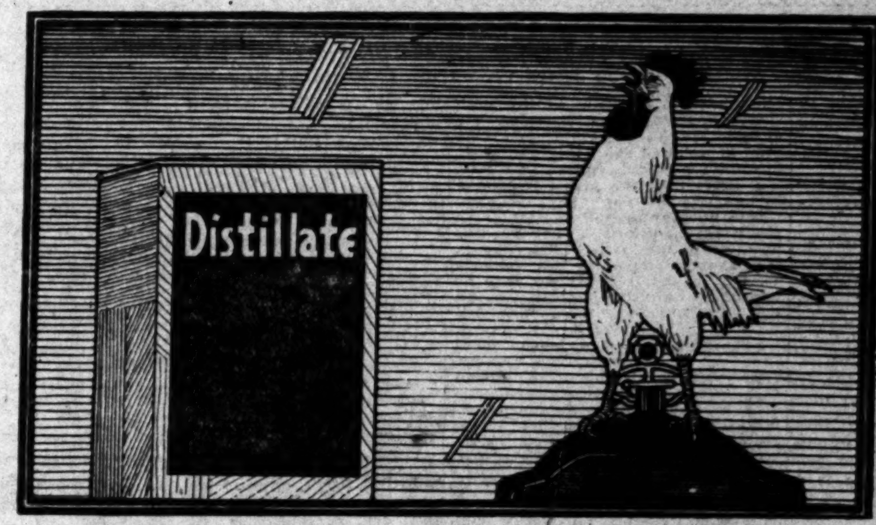
Packard TWIN-SIX



They Must Follow Our Lead

So successful has the use of Distillate proven in the Packard Twin Six that dealers and manufacturers of other cars are frantically endeavoring to follow our lead. They are using every effort to secure the proper carburetor design and adjustment which permits the successful use of distillate.

Several prominent factories have already had shipments of distillate sent East for experimental purposes.

They are coming to it—they must—because it is a step forward in the industry, and right now we want to predict that announcements will soon be forthcoming frrom other cars regarding the use of distillate. Meanwhile, the Packard Twin Six is the only car that today burns distillate successfully.

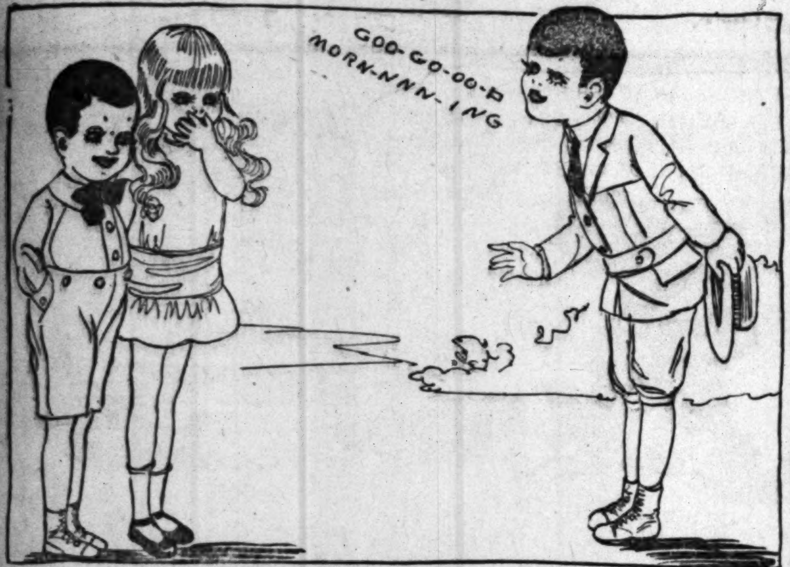
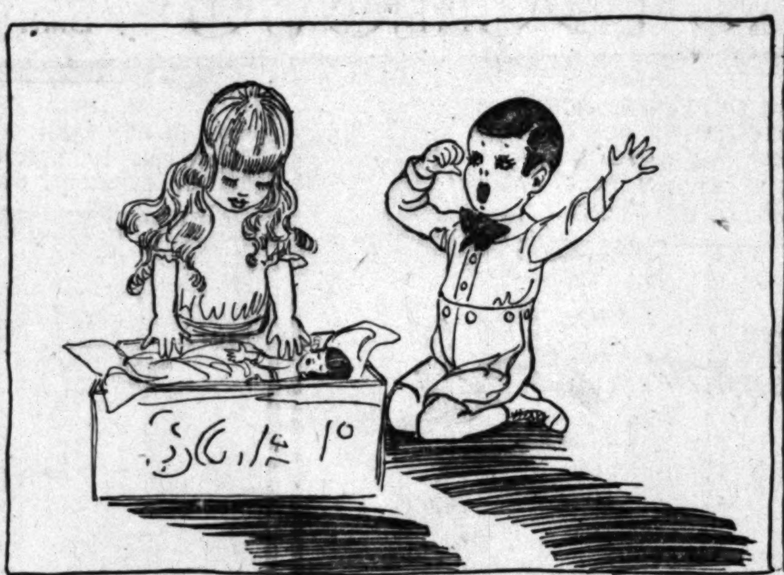
ONCE UPON A TIME

BY CLYDE LUDWICK

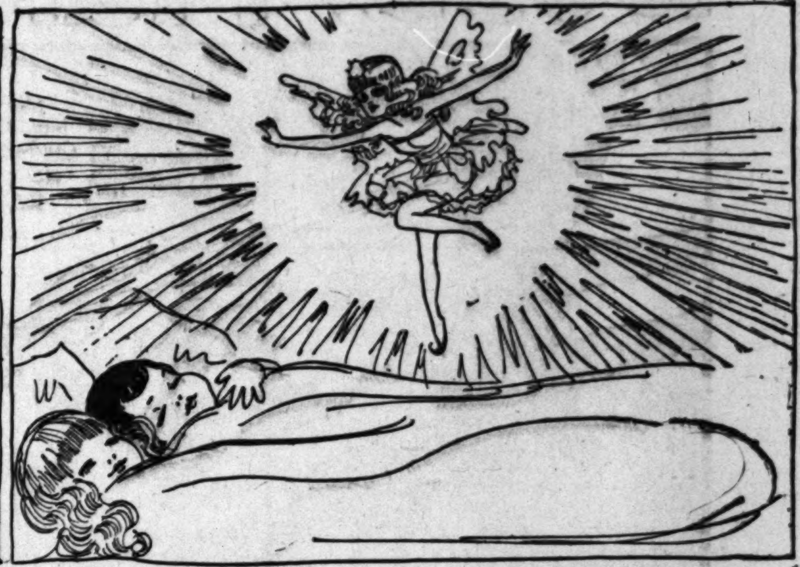
SON BUD AND SIS MOCKED STUTTERS, BUT THEY NEVER WILL AGAIN.



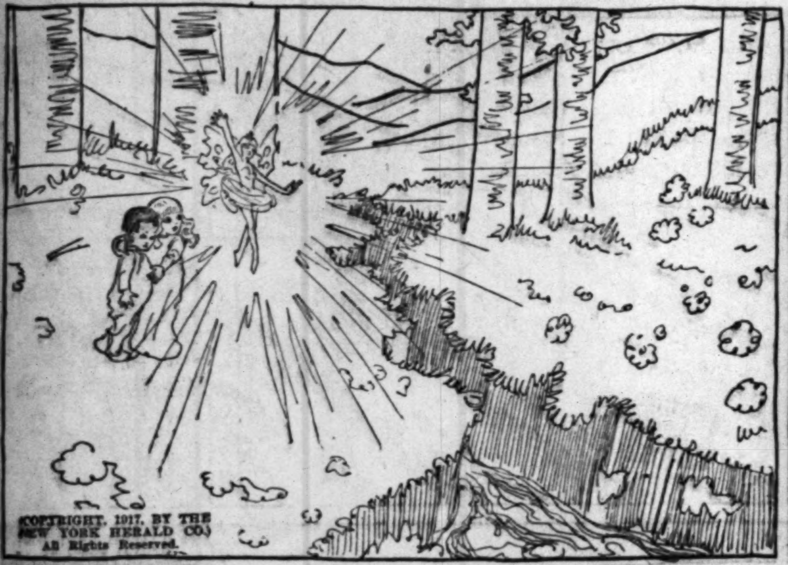
1—Stutters was a very polite boy, and when he met Son Bud and Sis he removed his hat and said:—"Goo-goo-oo-d morn-n-n-ning." He had an impediment in his speech, and Son Bud and Sis tittered and mocked him shamefully.



2—All day long at their play they imitated poor Stutters. They thought his misfortune a good joke. When the doll was put to bed Son Bud said:—"Le-le-let us goo-goo-go t-t-t-to bed." And Sis answered:—"All r-r-r-right."

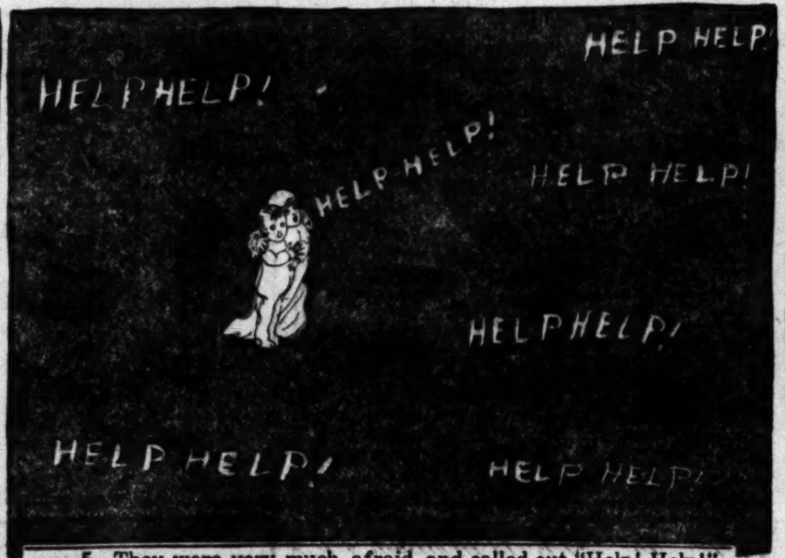


3—As soon as they were asleep the Fairy of Light danced into the dark room and bade the children follow her.



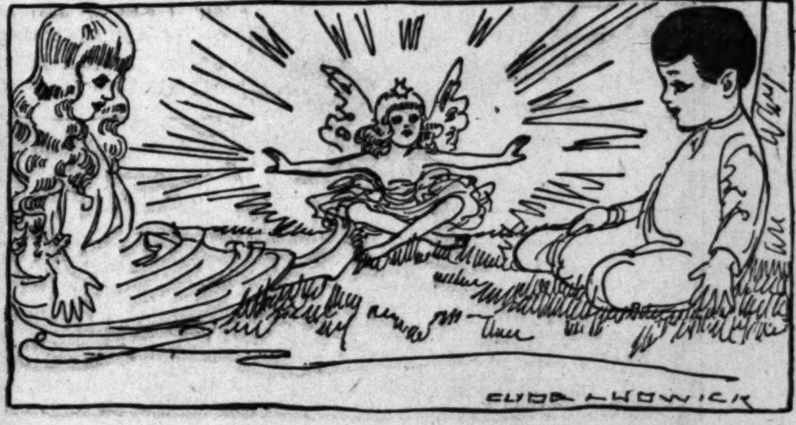
COPYRIGHT, 1917, BY THE NEW YORK HERALD CO. All Rights Reserved.

4—She led them to a beautiful wood, where the flowers blossomed, the trees towered high and the brook glided down the hillside and laughed for joy. Suddenly the fairy's light went out and the children were swallowed up in darkness.



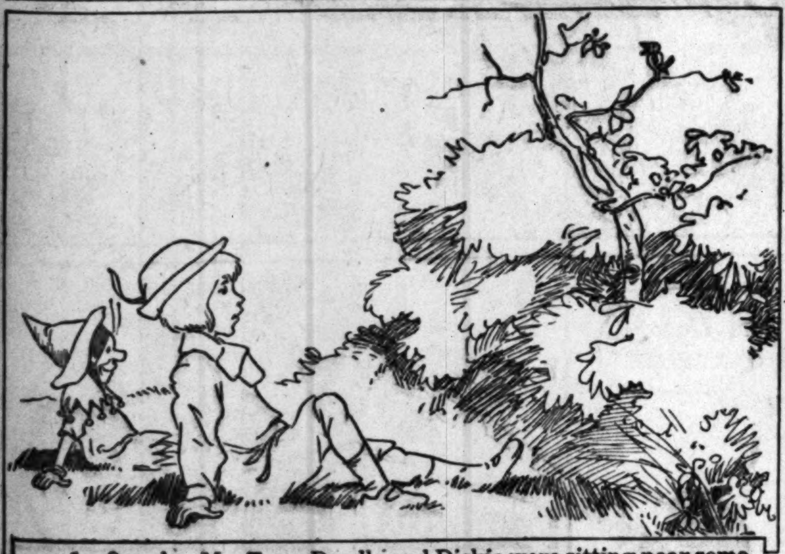
HELP HELP!
HELP HELP!
HELP HELP!
HELP HELP!
HELP HELP!
HELP HELP!
HELP HELP!

5—They were very much afraid, and called out "Help! Help!" Then Echo imitated them and a thousand cries of "Help! Help!" came from everywhere. They heard the brook laughing and they remembered how they had imitated poor Stutters and laughed at him. They felt very much ashamed.

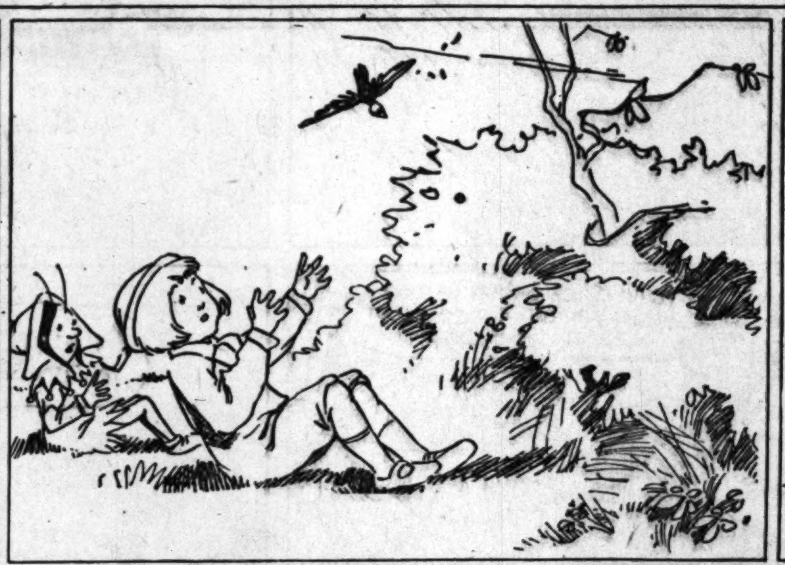


6—The next minute the Fairy of Light appeared as quickly as she had left them and said:—"Now, before I take you home I will tell you about Echo. She is a beautiful nymph of the air who pined away, all but her voice. Now she can only speak when others speak, and even then she can merely imitate them. I do not know what power Echo has, but I do not think it quite safe to imitate poor Stutters. It would not be pleasant to pine away, all but one's voice." Now, do you think Son Bud and Sis will ever laugh at Stutters again?

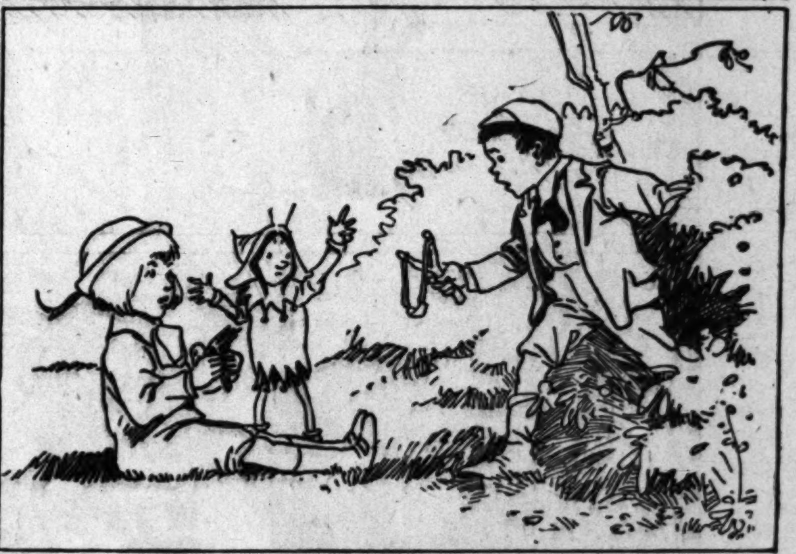
MR. TWEE DEEDLE.



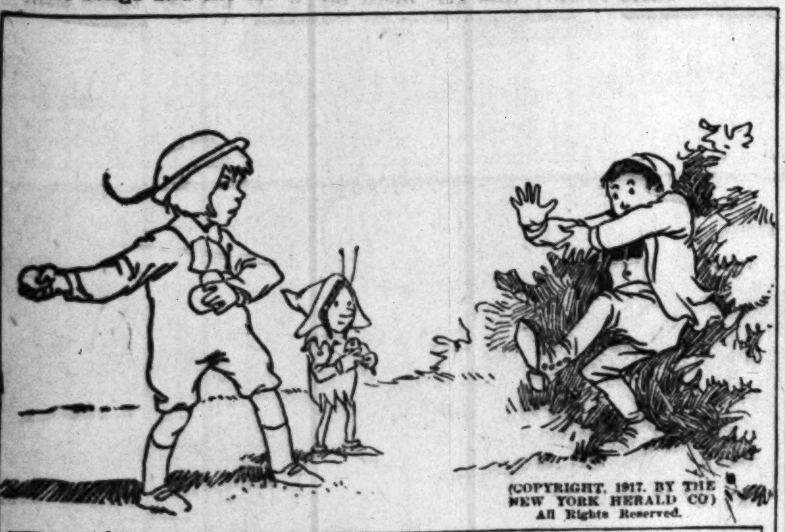
1—One day Mr. Twee Deedle and Dickie were sitting near some bushes, listening to the little birds singing. "Isn't it fine," said Dickie, "that we have the little birds to sing for us. "Yes it is," Mr. Twee Deedle replied, "for we certainly would miss their cheerful little songs and the air would seem very still without them.



2—Just as the little bird had finished his song, a boy on the other side of the bushes with a slingshot threw a stone and knocked the happy little bird from the bushes and it fell in Dickie's hand lifeless.

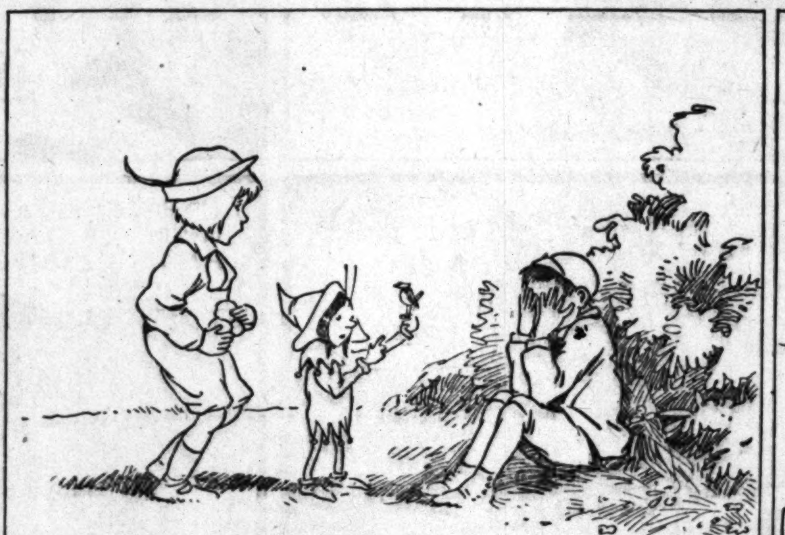


3—Mr. Twee Deedle sprang to his feet just as the boy who had thrown the stone came through the bushes where Mr Twee Deedle and Dickie were. "Did you see a bird fall over here?" he asked. "I just made a dandy shot with my bean shooter and knocked him."

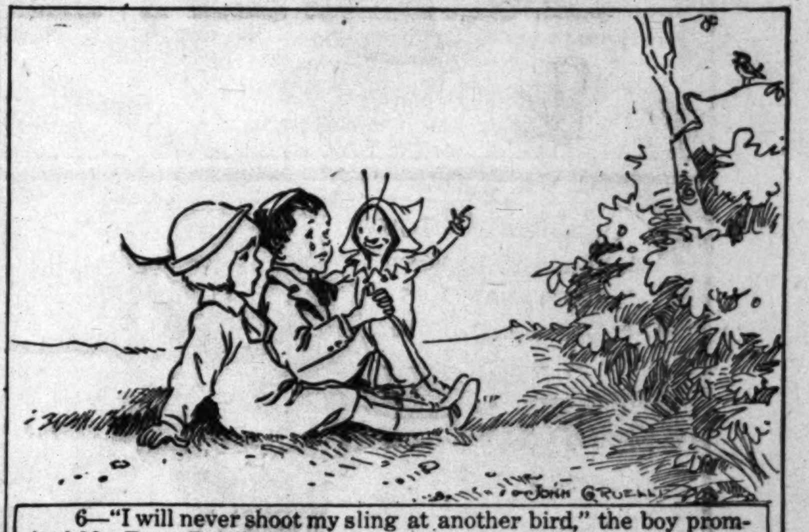


(COPYRIGHT, 1917, BY THE NEW YORK HERALD CO) All Rights Reserved.

4—Mr. Twee Deedle said a magic word and the boy had to remain standing where he was. "Now," said Mr. Twee Deedle to Dickie, "get some stones and throw them at the boy and see how he enjoys it." As Dickie was just about to throw a stone the boy threw up his arms, exclaiming:—"Hey, hold on, you might put out my eye! Don't throw."



5—But Mr. Twee Deedle did not intend to have Dickie hit the boy with the stone, and he said a magic word, which stopped him in the act. "You see," said Mr. Twee Deedle, "how much it hurts you just to think you were going to be hit. Think how much more it would hurt you if you really had been hit with the stone."



6—"I will never shoot my sling at another bird," the boy promised Mr. Twee Deedle, who, with a magic word, had made the little bird well again, and he had flown back again on the branch and was singing sweetly. "You see," said Mr. Twee Deedle, "how much better it is to have that cheery, happy little song than to have just merely a bundle of dead feathers. Had I not been here you would have stilled forever that beautiful melody."

FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS NEEDLEWOMAN

BY ADELAIDE BYRD

THE BEGINNING OF AN ATTRACTIVE LUNCHEON SET

DESIGNED BY DOROTHY EDWARDS

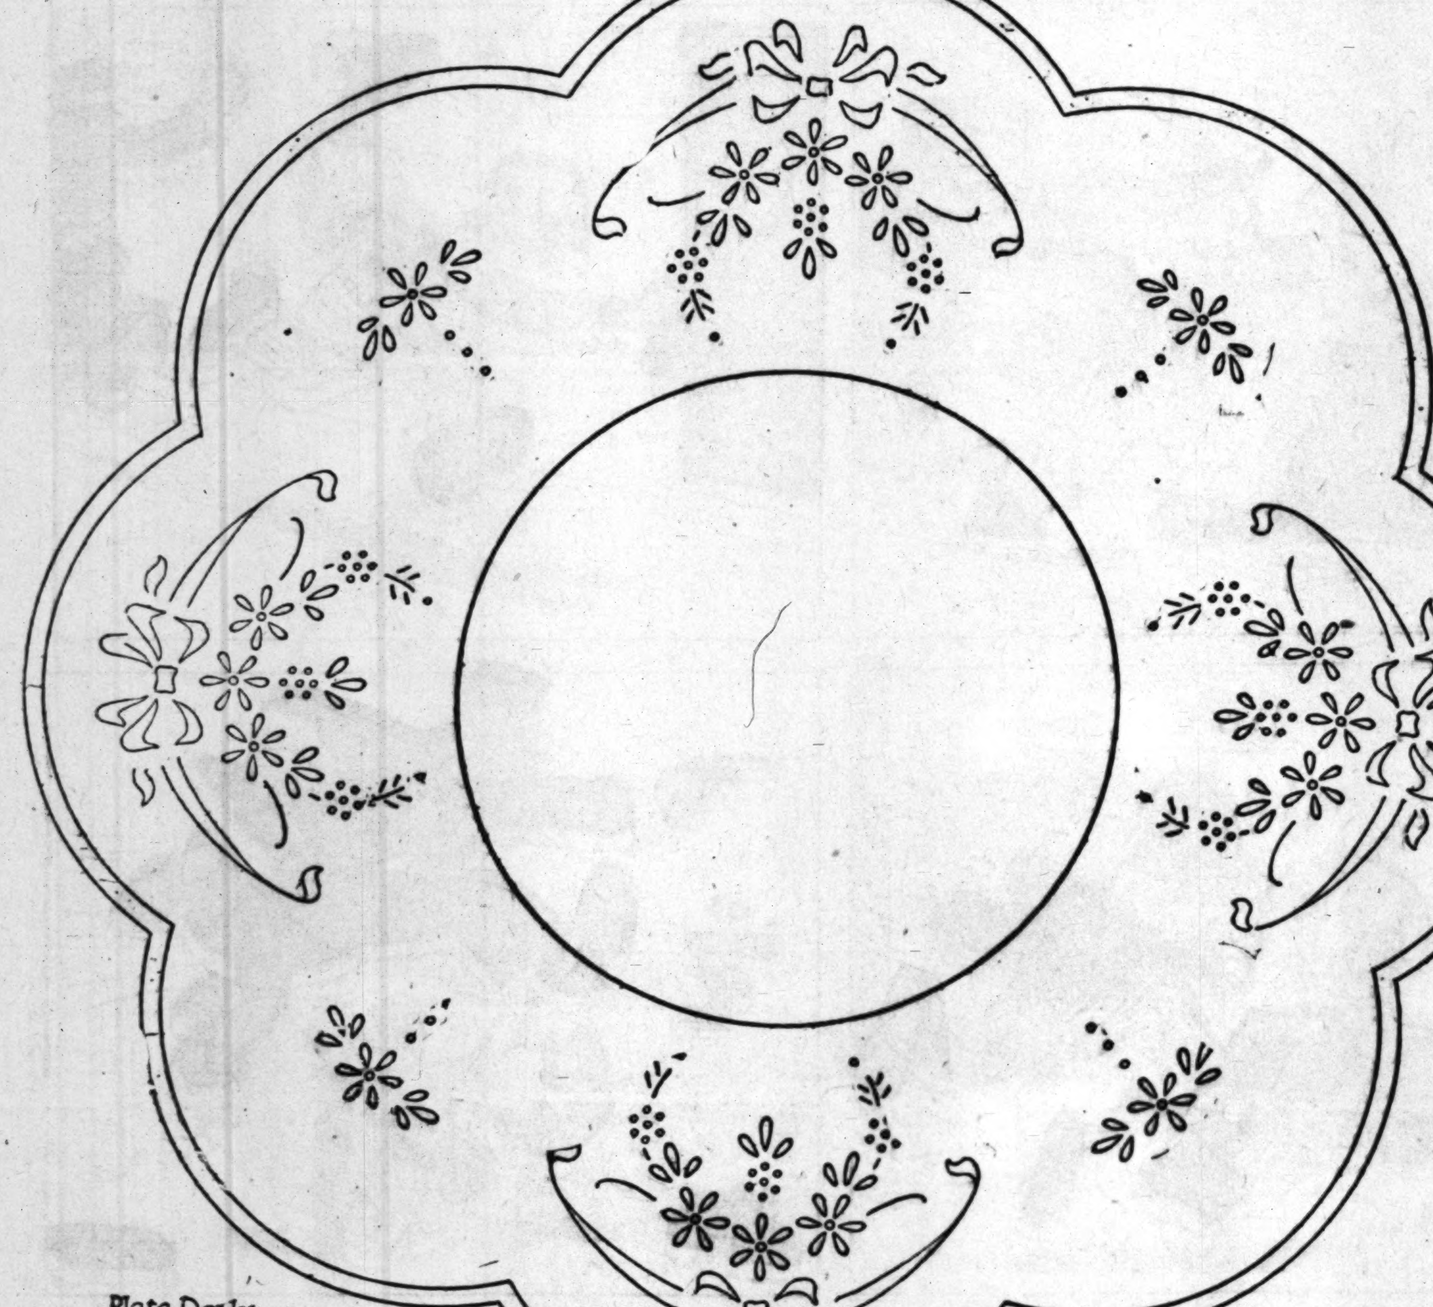

Plate Doily

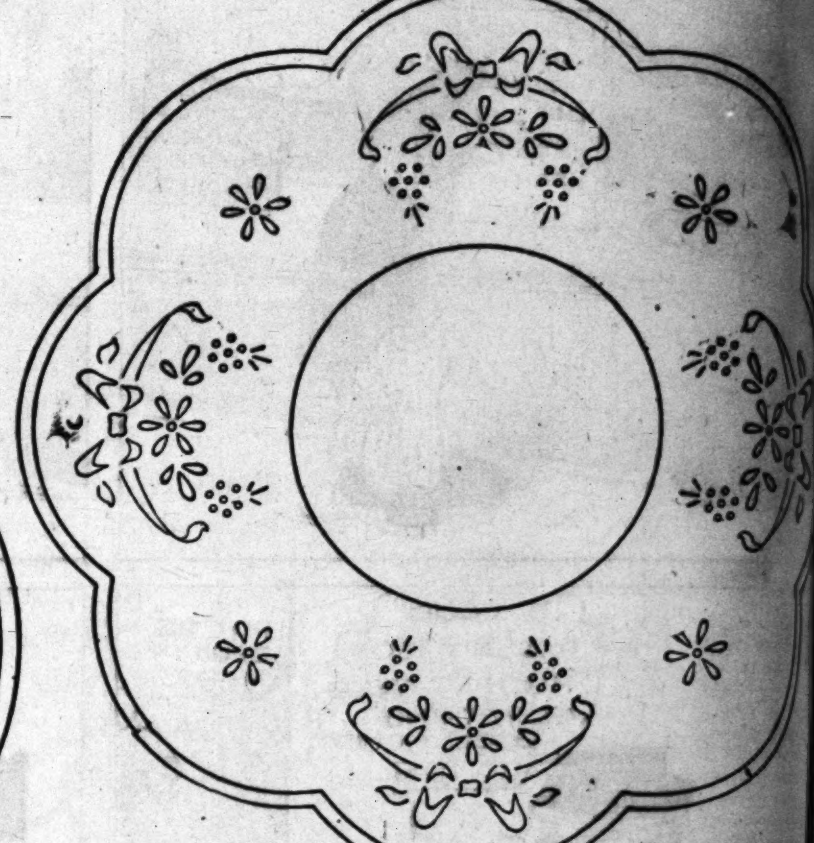

TumblerDoily

> THE ENGAGED GIRL
> IS YOUR dearest girl friend engaged to be married? If so, you are greatly interested in the building up of her linen chest. Let your interest inspire you with a desire to contribute to her collection a dainty luncheon set such as the one started on this page today.

DOES a housewife ever have enough attractive linen for her table? She may have plenty for everyday service, but the wise woman usually aims to keep just a little ahead of actual need. The woman who has one or two luncheon sets in her possession will see the wisdom of taking unto herself the set for which the design is being shown today. The two sized doilies are offered and give a pretty fair idea how attractive the centerpiece will be. This will be published later

I can just picture in my mind the effect of this set embroidered in delicate colors, or all white, used on the table on a hot summer's day. It is sure to act as a tonic for the weak appetite, and will have a psychological effect on one's feelings.

Now for the making of the set. We will first of all consider the use of a heavy white linen—you know how absurd it is to put a lot of handwork on a poor quality of linen.

The dainty forget-me-not has been chosen as the motif, and therefore suggests the use of blue for the petals of the flowers. These, of course, should be embroidered solid. A yellow French knot should form the center of each flower. Embroider the leaves solid in green and fill in the tiny circles with yellow and blue French knots. The bowknot and ends should be padded with darning cotton and embroidered solid in blue. If you want to gain a rich effect with very little trouble, just introduce the tiniest touch of black somewhere on the design. It might be used to outline the bowknot and ends or it might form the groups of French knots. Or black outlining might be used along the inner side of the scalloped edge. This edge, by the way, should be done very carefully, for the individuality of small dollies means that each edge will receive close scrutiny. First of all, pad with darning cotton and buttonhole over it in blue. Outline the inner circle in each doily in blue. If desired this ring can be omitted.

If you do not care to make six tumbler dollies and six plate dollies you will surely find use for one or more of each, to be used as odd dollies. Every housewife finds a need for such small-sized affairs at some time or other.

Good luck to you in embroidering this design. Don't forget to watch out for the centerpiece that is to come.

Receptacle for Stockings

ONE of the new contrivances for helping a girl to keep her bureau drawer in a neat condition is a stocking crate. This is a partitioned affair consisting of twelve compartments and is made of strips of wood one-eighth of an inch thick. As can be imagined, the stocking must be rolled before being put into a compartment. The finish of the crate can be as one desires. It might be painted to match the woodwork of the bureau or it might be covered with cretonne or paper.

Another Practical Use For a Hat

OF COURSE every one realizes that the first duty of a hat is to protect a person's head, but few know to what other practical uses the hat may be put. First of all the masculine's high silk hat can be transformed into a magnificent opera bag or a fancywork bag. A girl's garden hat, one of the large, floppy peanut-straw variety, can be made into the most attractive work basket you ever saw. Begin by painting a few designs on the brim or around the crown of the hat, which eventually becomes the bottom side of the work basket. Then line the inside of the hat with shirred silk. Cover a round disk of pasteboard with the silk and attach it to the inside of the crown. Better results will be gained if the slanting side of the inside of the crown and the under side of the brim are lined with two separate pieces of silk. Use flowered ribbon to form the handle of the basket. Sew the ends to opposite sides of the brim, on the extreme edge, and tie the ribbon into an effective bow in the middle. Somewhere on the brim at opposite points sew colorful tomatoes or apples to serve as pincushions.

How to Transfer

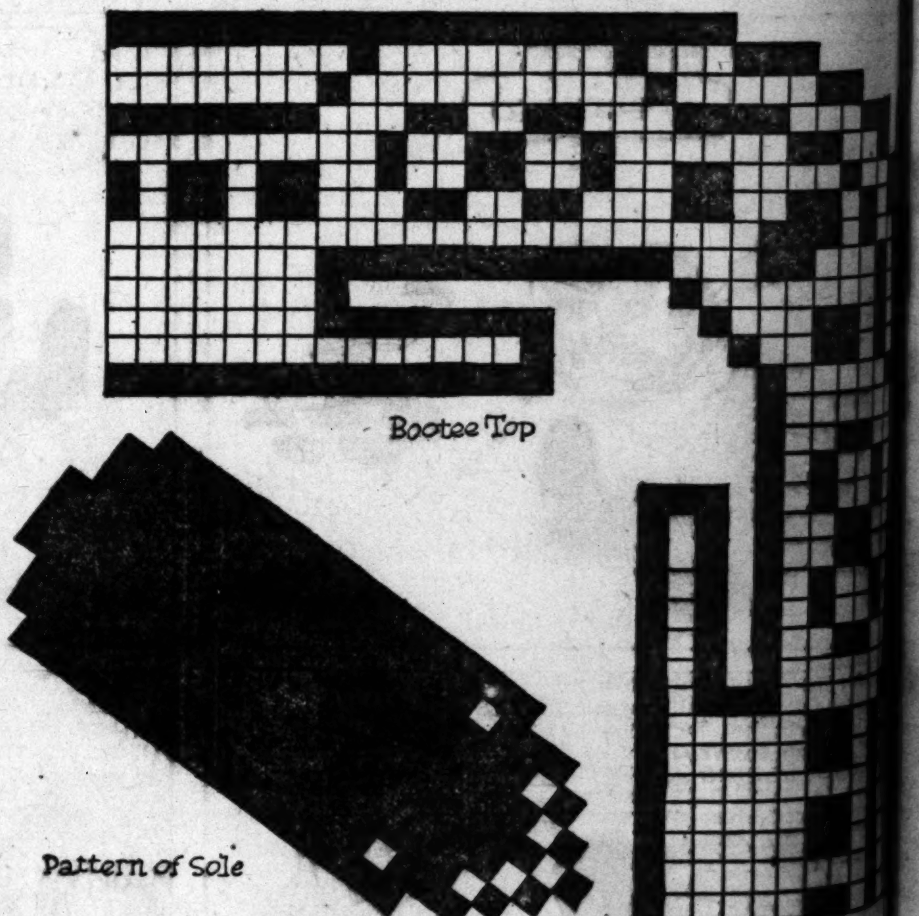
HERE are suggestions for transferring the embroidery design before you to any material.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen thru the goods. If one-half of the design only is given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric.

If you have carbon paper you should place the sheet between the fabric and the newspaper. The latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outlines of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked.

For the Conversationalist

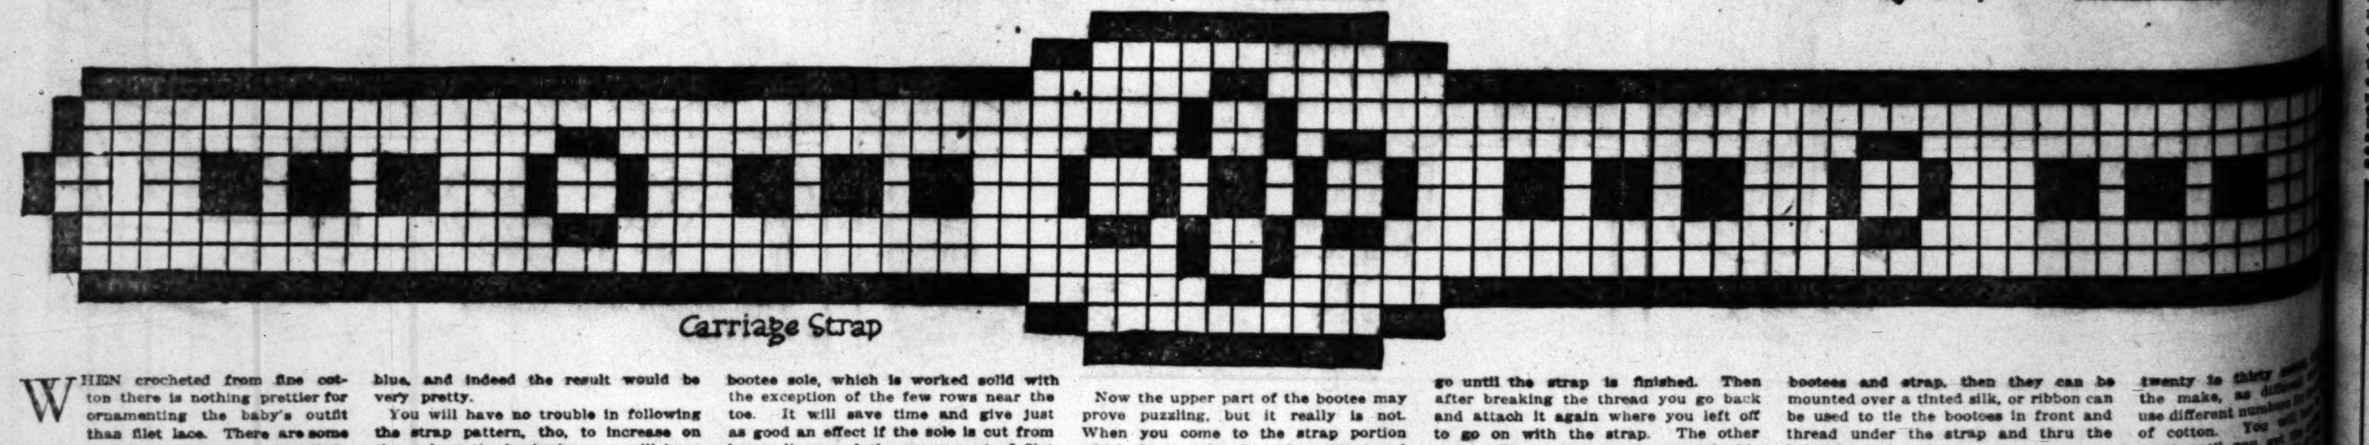
NO, you are not going to learn of any new words that you can add to your vocabulary or any modern version of an ancient thought. What you are going to read concerns only the woman or the man who loves to chat over the telephone, but whose arm gets frightfully tired holding the telephone receiver during the conversation. At an up-to-date shop can be found a pedestal or stand on which the receiver of the telephone can be rested while one is talking away. Think of the miles of crocheting or the amount of embroidering that can be done while one is visiting over the phone! The convenience will not only be appreciated by the guilty talker, but will be of much value to the one who is obliged to be polite and listen.



Bootee Top

Pattern of Sole

A BABY'S SET IN FILET



Carriage Strap

WHEN crocheted from fine cotton there is nothing prettier for ornamenting the baby's outfit than filet lace. There are some people who could also see this little bootee and carriage strap (a cap to match will follow in a few weeks) worked up in a mercerized silk in pink and blue, and indeed the result would be very pretty.

You will have no trouble in following the strap pattern, tho, to increase on the end, at the beginning you will have to break your thread once or twice. But all filet-crocheters expect this once in a while in order to get a good outline. The same might be said of the bootee sole, which is worked solid with the exception of the few rows near the toe. It will save time and give just as good an effect if the sole is cut from heavy linen and the upper part of filet whipped to this. If the sole is to be made from the filet mesh, it is joined to the upper by slip-stitches with the crochet needle.

Now the upper part of the bootee may prove puzzling, but it really is not. When you come to the strap portion which is to join the other strap and to be buttoned or tied with ribbon over the baby's instep, you continue on with the mesh, letting the rest of the shoe go until the strap is finished. Then after breaking the thread you go back and attach it again where you left off to go on with the strap. The other strap will not have to be treated this way, as it will fall into the crochet as an increase on the third last row.

If white cotton is used for these wee bootees and strap, then they can be mounted over a tinted silk, or ribbon can be used to tie the bootees in front and thread under the strap and thru the holes in each end.

To enlarge either article, a coarser crochet cotton can be used. As the designs stand now they will require from twenty to thirty

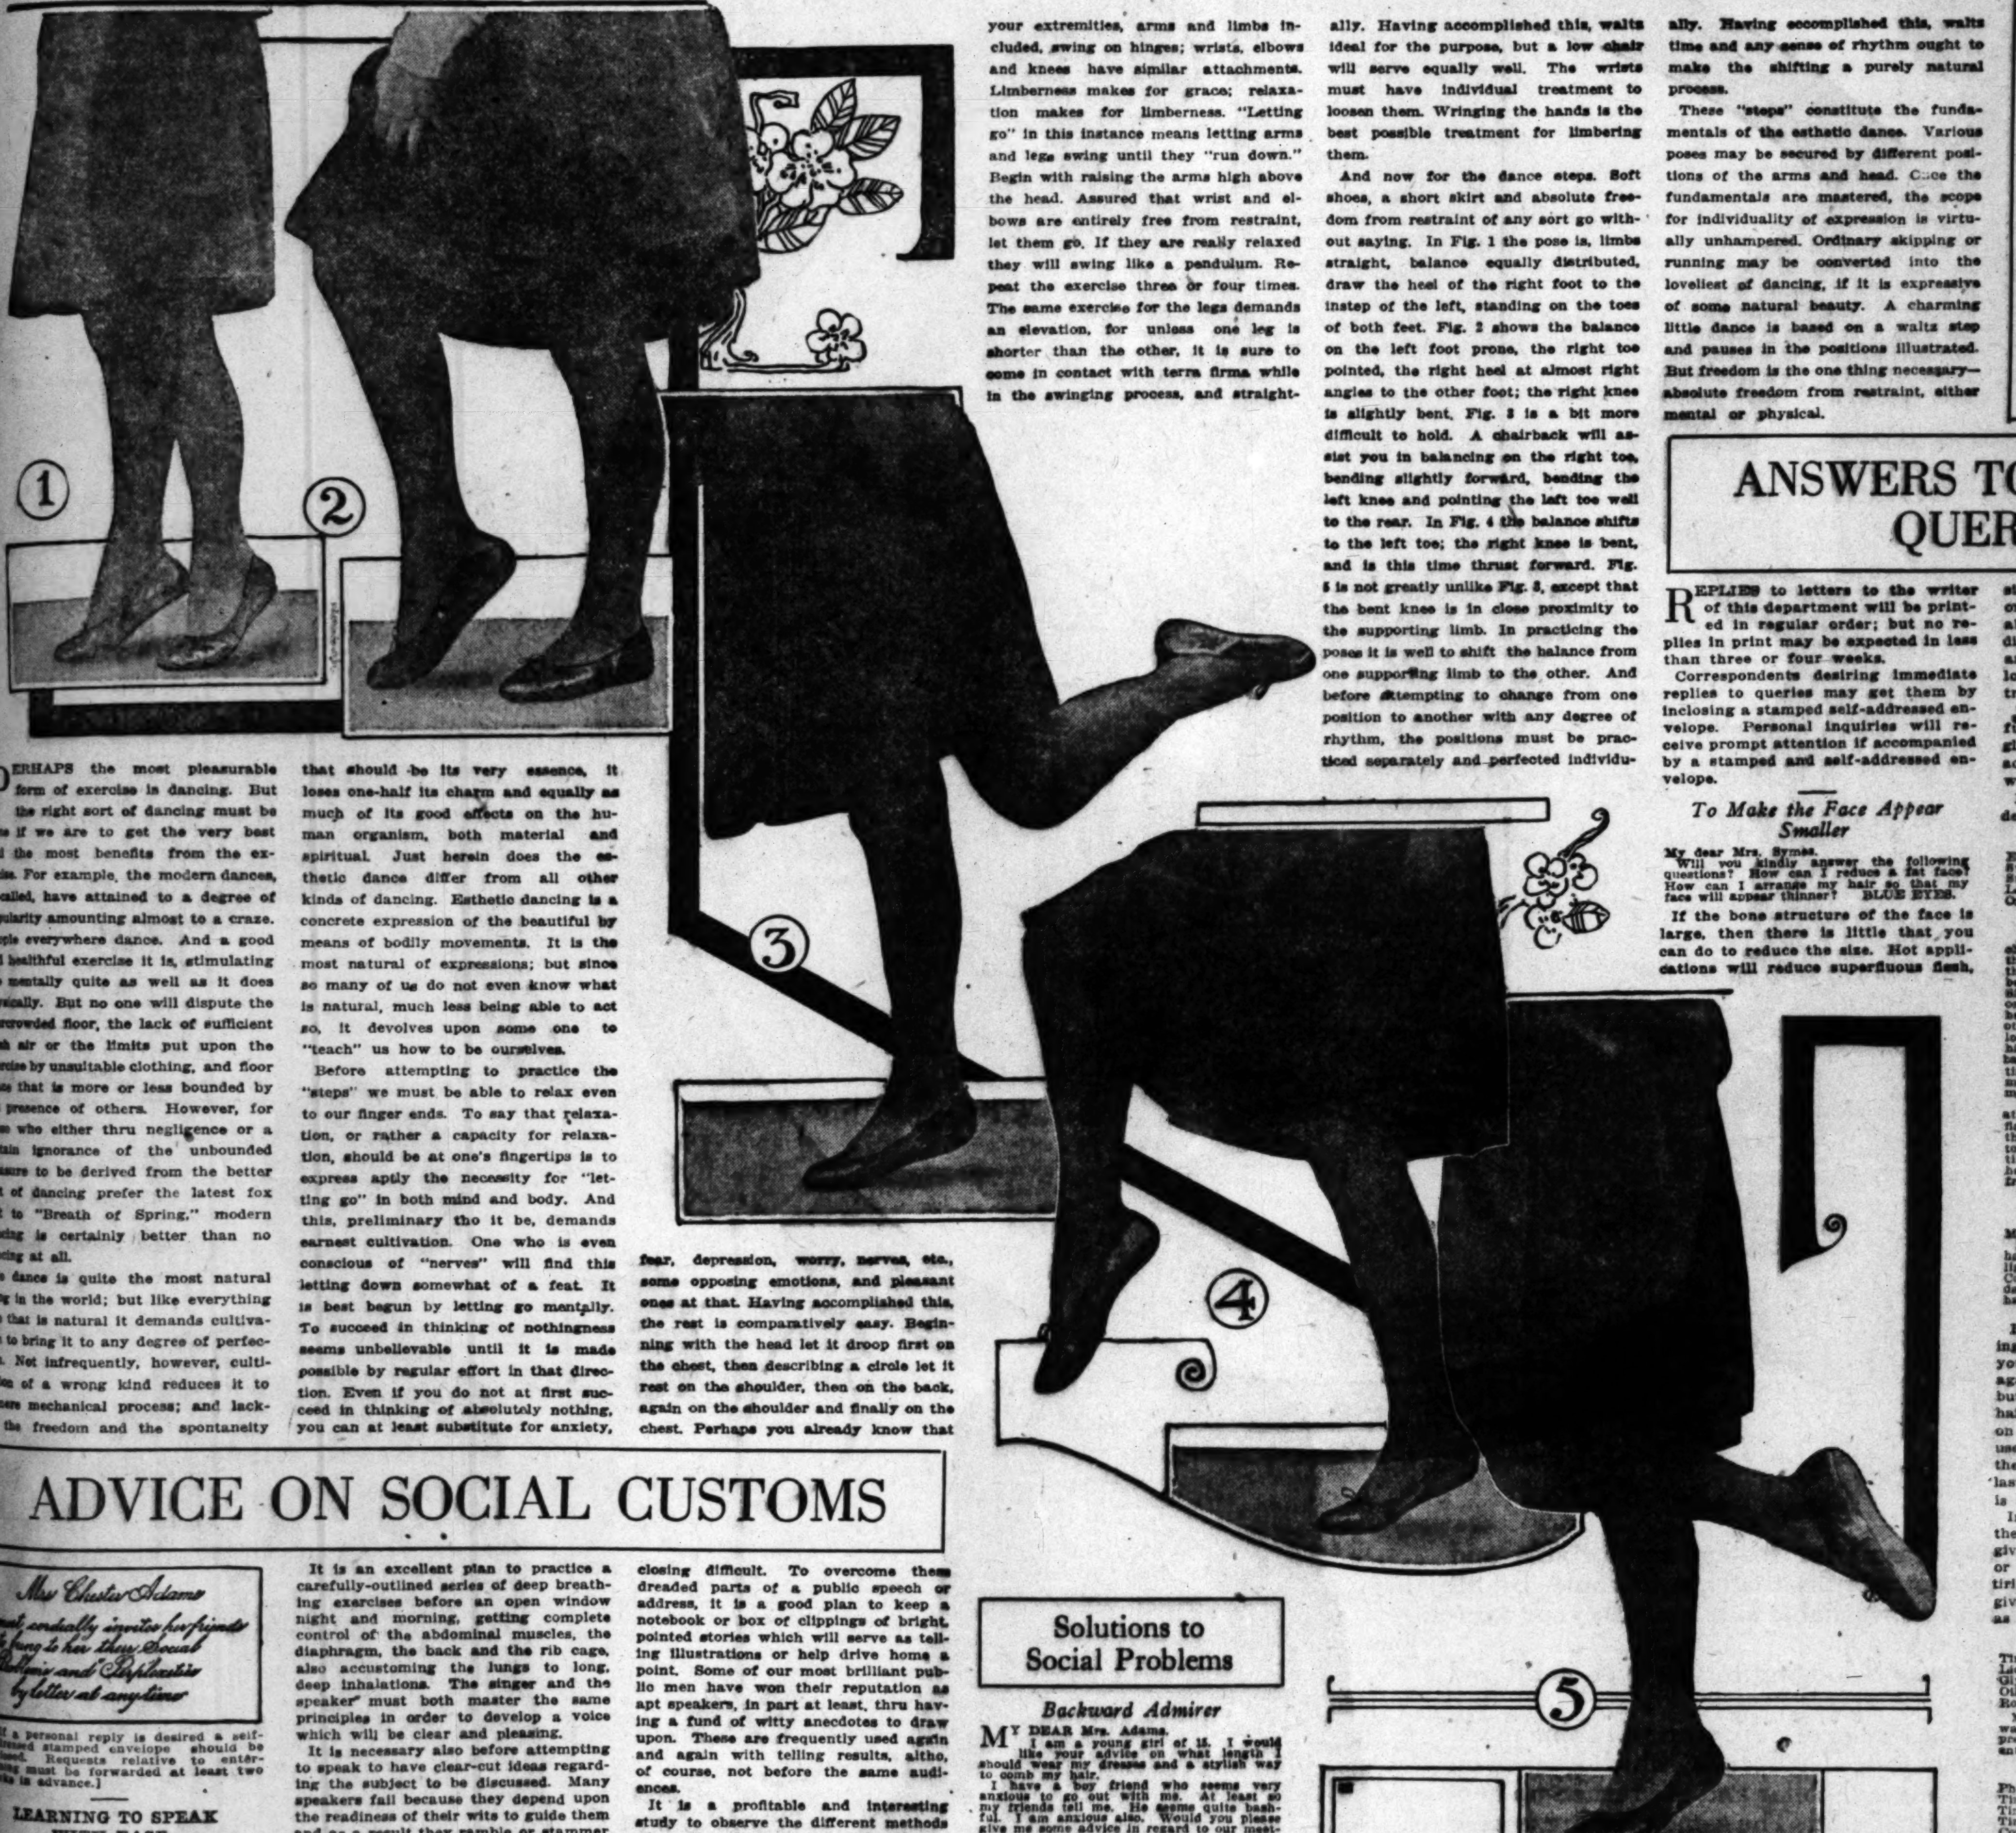
GOOD FORM, HEALTH AND BEAUTY

THESE FOOTSTEPS LEAD TO GRACE CULTURE



TO DANCERS

DANCERS may be born, but the majority of them are made. Of course, the graceful and the successful dancer keeps in mind every muscle of her body, using it to the best advantage; but perhaps the muscles that need the greatest training are those of the feet. Any one interested in the art of dancing should not fail to read the instructions on this page today.

PERHAPS the most pleasurable form of exercise is dancing. But the right sort of dancing must be done if we are to get the very best and the most benefits from the exercise. For example, the modern dances, so-called, have attained to a degree of popularity amounting almost to a craze. People everywhere dance. And a good and healthful exercise it is, stimulating one mentally quite as well as it does physically. But no one will dispute the overcrowded floor, the lack of sufficient fresh air or the limits put upon the exercise by unsuitable clothing, and floor space that is more or less bounded by the presence of others. However, for those who either thru negligence or a certain ignorance of the unbounded pleasure to be derived from the better sort of dancing prefer the latest fox trot to "Breath of Spring," modern dancing is certainly better than no dancing at all.

To dance is quite the most natural thing in the world; but like everything else that is natural it demands cultivation to bring it to any degree of perfection. Not infrequently, however, cultivation of a wrong kind reduces it to a mere mechanical process; and lacking the freedom and the spontaneity that should be its very essence, it loses one-half its charm and equally as much of its good effects on the human organism, both material and spiritual. Just herein does the esthetic dance differ from all other kinds of dancing. Esthetic dancing is a concrete expression of the beautiful by means of bodily movements. It is the most natural of expressions; but since so many of us do not even know what is natural, much less being able to act so, it devolves upon some one to "teach" us how to be ourselves.

Before attempting to practice the "steps" we must be able to relax even to our finger ends. To say that relaxation, or rather a capacity for relaxation, should be at one's fingertips is to express aptly the necessity for "letting go" in both mind and body. And this, preliminary tho it be, demands earnest cultivation. One who is even conscious of "nerves" will find this letting down somewhat of a feat. It is best begun by letting go mentally. To succeed in thinking of nothingness seems unbelievable until it is made possible by regular effort in that direction. Even if you do not at first succeed in thinking of absolutely nothing, you can at least substitute for anxiety, fear, depression, worry, nerves, etc., some opposing emotions, and pleasant ones at that. Having accomplished this, the rest is comparatively easy. Beginning with the head let it droop first on the chest, then describing a circle let it rest on the shoulder, then on the back, again on the shoulder and finally on the chest. Perhaps you already know that your extremities, arms and limbs included, swing on hinges; wrists, elbows and knees have similar attachments. Limberness makes for grace; relaxation makes for limberness. "Letting go" in this instance means letting arms and legs swing until they "run down." Begin with raising the arms high above the head. Assured that wrist and elbows are entirely free from restraint, let them go. If they are really relaxed they will swing like a pendulum. Repeat the exercise three or four times. The same exercise for the legs demands an elevation, for unless one leg is shorter than the other, it is sure to come in contact with terra firma while in the swinging process, and straightally. Having accomplished this, waltz ideal for the purpose, but a low chair will serve equally well. The wrists must have individual treatment to loosen them. Wringing the hands is the best possible treatment for limbering them.

And now for the dance steps. Soft shoes, a short skirt and absolute freedom from restraint of any sort go without saying. In Fig. 1 the pose is, limbs straight, balance equally distributed, draw the heel of the right foot to the instep of the left, standing on the toes of both feet. Fig. 2 shows the balance on the left foot prone, the right toe pointed, the right heel at almost right angles to the other foot; the right knee is slightly bent. Fig. 3 is a bit more difficult to hold. A chairback will assist you in balancing on the right toe, bending slightly forward, bending the left knee and pointing the left toe well to the rear. In Fig. 4 the balance shifts to the left toe; the right knee is bent, and is this time thrust forward. Fig. 5 is not greatly unlike Fig. 3, except that the bent knee is in close proximity to the supporting limb. In practicing the poses it is well to shift the balance from one supporting limb to the other. And before attempting to change from one position to another with any degree of rhythm, the positions must be practiced separately and perfected individually. Having accomplished this, waltz time and any sense of rhythm ought to make the shifting a purely natural process.

These "steps" constitute the fundamentals of the esthetic dance. Various poses may be secured by different positions of the arms and head. Once the fundamentals are mastered, the scope for individuality of expression is virtually unhampered. Ordinary skipping or running may be converted into the loveliest of dancing, if it is expressive of some natural beauty. A charming little dance is based on a waltz step and pauses in the positions illustrated. But freedom is the one thing necessary—absolute freedom from restraint, either mental or physical.

ANSWERS TO BEAUTY QUERIES

REPLIES to letters to the writer of this department will be printed in regular order; but no replies in print may be expected in less than three or four weeks.

To Make the Face Appear Smaller

My dear Mrs. Symes.
Will you kindly answer the following questions? How can I reduce a fat face? How can I arrange my hair so that my face will appear thinner? BLUE EYES.

If the bone structure of the face is large, then there is little that you can do to reduce the size. Hot applications will reduce superfluous flesh, as will vigorous massage. You have told me nothing of your weight. Perhaps you are overweight. In that case a reduction generally would have a gratifying effect on the size of your face. Below I am printing suggestions for reducing. If you fluff your hair around your ears and temples it will make the face appear smaller.

The following freckle treatment may give results:

For General Reduction of Flesh

Avoid all starchy and sweetened food, all cereals, vegetables containing sugar or starch, such as peas, beans, corn, potatoes, etc. Have your bread toasted; sprinkle it with salt instead of using butter. Milk, I regret to say, if it be pure and good, is fattening. Skimmed milk may be drunk. Hot water is an excellent substitute for other liquids. Add a little of the juice of limes or lemons to it, if you choose. Limit your sleeping hours to seven at the outside. No naps. You must take exercise.

Doctor Wilson's Treatment for Obstinate Freckles

(Recommended by Erasmus Wilson, and tho excellent in obstinate cases, does not suit all complexions equally well.)

Elder-flower ointment	1	ounce
Sulphate of zinc	20	grains

Mix well and rub on the affected skin at night. In the morning wash the cerate off with soap and soft water, and afterward apply a lotion thus composed:

Citric acid	30	grains
Infusion of rose	½	pint

All local discolorations, Doctor Wilson affirms, will disappear under this treatment; or, if the freckles do not yield, they will at least be greatly ameliorated.

The length of time it takes to effect a cure varies with different persons.

Treatment for Pimples

My dear Mrs. Symes.
As you have helped others, I come to you for advice. I have been having pimples on my face; they come and go all the time. Will you please tell me something to do for them? I took something for my blood, but that did not stop them.
Will you please tell me how to prepare lemon juice for the face, neck and hands? Also tell me something to do to fill out my neck and arms. Thanking you for your kindness, I remain, A READER.

If you would clear your skin permanently, it is advisable that you look "within" for the cause of the condition. Indigestion or constipation, perhaps both, are the causes. Eat only simple, nourishing foods, sleep nine or ten hours out of the twenty-four, abstain from sweets, pastries and indigestible foods, drink plenty of water and exercise daily in the open. Below I am printing a cream for local treatment.

The lemon juice is strained and used full strength. Equal parts of it and glycerin, with a few drops of carbolic acid, make a well-known softener and whitener of the skin.

Below I am printing suggestions for developing the neck and arms.

Fosatti Cream for Pimples

Extract of violet	10	drops
Sweet almond oil	1¼	drams
Sulphur precipitate	75	grains
Lanolin	75	grains
Oxide of zinc	2	scruples

To Fatten the Neck

Bend the head slowly forward until the chin touches neck, and then slowly raise the head to its normal position. Repeat these movements until you are tired. Then bend the head as far backward as possible. Sitting erect in a chair, bend the head from one side to the other, and then roll the head to the right, left and forward. Another good position is to let the arms hang loosely at the side. Raise the shoulders as high as possible, then forward, down and backward, until a circle is formed. Continue this for a time and then reverse the motion. Do this every day for five or ten minutes.

Again, stand perfectly erect with the arms at the sides; lift them up vertically, inflating the lungs as the arms ascend. At the same time rise up on the tips of your toes and throw your head back, at the same time touching the backs of the hands overhead. As the arms slowly descend exhale from the lungs.

Remedy for Dandruff

My dear Mrs. Symes.
My hair falls out a great deal, and I have quite a bit of dandruff. My hair is light and I do not care to have it darker. Could you please send me a remedy for dandruff, one that will not darken the hair? Thanking you in advance, I am, WORRIED.

Below I am printing a tonic for falling hair and a remedy for dandruff that you might try. I cannot guarantee against its making your hair darker, but I am printing a shampoo for light hair that may counteract its effects on the color of your hair. You might use lemon juice to preserve the color; the juice of half a lemon added to the last rinse water when washing the hair is sufficient.

In addition to the use of the tonic and the shampoo, it is advisable that you give the scalp a massage for about five or ten minutes every night before retiring. Do not neglect the daily brushing; give your hair as much air and sunlight as possible and do not worry.

To Remove Dandruff

Tincture of cantharides	1	ounce
Liquid ammonia	1	dram
Glycerin	½	ounce
Oil of thyme	½	ounce
Rosemary oil	½	dram

Mix all together with 6 ounces of rosewater. Rub the scalp thoroly with the preparation every day until the dandruff entirely disappears.

Tonic for Falling Hair

Phenol	½	dram
Tincture nux vomica	7½	grains
Tincture cinchona	1	ounce
Tincture of cantharides	½	dram
Cologne	4	ounces
Sweet almond oil	2	ounces

Apply to the roots of the hair with a soft sponge once or twice a day. This lotion is especially good for very dry hair.

"Bobbing" the Hair

My dear Mrs. Symes.
Is it proper for girls about 17 years old to wear their hair bobbed? My twin sister and I were considering whether it would be proper or not to cut the hair in the bobbed fashion with bangs. About what length is the hair cut with bangs and without bangs? What other way can we arrange our hair, as it is not very long, reaching only below our shoulders?
Please print a lotion for bleaching the skin on the face and arms. Awaiting the publication of our answers, we remain, "THE TWINS."

The "bobbed" coiffure is still in vogue for the young girl, but bangs are not in the fashion. As a matter of fact, the less hair there is on the forehead the more modish is the hairdressing. It is not always advisable to cut the hair, since the present fashion of wearing the hair is by no means standardized, and you might have good reason to regret the hasty shearing. Therefore, why do you not try to achieve the "bob" otherwise? If you secure the side strands rolling them under and covering the ears, the rest is quite simple. Wind the whole strand in back on a lead pencil, roll it under, and secure it with pins so that they will not show. A good length is to the ear lobe. Or you might "bob" the hair simply on the side and draw it back with a barrette.

Equal parts of glycerin and lemon juice, with a few drops of carbolic acid, make an excellent bleach for the arms, neck and hands. If the lotion is used for the face, the carbolic acid is best dispensed with.

For Removing Tan

My dear Mrs. Symes.
I would like very much to know how to remove tan. Thanking you in advance, I am, BLUE EYES.

Below I am printing a cucumber lotion, the regular use of which ought to give gratifying results.

Cucumber Lotion

Expressed juice of cucumbers	½	pint
Deodorized alcohol	1½	ounces
Sweet almond oil	2½	ounces
Shaving cream (or melted castile soap)	1	dram
Blanched almonds	1¾	drams

This is a suave lotion, very whitening, softening and cleansing.

ADVICE ON SOCIAL CUSTOMS

LEARNING TO SPEAK WITH EASE

MANY times people who might enjoy taking part in a program or service fail to do so because of a certain nervous dread. Their own voices sound thin and unnatural. Their hearts pound in a disturbing manner, and thoughts and words which come easily at other times have a mysterious vanishing quality.

Every one is not gifted with the ability to hold an audience spellbound, but there are few people who cannot learn to express themselves well and convincingly on their feet if they will but give the matter a little thought and attention, and be willing to gain practice by taking their part whenever opportunity presents.

Perhaps the first thing of all to learn is breath control, for this makes for calmness, poise and a resonant quality of voice. An individual who speaks with thin, muffled tones which do not carry more than a few feet away is sadly handicapped, no matter how brilliant his thoughts may be. The throat muscles and vocal cords have a purpose of their own. Their work is to mold the voice, shaping it in sympathy with the thoughts held in the brain and seeking expression thru audible sound. The carrying quality and the ability to regulate the volume and pitch come from the breath control, and so they have no reserve force, and the slightest nervous excitement causes quickened pulses and a sense of restriction about the throat.

It is an excellent plan to practice a carefully-outlined series of deep breathing exercises before an open window night and morning, getting complete control of the abdominal muscles, the diaphragm, the back and the rib cage, also accustoming the lungs to long, deep inhalations. The singer and the speaker must both master the same principles in order to develop a voice which will be clear and pleasing.

It is necessary also before attempting to speak to have clear-cut ideas regarding the subject to be discussed. Many speakers fail because they depend upon the readiness of their wits to guide them and as a result they ramble or stammer and halt painfully. It is much better for the amateur speaker to have a book or complete and copious notes or outlines which can be readily followed than to attempt to speak extemporaneously, and to follow no particular order or thought. It is painful for an audience to watch a speaker who is manifestly in terror himself that he will lose what he is going to say next. If notes are prepared a certain degree of preparation is insured, and even the organizing and assembling of the ideas in logical sequence will be a great help so that a mere glance at the notes will be sufficient to suggest what should come next. Then, too, there is a certain amount of conscious support in having notes or outlines which may be referred to if necessary.

Little by little, as the speaker gains control of himself and is more at ease in addressing a number of people, he will be able to dispense with written helps. It is noticeable, however, that some brilliant speakers who are called upon constantly to address audiences and banqueting groups do not hesitate to hold in the hand a card which has a few headings or significant reminders jotted down upon it. The benefit in this is that the speaker is held to a certain line of thought and reaches a logical conclusion in a reasonable time.

Most people who are beginning to speak in public find the opening and closing difficult. To overcome these dreaded parts of a public speech or address, it is a good plan to keep a notebook or box of clippings of bright, pointed stories which will serve as telling illustrations or help drive home a point. Some of our most brilliant public men have won their reputation as apt speakers, in part at least, thru having a fund of witty anecdotes to draw upon. These are frequently used again and again with telling results, altho, of course, not before the same audiences.

It is a profitable and interesting study to observe the different methods of opening discourses used by clergymen, lecturers and other public speakers. Some are simple and direct; others long and tiresome in approaching their topic; and still others have a unique way of awakening immediate interest and leading up with pleasing directness to their subject.

Having chosen a topic many speakers seem to feel their duty done and proceed to forget all about it, while others let every sentence and every illustration build up a definite conclusion of some kind. Repetition is useful in story telling for children. It also has a place in public speaking, giving emphasis to the theme and helping to keep it in mind.

Not so very many years ago a young man who had been born and reared in a remote farming district found himself singularly embarrassed when called upon to take part in the meetings of a small society to which he belonged. Even his responses to rollcall were dreaded.

Having an analytical mind and being determined to take his place among his more fortunate fellows, he began to study out the reasons for his hesitation and dread. He soon discovered that he had imperfect control of his own breathing apparatus. The exercise to correct this revealed that his standing and sitting postures were awkward and slouching, so he cultivated an erectness of carriage, which gave him a new self-confidence. Then he remembered that other people were interested with their own thoughts, so that his success or failure was a matter of greater importance to him than to them. With this in mind he determined to have a message whenever he spoke which would make them forget themselves and him.

In a few short years the awkward country fellow had gained such a reputation for clear, convincing speech that he was appointed a state lecturer in a branch of work with which he was associated. People remarked that he was able to make every one hear; that his voice was vibrant, sympathetic and rich; that he was able to carry an audience with him and make them forget time, and best of all, that his audience left his presence with a new vision and inspiration for finer work and higher living.

The manner of giving one's message means much. If it is worth while to do it at all, it is worth while to do it well!

THE FROG IN YOUR THROAT

YOU MIGHT never know he dwelt there, that frog in your throat, until all of a sudden at some public meeting, when you are called upon to merely answer a rollcall or to read a few minutes, your throat clogs up and your voice gives out. It's nervousness and an ignorance of one of the first principles of public speaking. This is only one of the many helpful things which Mrs. Adams explains in her talk today. Read the rest!

Solutions to Social Problems

Backward Admirer

MY DEAR Mrs. Adams.
I am a young girl of 15. I would like your advice on what length I should wear my dresses and a stylish way to comb my hair.
I have a boy friend who seems very anxious to go out with me. At least so my friends tell me. He seems quite bashful. I am anxious also. Would you please give me some advice in regard to our meeting some way? Would you suggest having a party and asking him to it?
Am I too young to chum with boys? All my girl friends do. Do you think it proper for young girls to dance or go to private dances? ANXIOUS.

You should wear your dresses midway between your knee and your ankle. You might wear your hair in the popular "bobbed" effect, waving it over the forehead, and drawing it puffed over the ears into a curl or a "knob" at the back.

If you know the boy quite well, there would be no impropriety in your inviting him to your party.

You are not too young to have friends among the boys; but as for anything more serious you had better wait a few years. If you are ably chaperoned, and your parents offer no objections, there is no impropriety in your attending private dances at your age.

Discontinuing Correspondence

My dear Mrs. Adams.
When a girl and boy desire to discontinue their correspondence with each other should they return each other's letters, and who should return them first, the girl or the boy? WORRIED.

It is not usual to return letters on the discontinuance of a correspondence unless there are grave reasons for doing so. In that case, the girl should request the return of her letters first. Upon receiving them, she should reciprocate.

Kindness Not Appreciated

My dear Mrs. Adams.
I am a high school girl and would like to know how I can gain friends. I always act agreeably toward all the girls, but they still snub me when they have others to go with. When they have no one else I am good enough. Is there such a thing as doing too much for them? I ask this because I always do anything that I can for them; but I often feel as if they do not appreciate my kindness. I long to be in the open; but if I wish to go anywhere I must always go alone, as I have no one to go with. I grieve so much that my strength is failing and I am unable to study. I have parents, brother and sister, but they care little for me. GRIEVED.

If you are quite sure that you have the interest of your friends at heart and not their consequent treatment of you, it would be wise to curtail any further efforts of kindness beyond the ordinary courtesy. A bit of independence on your part might help a very great deal. But beware of self-pity; it can sap every single bit of the joy of living. You are probably mistaken in the attitude of your family. They would be most unnatural if they did not care a very great deal for you. Their regard may not always be expressed in mere words; but if you will look deeper, you must needs discover some little sacrifice that is made in your behalf. Try looking at things in general with a less morbid outlook. You will be surprised to find the world suddenly becoming a much more livable place.

On Shaking Hands

My dear Mrs. Adams.
Is it proper for a girl to shake hands with a boy when she is introduced to him? Does it seem snobbish to acknowledge the introduction by a mere nod and a "glad to meet you"? Should the girl clasp the boy's hand in a firm handshake, or should she gently lay her hand against his while he shakes it? M.

In large gatherings where more or less formality is observed, a smile, a bow, and a repetition of the name of the one presented is the accepted way for a young woman to acknowledge an introduction. Expressions of marked cordiality are not good form for a young girl who is making the acquaintance of a man for the first time. On the other hand, in her own home, or under more or less informal circumstances, it is good form to extend the hand. Some hold that a young girl meeting a man of her own age does not greatly err if she extends her hand regardless of the formality of the occasion.

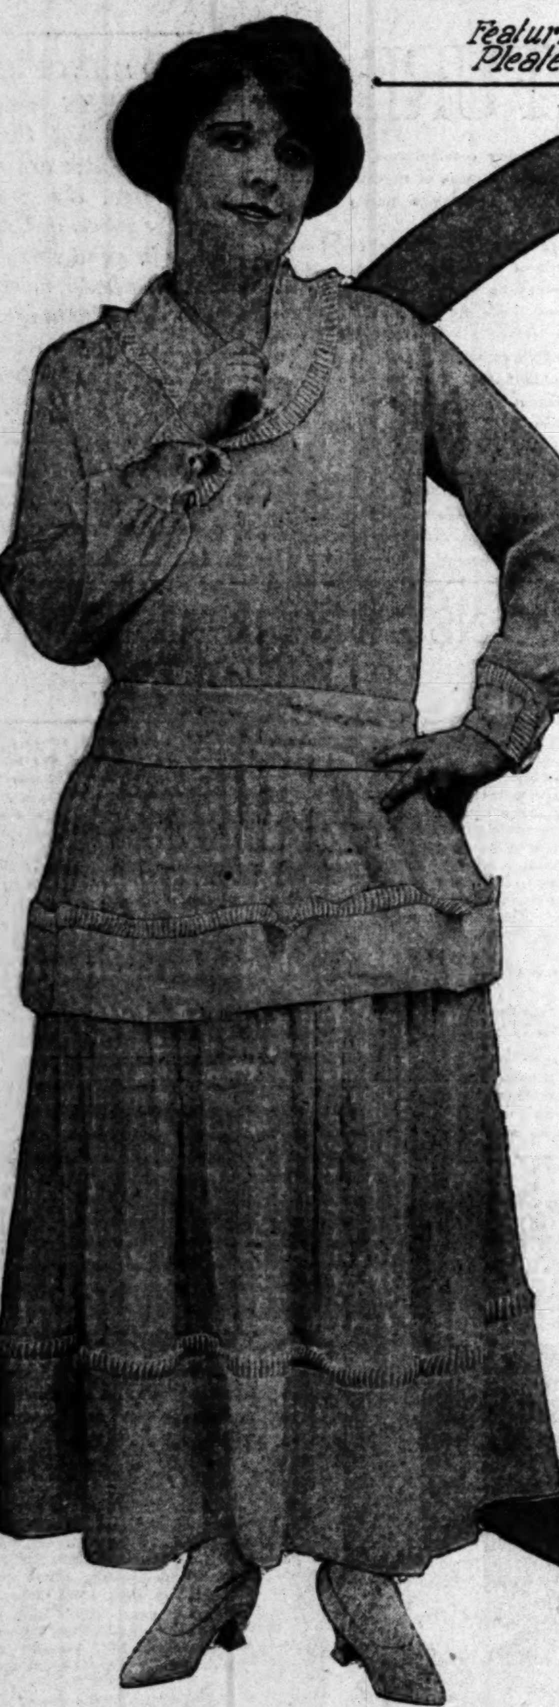
The hand is simply, as I have said before, extended with an air of cordiality.

Both Sixteen

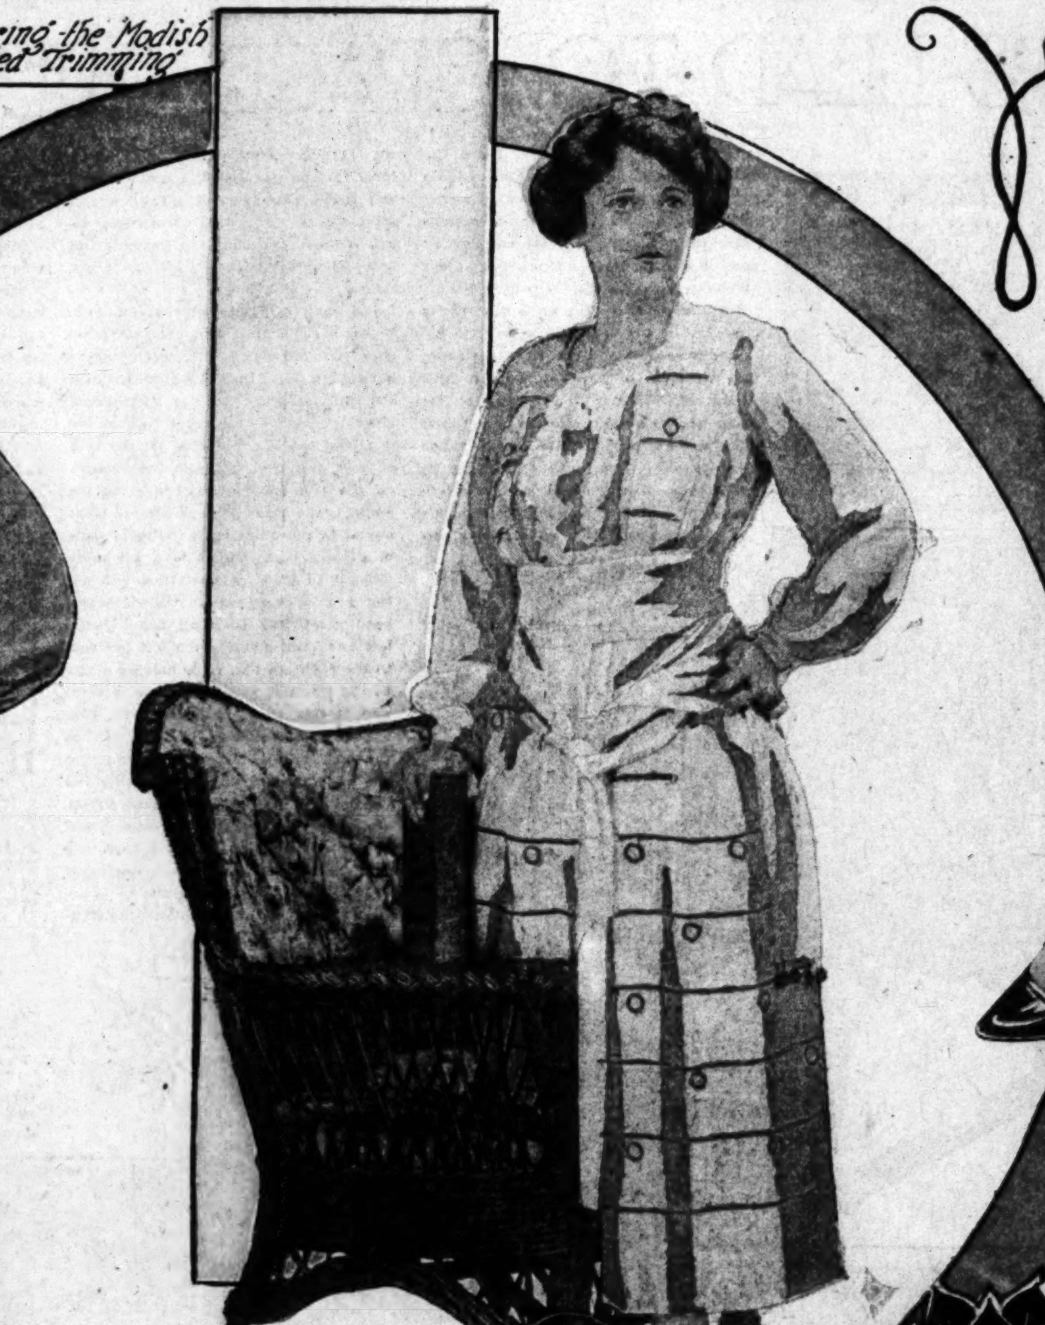
My dear Mrs. Adams.
I am a constant reader of your columns and am coming for advice. I am only 16 years old, but I am in love with a boy of my own age. We were both in the same class in school and both graduated in June, 1916. I was out with him several times and he acted very nice to me. A few months ago he stopped going with me and later stopped talking with me. I like him so much that I cannot forget him. One day I saw him and he seemed to want to speak. When I see him again, should I speak first? What can I do to make friends with him again? FORGOTTEN.

It is very silly of you to suppose yourself in love when you are as yet only a little girl. If you are desirous of reestablishing the friendship, speak to the boy the next time you meet him.

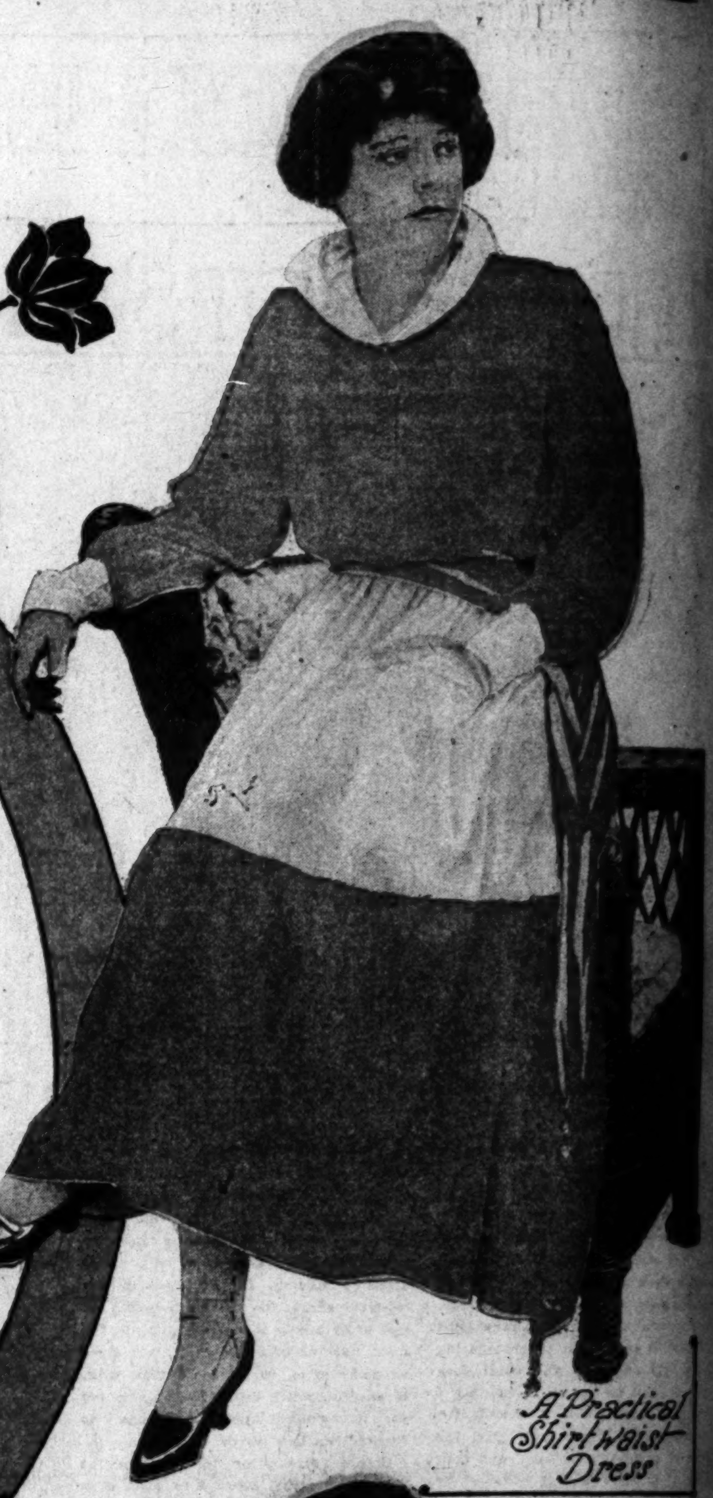
WHAT IS SUMMER WITHOUT A WASHABLE SILK FROCK?



Featuring the Modish Pleated Trimming



The Chemise Frock Combines Two Materials



A Practical Shirtwaist Dress

IF YOU want to have reason for feeling comfortable and thankful during the hot months that are to come, by all means have at least one washable silk frock in your summer wardrobe.

A set of pretty frocks belonging to this type is offered for your examination.

Very charming is the model of pink crepe de chine made with blouse and skirt separate. The former, which is made on Russian lines, features the cowl collar and the turned-up hem headed with a pleated frill of silk. The same pleating is used to head the separate hem attached to the tucked upper.

It is interesting to note the various ways in which the barrel effect is introduced or simulated in frocks. In the lavender model, blouse pockets carry out the idea. The generous use of pleats is a noteworthy feature, for they are to be very conspicuous during the next few months.

Doesn't the blue-and-white frock spell practicality? Washable satin is the material chosen to fashion the frock. Altho devoid of trimming, it has sufficient good lines to recommend it to any frequenter of the club or summer porch parties. The soft sash is the thing which raises the frock a little above the plane of the shirtwaist dress of years ago.

Altho the chemise frock has been evident for some time, it still remains popular. The idea is developed in the model of two materials. A broad sash of the plain material confines the fullness and makes it possible for the wearer to adopt the waist line that is most becoming to her.

New materials may come and old materials may go, but pongee remains forever. Women realize it is too serviceable to discard. Striped pongee has been employed to create the frock, which fits the figure a little more snugly than the chemise frock. This tendency is noticeable in a few models, and where the frock is not originally made close-fitting, the belt is drawn in a little to give the figure curves. An important point about the frock is the front panel of broad pleats which conceal stripes except when the wearer is walking.
